ABOUT ROOT & REBOUND

Root & Rebound is a nonprofit reentry legal resource and advocacy center. Our mission is to increase access to justice and opportunity for people in reentry from prison and jail, and to educate and empower those who support them, fundamentally advancing and strengthening the reentry infrastructure across the state of California and beyond.

Root & Rebound works to accomplish its mission through three key programs: direct services via our weekly reentry legal hotline, prison letter-writing service, and community clinics; public education that includes 'know-your-rights' resources, toolkits, and legal trainings and workshops; and policy & systems reform to improve the laws and structures that affect people and communities directly impacted by incarceration.

YOUR RESPONSIBILITY WHEN USING THIS GUIDE:

When putting together the Roadmap to Reentry: A California Legal Guide, we did our best to give you useful and accurate information because we know that people who are currently or formerly incarcerated and those who support them often have difficulty getting legal information. However, the laws change frequently and are subject to differing interpretations. Root & Rebound does NOT have the resources to make changes to this informational material every time the law changes. If you use information from the Roadmap to Reentry legal guide, it is your responsibility to make sure that the law has not changed and applies to your particular situation. If you are incarcerated, most of the materials you need should be available in your institution's law library.

The Roadmap to Reentry guide is not intending to give legal advice, but rather general legal information. No attorney-client relationship is created by using any information in this guide. You should always consult your own attorney if you need legal advice specific to your situation. Learn how to get follow-up support from Root & Rebound in using the guide under the "NEED HELP?" section below.

SEND US FEEDBACK ON THE SURVEY!

On PG. 19 of the guide, Root & Rebound has included a survey that we kindly ask you to return to provide feedback to our team about the Roadmap to Reentry legal guide. This will help us improve future versions of the guide as well as trainings that we provide on this material.

NEED HELP?

Coming home from prison and jail, or after any interaction with the criminal justice system, you will likely face legal and practical barriers that can be confusing and complicated. Throughout this guide, we have tried to flag times to consult with your own lawyer. On PG. 1127 of the guide, we include a list of legal aid organizations across California that may be able to assist you directly (organized by legal issue and region of the state). You can also contact a local bar association or nonprofit agency that provides free services for help with your issue.

Root & Rebound offers follow-up support on the material in the Roadmap to Reentry guide:

- Visit Root & Rebound's website at www.rootandrebound.org/roadmap, which has tons of resources for people navigating legal barriers related to having a criminal record. There you will find a free PDF of the guide and many other toolkits, fact sheets, and educational resources.
- Call Root & Rebound's weekly Reentry Legal Hotline at \(510\) 279-4662279-4662) (we accept Collect calls), any Friday (except Holiday and office closures). We will do our best to walk you through information in the guide, provide you with referrals and additional resources, and/or advocate on your behalf if we have the capacity and expertise to assist you.
- Find training videos and additional resources on Root & Rebound's Online Reentry Training Hub at www.reentrytraininghub.org
- Write Root & Rebound a confidential, legal letter to the following address: [Root & Rebound, 1730 Franklin Street, Suite 300, Oakland, CA 94612](mailto:Root & Rebound, 1730 Franklin Street, Suite 300, Oakland, CA 94612) (no walk-ins).
- Attend one of Root & Rebound's community clinics, trainings or workshops: You can find our events calendar at www.rootandrebound.org.

ABOUT ROOT & REBOUND'S PROGRAMS AND SERVICES

Root & Rebound is a nonprofit reentry legal resource and advocacy center. Our mission is to increase access to justice and opportunity for people in reentry from prison and jail and people with records, and to educate and empower those who support them, fundamentally advancing and strengthening the reentry infrastructure across the state of California and beyond. We offer statewide resources and programs, which are summarized below. Please visit our website at rootandrebound.org, or call us at 510-279-4662, to learn more.

OUR PROGRAMS & SERVICES

PUBLIC EDUCATION: Through our publications—including the Roadmap to Reentry legal guide, topic-specific toolkits, and fact sheets—as well as through both in-person and online trainings (see reentrytraininghub.org), Root & Rebound works to expand the knowledge of community-based organizations, government agencies, and people with conviction histories across California and beyond. This education focuses on improving “reentry readiness”—so that people are prepared to navigate hurdles because of their record to employment, housing, financial stability, family reunification, education, and more.

DIRECT SERVICES: Root & Rebound runs the only statewide Reentry Legal Hotline in the country where currently and formerly incarcerated people and people with records, their family and loved ones, and service providers can call and speak to a reentry attorney for free. Call the Hotline any Friday, 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. PST, at phone number 510-279-4662. Please note: If you are currently incarcerated and do not have phone access, you can write us confidential, legal mail at: Root & Rebound, 1730 Franklin St., Suite 300, Oakland, CA 94612 (ATTN: Katherine Katcher, SBN 295448). We also offer in-person legal clinics across California, where people with records can sign up for a one-on-one appointment with a member of our legal team. We focus our clinics on issues and regions that are the most underserved, including in rural and tribal communities, and focusing on issues like family law, parole and probation, record-cleaning, and other hard-to-access legal services for people with past justice system involvement.

POLICY & SYSTEMS REFORM: Our policy advocacy and systems reform work encourages federal, state, and local governments and agencies to create smarter reentry policies that promote the well-being of individuals and their communities. We communicate our learnings on the ground to local, state, and federal government, and advocacy groups.

WHAT IS THE ROADMAP TO REENTRY GUIDE?

The Roadmap to Reentry Legal Guide is an encyclopedic resource for navigating the legal impact of a criminal record on getting ID, voting rights, parole and probation, housing, public benefits, employment, court-ordered debt, family and children, education, record-cleaning, tribal issues, immigration status, and more. For case-specific questions, start with the Table of Contents in any one of the 11 chapters that most closely relates to your question. Access our searchable website of the Roadmap to Reentry at roadmap.rootandrebound.org. For a paper copy of the guidebook, the cost is as follows:

- If you are currently incarcerated:
  - FREE to check out from your institution's library. If there is no copy in your institution's library, call us any Friday at 501-279-4662 from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. PST (we accept collect calls); write us at Root & Rebound, 1730 Franklin Street, Suite 300, Oakland, CA 94612; or ask someone to email us at roadmap@rootandrebound.org on your behalf, and we will be sure to send on to the institution.
  - If you want your own copy of the book, the cost is $20. Someone can order this on your behalf by calling Root & Rebound at 510-279-4662 or ordering online at rootandrebound.org/roadmap.
- For everyone else:
  - FREE to view or download a PDF of the guide at rootandrebound.org/roadmap.
  - FREE to access the searchable website of the guide at roadmap.rootandrebound.org.
  - If you want your own copy of the book, the cost is $39. Order by phone at 510-279-4662 or online at rootandrebound.org/roadmap.

WHAT'S NEW IN THE 2018 ROADMAP TO REENTRY GUIDE?

- A new chapter and expanded information about the rights of immigrants/noncitizens with criminal records.
- A new chapter and expanded information about the rights of tribal members with criminal records, including tribal enrollment and identification; tribal benefits; special family law issues affecting Indian children, parents and caregivers;
- Information on recent changes in law, including information about: tiered sex offender registries in California; elder and youth parole laws; gun enhancements; the new Fair Chance Act and changes in California's "Ban the Box" employment laws; and new arrest-sealing procedures for record-cleaning.

WHAT OTHER RESOURCES & TOOLKITS DOES ROOT & REBOUND OFFER?

In addition to the Roadmap to Reentry legal guide, Root & Rebound has developed new toolkits and resources, including the following:

- Reentry Planning Toolkits: These are concise reentry planning guides tailored to the different audiences that rely on them. They contain key know-your-rights information, planning tools, and checklists. Our cost structure is as follows:
  - 1) *Reentry Planning Toolkit for People in Reentry & People with Records: FREE. By contacting Root & Rebound requesting reentry legal resources, currently incarcerated people and people with prior justice system involvement will be offered this Reentry Planning Toolkit for free. (Donations are always welcome; no amount is too small.)
  - 2) *Reentry Planning Toolkit for Family Members with a Loved One in Reentry: FREE. By contacting Root & Rebound, family members with a loved one in reentry will be offered this Reentry Planning Toolkit for free. (Donations encouraged, no amount is too small.)
  - 3) *Reentry Planning Toolkit for Service Providers Supporting People in Reentry: Cost: $10 each.
- “My Education, My Freedom”: A Toolkit for Formerly Incarcerated and System-Impacted Students Pursuing Education in California: FREE to individuals who are currently and actively seeking to go back to school/enroll in college; $10 for all others.
- California Employers’ Fair Chance Hiring Toolkit: This Toolkit is ideal for employers and workforce development professionals to learn about the benefits, best practices, and legal requirements around hiring people with conviction histories. Cost: $10 each.
- Online Reentry Training Hub (www.reentrytraininghub.org): In 2016, Root & Rebound launched the first online Reentry Legal Training Hub in the United States. Now you can "attend" one of our educational trainings with the click of a button! Visit the Hub from a computer, smartphone, or tablet, and you’ll find complete on-demand, interactive training videos, worksheets, tools, and resources about reentry and navigating barriers with a record. Check back often, because we frequently update our Hub with the latest developments, legislation, cases, and policies related to reentry and criminal records!

Learn more and order our resources online at rootandrebound.org/roadmap. Please contact us with any questions by calling us at 510-279-4662, writing us at Root & Rebound, 1730 Franklin St., Suite 300, Oakland, CA 94612, or sending us an email at roadmap@rootandrebound.org.

Foreword by Carmen Garcia

RESILIENCY MESSAGE

Someone once said that how you climb a mountain is more important than reaching the top. I was in the San Mateo County Jail waiting to be sentenced to Federal Prison, when I first heard this quote. I remember saying time and time again how I was going to be different the next time. So many promises were made during those lonely moments that I never thought of how I was going to keep those promises if I wasn't doing anything different. Life, I thought, doesn't have to be the same for me. Blind faith, they told me, is what you need in order to trust those who are trying to teach you a different way to live.

Unfortunately, in jails and in prisons, if you want rehabilitation, you have to seek it out. The same is true when you get out. The difference when you are out is that you have the power to choose when, how, and where, and although at times you might get discouraged because it seems overwhelming, don't give up. Remember, nobody said the climb was going to be easy.

Now that we are free to choose, let's take advantage of the opportunities that are in front of us. Today, we no longer have to abide by any prison codes or rules, and if you keep doing the right thing, then the climb won't seem so lonely and treacherous, and the rewards will be enormous, as they have been for me.

Keep in mind that the climb to anything, whether it's a mountain, a hill or a ladder, has to be taken carefully, cautiously and with an open mind. Each step we take has to be carefully guided and directed towards the direction that will cost us the least pain and regret. Even our old friends or acquaintances, although well intended, can bring us more harm than good, so carefully choose who you include in your circle. Cautiously approach any given situation, and when in doubt... don't. Luckily, we don't exist alone in the world, and regardless of who you are, you need someone. Collectively, rather than individually, we can accomplish more. So, have an open mind and pay attention to the message more than the messenger.

Jails and prisons don't have to be what defines us, or what breaks us; we choose who, what and where. Somehow, reaching the top is no longer that important, because the journey getting there is what will be embraced.

Peace,
Carmen

MINDFULNESS IN DAILY LIFE

5 PRACTICES TO DEVELOP CALM & CLARITY

As we all know, the process of reentry is incredibly stressful. Taking time to breathe deeply, to be aware of and to care for your body and your emotions, can be a big help. Mindfulness can help you to stay focused, calm, and balanced. ‘Mindfulness’ is just a fancy word for being aware of our thoughts, feelings, and physical sensations. Studies have shown that mindfulness can help reduce stress and improve our health. The practices and resources below may help you stay balanced and optimistic during what can be a challenging process of reentry. We hope these tools are helpful to you on your journey through reentry and throughout your life.<sup>1</sup>

1. MINDFUL WALKING

As you walk from your car or train to an office, on your way to a meeting or job interview, try to be aware of your breath and body. Notice the rise and fall of your chest as you inhale and exhale, the feeling of your feet touching the ground, the sensation of the sun or air on your skin. Try to leave early enough for your appointments so that your walk can be slow and unhurried. This simple practice can introduce greater calm into your day, and provide a few moments of relaxation before a potentially stressful situation.

2. SITTING MEDITATION

Simply sitting quietly, with eyes open or closed, following one’s breath, can be a powerful way to calm the mind and relax the body. Many people find this practice challenging at first, but it becomes easier over time and provides tremendous benefits for body and mind. Start with just 5 minutes per day using one of the guided recordings listed below, or visit an introductory class at a local meditation center.

3. YOGA

Yoga is another powerful mindfulness practice that can help with reducing stress and improving physical and mental health. Local yoga studios often offer donation-based or community classes.

4. MINDFUL EATING

Mindful eating invites us to fully experience and enjoy our food. Whether eating alone or with others, we can make meals a peaceful time to refocus and enjoy life – by taking time to see, smell, taste, and appreciate our food, and by taking a break from TV, phones and work.

5. 4-7-8 BREATHING

Dr. Andrew Weil’s technique of deep breathing is a great way to calm the nervous system throughout the day. See www.drweil.com for details. The basic instruction is to inhale for four counts (“1, 2, 3, 4...”), hold for seven counts, and then slowly exhale for eight counts. Try doing five rounds of this breathing before bed and see how you feel.

CHAPTER SNAPSHOTS OF ROADMAP TO REENTRY

CHAPTER 1: THE BUILDING BLOCKS OF REENTRY: Getting ID & Other Key Documents, Voting & Civic Participation - PG. 22

KEY TOPICS:

- What identification (ID) documents exist, and why they are important.
- An overview of key types of ID: birth certificates, Social Security numbers (SSN) and cards, California state ID cards & California Driver licenses, U.S. Passports, tribal ID cards, library cards, voter registration, and Selective Service registration.
- Which forms of ID are most important.
- When and how to get each ID document, and which documents to get first.
- How to get certain documents while incarcerated vs. after release.
- Some options for getting ID for undocumented people.
- Voting rights for people with criminal records, and how to register to vote.
- Selective Service registration requirements and how to register.

WHY IT'S IMPORTANT:

- ID is necessary to access public benefits and services; to apply for housing and employment; and to enroll in school and other programs.
- Basic ID is often necessary to apply for other identification documents.
- Voting is a civil right to choose the government officials and policies that impact society. There are many myths about voting eligibility – and the law changed in 2015 in California!

COMMON BARRIERS TO REENTRY:

- People in reentry have only a prison/jail ID card, which is of limited use in reentry.
- People in reentry do not have the documents they need to enroll in programs and services they would otherwise qualify for.
- People with records have Driver License holds, suspensions, and revocations, often due to court-ordered debts that they don't have the financial means to pay back.
- Certain convictions restrict a person's access to a U.S. passport.
- Because of their prisoner or parolee status, people are disenfranchised and lose the right to vote.
- People who do have the legal right to vote are wrongly informed or wrongly identified as having lost the right to vote – missing out on the chance to make their political voices heard.
- Men who were required to register with the Selective Service between ages 18 and 26 were unable to do so because they were incarcerated, and as a result, they are barred from receiving federal financial aid until they prove the reason why they could not register.

CHAPTER 2: PAROLE & PROBATION - PG. 125

KEY TOPICS:

- The many different types of supervision in California, which include
  - STATE FORMS OF SUPERVISION: state parole; county-level probation (formal and informal); and the new AB 109 forms of supervision including Mandatory Supervision and Post-Release Community Supervision (PRCS).
  - FEDERAL FORMS OF SUPERVISION: federal probation, supervised release, and federal parole.
- Step-by-step instructions on what to do when a person is first released from prison or jail.
- The length of supervision terms as required by law, including how the length of time on supervision is calculated, and how to get off of supervision early if possible.
- The “conditions” (rules) of supervision, including general conditions that apply to all people on that type of supervision, and special or discretionary conditions that apply to only certain people.
- How to challenge special conditions (rules) of supervision.
- How to transfer someone's supervision to another location – a different county, district, or state.
- For people with disabilities, the right to have reasonable accommodations, and the types of accommodations a person can ask for from his or her supervising officer.
- A person's rights during violation and revocation proceedings, and how the revocation process works.

WHY IT'S IMPORTANT:

- Supervision affects every aspect of a person's life—housing, employment requirements, family reunification, schooling, civil rights, etc.

- People need to understand their rules of supervision to succeed in reentry, and to avoid new legal issues or re-incarceration.

COMMON BARRIERS TO REENTRY:

- Being on community supervision can create barriers in every aspect of a person's life. For example, supervision rules can affect:
  - Housing: Where a person can (or can't) live and with whom.
  - Employment: Work opportunities, requirements and restrictions.
  - Family: Legal barriers to family reunification.
  - Education: Restrictions and scheduling conflicts.
  - Basic liberties: Some (not all) constitutional rights and freedoms may be taken away – like travel restrictions, and being subject to searches and seizures at any time.

CHAPTER 3: HOUSING - PG. 332

KEY TOPICS:

- Different types of housing options and tips for the housing search.
- Short-term vs. long-term planning for where someone can live in reentry.
- Housing application process, including bans or restrictions related to past convictions.
- What criminal records and other records can lawfully be accessed by government-assisted housing providers (including Public Housing Authorities, or PHAs) vs. by private landlords.
- Joining family and friends in housing – the differing rules of government-assisted housing providers (including PHAs) vs. private landlords.
- Challenging illegal housing denials by both government-assisted housing providers (including PHAs) and private landlords.
- Maintaining (keeping) housing.

WHY IT'S IMPORTANT:

- Housing is the first thing people need when leaving prison or jail.
- Shelter is a basic human need.
- Having approved housing plans is often a requirement of someone's conditions (rules) of supervision.
- Many housing-related restrictions and barriers exist.
- Rates of homelessness are extremely high among people in reentry.

COMMON BARRIERS TO REENTRY:

- Parole / probation housing requirements and restrictions can include: residential restrictions, a requirement to live in transitional housing, etc.
- Discrimination in private housing: Private landlords are hesitant to rent to people with criminal records, and may engage in discrimination, sometimes legally and sometimes in violation of fair housing law.
- Discrimination in public/government-assisted housing: Criminal record restrictions exist; some are legal, but others may be overbroad and violate fair housing law.
- Housing-related barriers to family reunification that prevent people from living with family or friends - these exist in both private and government-assisted housing.

CHAPTER 4: PUBLIC BENEFITS - PG. 440

KEY TOPICS:

- Key types of public benefits programs, including: cash assistance; food benefits; health care; work services; Social Security benefits; veterans' benefits; and cell phone benefits.
- Eligibility and enrollment rules for each program, including restrictions based on criminal records.
- What happens to your benefits during incarceration, and how to restart benefits after release.
- Applying for and keeping benefits – how to apply for each type of benefit; and how to deal with denials, disqualifications, or terminations of benefits.
- Resources and referrals.

WHY IT'S IMPORTANT:

- Rates of poverty are high among people in reentry as well as their families, making public benefits programs an essential safety net.
- Many people in reentry have health issues, disabilities, and other special needs that are met through public benefits programs.

- Most benefits in California do not disqualify people based on criminal records, yet myths persist and many people do not have accurate information about the rules and mistakenly think they are not eligible.

COMMON BARRIERS TO REENTRY:

- Some public benefits programs have restrictions and bans against people with certain criminal convictions (but most do not).
- People may be disqualified from certain benefits based on other items in their history, such as: open felony warrants; probation or parole violations; or Intentional Program Violations (non-criminal violations of program rules).
- Many people do not get benefits that they can and should be getting, simply because of myths and misinformation. Some people may not know the exact program rules, especially new rules that have removed old drug felon bans. Even county welfare agency workers may not apply the correct rules.

CHAPTER 5: EMPLOYMENT - PG. 557

KEY TOPICS:

- Job readiness, applications, and interviewing well—presenting your best self.
- Hiring incentives for employers.
- People’s rights with respect to background checks, including the following topics:
  - Job seekers’ rights.
  - Whether and when different types of employers can ask about criminal records.
  - Private, commercial background checks vs. “in-house” background checks.
  - Errors in background checks.
- Discrimination based on criminal record—legal and illegal forms of discrimination, and how to file a complaint.
- Legal restrictions in employment and professional licensing.
- Alternatives to traditional employment, including starting a business and worker-owned cooperatives.
- For people with disabilities, the right to ask for reasonable accommodations from employers.

WHY IT’S IMPORTANT:

- Having or seeking employment is often a requirement of someone’s supervision conditions.
- Employment is critical for many as a source of income—which impacts someone’s ability to afford housing; to pay for child care; to pay child support or other court-ordered debt; to go back to school; etc.
- Employment is a key to self-efficacy, and contributing to society.
- Employment can help make a person’s life more stable by providing structure and routine.
- In some cases, stable employment might be required to reconnect with children in reentry.

COMMON BARRIERS TO REENTRY:

- Background checks:
  - Criminal history information is readily available from many sources.
  - Background checks commonly contain errors and illegally reported information.
  - Employers often use criminal history information in illegal ways.
- Statutory employment and licensing restrictions:
  - Job-specific prohibitions may prevent people with records from holding some jobs.
  - Professional/occupational licensing rules, regulations, and restrictions may prevent people with records from getting certain professional/occupational licenses, or require them to go through a lengthy appeals process to successfully get a license.
- Discrimination based on criminal record:
  - People with criminal records experience both legal and illegal discrimination in employment, which often overlaps with other issues like racial discrimination in employment decisions.
  - People with criminal records may be disadvantaged by both individual acts of discrimination and broad discriminatory policies.
  - Intentional discrimination by employers may be hidden, and therefore difficult to prove.
  - Unintentional violations by employers may occur when employers do not know about laws that forbid discrimination based on someone’s criminal record.

CHAPTER 6: COURT-ORDERED DEBT - PG. 654

KEY TOPICS:

- Understanding the different types of court-ordered debt, and what they are for, including: restitution; court fines and penalties; administrative fees; and traffic fines.

- Taking control of court-ordered debt—figuring out how much debt you owe, and to whom.
- Paying off or otherwise satisfying court-ordered debt, including:
  - How to pay off a debt, and what to do if you can't pay.
  - Opportunities to reduce debts.
  - Consequences of unpaid debts.

WHY IT'S IMPORTANT:

- People often leave prison and jail owing significant money in court-ordered debt.
- People may owe debts in many different places: courts, collection agencies, victim restitution board, etc. Tracking down multiple debts can be difficult, especially if they are from many years ago.
- Debts may increase during incarceration through interest, administrative fees, and late-payment penalties.
- Court-ordered debt creates financial, legal, and practical barriers to reentry.

COMMON BARRIERS TO REENTRY:

- People may owe multiple debts for one conviction—this adds up quickly!
- During incarceration, debts may continue to increase.
- After release:
  - Paying off court-ordered debt is a common condition (rule) of parole/probation.
  - Unpaid debt can be a reason for extending a probation term.
  - It's harder to clean up a criminal record (get “expungement”) with unpaid criminal justice debt.
  - Driver license may be suspended for unpaid court-ordered debts.
  - Debts may be sent to collections agencies, which can lead to wage garnishment, bank and property liens, and lower credit scores. Debts also impact housing, employment, and credit opportunities.
  - Tracking down old fines and tickets can be difficult.

CHAPTER 7: FAMILY & CHILDREN - PG. 714

KEY TOPICS:

- Re-connecting with a child after incarceration, including:
  - First steps to take in locating and reconnecting with a child.
  - How to find out if there are any past or current court cases or court orders involving a child, and how to start or join a court case regarding a child.
  - Restraining and protective orders that can impact a parent or caregiver's rights.
  - Criminal record-related barriers to reconnecting with a child.
- An overview of custody and visitation.
- Three key courts that handle family-related issues in California: probate court; juvenile dependency court; and family court. (The court that handles juvenile justice issues is the juvenile delinquency court, which we describe only very briefly since juvenile justice is not a focus of this guide.)
- Paternity (or parentage) issues.
- Child Support and Spousal Support orders—issues with paying debts during and after incarceration.
- Issues that arise during incarceration, like mothering and pregnancy in prison, and ending a marriage or a domestic partnership.
- Domestic violence and stay-away orders.

WHY IT'S IMPORTANT:

- Incarceration creates wide-ranging obstacles to stable family relationships—especially regarding custody, visitation, and guardianship of children.
- Family can be a positive and motivating force in people's lives during and after incarceration, and it can reduce the chance of being re-incarcerated.
- Issues that arise in family courts — especially regarding visitation, custody, and child support — can create more barriers in the reentry process, such as housing restrictions or increasing debt.
- People need to know about the resources that exist, since there are not many legal aid offices that provide family law representation to people with records.

COMMON BARRIERS TO REENTRY

- Parents'/caregivers' rights to custody and visitation may be legally restricted because of their criminal history and system involvement:
  - Arrests, convictions, incarceration, and protective, no-contact, and restraining orders can affect parental rights to custody and visitation.

- Courts have full access to expunged and old criminal history information, and they can consider it along with proof of rehabilitation.
- There are three different court systems to navigate – probate court; family court; and juvenile dependency court – and some cases may go from one to the other, or open or close, without a parent/caregiver fully understanding the legal process.
- Other barriers to reunification include: parole/probation conditions; travel and residency restrictions; protective and restraining orders; access to housing and employment; and time constraints.
- Child support debt – Payment obligations do NOT automatically stop during incarceration in most cases. Usually, people need to proactively ask the court to stop or pause the payments!
- Very few family law services exist for reentering parents/caregivers.

CHAPTER 8: EDUCATION - PG. 832

KEY TOPICS:

- Setting educational goals, including:
  - Choosing an educational path.
  - Prison-based programs.
  - Parole/probation considerations.
  - Current vs. future educational and careers goals.
- Assessment of one's current education level; placement tests; and assessment of learning challenges, disabilities, and special needs.
- Educational options, including: Adult Basic Education; high school diploma / GED; career and technical training; college and university degree programs; college credit programs while incarcerated (distance learning and correspondence courses); graduate and professional degree programs.
- Paying for education – Loans, grants, scholarships, other financial aid, and record-related bans.

WHY IT'S IMPORTANT:

- Investing in education during reentry can help people avoid re-incarceration:
  - Several studies suggest that educational and vocational training helps prevent people in reentry from going back to prison.
- Many jobs and job markets now require employees to have some higher education:
  - Educational qualifications vary from job to job.
  - Some jobs require special licenses or certifications.
  - The more education you have, the better your chances of getting hired and moving up the job ladder, and the higher your pay may be.

COMMON BARRIERS TO REENTRY:

- Application and admission process:
  - Some schools may run background checks.
  - Some schools may discriminate based on criminal record.
  - Employment and professional licensing limitations may apply.
- Financial aid:
  - Felony drug offense restrictions are rare, but are not well understood.
  - Selective Service registration is required for adult men.
- Conditions of supervision:
  - Travel limitations and residency restrictions may affect your ability to attend certain schools.
  - Curfews, work requirements, and other scheduling conflicts may affect your ability to study.

CHAPTER 9: UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD - PG. 931

KEY TOPICS:

- Types of criminal records and what information they contain – and the difference between RAP sheets, key types of background checks, and other public records.
- Errors in criminal records and how to fix them.
- Who can see the different types of criminal records.
- How to get copies of criminal records.

WHY IT'S IMPORTANT:

- Cleaning up a criminal record can create more opportunities in reentry, especially related to limit what convictions show up in a background check, which can open up new employment and housing opportunities, and in some cases, restore certain civil rights.
- Expungement is a way for someone to know what is on his or her criminal record, and to take control over how it impacts his or her life.
- Expungement is the government's way of providing official recognition of someone's efforts at rehabilitation.

COMMON BARRIERS TO REENTRY:

- A criminal record is a long-term barrier to reintegration and access to civil rights.
- Background checks commonly contain errors, incomplete information, and illegally reported information.
- There are many different sources of criminal history information, and some are always going to be public through the courts.
- Many people can see criminal history information, including:
  - Private employers and landlords can see convictions from past 7 years, and in rare cases, special categories of employers can see more than that.
  - Public (government) employers & Public Housing Authorities can see much more!

CHAPTER 10: TRIBAL ISSUES - PG. 1088

KEY TOPICS:

- Information about tribal enrollment and obtaining tribal identification
- Tribal registration for sex offenses.
- Housing programs that are available to tribal members.
- Tribal public benefits and healthcare information and an overview of the Tribal Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) program.
- Information on the Indian Child Welfare Act (ICWA) and how it impacts California family law cases.

WHY IT'S IMPORTANT:

- There are a number of special laws, programs, and protections that are available to and impact tribal members with arrest or conviction records.

COMMON BARRIERS TO REENTRY:

- Tribal areas often have more limited access to legal aid and other supportive services.

---

CHAPTER 11: IMMIGRANTS WITH RECORDS & IN REENTRY - PG. 1105

KEY TOPICS:

- How immigration status can impact your ability to obtain key documents and secure housing, public benefits, employment, and higher education.
- How a criminal record can affect your residency in the U.S. or immigration status.
- Expungement remedies available to noncitizens.
- How to prepare for and respond to an ICE raid.

WHY IT'S IMPORTANT:

- Immigrants with criminal records face unique reentry challenges and risk deportation.
- With immigration enforcement becoming increasingly common, people need to understand their rights and how to protect themselves and their loved ones.
- California has recently passed several laws designed to shield undocumented people from excessive immigration enforcement.

COMMON BARRIERS TO REENTRY:

- Noncitizens have limited access to government-based supportive services, like public benefits and housing programs.
- Criminal records can have an impact on residency or immigration status.

“REENTRY-READY CHECKLIST” FOR CURRENTLY INCARCERATED PEOPLE

For currently incarcerated people in particular, this checklist can help you prepare now before these common reentry issues become bigger problems down the road! Use this checklist along with the Roadmap to Reentry Guide. It can help you understand in what areas you are already well prepared, and in what areas you would like to focus on more. For more information on how to answer a checklist item, see the chapter indicated. Every person’s circumstances and needs are different, so use this checklist however it works best for you. If you are NOT incarcerated, but have a criminal record, parts of the checklist may still be a helpful tool!

The Building Blocks of Reentry: Obtaining Identification (ID) and Key Documents, Voting & Civic Participation (CHAPTER 1):

Understanding & Cleaning Up Your Criminal Records (CHAPTER 9):

> Understanding My Record & Fixing Errors – NOTE: You can do this early in reentry!

- I know what shows up on:
  - My RAP sheet (county v. state v. federal)
  - Private/commercial background check
  - In-house background check
  - Court records
  - Information on the Internet or social media
- To fix errors, I can contact the source of the incorrect information by contacting:
  - the background check company,
  - the CA Department of Justice, OR
  - the courts or agencies that gave information to the FBI for my RAP sheet.

> Cleaning My Record – NOTE: Next to any of the record-cleaning options you believe you will be eligible for one day, write down when you think you can get this remedy.

- Record-sealing (some juvenile records and arrests can be sealed)
- Expungement (a CA "dismissal")
- Reducing a CA felony "wobbler" to a misdemeanor
- Prop. 47: Reducing certain eligible CA felonies to misdemeanors
- CA Certificate of Rehabilitation
- CA Governor's Pardon
- Federal Expungement (federal)
- Presidential Pardon (federal)
- I'm not sure.
- I need to look into out-of-state remedies for my out-of-state convictions.
- For more information/help, I can contact:
  - Root & Rebound's Reentry Legal Hotline at 510-279-4662 (Fridays, 9 am - 5 pm PST)
  - My county public defender's office for more information

- I am enrolled in the following tribe: _____.
- I can get tribal benefits such as: _____.
- For more information/help, I can contract: Root & Rebound's Reentry Legal Hotline at 510-279-4662 (Fridays, 9 am - 5 pm PST) and/or my tribe's court.

Immigration (CHAPTER 11):

- (Circle one) I know my immigration status. OR I don't know my immigration status.
- I was NOT advised of the immigration consequences in making a plea in my criminal court case.
- From the Guide, I believe I can get the following record-cleaning remedies that would help with my immigration concerns: _____.
- For more information/help, I can contact: Root & Rebound's Reentry Legal Hotline at 510-279-4662 (Fridays, 9 am - 5 pm PST)

ROOT & REBOUND SURVEY

Root & Rebound is a reentry advocacy center in Oakland, CA. We produce reentry legal resources to educate, empower, and support people who are in reentry or preparing for release, and those who support them. By filling out this survey and providing us with feedback, you are helping us to improve the Roadmap to Reentry. Thank you for your time!

PRIVACY OF INFORMATION: This is a voluntary and anonymous survey. Your feedback is very important to us, as is confidentiality and privacy. If you choose to send us your feedback, we will keep all your information anonymous. Your feedback will help us to improve the manual and to raise awareness about the needs of people in reentry.

INSTRUCTIONS: If you are willing, please answer all of the questions in this survey. Some questions ask you to circle the answer, while others ask you to fill in the blank.

QUESTIONS ABOUT THE GUIDE:

1. How CLOSELY did you read each section of the “Roadmap to Reentry”? Please circle the option that best describes how closely you read each section.

THE BUILDING BLOCKS OF REENTRY:

Getting ID & Other Key Documents, Voting & Civic Participation

“When I got my Driver’s License after getting out of prison, I cried. I felt like a person again, with my own identity – not just a number being yelled out in prison. It was one of the best moments of my reentry.”

- Formerly incarcerated woman, after spending 3 years incarcerated

The BUILDING BLOCKS OF REENTRY: ID & VOTING CHAPTER explains how to access key building blocks of reentry including: how to get identification (ID) and other key documents, voting rights, and Selective Service registration. ID is proof of who you are – your identity. Government agencies, workplaces, service providers, schools, and other institutions issue ID cards for people who are members. You will want ID and other key documents so that you can participate in all the services that your community has to offer, so that you can legally drive, and so that you can prove who you are. Voting is another building block of reentry, allowing people to participate in government elections and decisions. Finally, Selective Service registration for the military is required of most men in the U.S., and is critical for going back to school in reentry.

DISCLAIMER - YOUR RESPONSIBILITY WHEN USING THIS GUIDE: When putting together the Roadmap to Reentry: A California Legal Guide, we did our best to give you useful and accurate information. However, the laws change frequently and are subject to differing interpretations. We do not always have the resources to make changes to this informational material every time the law changes. If you use information from the Roadmap to Reentry legal guide, it is your responsibility to make sure that the law has not changed and applies to your particular situation. If you are incarcerated, most of the materials you need should be available in your institution’s law library. The Roadmap to Reentry guide is not intending to give legal advice, but rather legal information. No attorney-client relationship is created by using any information in this guide. You should always consult your own attorney if you need legal advice specific to your situation.

    Who is required to register with the Selective Service? ..... 73

    Who is not required to register with Selective Service? ..... 73

    When do I register with the Selective Service? ..... 73

    How do I register with the Selective Service? ..... 74

Issues with Selective Service Registration ..... 74

        I registered with the Selective Service, but I lost my registration number and my proof of registration. How can I get these? ..... 74

        It’s been more than 30 days since I turned 18, and I haven’t registered with the Selective Service. Can I still register?..... 74

        I am 26 or older and never registered with the Selective Service – and I don’t fall into any of the legal exceptions. What are some possible consequences? ... 74

        I am 26 or older and now I’m disqualified from certain government benefits and programs because I never registered with the Selective Service. What can I do? 75

        How do I get a Selective Service “status information letter”?..... 75

    How Selective Service Registration Affects Access to School ..... 76

        I’ve heard that if I didn’t register with the Selective Service when I was younger, I may not be able to get financial aid for school. Is that true? What can I do?... 76

IX. CONCLUSION ..... 76

ID & VOTING APPENDIX ..... 77

WHAT WILL I LEARN IN THE ID & VOTING CHAPTER?

- The difference between various types of ID and other key documents, including: birth certificates; Social Security cards and numbers; California State IDs and California Driver Licenses; U.S. Passports; tribal ID cards; and library cards
- Which forms of ID are most important
- When and how to get ID (and which ones to get first!)
- How to get certain types of ID while you’re still incarcerated
- Some options if you are an undocumented person and need ID
- Your voting rights and how to register to vote
- Selective Service registration requirements

GENERAL TIPS FOR GETTING ID

- Start as early as you can. You can start gathering some documents while you're incarcerated.
- Start by getting your birth certificate (or naturalization certificate if you were born outside the U.S. and later became a citizen). A certified copy of your birth certificate or naturalization certificate is necessary to get all other forms of ID. See PG. 31 (birth certificate) or PG. 37 (naturalization certificate).
- Stick to using your legal name as it appears on your birth certificate. Even if you have used other names in the past, stick with your legal name. It is your only legal identity.
- Keep photocopies of all your important forms as you go.
- Before you pay a fee for anything, find out if you can get a “reduced fee” or “fee waiver” based on your income or public benefits. Many forms of ID require that you pay a fee before they are issued, but some of these fees can be reduced or excused for people with limited income. Learn more on PG. 47, and always check for yourself!<sup>2</sup>
- Learn about special, limited forms of ID for undocumented people and noncitizens living in California on PG. 1109.

I. INTRODUCTION

WHAT ARE IDENTIFICATION DOCUMENTS (ID), AND WHY ARE THEY IMPORTANT?

Identification (“ID”) is proof of who you are –your identity. Government agencies, workplaces, service providers, schools, and other institutions issue ID cards for people who are members. Many forms of ID include a photo and important information about you, such as your address or physical characteristics. Having an ID is important because, when you apply for school or work, or sign up for various programs, licenses, and services, you’ll have to show an ID to prove that you are who you say you are, and to show that you qualify for whatever you’re signing up for.

WHY DO I NEED IDENTIFICATION DOCUMENTS (ID)?

You need specific forms of ID to apply for many important resources and services, including housing, employment, education, medical care, public benefits, transportation, driving privileges, voting, banking, and licenses that allow you to work in certain types of jobs.

I HAVE A PRISON OR JAIL ID. IS THAT ENOUGH TO IDENTIFY MYSELF?

You may already have a prison or jail ID card, but these generally are not enough to help you prove who you are in all the places where you will need an official ID. In the early days of your reentry, though, a prison or jail ID card may help you get other forms of ID.

WHAT ARE THE MOST IMPORTANT FORMS OF ID TO HAVE?

As you rebuild your life in the community, there are 3 KEY DOCUMENTS for you to have: (1) your birth certificate; (2) your Social Security card (or number); and (3) a state ID or driver license (you don’t need both, just one).

Once you have your birth certificate and Social Security number (SSN), you will be able to get a California state ID card or a driver license, the most commonly used forms of ID for everyday purposes. Once in a while, you will need to show a copy of your Social Security card for certain services, just knowing your Social Security number (SSN) is enough (without presenting the actual card).

I DON’T HAVE ANY ID. WHERE AND WHEN CAN I START?

Where do I to start?

If you do not have any of the 3 most important forms of ID – your birth certificate, a Social Security card (or number), OR a state ID or driver license – you will have trouble proving your identity.

For most, it is best to get your birth certificate first, then your Social Security card, and lastly your state ID or driver license. To learn more about these 3 key documents:

- See PG. 31 for birth certificate
- See PG. 38 for Social Security card / SSN
- See PG. 43 for California state ID and driver license

When can I start? Can I start if I am currently incarcerated?

It is never too early to start gathering official ID. It helps to begin while you are still incarcerated as part of your preparation for release.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION IF YOU ARE INCARCERATED IN A CDCR STATE PRISON: If you are incarcerated in a California state prison, state law requires the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (CDCR) and the California Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) to make sure all qualifying individuals receive a California state ID at the time of release.<sup>3</sup> CDCR is carrying out this law through its “CAL-ID” program. If you qualify, you should get a state ID for free at the time of release. See PG. 44 for more information on the program and who is eligible.

I HAVE USED DIFFERENT NAMES (“ALIASES”). WHAT NAME IS BEST TO USE ON MY ID?

Your ID documents must be in your “legal” name. This will be the name that appears on your birth certificate, unless you have legally changed it. Changes in your legal name are done through marriage or by court order.<sup>4</sup>

NATURALIZED U.S. CITIZEN?

If you were born outside the U.S. and then became a citizen through the naturalization process, instead of a birth certificate, you need your naturalization certificate. For details, go to PG. 37.

IMPORTANT: Using a false name or presenting false documents to get ID is a FEDERAL offense. Don't do it.

CAN I LEGALLY CHANGE MY NAME?

Maybe. The California Courts website gives step-by-step instructions for changing your name online: <http://www.courts.ca.gov/selfhelp-namechange.htm>. The website has specific information for people who are divorcing, getting married, changing their legal gender, and other requests.

A judge must approve legal name changes. In all cases, you will need to prove that your name change doesn't pose any security risk to the community.<sup>5</sup> A judge may find that you cannot legally change your name if:

- The judge finds that you are changing your name to commit fraud; OR
- The judge finds that you are changing your name to hide from the police or law enforcement or for some other illegal reason; OR
- You are currently on probation or parole – UNLESS your probation or parole officer is aware of your legal name change AND gives you written approval; OR
- If you are incarcerated in prison.
  - If you are incarcerated in a California state prison, you need permission from the Secretary of the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (CDCR) to change your name.
  - If you are incarcerated in federal prison, you need permission from the Director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons (BOP) to change your name.<sup>6</sup>

I AM AN UNDOCUMENTED PERSON? CAN I GET OFFICIAL ID?

No, you cannot get official ID that works for all government purposes if you are an undocumented immigrant living in California, BUT you may be able to get special types of ID that can be used in limited circumstances.

Learn more about the following types of ID for undocumented people in Chapter 11, PG. 1105:

1. California AB 60 “Undocumented Person” driver licenses, which allow some undocumented individuals to drive legally in California (and California only!);
2. Consular Identification Cards; and
3. Municipal ID Cards (created by some cities for their local residents).

I AM A TRIBAL MEMBER. CAN I GET A TRIBAL ID CARD?

You will need to check with your tribe to see what their process is for getting a tribal ID card. See PG. 1093 for more information.

I BELIEVE MY IDENTITY WAS STOLEN WHILE I WAS INCARCERATED. WHAT CAN I DO?

If you believe your identity was stolen while you were incarcerated and you are a resident of California, you can file an Identity Theft Affidavit by mail to the California Franchise Tax Board or call their ID Theft experts at 916-485-7088.<sup>7</sup> If you are still incarcerated, you will likely need the help of a friend or loved one outside the prison to make calls and advocate on your behalf. If you are not incarcerated, you can access the Federal Trade Commission's free manual, Identity Theft: A Recovery Plan, which contains a step-by-step procedure to handling identity theft, available online at <http://IdentityTheft.gov>.<sup>8</sup>

You can also call the three major credit bureaus, listed below, to request a 90-day block that will stop anyone from opening an account in your name. The block will expire automatically after 90 days.<sup>9</sup> You will not need to provide a copy of your driver's license to have a 90-day block put on, but you will need your Social Security Number. For information on obtaining your Social Security Number, go to PG. 40.

Below are the three major credit bureaus:

- Equifax, P.O. Box 740241, Atlanta, GA 30374-024. Phone number: 1-800-525-6285
- Experian, P.O. Box 9532, Allen, TX 75013. Phone number: 1-888-397-3742
- TransUnion, P.O. Box 6790, Fullerton, CA 92834. Phone number: 1-800-680-7289

SUMMARY OF KEY DOCUMENTS
KEY ID DOCUMENT	COST	WHY IT'S IMPORTANT
AUTHORIZED U.S. BIRTH CERTIFICATE	About $25 (varies by county)	This proves your age and legal presence in the United States. It is necessary in order to get most other forms of identification, including your California state ID or driver license.
NATURALIZATION CERTIFICATE	$345 (may be free if you show financial hardship)	If you are a naturalized citizen, meaning you were born outside of the United States and became a citizen later, you will not have a U.S. birth certificate. Instead, you should use your naturalization certificate.
SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER/CARD	Free	Your Social Security number (SSN) is required to apply for jobs, education programs, financial aid, and government services. You need it to obtain other forms of ID, such as a state ID or driver license.
CALIFORNIA STATE ID and/or DRIVER LICENSE	$28 for a new state ID (but $8 reduced fee if you receive public benefits, and free for seniors and homeless people).  If you are currently incarcerated – free state id may be available through cal-id program (learn more on pg. 44).  $33 for a new CA Driver License.	Both a California State ID and Driver License prove your age and identity, and they may prove your legal presence in the United States. Either one can be used as an official photo ID. You will likely need one of these in order to open a bank account, to register to vote, and to apply for jobs, housing, or public benefits. State IDs and driver licenses are generally considered the most common accepted forms of identification.  A California Driver License is different from a state ID in that it gives you driving privileges if you can meet all the state requirements.
U.S. PASSPORT	$135 for a new passport; $110 for a renewal	This is necessary for traveling abroad and coming back to the United States. It is also considered an official photo ID.
TRIBAL ID CARD	It depends on the tribe.	A tribal ID proves your enrollment in a particular Indian (Native American or Alaska Native) tribe, and can be used as official photo ID for some places (like federal buildings, airports, and banks), certain services (like the federal Indian Health Service), but not for other purposes (for example, it won't work for notary services in California).
RAP SHEET	Approx. $50 ($25 with a fee waiver)	Your RAP sheet is a chronological listing of your entire criminal history. You want to know what shows up on your RAP sheet because employers, Public Housing Authorities, schools, government agencies, and others may use your criminal history to decide if you are eligible for their services. (Go to the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, PG. 931 )
VOTER REGISTRATION	Free	When you register to vote, you will be sent a voter registration card in the mail to let you know that you've registered successfully. However, you do not need it to actually vote, as long as you're registered.
SELECTIVE SERVICE REGISTRATION	Free	All male U.S. citizens, and all males living in the United States (except those present on student or visitor visas) must register for the Selective Service if they are aged 18-25. Failure to do so can result in disqualification from, or loss of, certain federal and state benefits. In California, if you do not register, you will not be eligible for state student financial aid. Selective Service used to be called "the Draft."
LIBRARY CARD (OPTIONAL)	Free	A library card gives you access to free resources from your local public library, such as books, movies, and advice from librarians. It also allows you to use the library's computers and access the Internet.

II. BIRTH CERTIFICATE

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- How to get a copy of your birth certificate in the following situations: 1) you were born in California; 2) you were born in another state; 3) you were born in another country; 4) you were adopted and don't know where you were born; 5) you are not a U.S. citizen; or 6) you are a naturalized U.S. citizen
- How to request your birth certificate
- How to get a document notarized, whether you are currently or formerly incarcerated
- Your options if there is no record of your birth

IMPORTANT: For most, a birth certificate is the most critical ID you will need and the easiest one to get while still incarcerated. START THE PROCESS AS SOON AS POSSIBLE!

WHAT IS A BIRTH CERTIFICATE, AND WHY WOULD I NEED IT?

Your birth certificate is important because it proves your legal name, age, birthdate, and birthplace. If you were born in the United States, it also proves your U.S. citizenship. Having a copy of your birth certificate is necessary to get other key forms of ID.

WHAT IS THE GENERAL PROCESS FOR GETTING A COPY OF MY BIRTH CERTIFICATE?

It depends on what STATE you were born in. Each U.S. state maintains its own birth records.<sup>10</sup> The federal government does not keep records or issue copies of birth certificates.<sup>11</sup> Thus, the requirements and procedures for getting official copies of birth certificates vary from state to state.<sup>12</sup>

If you were born in the U.S., here is the general process:<sup>13</sup>

- For the state where you were born, find out which government agency in that state manages birth records;
- Get a request form from that government agency, fill it out, and send it in; OR write a request letter to the agency;
- Have the form or letter notarized<sup>14</sup> (if requesting by mail) (learn how to notarize a document in on PG. 32);
- Present a photo ID or swear an oath (if requesting in person);
- Pay the fee.

See PG. 33 for more information on each step.

WHAT IF I WAS BORN IN ANOTHER COUNTRY?

Whether or not you are a U.S. Citizen, if you were born outside the United States, you must check with the country in which you were born for the procedures to get your birth certificate (see PG. 36 for more information).

If you were born out of the United States, but you are a U.S. citizen because one or both of your parents was a U.S. citizen, see PG. 36 on how to obtain your birth certificate.

HELPFUL HINT

HOW DO I GET A DOCUMENT “NOTARIZED”?

WHAT IS NOTARIZATION?

Notarization is when a government-approved person (called a “notary public” or just a “notary”) validates an important document. The notary must witness signatures to that document.

WHAT DO I BRING?

1. The document you need notarized. IMPORTANT: Don’t sign it before you go—the notary needs to witness your signature.
2. Proof of who you are (usually photo ID).

The notary can verify who you are by one of 3 ways:

1) Photo ID issued within the last 5 years. This can be: a state ID or a driver license from any U.S. state, a passport from any country, a U.S. Military ID, a Canadian or Mexican driver license, or a California government employee ID card. IF YOU ARE CURRENTLY INCARCERATED: You can use your prison ID card while you are still incarcerated, but not after you get out. This is why it is so important to get your birth certificate before you are released, if possible.

2) One witness whom the notary knows and who knows you. This witness will need to show one of the forms of acceptable ID listed above, and verify under oath who you are. —OR—

3) Two witnesses who know you (but the notary does not need to know them). Both witnesses will also be required to show one of the forms of acceptable ID listed above, and verify who you are under oath.

WHERE DO I FIND A NOTARY?

Try your local bank, credit union, public library, City Hall, courthouse, Post Office, FedEx or UPS store, senior center, or public school. Always call the location and check its website to make sure a notary exists, what times it is available, and the cost. IF YOU ARE CURRENTLY INCARCERATED: State prisons must provide notary services.<sup>15</sup> Contact your corrections counselor to make an appointment, as the services may only be available on certain days and times.

HOW MUCH WILL A NOTARY COST?

In California, the most a notary can charge is $10.00 per signature. However, mobile notary services that come to you are allowed to charge more.<sup>16</sup>

IF YOU ARE CURRENTLY INCARCERATED: There is an administrative fee, which varies by facility, and is taken out of your inmate trust account. If you would rather use a mobile notary, you’ll need to find one in your area that does jail/prison visits. You may need to ask a family member or friend to help arrange the visit.

WHY DO I WANT AN “AUTHORIZED, CERTIFIED” COPY?

It is best to get an authorized certified copy of your birth certificate. Only an authorized certified copy of your birth certificate can be used as proof of your identity. An informational copy is not accepted as a government-issued ID and, therefore, you cannot use it to obtain other forms of official ID.<sup>17</sup>

CERTIFIED COPY – A “certified” copy of your birth certificate is any official copy of your birth certificate issued by the Office of the County Recorder in the county where you were born, or from your state’s Office of Vital Records.<sup>18</sup> These offices issue two types of certified copies – “authorized” and “informational.”

- Authorized Certified Copy – An “authorized” certified birth certificate bears the stamp or seal of the office that issued it.<sup>19</sup> It is called authorized because only certain individuals, such as you and your immediate family members, are allowed to get it.<sup>20</sup> Access to authorized birth certificates is restricted because they are considered a valid form of government-issued ID, and can be used to get other forms of ID. This is the type of copy you need to prove your identity.
- Informational Certified Copy – An “informational” certified birth certificate contains the same information as an authorized copy, but it is not considered an official record of your identity. It does not bear the stamp or seal of the office that issued it, and it must contain the disclaimer statement: “INFORMATIONAL, NOT A VALID DOCUMENT TO ESTABLISH IDENTITY.”<sup>21</sup> Anyone can order an informational copy of your birth certificate. This is not the type of copy you want to get to prove your identity.

IF YOU WERE BORN IN THE U.S.—DIFFERENT SITUATIONS:

(1) IF YOU WERE BORN IN CALIFORNIA:

I WAS BORN IN CALIFORNIA. HOW DO I GET AN AUTHORIZED COPY OF MY BIRTH CERTIFICATE?

You must go through one of two sources to get your California birth certificate: (1) the California Department of Public Health (CDPH), or (2) the County Recorder's Office of the county where you were born. Generally, it is easier to go through the County Recorder's Office, but there are pros and cons to each. See the chart on PG. 33 to learn details about the pros and cons.

NOT BORN IN CALIFORNIA?

- If you were born in a state outside of California, go to PG. 35.
- If you were born outside of the United States, go to PG. 36.
- If you were adopted and don't know where you were born, go to PG. 36.

CALIFORNIA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC HEALTH (CDPH)	COUNTY RECORDER'S OFFICE
TIME: Takes longer to process (4-6 weeks).	TIME: Takes less time to process (same day, in person).
REQUEST METHOD: Must be done by mail.	REQUEST METHOD: May be done by mail OR in person.
FEE: Standard fee (currently $25, but subject to change).	FEE: Fees vary by county. It may be more or less than what the CDPH charges.
STATEWIDE REACH: CDPH is a good option if you don't know what county you were born in. It covers all counties in California, and the CDPH can help you locate your birth county.	COUNTY REACH ONLY: The County Recorder's Officer can issue birth certificates only for births within that county, not statewide . So it's good if you know exactly which county you were born in.

➤ CALIFORNIA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC HEALTH (CDPH):

I WANT TO GET MY BIRTH CERTIFICATE FROM THE CALIFORNIA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC HEALTH (CDPH). WHAT IS THE PROCESS?

STEP 1: Obtain and fill out an "Application for Certified Copy of Birth Record" (Form VS 111).

You can request this form by mail from the CDPH by writing to: California Department of Public Health, Vital Records – MS 5103, P.O. Box 997410, Sacramento, CA 95899-7410.

This form is also available to download from the CDPH website at: <http://www.cdph.ca.gov>.<sup>22</sup> A sample application is provided in Appendix A, PG. 78, but check the website for the most up-to-date form. To fill out the form, you will generally need to know your birth name, your birth date, the city where you were born, and your parents' names, including your mother's maiden name. If you do not know all of this information, fill in as much as you can.

STEP 2: Sign your application & get your Sworn Statement notarized.

The Sworn Statement is on page 3 of the application form (Form VS 111), and is required to verify the information on your application.<sup>23</sup> By signing the Sworn Statement, you are declaring “under penalty of perjury” that you are entitled by law to receive an authorized copy of the birth certificate.

You must then get the statement notarized. See the box on PG. 32 for an explanation of how to get a document notarized.

STEP 3: Prepare the fee payment.

This must be a check or money order made payable to “CDPH Vital Records.”<sup>24</sup> Do not send cash. At the time of writing this manual, the CDPH fee is $25, but it could change. The current fee amount will be on the CDPH application form.

STEP 4: Mail your request.

Your final packet should include: (1) your application form, including the notarized Sworn Statement, and (2) your fee payment (check or money order).<sup>25</sup> At the time of writing this Guide, application packets should be mailed to: California Department of Public Health, Vital Records – MS 5103, P.O. Box 997410, Sacramento, CA 95899-7410.

➤ COUNTY RECORDER’S OFFICE:

I WAS BORN IN CALIFORNIA AND KNOW MY COUNTY OF BIRTH. HOW DO I GET MY BIRTH CERTIFICATE DIRECTLY FROM THE COUNTY I WAS BORN IN?

If you know what county you were born in, we recommend going directly through your County Recorder’s Office. Because the CDPH handles requests for the entire state, it often takes longer than if you go directly to the County Recorder’s Office, where it will be a much faster process (sometimes even the same day).<sup>26</sup> The County Recorder’s Office is also more convenient because you can make your request in person as well as by mail.

HOW DO I LOCATE THE COUNTY RECORDER’S OFFICE?

Whether you plan to make your request in person or by mail, you first need to locate the Recorder’s Office in the county in which you were born. The CDPH provides a statewide directory of County Recorder’s Offices (addresses, phone numbers, and websites). To get the address and phone number for the County Recorder’s Office, call CDPH Customer Service at 1-916-445-2684 or visit the website at: <http://www.cdph.ca.gov/> and search for “birth certificates.”<sup>27</sup> You can also use Directory Assistance to locate the address by dialing 4-1-1 from any phone, but this service charges a fee (as much as $1.99 per 4-1-1 call).<sup>28</sup>

IF I USE THE COUNTY RECORDER’S OFFICE, IS IT BEST TO REQUEST MY BIRTH CERTIFICATE BY MAIL OR IN PERSON?

Once you have located the Recorder’s Office in the county where you were born, you will need to decide if you want to request your birth certificate in person or by mail. In most counties, if you request the document in person at the Recorder’s Office, this is the best option because the clerk can tell you almost immediately whether or not there is a record of your birth on file, and you can ask the clerk questions if there is trouble locating the correct record. Also, you might even be able to get the certified copy that same day. However, this may not be the right option for you if you are unable to travel to your birth county because of parole or other travel restrictions.

REQUESTS TO RECORDER’S OFFICE BY MAIL:

After you have located the Recorder’s Office in the county where you were born, you will need to get a copy of that county’s specific application form. You can request the form by phone or by mail, or you can download it from the County Recorder Office’s website. Once you have the form, the process for requesting your birth certificate by mail is the same as the process for requesting it by mail from the CDPH (see those instructions on PG. 33). Remember to:

- Complete the form to the best of your ability;
- Sign and have your Sworn Statement notarized (notarization explained in the box on PG. 32);
- Prepare the fee payment (varies by county);
- Mail your request packet (including your application form, Sworn Statement, and fee payment) to the County Recorder's Office.

REQUESTS TO RECORDER'S OFFICE IN PERSON:

If you plan on making your request in person, you can either get an application ahead of time by mail or online, or you can pick one up in person. The process for getting a birth certificate in person is slightly different than by mail. However, the information you will need to show is the same.

STEP 1: Go to the County Recorder's Office and identify yourself.

The biggest difference between requesting your birth certificate by mail and requesting it in person is that the office may ask you for a photo ID if you make your request in person. Don't worry if you do not have a valid form of ID—there is usually a way around this! Every office will have different policies and requirements, so make sure you call ahead and ask so that you can be prepared for how they will allow you to identify yourself. Below are some alternatives to presenting a photo ID:

- In some counties, such as Alameda County, you simply have to sign the application under penalty of perjury in front of the clerk-recorder. You do not need to have the form notarized, and you do not need to show a photo ID;<sup>29</sup>
- Show your CDCR prisoner ID card;
- Bring witnesses who have their own valid photo ID and can identify you;
- Bring a notarized declaration of your identity;
- Ask a person with his/her own valid photo ID to get a copy of your birth certificate for you—so long as that person is authorized. This includes your spouse or domestic partner, parents or legal guardians, children, grandparents, grandchildren, or siblings;
- Ask your attorney to request your birth certificate for you;
- Ask your probation/parole officer to provide a certification of your name, age, birth date, address, and parents' legal names. Present that statement at the County Recorder's Office and explain your situation.

STEP 2: Fill out and submit the application.

You will need to know your birth name, your birth date, the city you were born in, and your parents' names, including your mother's maiden name.

STEP 3: Pay the fee. You can usually pay with cash, credit card, debit card, check, or money order.

(2) IF YOU WERE BORN IN THE U.S.A. OUTSIDE OF CALIFORNIA:

I WAS BORN IN A STATE OTHER THAN CALIFORNIA. HOW DO I GET AN AUTHORIZED COPY OF MY BIRTH CERTIFICATE?

The federal government does not keep a centralized database of birth records. Each state maintains its own. Each state has its own procedures for requesting an authorized certified copy of your birth certificate for identification purposes, and the fees vary. You will need to find out the procedures for your birth state:

STEP 1: Find the Vital Statistics Office in your birth state.

Each state has a Vital Statistics Office, sometimes called a Vital Records Office, that is in charge of birth records for that state. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) has a list of the address and phone number for each state's Vital Statistics Office, as well as basic information about each state's procedures. You can find this information on the CDC website at: <http://www.cdc.gov/nchs/w2w.htm>. You can also contact the CDC by phone at 1-800-CDC-INFO (1-800-232-4636), or write to:

Centers for Disease Control and Prevention
1600 Clifton Road
Atlanta, GA 30329-4027.<sup>30</sup>

We have included a listing of Vital Statistics Office phone numbers and addresses for each state in Appendix B, PG. 82. Because this could change, you should check with the CDC for the most up-to-date information.

STEP 2: Call or write the Vital Statistics Office in the state where you were born and ask what they need from you to send you an authorized certified copy of your birth certificate.

(3) IF YOU WERE BORN IN THE U.S., BUT NO RECORD OF YOUR BIRTH WAS FOUND:

WHAT IF I WAS BORN IN THE U.S.A., BUT THERE IS NO RECORD OF MY BIRTH?

If you request a copy of your birth certificate from the state or county where you were born, but you receive a notice that there is no record available, you will have to locate a secondary record of your birth to serve the same identifying purpose as a birth certificate does. Secondary records are not considered as reliable as authorized certified birth certificates, but they can still help you prove your identity to obtain other forms of ID. Secondary records include:

- Hospital records;
- Census record;
- Religious records confirming your birth date (such as a baptism certificate or family bible record);
- Statement from the midwife who delivered you;
- Early school records; and
- Records of immunization.<sup>31</sup>

IF YOU WERE ADOPTED AND DON'T KNOW WHERE YOU WERE BORN:

I AM ADOPTED AND I DON'T KNOW WHERE I WAS BORN. WHAT CAN I DO?

If you are adopted, you must request an application for a certified copy of your birth certificate in the state where you were adopted, using your adoptive name.<sup>32</sup> If you were born outside the United States and adopted in California, there is a place to indicate this on the birth certificate form (and this might be the case in other states).<sup>33</sup>

IF YOU WERE BORN OUTSIDE OF THE U.S.A. – DIFFERENT SITUATIONS:

(1) IF YOU ARE A U.S. CITIZEN BORN TO U.S. CITIZEN PARENT(S) IN ANOTHER COUNTRY

I WAS BORN OUTSIDE OF THE U.S., BUT I AM A U.S. CITIZEN BECAUSE ONE OR BOTH OF MY PARENTS WAS A U.S. CITIZEN. HOW DO I GET CERTIFICATION OF MY BIRTH AND CITIZENSHIP?

If you are a U.S. citizen who was born abroad to U.S. citizen parent(s), your parent(s) should have reported your birth to the nearest U.S. Consulate or Embassy as soon as possible after you were born.<sup>34</sup> Under federal law, they should have applied in your name for a “Consular Report of Birth Abroad of a Citizen of the United States of America” (also called “CRBA,” or Form FS-240).<sup>35</sup>

If your parents did register your birth with a U.S. Consulate or Embassy, the U.S. Department of State should have given them a CRBA in your name. Like a U.S. birth certificate, your CRBA is proof of your U.S. citizenship, and you can use it as official ID to get other key forms of ID, including a U.S. passport.<sup>36</sup>

The only people who can legally request a copy of your CRBA are: (1) you, (2) an authorized government agent, and (3) a person with written authorization. To request a copy of your CRBA, follow these steps:

<sup>32</sup> When you were adopted in the United States, your birth certificate was changed to reflect your adoptive information—whether you were born in the U.S. or not—and your original birth information was sealed. Therefore, the existing birth record will have your adoptive information.

<sup>36</sup> Note: Until January 3, 2011, the document issued for this purpose was “Certificate of Report of Birth Abroad,” or “Form DS-1350,” also called “CRBA.” The Department of State no longer issues Form DS-1350 for new births. However, if this was the document issued when your parents registered your birth, it is still valid for the same purposes as a Form FS-240, and you can still request a copy by taking the same steps you would to request a Form FS-240. See Foreign Birth and Death Certificates, CDC, <http://www.cdc.gov/nchs/w2w/foreign.htm>; Birth of U.S. Citizens Abroad, U.S. DEPARTMENT OF STATE, BUREAU OF CONSULAR AFFAIRS, <http://travel.state.gov/content/passports/english/abroad/events-and-records/birth.html>.

1. Your full name at birth, and any adoptive names you had.
2. Your birth date and birthplace.
3. Your parents' full names.
4. The serial number of your Consular Report of Birth Abroad (also called Form FS-240), if you know it.
5. Any available passport information.
6. Your mailing address and phone number.
7. Your signature. (Leave space for this, but don't actually sign until Step 3, when you're with a Notary Public.)

STEP 2: Get your request notarized by a Notary Public.

See the box on PG. 32 to learn how to get a document notarized.

STEP 3: Prepare a check or money order for $50 (no cash). Make it payable to "Department of State."

STEP 4: Mail your request and fee. Address the envelope to:

WHO CAN I CALL FOR HELP?

For more information, call the Bureau of Consular Affairs at 1-877-487-2778 (TDD/TTY: 1-888-874-7793).

(2) IF YOU WERE BORN IN ANOTHER COUNTRY AND YOU ARE NOT A U.S. CITIZEN

I AM NOT A U.S. CITIZEN. HOW DO I GET MY BIRTH CERTIFICATE FROM A FOREIGN COUNTRY?

Most, but not all, foreign countries record births and will provide certifications of births occurring within their boundaries. You should contact your birth country's nearest Embassy or Consulate in the United States. Addresses and telephone numbers for these offices are listed in the U.S. Department of State Publication 7846, Foreign Consular Offices in the United States, which is available in many local libraries. Copies of this publication may also be purchased from the U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, DC 20402.

If the Embassy or Consulate is unable to provide assistance, U.S. citizens may obtain assistance by writing to the Office of Overseas Citizens Services, U.S. Department of State, Washington, DC 20520-4818. Noncitizens residing in the United States may be able to obtain assistance through the Embassy or Consulate of their country of nationality.

(3) IF YOU ARE A NATURALIZED CITIZEN

I AM A NATURALIZED CITIZEN. DO I NEED MY BIRTH CERTIFICATE?

If you were not born in the United States, but immigrated here and became a U.S. citizen at some point in your life, you are a naturalized citizen. You should have been issued a Certificate of Naturalization at the time you became a citizen. This is essentially the same as a birth certificate for purposes of obtaining other ID documents.<sup>38</sup> If your Certificate of Naturalization was lost or destroyed, you can apply for a new one. You will need to fill out an "Application for Replacement Naturalization/Citizenship Document" (Form N-565). You can call the Department of Homeland Security, Citizenship and Immigration Services, National Customer Services Center hotline at 1-800-375-5283 to have the form mailed to you. The form is also available online at <http://www.uscis.gov/n-565>.<sup>39</sup> A copy of the most up-to-date form as of the time of this Guide's first printing (2015) is at Appendix C, PG. 91.

III. SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER & CARD

WHAT WILL I LEARN ABOUT SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBERS AND CARDS?

- The difference between a Social Security number (SSN) and Social Security card, and when you'll need them
- How to find out your SSN if you don't know it
- How to apply for an original Social Security card if you've never received a SSN
- How to apply for a replacement Social Security card if you don't have the original
- How to get a Social Security card even if you don't have a U.S. Passport, State ID, or Driver License

WHAT IS A SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER (SSN) AND WHAT IS A SOCIAL SECURITY CARD? WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE AND DO I NEED BOTH?

If you were born in the U.S., and your birth was reported, the government assigned you a Social Security number (SSN). Your SSN is a 9-digit number that is unique to you. The government uses it primarily to identify you, but also to track your income for tax purposes and to calculate any Social Security benefits you accrue as you work. Also, other institutions—like banks, hospitals, schools, and businesses—will use your SSN as a way to identify you.<sup>40</sup>

A Social Security card is a paper card that provides a record of your name and SSN. Social Security cards are issued only by the Social Security Administration of the federal government. Social Security cards are always free.<sup>41</sup>

While there are many circumstances in which you will need to provide your SSN, you will only need to show the actual Social Security card in a few limited situations—most commonly, when filling out employment paperwork. For this reason, it is a good idea to memorize your SSN, but store your Social Security card in a safe place and only carry it with you when you know you'll need it.

WHY DO I NEED TO KNOW MY SSN?

Like your birth certificate, your SSN proves who you are. You'll need to provide your 9-digit SSN to access government services and to apply for jobs, public benefits, housing, a driver license, health care, education programs, and financial aid.<sup>42</sup>

I HAVE A SSN, BUT I FORGOT IT OR NEVER KNEW IT. HOW DO I FIND OUT WHAT IT IS?<sup>43</sup>

If you were assigned a SSN at some point in your life, but you don't know it now, you need to request a replacement card. This is the only way to get your number because the Social Security Administration (SSA) does not give out Social Security numbers any other way. You can apply for a replacement card by mail or in person at a local SSA Field Office. For more information on getting a replacement card, see PG. 39 if you're incarcerated, or PG. 40 if you're out.

I DON'T THINK I EVER GOT A SSN. CAN I GET ONE NOW?

Yes. If you were never assigned a SSN, you will need to apply for an original card.<sup>44</sup> See PG. 42 for more information on getting an original card.

PRE-RELEASE PLANNING — GETTING A SOCIAL SECURITY CARD WHILE INCARCERATED:

CAN I GET A SOCIAL SECURITY CARD WHILE I AM STILL INCARCERATED?

Maybe. If you never had a SSN, the Social Security Administration (SSA) will not assign you a new SSN or issue you an "original" Social Security card while you are incarcerated. You will have to wait until you get out.

However, if you were given a SSN at some point in the past, the SSA may issue you a replacement card with your original number on it while you are incarcerated—under limited circumstances.<sup>45</sup> See the next question (PG. 39) to learn how to get a replacement card while incarcerated.

HOW DO I GET A REPLACEMENT CARD WHILE I AM INCARCERATED?

The steps for requesting a replacement card while you are incarcerated is fairly straightforward. However, due to conflicting rules and practices within the Social Security Administration (SSA), it's hard to say whether your request will succeed. You should try anyway. Here are key factors that may affect your chances of success:

- The facility you are in: Where you are incarcerated may affect your ability to get a Social Security card while you are incarcerated.
  - MOUs: According to the SSA's official policy, before the SSA will accept "certification" (proof) of your identity from a correctional facility, that facility must enter a special agreement with the SSA called a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU). The MOU's purpose is to ensure that corrections officials follow the same rules as SSA officials do when verifying people's identities. If your facility has a MOU with the SSA, the SSA will accept the facility's certification of your identity as proof that you are who you say you are. However, if your facility does not have a MOU with the SSA, the SSA Field Office reviewer that evaluates your application can choose to deny a certification from the facility as definitive proof of your identity. In other words, your facility's certification carries less weight without an MOU with the SSA, and your application for a replacement Social Security card is more likely to get denied.
- Your local Field Office and application reviewer: The practices of your local Field Office in reviewing applications from incarcerated people will affect your ability to get a Social Security Card while you are incarcerated.
  - If your facility does not have a MOU with the SSA, the local Field Office should still evaluate your application as it would any other application.<sup>46</sup> This means that your reviewer can consider your correctional facility's certification, even if he or she can't rely on it 100%. How much weight your reviewer gives to the certification will depend on that particular Field Office's practices. Some Field Offices accept certifications without a hassle; others do not. It's always worth a try!

HOW DO I FIND OUT IF MY CORRECTIONAL FACILITY HAS A MEMORANDUM OF UNDERSTANDING (MOU) AGREEMENT WITH THE SOCIAL SECURITY ADMINISTRATION (SSA)?

Unfortunately, this information is not readily available. It may be best to just apply for a replacement Social Security card and see if it works!

HOW DO I APPLY FOR MY REPLACEMENT CARD FROM INSIDE?

The process for requesting a replacement Social Security card while you are incarcerated is the same whether your facility has a MOU with the SSA or not. Follow these steps:

STEP 1: Get and fill out the application for a Social Security card (Form SS-5).

The recommended way to get this form is by calling the Social Security Administration (SSA) at 1-800-772-1213 and asking to have the form mailed to you. You may also be able to get the form by writing to your local Field Office or the closest Social Security Administration Regional Office. The Regional Office that serves California is:

SSA
Regional Public Affairs Office
P.O. Box 4201
Richmond, CA 94804

Keep in mind that this office also serves Arizona, Nevada, Hawaii, Guam, American Samoa, and the Commonwealth of the Mariana Islands, so it may take some time to process your request. You might also try asking your correctional counselor or other prison services staff if they have the form on hand. (For reference, we have included a sample Form SS-5 in Appendix D, PG. 94).

STEP 2: Gather the documents you will need.

You will need to submit two documents with your application:

- Certification of Inmate Identity: If your facility has a MOU agreement with the SSA, a designated prison official should verify your identity through prison records and issue a certification to the SSA (explanation of MOUs on PG. 39 above).<sup>47</sup> If your facility does not have a MOU agreement with the SSA, you should still ask for a certification. Talk to your correctional counselor; he or she should know who is the best person at the prison to give you a certification.

- Information Release – You need to sign an information release form, giving the SSA permission to send your Social Security card to your facility. Ask your correctional counselor for this form.

HELPFUL HINT

Whether or not your institution has a MOU agreement with the SSA, you should include the prison staff's certification of your identity, as well as a copy of your prison ID card, if possible. In fact, you should include any and all documents related to your identity, because the SSA must consider everything. Start gathering documents while you're incarcerated. If you don't have primary forms of ID, you can use these types of proof after you get released, as well. Along with your birth certificate, these documents will probably be enough. For more information on "other proof of identity," see PG. 41.

POST-RELEASE – GETTING A SOCIAL SECURITY CARD AFTER YOU'RE OUT:

I AM FORMERLY INCARCERATED, AND I USED TO HAVE A SSN. HOW DO I GET A REPLACEMENT SOCIAL SECURITY CARD?

You can apply to your local SSA office in person or make the request by mail. We strongly recommend applying IN PERSON for 3 reasons:

- REASON 1: First, if you go in person, the SSA agent can actually see that you are a real person. This helps verify your identify, especially if you are coming out of prison or jail without any other official ID documents.
- REASON 2: Second, it will be less of a hassle for you to go in person. If you request a replacement card by mail, you must submit your original ID documents with your application. This means that while your application is being processed, you won't have these ID documents for other purposes.
- REASON 3: Lastly, the in-person process is much faster than the by-mail process. If the SSA accepts your application in person, you can leave with your new Social Security number the same day (and they will mail you the card)! In contrast, applications by mail can take days or weeks to process.

In case you still decide to make your request by mail, we explain both application processes below: application in person (PG. 40) and application by mail (PG. 41).

NEVER HAD A SSN? NEED AN ORIGINAL CARD?

You can only get an original SSN and card after you're released. Go to PG. 42 to learn how.

NOT SURE IF YOU EVER HAD A SSN?

If you're not sure if you've ever had a SSN, unfortunately there's no easy way to check. There are services that you can pay to check, but it's unclear if they are trustworthy. For this situation, we suggest trying to get a replacement card, and seeing if the SSA tells you that there was no original card to replace.

GETTING A SOCIAL SECURITY CARD IN PERSON

I WANT TO GET A REPLACEMENT SOCIAL SECURITY CARD IN PERSON (WHICH IS RECOMMENDED). HOW DO I DO THAT?

STEP 1: Gather the documents you need to prove your identity.

Proof of identity must show 3 key facts about you (which you may be able to pull off with just one document):<sup>48</sup>

- Proof of your age;
- Proof of your citizenship or legal presence in the United States;
- Proof that you are still alive.

You may need to show only one "primary" ID document,<sup>49</sup> if that one document shows all 3 key facts about you by itself. Primary ID documents that are accepted as proof of identity for a replacement Social Security card are:

- U.S. state-issued driver license;
- U.S. state-issued ID card;
- U.S. passport.<sup>50</sup>

The documents you submit must show your legal name AND provide biographical information (date of birth, age, or parents' names) as well as physical information (a photograph or physical description – height, eye and hair color, etc.). Generally, ID without an expiration date are acceptable if they were issued in the past 2 years.<sup>51</sup> If you don't have these documents, find the information you need in this chapter's Table of Contents on PG. 23.

STEP 2: Find your local Social Security Administration (SSA) Field Office or Card Center.

Search online at <http://www.socialsecurity.gov> or call the SSA at 1-800-772-1213.

STEP 3: Go to your local SSA Field Office or Card Center and fill out the application.

STEP 4: Meet with an SSA employee to verify your identity.

Remember, the SSA agent will evaluate the evidence you bring in and make a judgment call as to who you are. If you are there in person with as much identifying documentation as possible, hopefully all of your documents combined will be enough to prove your identity (even if each of your documents, considered separately, might not be enough).

IMPORTANT: HOW TO GET A SOCIAL SECURITY CARD WHEN YOU DON'T HAVE PRIMARY ID:

If you have been incarcerated since you were young and/or for a long time, you may never have had primary ID documents, or they may have been lost or destroyed. Unfortunately, the SSA's rules are not written with your situation in mind.

Fortunately, even if you do not have primary ID, you may be able to get a replacement Social Security card. Gather as much identifying information and documentation as you can, and include it with your application. Then, on a case-by-case basis, the SSA will decide whether or not you have presented enough proof of who you are.

IF YOU DO NOT HAVE PRIMARY ID, USE AS MANY OF THE FOLLOWING AS YOU CAN:

- Authorized Birth Certificate – Without a primary ID document, your birth certificate will be the most important document you submit. But the birth certificate alone is not enough to prove your identity. The SSA still needs proof that the person named on the birth certificate is alive and that you are that person!
- Other proof of identity – The more evidence of your identity you provide, the better. Any ID with your photo and name on it, even if it is not government-issued, will make it easier to prove who you are to the SSA. Other proof that can help: an employee ID; a school ID; a library card; a prison ID card, a U.S. Military ID; a health insurance or Medicaid/Medi-Cal card (not Medicare); or a certified copy of your medical record from a health clinic, doctor, or hospital that treated you.<sup>52</sup> SSA employees are required to consider each applicant's situation and evidence on a case-by-case basis.

GETTING A SOCIAL SECURITY CARD BY MAIL

HOW DO I GET A REPLACEMENT SOCIAL SECURITY CARD BY MAIL?

STEP 1: Obtain and fill out the application for a replacement card, Form SS-5.

You can get this form from your local Social Security Administration (SSA) Field Office, download it from the SSA's website at <http://www.socialsecurity.gov/forms/ss-5.pdf>, or call the SSA at 1-800-772-1213 and ask to have the form mailed to you. If you decide to call the SSA, be patient. You will likely not speak to a live person, but will have to navigate through several voice prompts before getting to the right function. (See a sample Form SS-5 in Appendix D, PG. 94).

STEP 2: Gather the documents you will need to prove your identity

See STEP 1 on PG. 40 – the same types of proof apply by mail.<sup>53</sup>

STEP 3: Mail your application and supporting documentation to any SSA Field Office.

To get the address of your local Field Office, call 1-800-772-1213, or visit the SSA's website at: <https://secure.ssa.gov/ICON/main.jsp> and enter your ZIP code.<sup>54</sup>

REMEMBER TO MAKE COPIES
BEFORE MAILING!

If you are sending your application by mail, you must send the originals of all your ID documents, so you won't have those original documents until your claim has been processed and the IDs have been mailed back to you. Make copies of every document before you send it in!

I AM FORMERLY INCARCERATED, AND I'VE NEVER HAD A SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER (SSN). HOW DO I GET AN ORIGINAL SSN AND CARD?

If you have never had a Social Security number (SSN)—meaning you were never assigned one at any point in your life—you need to apply for an original number. The process is similar to the process for getting a replacement card, but it must be done in person, and the ID requirement is stricter.

STEP 1: Gather the identifying documents you will need.

To get your SSN, you must prove your identity (a process called “enumeration”) with proof of: (1) your age; (2) your U.S. citizenship or legal presence; and (3) your identity.<sup>55</sup>

For an original SSN, you must bring more than one document to prove this information (not just one primary ID document). However, the types of ID documents you can use as proof are the same as for getting a replacement card (see PG. 40).<sup>56</sup> Some documents carry more weight than others: an authorized certified birth certificate (or proof of naturalization, hospital record, or religious record) will be the most important. Remember, the SSA Field Office reviewer has to decide that you are who you claim to be. Give him or her every reason to believe so, and bring as much proof as possible.

STEP 2: Find your local Social Security Administration Field Office or Card Center.

Go to the website <https://secure.ssa.gov/ICON/main.jsp> to locate a local SSA Field Office.

STEP 3: Go to your local SSA Field Office or Card Center and fill out the application (Form SS-5).

STEP 4: Meet with an SSA employee to verify your identity.

Bring with you everything that could help prove who you are – even family members who can vouch for you (they must bring valid ID for themselves)! An SSA Field Office reviewer will interview you and review all the documents you bring. Depending on what you provide, the reviewer may ask for additional evidence of your age, citizenship/legal presence, or identity.<sup>57</sup> The reviewer will enter all of your documentation into the SSA’s electronic application system.<sup>58</sup> Generally, if the reviewer believes your documents are authentic and that you are who you say you are, your completed electronic application will be sent to a central office, and you’ll be issued a Social Security card within about 2 weeks. If your information needs to be verified, the process can take several weeks or months.<sup>59</sup>

IV. CALIFORNIA STATE ID, DRIVER LICENSE & MUNICIPAL ID

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- The difference between a State ID and Driver License, and how to decide which will be most useful to you
- How to apply for a State ID if you: have never been issued a California ID; have an expired California ID; or are currently incarcerated
- How to apply for a duplicate card if you know you have a non-expired California ID but misplaced the original card
- How to get the DMV to reduce your application fee for a California ID, if you are eligible
- How to get a valid ID or Driver License if you are undocumented
- How to get a new California Driver License
- What to do if you have an expired California Driver License
- What to do if you have a Driver License from another state
- What you can do if your California Driver License has been suspended or revoked
- What happens when you have an outstanding traffic ticket in another state

A state ID card and a Driver License are the most commonly used forms of identification for most people in their daily lives. In California, the Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) issues both of these documents. The major difference between these two forms of ID is that a California state ID card can be used only for identification purposes, but does not permit you to drive a car. A California driver license can be used for identification AND permits you to drive a car.<sup>60</sup>

Once you have an authorized copy of your birth certificate (PG. 31) and know your Social Security number (SSN) (PG. 38), you have what you need to apply for a California state ID card or a California driver license.

WHICH ONE IS RIGHT FOR ME – A STATE ID CARD OR A DRIVER LICENSE? WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE?

Both a California state ID and a California driver license serve as an official government-issued, photo identification that can be used to prove your identity, age, and legal presence in the United States (unless you have an “undocumented person” California driver license). Either one will allow you to prove your identity, for example, when you open a bank account, register to vote, or apply for jobs, housing, or public benefits.

If you eventually want to drive, you will need to get a driver license, but because that process requires testing, we recommend that you get a California state ID first, since ID is needed right away after release. Once you get a state ID, you can go back later for a driver license.

ARE YOU UNDOCUMENTED?
See PG. 1109.

THIS CHART COMPARES TWO TYPES OF IDENTIFICATION: CALIFORNIA STATE ID VS. DRIVER LICENSE.

CALIFORNIA STATE ID vs. DRIVER LICENSE
CALIFORNIA STATE ID	CALIFORNIA DRIVER LICENSE
Government-issued ID; can be used to prove age, identity, and legal presence.	Government-issued ID; can be used to prove age, identity, and legal presence.
Some people can obtain while incarcerated through CAL-ID program.	Cannot apply while incarcerated; you must apply in person upon release.
Requires only birth certificate and SSN.	Requires birth certificate and SSN; plus, you must take and pass a written test and a road test.
Does not authorize you to drive a car.	Authorizes you to drive a car.
There are no restrictions in getting a CA state ID based on your criminal history.	There could be some restrictions in getting a CA Driver License, depending on your criminal history.

*** A NOTE IF YOU ARE UNDOCUMENTED:

As of January 1, 2015, if you cannot provide proof of legal presence in the United States, but otherwise qualify for a California driver license, you can apply for a “non-ID” driver license. If you hold this license, you can legally drive a motor vehicle in California; but it does not prove legal presence in the United States for any purpose.<sup>61</sup> Read more about other forms of ID in California for undocumented people on PG. 1109.

PRE-RELEASE PLANNING – GETTING A CALIFORNIA STATE ID OR DRIVER LICENSE WHILE INCARCERATED

I AM CURRENTLY INCARCERATED. CAN I APPLY FOR A CALIFORNIA STATE ID OR A CALIFORNIA DRIVER LICENSE?

You cannot apply for a driver license from prison or jail. This must be done in person.

But you might be able to apply for a California state ID if your prison has a California Identification Card (“CAL-ID”) program and you have a release date. Find more information on the CAL-ID program below on PG. 44.

WHAT IS THE CAL-ID PROGRAM?

The CAL-ID program provides certain state prisoners with a valid California state ID card – FOR FREE – at the time they are released.<sup>62</sup> This means all eligible prisoners in a California state prison have the right to receive a California state ID when they leave prison. In the past, the CAL-ID program was available only at prisons designated as “reentry hubs.” But starting January 1, 2015, a new state law requires that the CAL-ID program expand to ALL adult state prisons in California.<sup>63</sup>

IN WHAT FACILITIES IS THE CAL-ID PROGRAM AVAILABLE?

As of July 2015, the CAL-ID program has been expanded to all 36 state prisons in California. HOWEVER, the CAL-ID Program is NOT available at CDCR’s contracted facilities (also called “community correctional facilities”) or CDCR’s conservation camps (also called “fire camps”). This is because CDCR and the DMV do not consider contracted facilities or fire camps to be “state prisons” under the law.<sup>64</sup> This interpretation has not been challenged.

Thus, the CAL-ID program is not available at fire camps OR contracted facilities, which include:

- Golden State Modified Community Correctional Facility (GSMCCF),
- Desert View Modified Community Correctional Facility (DVMCCF),
- Central Valley Modified Community Correctional Facility (CVMCCF),
- Shafter Modified Community Correctional Facility (SMCCF),
- Taft Modified Community Correctional Facility (TMCCF),
- Delano Modified Community Correctional Facility (DMCCF),
- Female Community Reentry Facility (FCRF).

If your facility is a community correctional facility or a fire camp, then unfortunately you cannot apply for a state ID card through the CAL-ID program while you are incarcerated. You will have to wait to apply for a state ID card after release.

WHO IS ELIGIBLE FOR THE CAL-ID PROGRAM?

Under the expanded CAL-ID program, you are eligible for a California state ID if:

- You have a set release date, AND that date is 120-210 days (approximately 4-7 months) away;
- You previously had a California state ID or California driver license;
- Your previous California state ID or driver license was issued in the past 10 years;
- You don’t owe any DMV fees for your previous California state ID or driver license;
- You have a photo on file with the DMV that is no more than 10 years old;
- You don’t have any active felony holds, warrants, or detainers that could cause you to go back to prison or jail after your release;

ARE LIFERS ELIGIBLE?

No. Currently, lifers are NOT eligible to get the Cal-ID, even at facilities that sponsor them.

<sup>64</sup> See CAL. PENAL CODE § 3007.05 (“CDCR and DMV shall ensure that all eligible inmates released from state prisons have valid identification cards”).

- You don't have an active Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) hold that would cause you to be deported after your release;
- You can provide an address where you will live after your release (note: this is the address that will be printed on the California state ID card, not your prison address); AND
- You provide the following information, and the DMV can make sure it's true:
  - True full name;
  - Date of birth;
  - Valid Social Security Number (SSN);
  - Legal presence (legal immigration status) in the United States
  - Note: In case you don't know some of this information, CDCR should have it on file.<sup>65</sup>

REMEMBER: Even if you are not eligible for the CAL-ID program, you can still apply for a California state ID through the normal process after you are released. Below, learn how to apply for a California state ID once you're out.

I THINK I AM ELIGIBLE FOR THE CAL-ID PROGRAM. HOW DO I APPLY?

If you want to apply for a California state ID card through the CAL-ID program, talk to your correctional counselor (also called a "CC I") at the prison.<sup>66</sup>

CDCR has informed us that the screening process takes place during the Release Program Study (RPS), which is usually performed 120-240 days prior to the prisoner's release (read more about the RPS on PG. 148). CDCR has also informed us that a Parole Services Associate (PSA) collects the CAL-ID applications, sends them to CDCR headquarters, and monitors each prisoner's progress in the CAL-ID program using an electronic tracking log.

As your release date approaches, you should be meeting with your counselor to develop a reentry plan. If you're eligible for the CAL-ID program, your counselor should help you fill out the application for a California state ID. (If your counselor has not mentioned the program, and you think you are eligible, you should bring it to your counselor's attention.) Next, the prison staff should check that all of your information is accurate, and then send your application to the CAL-ID Coordinator's office at CDCR, which then shares it with the DMV. NOTE: If you aren't sure where you'll be living, you can fill out the CAL-ID application using the address of a parole office in your county of release. Once you get out, you are responsible for going to the DMV to update your address.

If the DMV finds you eligible, it will send your new California state ID directly to the prison. The prison will hold the ID in your file and give it to you at the time you are released. NOTE: It's possible that your California state ID card won't arrive in time for your release (for example, if your release date is recalculated so that you get out earlier than expected). If this is the case, once your California state ID card is ready, the prison should send it to your address in the community, or (if you're on parole) send it to your parole officer to give it to you.

FOR ADDITIONAL QUESTIONS ABOUT THE CAL-ID PROGRAM

If you have questions about the CAL-ID program, call Nikita Singh, CAL-ID Coordinator, In-Prison Unit, Division of Rehabilitative Programs, California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (CDCR), at the following phone number: (916) 327-3352, and/or talk to your correctional counselor.

If you have Internet access, you can also view CDCR's Fact Sheet on the CAL-ID program online: http://www.cdcr.ca.gov/Rehabilitation/docs/Factsheets/Info\_CALID\_June2016.pdf

OPTIONAL STEPS TO SAVE YOU TIME!

(1) Schedule an appointment. To avoid waiting in long DMV lines, call (1-800-777-0133) or go online (<http://www.dmv.ca.gov>) ahead of time and request an appointment time. Some offices have a back-log of appointments and you might not be able to get one for several weeks. In that case, going in person might be better!

(2) Request an application by mail and fill it out before you go. You can call the DMV at 1-800-777-0133 to request that the California Driver License or ID card application (Form DL 44) be mailed to you so you can fill it out at home. Remember, you must still go to the DMV office to submit the application in person (you can't submit it by mail).

POST-RELEASE – GETTING A CALIFORNIA STATE ID OR DRIVER LICENSE AFTER YOU'RE OUT

I AM FORMERLY INCARCERATED AND WANT TO GET A CA STATE ID. HOW DO I APPLY?

There are 2 types of California state ID cards: (1) regular state ID cards, which are good for 6 years, and (2) senior state ID cards, for people 62 years and older, which are good for 10 years.

- If you have never had a California state ID card, you will need to apply for a new card.
- If you had a California state ID card in the past, but it expired, you will need to apply for a new card.
- If you had a California state ID card in the past and it has not expired (it's still good), you will need to apply for a duplicate card.

The process and the application form are the same for all 3 situations. Follow the steps below!

STEP 1: Find a DMV office near you. You must apply for a state ID in person at the DMV.

There are 179 local DMV field offices throughout the state.<sup>67</sup> You can find the office closest to you by calling the DMV directly at: 1-800-777-0133, or by looking up field offices on the DMV's website at: <http://apps.dmv.ca.gov/fo/fotoc.htm>. The DMV website offers both a city-by-city directory<sup>68</sup> and a "regional map"<sup>69</sup> where you can search for a field office by your home address.

STEP 2: Prepare the required information and documents you need to bring to the DMV office. You will need:

- Your Social Security Number (SSN)<sup>70</sup> – You must provide a 9-digit SSN to the DMV (with one small exception explained below). You do not need to show your actual Social Security card; you just need to know your number.<sup>71</sup> (If you don't have or don't know your SSN, go to PG. 38 to learn how to get one and start that process first.)

ONE SMALL EXCEPTION: If you are a noncitizen, you don't need to bring a SSN to the DMV if you are legally present<sup>72</sup> in the United States (meaning living in the United States under lawful status), and you don't have a SSN because you aren't authorized to work.<sup>73</sup> If this is your situation, you can still apply for a California state ID as long as you prove your birth date and legal presence, as described below.<sup>74</sup>

- Proof of your birth date and legal presence<sup>75</sup>

Whether you have a SSN or not, you must prove your birth date and legal presence in the United States to get a state ID. The DMV accepts many kinds of documents for this purpose, depending on your situation. Examples include:

- If you are NOT a U.S. citizen: A valid foreign passport with valid I-94;<sup>78</sup> permanent resident alien card ("green card"); U.S. border crossing card with valid I-94;<sup>79</sup> refugee travel document; or judge's order granting you asylum.<sup>80</sup>
- Here is complete list of documents the DMV accepts to prove legal presence: U.S. birth certificate; U.S. passport; U.S. Armed Forces ID card; Certificate of Naturalization; Permanent Resident card; or foreign passport with a valid I-94 (the

HOW DO I GET CDCR CERTIFICATION?

To get certification from CDCR, send a letter requesting a Legal Status Summary from: CDCR Archives Unit 2015 Aerojet Rd., Suite D Rancho Cordova, 95742. In your letter, say you are requesting a Legal Status Summary to prove your birth date and legal presence to the DMV. You must include your name, CDCR number, phone number, signature, and a reliable address where the Archives Unit can mail you back the certification. No requests by phone or fax.

You may also ask your parole agent for a certification letter—be sure that the photo they print out is in color.

I-94 expiration date must be at least 2 months past the driver license/ID card application date). See Appendix H, PG. 103 for a full list of acceptable documents.

STEP 3: Go to your local DMV office to submit your application and pay the fee.

- Have your information and documents ready, and complete the Application Form (Form DL 44) if you have not already. Make sure you provide a reliable and accurate mailing address that will be good for at least 60 days where you can receive your California state ID.<sup>81</sup>
- At the DMV, you will be asked to give your thumbprint and have your photo taken.<sup>82</sup>

FEE PAYMENT: Unless you qualify for a fee waiver, pay $28 by cash, check, money order, or debit card (not credit card). FEE WAIVERS ARE AVAILABLE IN THE FOLLOWING SITUATIONS: (1) If you bring proof that you receive public assistance, you can get a Reduced Fee ID for $8 (see PG. 47),<sup>83</sup> (2) If you are over age 62, you can get a Senior ID for FREE; and (3) If you are homeless, you can get a few ID. Read more in the box below!

IMPORTANT INFORMATION REGARDING FEE WAIVERS:

To get a REDUCED-FEE STATE ID (which is $8), you must bring proof to the DMV that you receive public benefits. First, have someone who can verify that you receive benefits fill out DMV Form DL 937 and then bring it to the DMV.

If you receive public benefits such as CalWORKs, CalFresh, or General Assistance/General Relief (“GA/GR”), you may qualify for the reduced fee state ID.<sup>84</sup> Go to the county office that manages your public benefits, and ask for someone there to fill out and sign the DMV form called “Verification for Reduced Fee Identification Card” (DMV Form DL 937)—read more in Appendix F, PG. 99). Bring the completed and signed form with you to the DMV.<sup>85</sup> Alternatively, if you receive services from a nonprofit organization in California that helps people apply for public benefits – like a health clinic, legal services provider, etc. – you can ask if a staff person at the nonprofit is able to fill out and sign DMV Form 937. If you qualify, you will pay $8 instead of the standard $28 fee for your state ID!<sup>86</sup>

To get a FREE ID, you must have an attorney or a non-profit or government homeless services provider fill out DMV Form DL 933 showing that you are homeless, and then bring this form to the DMV.

If you are homeless you should be able to get a free California ID card.<sup>87</sup> Please note that the definition of homeless is very broad—it can include people who are about to lose their homes; don’t have a stable place to stay; or have to leave where they live do to a life-threatening situation.<sup>88</sup> You will need a “homeless services provider” (usually a non-profit or government agency) or a lawyer fill out the “No Fee Identification Card Eligibility Verification” (DMV Form DL 933), and bring that form to the DMV with you—read more in Appendix F, PG. 99).

STEP 4: Receive your temporary ID, and wait for your official state ID card to come by mail.

After you have submitted your application and paid the fee, DMV staff will print a temporary paper ID for you. You can use this temporary paper ID until your official California state ID card arrives in the mail. HOWEVER, your temporary ID will not have your photo on it, so it usually won’t be accepted as proof of your identity. Your California state ID will be valid for 6 years.<sup>89</sup>

*** A NOTE IF YOU ARE UNDOCUMENTED:

As of January 1, 2015, if you cannot provide proof of legal presence in the United States, but otherwise qualify for a California driver license, you can apply for a “non-ID” driver license. If you hold this license, you can legally drive a motor vehicle in California; but it does not prove legal presence in the United States for any purpose.<sup>90</sup> Read more about other forms of ID in California for undocumented people on PG. 1109.

DRIVER LICENSE SUSPENSIONS & REVOCATIONS

MY DRIVER LICENSE HAS BEEN SUSPENDED OR REVOKED. WHAT DOES THIS MEAN?

If your driver license was suspended or revoked, this means you lost your right to drive as a penalty for a violation, a criminal conviction, and/or an unpaid debt. Here are specific examples of issues that can cause your license to be suspended or revoked:

- Driving violations: Driving under the influence, hit-and-run, fleeing a law enforcement officer, driving without proof of car insurance, too many accidents in a short time, too many “negative points” on your driving record, or reckless driving (road rage, speeding, racing, etc.).<sup>150</sup>
- Other violations: Truancy, vandalism (including graffiti), fleeing a police officer, failing to appear in court, or failing to report an accident.
- Unpaid debts: Failing to pay child support; or failing to pay other debts (such as loans, credit card payments, medical bills, car payments, payday loans, landlord dues, or utility bills) if the person to whom you owe money gets a judgment against you in court.<sup>151</sup>

IMPORTANT: BEGINNING JUNE 27, 2017, THE DMV CAN NO LONGER SUSPEND DRIVER LICENSES DUE TO UNPAID FINES:

As of the passage of AB 103 on June 27, 2017, the DMV can no longer suspend your driver license due to unpaid fines.<sup>153</sup> This new law became effective on June 27, 2017, which means it will NOT apply to you if your license was suspended BEFORE that date. Additionally, under AB 103, a court can no longer report a failure to pay fines or failure to pay bail to the DMV, no matter the reasons!<sup>154</sup>

If your license was suspended BEFORE June 27, 2017 due to failure to pay, you may still be able to have your traffic debt forgiven and have your license reinstated if...

1) You are serving a state prison sentence or a Realignment sentence in county jail, AND your ticket was “pending” when you were incarcerated: You will have to proactively request dismissal from the DMV under Vehicle Code 41500. If you are sending it while currently incarcerated, it will need to be on CDCR letterhead and be signed by an Authorized Representative. Your request should be sent to: Department of Motor Vehicles, Division of Drivers Safety and Licensing, P.O. Box 9412890, Sacramento, CA 94290.

2) Your license was suspended for a Failure-to-Pay, Failure-to-Appear or other failure-to-comply that is more than 5 years old: You can call the DMV Mandatory Actions line at (916) 657-6525 to see if your license qualifies.

3) Your local county court has a process for waiving fees: For information on local court practices, the legal nonprofit EBCLC has created the following website where you can search for more information by county: <http://ebclc.org/reentry-legal-services/>.

WHAT HAPPENS IF MY LICENSE IS SUSPENDED?

If your Driver License is suspended, that means you temporarily lose your driving privileges, but not forever. You will not be able to drive for a period of time, anywhere from 30 days to a few years.<sup>155</sup> After your period of suspension has passed, your license should be automatically reinstated.

However, if your license is suspended because of a physical or mental condition or disorder that affects your ability to drive, the suspension will be permanent if that condition becomes permanent.<sup>156</sup>

A restricted license allows you to drive during a period of suspension, but only for specific purposes that a judge has permitted, such as to attend work, school, or a court-ordered program (for example, a DUI class).<sup>157</sup>

WHAT HAPPENS IF MY DRIVER LICENSE IS REVOKED?

If your Driver License is revoked, your driving privileges are “terminated” (ended). You may be able to get a Driver License again, but you likely will have to wait several years. In extreme cases,<sup>158</sup> you may be legally forbidden from ever driving again.<sup>159</sup> If you become eligible for a Driver License again, you will have to apply for a new license.

IF MY LICENSE WAS SUSPENDED OR REVOKED, COULD I GET MY DRIVING PRIVILEGES BACK?

Maybe. Unless your license was permanently revoked, you should be able to regain your driving privileges if (1) the required time period of your suspension or revocation has passed, AND (2) you’ve fulfilled any conditions of your suspension or revocation.<sup>160</sup> Depending on the reason why your license was suspended, the length of suspension will vary, and the steps you must take to get your license back will also vary.<sup>161</sup> If your Driver License was suspended or revoked and you want to regain your driving privileges, here are some steps you can take.<sup>162</sup>

STEP 1: Know the details of your situation.<sup>163</sup>

The requirements to reinstate your license will depend on exactly why it was suspended or revoked. Call the DMV at 1-800-777-0133, ask them to look up your case, and find out what you need to do. When you call, be prepared with your old Driver License number and any information the DMV has sent to you.<sup>164</sup>

- Unless your Driver License was permanently revoked, you’ll probably find out that you need to fulfill specific conditions (see STEP 2 below) and submit to the DMV “proof of completion” of those conditions to reinstate your license.<sup>165</sup>
- If you have a Failure to Appear (FTA), Failure to Pay (FTP), or other failure to comply on your DMV record (which may be the reason your Driver License was suspended and/or make it difficult to renew your license), and the charge is more than 5 years old, you may be able to get the charge erased from your DMV record and reinstate your license by calling the DMV Mandatory Actions Line at 916-657-6525.<sup>166</sup>

STEP 2: Make sure that you fulfill the conditions of your suspension or revocation.

- You may be required to complete traffic school, DUI treatment, or jail time, and to provide documents proving that you did so. You may also be required to pay fees and fines, including court-related fees and additional penalties imposed by the DMV. See the chart on PG. 54 for examples of requirements and steps to get your license back.
- Keep all documents proving that you’ve fulfilled these conditions, such as certificates and pay stubs, and be prepared to submit them as required.
- You will also need to submit proof of “financial responsibility.” Most of the time, this means proof of car insurance.<sup>167</sup>

STEP 3: Prepare all required documents and payments.

Make copies of all your important documents, and keep careful records of all payments.

STEP 4: Submit all required documents and payments to the DMV.

Confirm that you’re eligible to reinstate your license, and get proof from the DMV.

Once you’ve completed these 4 steps, you may be able to reinstate your driver license (if it was suspended) or apply for a renewal driver license (if it was revoked). In some cases, if you’ve completed some or most of the

What are my options if my driver license was suspended because of unpaid child support?

If your driver license was suspended due to unpaid child support and you cannot pay the amount required, you can ask a judge to reinstate your license temporarily. To do so, you can file a Notice of Motion for Judicial Review of License Denial (Form FL-670) with the court that issued your child support order.<sup>169</sup> This form asks the judge of that court to consider giving you back your driver license so that you can continue to go to work and earn money to pay the child support. The judge, not the local child support agency (LCSA), will make the final decision.<sup>170</sup> For more information about child support, see PG. 778 of the FAMILY & CHILDREN CHAPTER.

MY LICENSE WAS SUSPENDED IN ANOTHER STATE. WILL I BE ABLE TO GET A CALIFORNIA DRIVER LICENSE?

Unfortunately, if your driver license was suspended or revoked in another state, you cannot get a California driver license until:

- You fix the violation and complete all the requirements to get your license reinstated in the state where the suspension or revocation happened; and/or
- The period of suspension or revocation is over, or more than 1 year has passed since the revocation.<sup>175</sup>

To figure out your situation and what steps you need to take, it’s best to contact the DMV agency in the state where your license was suspended or revoked. If you do not know which state this happened in, call the National Driver Register to find out (see next question).

WHAT LAWS COULD NEGATIVELY AFFECT ME IF I AM TRYING TO GET (OR KEEP) A CALIFORNIA DRIVER LICENSE?

Several laws and policies, explained below, may affect your ability to get or keep a California driver license.

National Driver Register (NDR)<sup>176</sup>

When you apply for a California driver license, the DMV will check to see whether your name is listed in the NDR's Problem Driver Pointer System.<sup>177</sup> The NDR database contains information about all drivers who have had their licenses denied, revoked, or suspended, or who have been convicted of serious traffic violations such as driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs.<sup>178</sup> The NDR has information on drivers from all 50 states.

If your name appears in the NDR database, the DMV will investigate the reason and decide whether or not to issue you a California driver license. If your license was suspended or revoked in another state, the DMV will not issue you a California driver license until you fulfill the conditions of suspension or revocation in the other state (including paying all fines and reinstatement fees).<sup>179</sup>

How do I find out if my name is in the NDR database?

You can find out if your name is in the NDR database and check your driver status for free by sending a request letter to the NDR.<sup>180</sup> Although the database does not contain details about your driving record (i.e., it will not tell you why your license was suspended), it will tell you the status of your driver license and the state where any problem occurred (called the "State-of-Record").<sup>181</sup> If you already know the state in which your offense occurred, it may be faster and easier to contact that state's DMV agency directly for information.

To check your NDR status, write and send a notarized letter (also called a "privacy act request") to the NDR, stating that you would like a NDR file check. Be sure to include your full legal name, date of birth, gender, height, weight, eye color, and your previous driver license number and state (if you know them); your Social Security Number is optional.<sup>182</sup> If your name is in the NDR database, your driver license may have been suspended, cancelled, revoked, or denied because of a serious traffic violation.<sup>183</sup>

What can I do if my name is in the NDR database?

Once you know where the problem occurred in, you must contact that state's DMV agency directly to find out how to fix the issue and reinstate your license.<sup>184</sup> You may need to request a copy of your driving record from that state to learn why your license was suspended or revoked.<sup>185</sup> If you think the NDR database is incorrect, you still need to contact the state DMV agency where the problem supposedly occurred. You need to resolve the error directly with that agency before the NDR can correct or delete your record.<sup>186</sup>

Driver License Compact (DLC)

The DLC is an agreement among most states, including California, to share driver records and information about traffic violations.<sup>187</sup> When you apply for a California driver license, the DMV will check to see if you ever <sup>182</sup> Under the Privacy Act, you are entitled to request a file search to see if your name is listed (i.e., if have a record) in the NDR database. To do so, you must send a notarized letter (also called a "privacy act request") to the NDR stating that you would like an NDR file check. Mail your request to the National Driver Register, 1200 New Jersey Avenue, S.E., Washington, D.C. 20590. In your request, make sure to include your full legal name, DOB, State and Driver License Number, Sex, Height, Weight, and Eye Color (your social security number is optional). There is no charge for this service. 23 C.F.R. § 1327.7; NATIONAL DRIVER REGISTER (NDR), http://www.nhtsa.gov/Data/National+Driver+Register+\(NDR\)). You can also request your status online, by visiting the NDR website at http://www.nationaldriverregister-forms.org/national\_driver\_register\_file\_check\_forms.html (note: the link for Individual File Check Forms was broken as of Dec. 1, 2014). It may take the NDR 45 days or more to respond to your request.

No Match: The individual does not have record a on the NDR.

Licensed (LIC): Licensed means the individual holds a license in that State and the privilege to drive is valid.

Eligible (ELG): The individual privilege to drive or apply for a license in a State(s) is valid.

had a driver license in another state.<sup>188</sup> If your license from another state was suspended, the DMV will not issue a new license to you until the suspension period is over.<sup>189</sup> If your license from another state was revoked, the DMV will not issue a new license to you until the revocation period is over or one year has passed since the revocation (whichever comes first).<sup>190</sup>

In addition, the DLC requires each state to enforce any traffic convictions that happened in other states – including by suspending or revoking your license for serious violations. For example, if you have a California driver license, but you were convicted of a DUI in another state, the state where your DUI occurred will report the conviction to the California DMV. The California DMV will then penalize you for the violation – possibly by suspending or revoking your California driver license – as if the violation had occurred locally.<sup>191</sup> The conviction will also appear on your California driving record.<sup>192</sup>

If you want to appeal your license suspension for an out-of-state traffic conviction, you must follow California’s appeal procedures.<sup>193</sup> In general, you have to show that the other state’s DUI conviction is not the same as California’s DUI laws, or that the conviction was invalid for some other reason.<sup>194</sup>

The NRVC is an agreement among most U.S. states to enforce out-of-state traffic violations. If you get an out-of-state ticket and then fail to pay the fine or fail to appear in court, the state where you got the ticket will tell your home state (where your driver license is from). Your home state can then suspend your license based on your failure to comply with the out-of-state ticket.

Currently, California is not part of the NRVC, so failing to comply with an out-of-state ticket may not affect your California driver license.<sup>196</sup> (The California DMV can still penalize you for the traffic violation that caused your out-of-state ticket – just not for your failure to pay the ticket or appear in court.) On the other hand, if your driver license is from another state, but you receive a ticket in California, you may have to pay the traffic fine or post bail immediately (or risk arrest if you cannot pay right away), and/or you may lose the right to drive in California.<sup>197</sup>

If your right to drive in California has been suspended or revoked, but your driver license is from another state, you can use Form DL 300, “California Proof Requirements for Non-Residents,” to prove that you have the ability to pay and/or car insurance (called “financial responsibility”), and you can request that your California driving privileges be restored. The form is available online at <http://apps.dmv.ca.gov/forms/dl/dl300.pdf>.

The Driver License Agreement combines the DLC and NRVC into a single agreement, and increases enforcement of out-of-state traffic violations, making the rules stricter and more severe.<sup>199</sup> However, this agreement is still very new and doesn’t apply in most states (including California).<sup>200</sup>

<sup>188</sup> CAL. VEH. CODE § 15024. There are a few states that have not agreed to the Driver License Compact (e.g., Georgia, Wisconsin, Michigan). If your license was suspended or revoked in one of these states, the California DMV may issue you a license if it finds that you are a safe driver. CAL. VEH. CODE § 12805(g)-(h).

<sup>191</sup> CAL. VEH. CODE § 15023; see also CAL. VEH. CODE §§ 13353.5; 13363. Note: There must be a “substantially similar” offense in California laws in order for California to penalize you for an out-of-state violation. If California does not have an equivalent offense, then California cannot penalize you for an out-of-state violation.

DOES GETTING MY CRIMINAL CONVICTION EXPUNGED HELP ME GET MY SUSPENDED OR REVOKED DRIVER LICENSE BACK?

No. Unfortunately, an “expungement” (a dismissal) won’t get your California driver license back if the DMV suspended or revoked it.<sup>201</sup> The only way to get your license back is to satisfy the requirements of the DMV.

V. U.S. PASSPORT

WHAT WILL I LEARN ABOUT U.S. PASSPORTS?

- What a U.S. passport is and why it's useful
- Whether you are eligible to apply for a U.S. passport
- How to apply for a U.S. passport if you are on probation, parole, or other supervision
- Whether you must apply for a passport in person or can apply by mail
- How to find your local Passport Office or Acceptance Facility and apply for a U.S. passport in person
- How to apply for a U.S. passport by mail
- What documents and information you will need to apply for a U.S. passport
- How long it takes to get your passport after you have applied
- How to get your passport quickly when you have an emergency

WHY WOULD A U.S. PASSPORT BE USEFUL? WHY MIGHT I NEED ONE?

If you have a U.S. passport, you can lawfully travel outside the United States and return home by air, sea, or land. A passport can be useful if you need to visit family abroad, especially in case of an emergency like illness or death.<sup>202</sup> A passport also counts as a government-issued photo ID for all purposes. For these reasons, if you are eligible OR when you become eligible for a U.S. passport, it is a good idea to get one!

WHO IS ELIGIBLE FOR A U.S. PASSPORT?

To be eligible for a U.S. passport, you must:<sup>203</sup>

- Be a U.S. citizen or U.S. national;
- Provide a Social Security Number, proof of citizenship, and proof of identity;
- NOT be currently “under sentence” (incarcerated, on probation, or on parole) for any federal or state drug felony committed while using a passport or crossing international borders (drug trafficking);<sup>204</sup>
- NOT have a conviction for sex trafficking;<sup>205</sup>
- NOT be under a court order or sentence condition forbidding you from leaving the country – for example, if your conditions of parole, probation, or some other type of supervision forbid you from leaving the U.S.,<sup>206</sup> you need to ask your supervising officer or the court for permission to get a U.S. passport or to change the conditions;
- Get permission from your supervising officer if you are under any form of supervision but are allowed to leave the country (see the IMPORTANT NOTE below about getting permission from a supervising officer);
- NOT have any state or federal warrants out for your arrest;<sup>207</sup>
- NOT owe $2,500 or more in child support.<sup>208</sup> For more information about paying off your child support debt, go to the COURT-ORDERED DEBT CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 654.

IMPORTANT! GET PERMISSION FROM YOUR PAROLE OR PROBATION OFFICER TO APPLY FOR A PASSPORT OR TRAVEL: If you are on supervision (like parole or probation), you MUST get permission from your parole or probation officer if you want to apply for a Passport (even if you are legally allowed to leave the country).<sup>209</sup> The officer can write a letter on your behalf giving the passport agency permission to issue you a U.S. Passport. You must submit this letter with your passport application. This is required even if you only want to use the Passport as photo ID, and don't plan to travel outside of the country. If you submit an application for a U.S. Passport without first getting written approval from your supervising officer, you could face legal consequences, including your probation being revoked or a warrant being issued for your arrest.<sup>210</sup>

HOW DO I APPLY FOR A U.S. PASSPORT—IN PERSON OR BY MAIL?

It depends on your situation. Some people can apply by mail. Others must apply in person.

You can apply for a U.S. passport BY MAIL if you:

- Currently have a U.S. passport;
- Your U.S. passport is undamaged;
- Your U.S. passport can be sent in with your application;
- Your U.S. passport was issued when you were age 16 or older;
- Your U.S. passport was issued less than 15 years ago; AND
- Your U.S. passport was issued in your current name.<sup>211</sup>
- If ALL of the above requirements are true for you, then you can simply apply by mail to renew your U.S. passport. Go to PG. 63 below to learn how.

You must apply IN PERSON if:

- You have never had a passport before; OR
- Your previous U.S. passport was lost, stolen, or damaged; OR
- Your previous U.S. passport was issued when you were age 15 or younger; OR
- Your previous U.S. passport was issued more than 15 years ago; OR
- Your name has legally changed since your U.S. passport was issued, and you don't have official documents proving your legal name change (like government-issued papers showing your legal name change or an original or certified copy of your marriage certificate, if you changed it for marriage.)<sup>212</sup>
- If you are required to apply in person, you will need to find a local Passport Office. You can also apply at any Passport Acceptance Facility, which is a broad category of places that includes post offices, court clerk's offices, public libraries, and any other government office that accepts passport applications.<sup>213</sup> To find passport offices or Passport Acceptance Facilities near you, you can check your local yellow pages, call "Information" at 4-1-1, or check the Internet for these online guides:
  - For a directory of Passport Offices in California, listed by county, visit: www.uspassporthelPGuide.com/passport/california/
  - For a directory of Passport Acceptance Facilities in California, listed by city, visit: www.us-passport-service-guide.com/california-passport-office.html
  - To search for any Passport Acceptance Facility near you, based on your ZIP code and city, visit: <http://iafdb.travel.state.gov/>

HOW DO I APPLY IN PERSON FOR A NEW U.S. PASSPORT?

STEP 1: Put together the required information and documents.

To apply for a U.S. passport, you will need ALL of the following types of documents: (1) Social Security Number, (2) proof of citizenship or naturalization, (3) photo ID, and (4) proof that you are off probation or parole. Here are more details about each of these 4 documents:<sup>214</sup>

1. Social Security Number (SSN) — You must provide your 9-digit SSN, if you have one (but you don't need to show your actual Social Security card).<sup>215</sup> (See PG. 38 for information on how to request an original SSN or a replacement Social Security card).<sup>216</sup> If you don't have a SSN, you might still be able to get a U.S. passport. You have the option of entering zeros on the application instead, but this will delay the processing of your application and may be used as a reason to deny it.
2. Proof of U.S. Citizenship or Naturalization — You can use any ONE of the following documents as primary evidence of citizenship:
  - An authorized birth certificate (see PG. 31 for how to get one);
  - A previous U.S. passport (can be expired, but must be undamaged);
  - A Consular Report of Birth Abroad (see PG. 36 for how to get one); OR
  - A Certificate of Naturalization or Citizenship (see PG. 37 for how to get one).<sup>217</sup>

<sup>211</sup> Exception to this last condition: If you legally changed your name since your most recent passport, you can still apply by mail if you provide official documents proving your name change. Acceptable documents include: an original or certified copy of your marriage certificate, or government-issued papers showing your legal name change. U.S. PASSPORTS & INT'L TRAVEL, U.S. DEP'T OF STATE, <http://travel.state.gov/content/passports/english/passports/renew.html>.

If you don't have any of the above, you must provide secondary evidence of citizenship<sup>218</sup> such as:

- A delayed birth certificate (one that was filed more than 1 year after birth);
- A combination of early public records (any records showing your name, birthdate, and birthplace, preferably created in the first 5 years of your life, for example, hospital/doctor records, early school records, religious records, or census records).<sup>219</sup>

For this category (“Proof of U.S. Citizenship or Naturalization”), you will have to submit the ORIGINAL documents with your application. They will all be mailed back to you.

3. Photo ID — You can use any ONE of these documents as a primary ID:

- Valid, current driver license from the state where you now live;
- U.S. passport (must be undamaged, and must have been issued less than 15 years ago);
- Certificate of Naturalization;
- Valid city, state, or federal government ID (such as a California state ID; see PG. 43 for how to get one); OR
- Valid military ID.<sup>220</sup>

If you don't have any of the above, you must provide a COMBINATION of secondary ID documents that have your name, photo, and signature. Bring all the documents you have. Examples of secondary ID documents include:

- Expired driver license;
- Driver license from a state where you no longer live;
- Expired state ID card;
- Student ID card; and
- Employee ID card from your workplace.<sup>221</sup>

The original ID documents in this category don't need to be sent in with your application, but copies do. Bring the original ID document(s) to show in person when you apply, plus a copy of each ID document to submit with your form.

4. Proof that you're no longer on probation, parole, or any other community supervision (for people with certain drug trafficking<sup>222</sup> or sex trafficking convictions<sup>223</sup>), OR a letter from your supervising officer to the passport agency allowing you to apply for a U.S. passport.

- IF YOU'RE NO LONGER UNDER COMMUNITY SUPERVISION SUCH AS PROBATION OR PAROLE, you may apply for a U.S. passport so long as you meet all other eligibility requirements (see the full list of eligibility requirements on PG. 60 above)
- IF YOU'RE STILL UNDER COMMUNITY SUPERVISION SUCH AS PROBATION OR PAROLE — and you are allowed to leave the country — the passport agency may allow you to get a U.S. passport if you provide a letter from your supervising officer supporting your application (for more information about getting permission from your supervising officer, see the pop-out box on PG. 60 above).

STEP 2: Obtain and Complete the Application (Form DS-11).

This form is available at any Passport Office, and also may be available from some Passport Acceptance Facilities. You can go on the Internet from any computer and download the form on one of these websites: <http://www.state.gov/documents/organization/212239.pdf> or <https://pptform.state.gov>. You may also contact the Department of State and have the form mailed to you (although this takes the longest). You can call the Department of State at 1-212-647-4000, or write to:

U.S. Department of State
2201 C Street NW
Washington, DC 20520.

A NOTE ABOUT EMERGENCIES:

In certain situations, you can request to get your U.S. passport much faster — but you'll need to meet special requirements, and you'll have to pay extra. If you have an emergency that requires you to get a passport quickly, visit the website:

http://travel.state.gov/content/passports/english/passports/services/expedited.html to learn what to do.

From the U.S., you can also call 1-877-487-2778 (TDD/TTY: 1-888-874-7793), and speak with a representative during normal business hours, which are Monday-Friday, 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. (excluding federal holidays). If it's a life-or-death emergency and you need to call outside of normal business hours, please call: 1-202-647-4000.

IMPORTANT: Do not sign the form at home. You must sign it in front of a passport agent. If you fill out the form at home, wait until the agent asks you to sign it at the passport office.

You must provide 2 passport photos with your application. Passport photos must meet strict requirements, so be sure to have the photo taken by a professional who is familiar with these requirements (most pharmacies have photo centers where you can get passport photos taken). Do not attach your photos to the application form, but bring them with you.

STEP 4: Go to your local Passport Office or Passport Acceptance Facility with all your documents (see PG. 61 to learn how to find a location near you), submit your application, and pay the fees.

You must pay $110 for your new passport, and $25 for processing (“execution fee”) – that’s $135 total.<sup>225</sup> You can pay using cash, check, credit card, or money order.<sup>226</sup> If paying by check, make it payable to “U.S. Department of State,” and make sure that your full name and birthdate are typed or printed on the front (use the “Memo” or “For” line). Ask the passport agent if you have any questions!

STEP 5: Receive your passport in 4-6 weeks, and make a reminder about when it needs to be renewed.<sup>227</sup>

After you submit your passport application, it may take about 4-6 weeks to receive your U.S. passport in the mail. If you were age 16 or older when your U.S. passport was issued, it will be valid for 10 years. If you were age 15 or younger when your U.S. passport was issued, it will be valid for 5 years.<sup>228</sup> (Note: If possible, it’s best to renew your passport about 9 months before it expires. Some countries require that your passport be valid at least six months beyond the dates of your trip. Some airlines will not allow you to board if this requirement is not met.)

If you have Internet access, you can track the status of your passport application online: go to <http://travel.state.gov/content/passports/english.html>, and click “Check Your Application Status.”

HOW DO I APPLY BY MAIL FOR A RENEWAL OF MY U.S. PASSPORT?

STEP 1: Make sure you’re eligible and prepared to renew your passport. This means:

You have a previously issued U.S. passport, and ALL of the following is true about it:

- It is undamaged, and it can be sent in with your renewal application;
- It was issued when you were age 16 or older;
- It was issued less than 15 years ago;
- It was issued in your current name;<sup>229</sup> AND
- Lastly, depending on what convictions are on your record, and depending on the conditions of your supervision, you may need to be off parole, probation, and any other type of community supervision; or you may need to have permission from your supervising officer. See PG. 60 above for details.<sup>230</sup>

STEP 2: Put together the required documents.

If your legal name hasn’t changed, you just need to provide your previously issued passport – nothing more.

If your legal name has changed, you need to provide two additional items: (1) your previously issued U.S. passport, and (2) official documents showing your legal name change, such as a certified copy of your marriage certificate or a court order.

NOTE: You need to submit the original documents. They will all be mailed back to you.

This form is available at any Passport Office, and may be available from some Passport Acceptance Facilities as well (see above on PG. 61 for how to locate these offices). The form is available online at: <http://www.state.gov/documents/organization/212241.pdf>, and a copy is available in Appendix K PG. 113.

STEP 4: Get 2 passport photos taken.<sup>232</sup>

STEP 5: Pay the fee.

The fee for a renewal passport is $110. There is no additional processing fee.<sup>233</sup> You must pay using a personal check or money order – not cash. If paying by check, make it payable to “U.S. Department of State,” and make sure your full name and birthdate are typed or printed on the front (use the “Memo” or “For” line).<sup>234</sup> Ask the passport agent if you have any questions.

STEP 6: Mail your renewal application materials.

Make sure you include ALL of the following:

- Your completed DS-82 with photo attached,
- Your previous passport,
- Your fee payment of $110, AND
- Official documents showing your legal name change (if necessary).

Address the envelope to:

National Passport Processing Center
P.O. Box 90155
Philadelphia, PA 19190-0155

STEP 7: Receive your passport in 4-6 weeks, and set up a reminder to yourself about when it needs to be renewed.<sup>235</sup>

After you submit your application, it may take about 4-6 weeks to receive your U.S. passport in the mail. If you are age 16 or older when your U.S. passport is issued, it will be valid for 10 years. If you are age 15 or younger when your U.S. passport is issued, it will be valid for 5 years.<sup>236</sup> (Note: If possible, it’s best to renew your passport about 9 months before it expires. Some countries require that your passport be valid at least six months beyond the dates of your trip. Some airlines will not allow you to board if this requirement is not met.)

VI. LIBRARY CARD

WHAT WILL I LEARN ABOUT LIBRARY CARDS?

- Why a library card is useful, and how to make the most of resources at the library
- How to find your local public library
- What to bring to the library when you go to apply for a library card
- What to do if you want a library card but don't have photo ID
- How to submit your application for a library card

WHY WOULD I GET A LIBRARY CARD, AND WHAT ARE THE BENEFITS?

Although anyone can go to the public library, you need a library card to borrow books and other materials (to use them outside of the building). Also, some libraries require you to get a library card before you can use the computers or Internet there. Plus, a library card is FREE!

Benefits of a library card include:

- Free access to books and media materials. Public libraries contain all kinds of books, movies, music, newspapers, magazines, and more. Anyone can visit a public library and use these materials on-site.
- Free access to helpful librarians. Public libraries have librarians on staff who are trained to help with all kinds of research questions. Anyone can walk in and get free research help from a librarian.
- Free access to computers and the Internet. Most public libraries have computer labs where anyone can go online for FREE. You can use email, search for information, and visit websites. This can make it much easier to contact people, find jobs and services, do research for school, and look up news and information.
- Free access to classes, programs, and events. Many public libraries provide free trainings, computer services, and educational programs and events for community members of all ages.

HOW DO I GET A LIBRARY CARD?

Below are some basic steps. You might do them in a slightly different order, depending on your situation.

STEP 1: Find a public library near you.

Your local public library will be listed in the yellow pages, or you can call 411 ("Information") to get the address. You might also try asking at a local community center. A list of public libraries in California, listed by city with addresses and phone numbers, is available online at: <http://www.publiclibraries.com/california.htm>. A list of public libraries in California, listed in alphabetical order by library name, with web links, is available at: <http://www.lib-web.org/united-states/public-libraries/california/>.

STEP 2: Bring a photo ID and proof of your current address.

- If you have a California state ID or driver license, you can use it as both your photo ID and proof of address.
- If you don't have a California state ID or driver license, use any 2 of the following (1 must be a photo ID, and 1 must have your current address): U.S. passport, school ID, any government-issued ID, employee ID, a personal check, credit card statement, rental or property tax receipt, utility bill, or postmarked business mail sent to you at your home address.
- If you don't have a photo ID: California law says that everyone in the state should have access to public libraries.<sup>237</sup> For this reason, many libraries will make an exception to the photo ID rule. Depending on where you live, your local library may accept a prison ID card, or some other official document with your name and address on it.<sup>238</sup> To find out if the public library in your area accepts other types of identification, call or visit the library and explain your situation.

STEP 3: Fill out a library card application form.

Ask a librarian for the form, fill it out, and turn it in. The librarian will check your ID and proof of address, process your application, and give you your new library card. The card and processing should be FREE.

HELPFUL HINTS FOR USING YOUR LOCAL LIBRARY

- Keep an open mind and enjoy yourself!
- Don't be afraid to ask for help from librarians – they are there to help you find books and resources, and use the computers.

ROADMAP TO REENTRY

- Take care of any materials you borrow, and keep track of due dates – to be respectful, and to avoid being fined (libraries charge late fees if you return materials past their due date).
- If you're using library computers, give yourself extra time in case you have to wait for an open one.
- Many libraries offer free classes and programs like literacy programs, computer skills classes, etc. Ask a librarian for a list!

VII. VOTING RIGHTS & VOTER REGISTRATION

WHAT WILL I LEARN ABOUT VOTING RIGHTS & REGISTRATION?

- Why voting is important
- Whether your supervision or custody status affects your right to vote
- How to get your voting rights back
- How to register to vote, either online or by mail, and when to register
- How to vote if you don't have a photo ID or are homeless
- How to get time off work to vote
- How to vote by mail or in person at a polling place
- How to vote in person if you have a disability; vote in a language other than English; and/or get help reading or filling out a voting ballot
- Who to call if you have any questions about voting

WHY REGISTER TO VOTE?

Voting is a way to participate in choosing the laws and the decision-makers in your community. Voting can be a meaningful way to exercise your rights as a citizen, and an opportunity to express your political wishes for your city, county, state, and country.

Each state has the power to restrict or restore the voting rights of people with criminal records.<sup>239</sup> Because of recent advances in state law, very few people in California permanently lose their right to vote due to a criminal record. Continue reading to learn more!

WHO CAN REGISTER TO VOTE IN CALIFORNIA?

Generally, to register to vote in the next election, you must be a U.S. citizen, a California resident, and at least age 18 years old by election day. But even if you meet those requirements, you may lose your right to vote depending on your custody or supervision status. See the next question.

I HAVE A CRIMINAL RECORD. CAN I REGISTER TO VOTE IN CALIFORNIA?

Maybe. Recent changes in state law mean many people with records can vote in California!<sup>240</sup>

In California, you lose your right to vote if you are: 1) currently incarcerated in state or federal prison (or in county jail awaiting transfer to state prison), 2) actively on state parole, OR 3) currently involuntarily committed because a judge found you mentally ill.<sup>241</sup> You automatically regain your right to vote after any of those circumstances ends—after you are no longer in prison, off state parole, and/or no longer involuntarily committed.

Unless you fall into one of these three categories, you have the right to vote! That means if you are on probation, PRCS, mandatory supervision, or any form of federal supervision (supervised release, probation, or parole) in California, you can vote (so long as you meet the other voter requirements like age and citizenship). You can also see the chart on PG. 68 to understand how your criminal record and supervision status will affect your voting rights.

VOTING RIGHTS WITH A CRIMINAL RECORD IN CALIFORNIA
People with State Convictions
CUSTODY OR SUPERVISION STATUS	CAN I VOTE? (Note: You must also be age 18 or older by the next election day, a U.S. citizen, and a California resident)
Currently incarcerated in state prison	NO
On state parole	NO
On probation (informal or formal)	YES
On post-release community supervision (PRCS)	YES
On mandatory supervision	YES

I LOST MY VOTING RIGHTS WHILE IN PRISON/ON STATE PAROLE. HOW DO I REGAIN MY ABILITY TO VOTE?

You automatically regain your right to vote after you are no longer in prison and get off state parole (and for those who were involuntarily committed due to mental illness, after you are no longer involuntarily committed). All you have to do is register (or re-register) to vote before the next election (learn how on PG. 69).<sup>242</sup>

<sup>242</sup> See Voting Rights for Californians with Criminal Records or Detained in Jail or Prison, CAL. SEC’Y OF STATE, <http://www.sos.ca.gov/elections/voting-resources/voting-california/who-can-vote-california/voting-rights-californians/>. See also Let Me Vote CA, <https://www.letmevoteca.org/>.

I DON'T KNOW MY SUPERVISION STATUS. HOW DO I FIND OUT?

If you are unaware or unsure of your supervision status, talk to your supervising officer or your public defender/defense attorney and ask what type it is. Tell them you are trying to determine if you can vote. Feel free to bring this chart with you.

WHAT COULD HAPPEN IF I VOTED IN AN ELECTION THAT I WAS NOT LEGALLY ALLOWED TO VOTE IN?

It depends. If you ACCIDENTALLY voted in an election when you weren't legally allowed to, you will probably not be in trouble with the law. Voter fraud requires "specific intent."<sup>243</sup> This means that when you voted, you knew that you were illegally voting, and voted with the purpose of breaking the law. If you PURPOSEFULLY voted in an election when you had no legal right to do so, you could be found guilty of voter fraud.<sup>244</sup> The punishment can be up to five years in prison and a $10,000 fine. That said, voter fraud is usually only prosecuted when large numbers of people have committed the crime in a way that affects an election's outcome.<sup>245</sup>

REGISTERING TO VOTE IN CALIFORNIA:

I WANT TO VOTE IN THE NEXT ELECTION. WHEN IS THE LAST DAY I CAN REGISTER TO VOTE IN CALIFORNIA?

The deadline to register is 15 days before the next local, state, or federal election. You must submit the voter registration application form before midnight on the deadline.

- If you register using the online form, the timestamp must be before midnight on the deadline date (by 11:59 p.m.).
- If you register using a paper form, it must be postmarked or hand-delivered to your county elections office at least 15 days before the election. (See PG. 70 to learn how to find your county elections office).<sup>246</sup>

I DON'T HAVE OFFICIAL PHOTO ID. CAN I STILL REGISTER TO VOTE?

Yes. However, if you register to vote without a driver license number, state ID number, or Social Security Number, then when you later go to vote in person, you might have to show documents with your name and address. Examples of documents you could show at the voting poll are a: military ID, student ID, prison ID, utility bill, and/or public benefits check.<sup>247</sup>

You only have to show these documents at the voting poll if ALL of the following is true:

1. You registered online or by mail;
2. You registered without including any driver license, state ID, or SSN information on your form; AND
3. You've NEVER voted before.<sup>248</sup>

I'M HOMELESS. CAN I STILL REGISTER TO VOTE IN CALIFORNIA?

Yes. You don't need a home address to register. Using the map on the bottom of the voter registration form, you can identify two cross-streets where you usually stay. If you are registering online, you can check the box that says, "I do not have a street address" in the address section.<sup>249</sup>

SINCE THE LAST TIME I REGISTERED TO VOTE, MY ADDRESS, NAME, POLITICAL PARTY OR SUPERVISION STATUS HAS CHANGED. DO I HAVE TO RE-REGISTER?

Probably. You need to re-register if any one of the following is true:

- You've changed your permanent address, legal name, or political party;
- You've completed a felony prison sentence AND you're no longer on state parole; OR

CAN I USE MY PRISON ID TO VOTE?

Although a prison ID isn't explicitly listed as acceptable ID, the law does allow a "document issued by a government agency" to prove who you are. (CAL. CODE REGS. tit. 2, § 20107(d)(2)(E).) Your prison ID was issued by a government agency (either CDCR or the Bureau of Prisons), so it should be accepted as ID. However, since volunteers who work at polling stations on election day are not legal experts, you might have difficulties getting your prison ID accepted and may need to speak with a few different people. Remember: you won't need your prison ID card at all if you provided a SSN, driver license number, or state ID number when you registered.

I HAVE OTHER QUESTIONS ABOUT REGISTERING TO VOTE IN CALIFORNIA. WHO CAN I ASK FOR HELP?

- Call the California Secretary of State's toll-free voter hotline at 1-800-345-VOTE (English), 1-800-232-VOTA (Spanish), 1-800-339-2857 (Chinese), or 1-800-833-8683 (TTY/TDD);<sup>251</sup> OR
- Contact your county elections office. This office maintains your voter registration record (if you have one).<sup>252</sup> To locate your local county elections office, visit the California Secretary of State's website at: <http://www.sos.ca.gov/elections/voting-resources/find-your-polling-place/>. There you will see an alphabetical directory of county elections offices. If you don't know your county, you can call the voter hotline numbers above, or look it up online by typing in your ZIP code at <http://quickfacts.census.gov/cgi-bin/qfd/lookup>.

HOW DO I REGISTER TO VOTE IN CALIFORNIA? WHAT IS THE APPLICATION PROCESS?

To register to vote, you need to fill out a voter registration form and submit it to your county elections office (learn how to find your county elections office directly above). You can do this by (1) filling out an online form (if you have access to a computer that's connected to Internet and a printer) or (2) filling out a paper form.<sup>253</sup> Both methods are completely acceptable, so do what is best and easiest for you! Read on for details.

IMPORTANT: If you want to vote in the next election, you must register at least 15 days before that election. Once you're registered, you can vote in all state and local elections.<sup>254</sup>

➤ REGISTERING THROUGH THE ONLINE FORM:

Choose this option only if you have access to a computer that's connected to the Internet and a printer.

STEP 1: Go to the online form.

STEP 2: Complete the online form.

Click through the pages and enter your information in the boxes. Be sure to answer all questions that are marked by a star (*). NOTE: The form asks for your California driver license or state ID number, birthdate, and the last 4 digits of your Social Security Number (SSN). Enter this if you can, but know that you may still be able to vote even if some information is missing. Your county elections official may assign you a special number to vote.<sup>256</sup>

STEP 3: Submit the online form.

What happens next depends on whether you have a signature on file with the DMV.

- If you do have a valid California driver license or state ID: You probably have a signature on file with the DMV. Click "Submit" when you finish the form, and the website will most likely find your signature in the DMV database and send your information to your county elections office.
- If you don't have a valid California driver license or state ID: You probably don't have a signature on file with DMV. Click "Print" when you finish the form, sign the printed form, and submit the printed form to your county elections office – either by mail or in person.

STEP 4: Wait to hear from for your county elections office.

Your county elections office will contact you if it approves your voter registration, or if it needs more information to confirm that you can vote.<sup>257</sup>

➤ REGISTERING WITH THE PAPER FORM:

STEP 1: Get the paper form. There are a few different ways to get it:

- Pick up a paper form at any county elections office (see PG. 70 for how to find one),<sup>258</sup> public library (see PG. 65 for how to find one), DMV office (go to <http://apps.dmv.ca.gov/fo/offices/locator/locator.htm> to locate one), or U.S. post office;
- Call 1-800-345-VOTE (toll-free voter hotline) and ask to get a paper form mailed to you;
- Download the form at www.sos.ca.gov/nvrc/fedform/ and print it;<sup>259</sup> OR
- Contact the California Secretary of State's Office, and ask that a paper form be mailed to you. You can ask by sending a letter, calling, or emailing the office:

California Secretary of State's Office, Elections Division
1500 11th Street, 5th Floor; Sacramento, CA 95814
Phone: (916) 657-2166
Email: elections@sos.ca.gov

STEP 2: Complete the paper form.

Fill in as much information as possible. Note that the form asks for your California driver license or state ID number, birthdate, and last 4 digits of your Social Security Number. Enter everything you can. You may still be able to vote even if some information is missing. Your county elections official may assign you a special voter ID number.<sup>260</sup> When you go to vote on election day, you may have to show documents with your name and address such as a military or student ID, a utility bill, or a public benefits check.

STEP 3: Submit the paper form. Mail it to your county elections office, or drop it off in person.

STEP 4: Wait to hear from for your county elections office. It will contact you if it approves your voter registration, or if it needs more information to confirm that you can vote.<sup>261</sup>

IMPORTANT TIP

Filling out the Voter Registration Form

The voter registration form asks: “Have you ever been convicted of a felony?” By law, you must answer this question truthfully.<sup>262</sup> Even if you have fully served your sentence and your voting rights have been restored, you must check the “yes” box. If you lie, you could be found guilty of perjury.

VOTING ON ELECTION DAY

I AM REGISTERED TO VOTE. WHERE, WHEN, AND HOW DO I VOTE IN THE NEXT ELECTION?

In California, you can vote in two ways: (1) by mail ballot, or (2) in person at your polling place.

Voting by Mail – Once you are registered to vote at your current home address, contact your county elections office to request a vote-by-mail ballot application form (see PG. 70 to learn how to find the nearest county elections office).<sup>263</sup> Once you get this form in the mail, complete and return it to the county elections office at least 7 days before the election.

Voting in Person – Once you are registered, you will receive a sample ballot in the mail (you do not have to fill it out; it is intended to help you prepare for election day). Your voting location (called a “polling place”) is listed on this ballot. You can also call your county elections office to ask about your voting location.<sup>264</sup> On election day, go to this location to vote. California polls are open 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

WHEN IS ELECTION DAY?

The General Election is on the first Tuesday of November.<sup>265</sup>

CAN I GET TIME OFF FROM WORK TO VOTE IN CALIFORNIA?

Yes. If you don't have enough time outside of work to vote, you have the right to take time off from work to vote – up to 2 hours, which must be paid time off. You need to tell your employer at least 2 working days in advance, and you can only take the time off at the start or end of your workday, unless you have made a different agreement with your boss.<sup>266</sup> If you are a part-time or temporary employee, then these rules still apply to you so long as you are hired to work for more than 52 hours over the course of 90 days.<sup>267</sup> If you are an independent contractor, you are not considered an employee by law, so these rules do NOT apply to you – you do NOT have the right to paid time off to vote.<sup>268</sup> However, even if you aren't entitled to paid time off, you are still entitled to take a reasonable time off to vote, because federal law prohibits interfering with citizens' right to vote.<sup>269</sup>

I HAVE A PHYSICAL DISABILITY. CAN I GET HELP ACCESSING MY VOTING LOCATION?

Yes. Follow these two steps:

STEP 1: First, contact your county elections office to find out if your voting location (“polling place”) is accessible to you, given your disability.

STEP 2: Second, if your voting location isn't accessible to you, curbside voting should be available. With curbside voting, you will be asked to get as close to the voting area as you can, and elections officials will bring you a sign-in sheet, ballot, and any other voting materials you need.

ENGLISH ISN'T MY FIRST LANGUAGE. CAN I GET A BALLOT IN MY NATIVE LANGUAGE?

Maybe. Call your county elections office to find out in what languages your county has the ballot available.<sup>270</sup> If your county doesn't have ballots in your native language, you can bring an interpreter with you to vote (but this person can't be your employer or labor union officer).<sup>271</sup>

I CAN'T READ, AND/OR I PHYSICALLY CAN'T VOTE BY MYSELF. CAN I GET HELP IN THE VOTING BOOTH?

Yes. If you can't mark a ballot because you can't read, and/or because you have a disability, tell a poll worker when you get to your voting location (“polling place”).

- You have the right to use a voting machine that is accessible to you. Poll workers should explain how to use the voting equipment before you go into the booth, and should also provide further help if you need it after you go into the booth. They are legally required to do so.<sup>272</sup>
- You also have the right to select up to 2 people (including a poll worker) to help you in the booth, as long as these people aren't your employer, agents of your employer, or officers/agents of your labor union.<sup>273</sup>

VIII. SELECTIVE SERVICE REGISTRATION

WHAT IS THE SELECTIVE SERVICE SYSTEM, AND WHY IS IT IMPORTANT?

The Selective Service System is a federal agency that keeps a list of all adult males in the U.S. In case of a military emergency, the federal government uses the Selective Service registration list to draft men for military service<sup>274</sup> – and to provide public service work assignments for men who are morally opposed to military service.<sup>275</sup> If you're a male between ages 18 and 25 and you live in the United States, and you don't fall under one of the legal exceptions, you must register with the Selective Service before you turn 26.<sup>276</sup> To learn about the legal exceptions to registration, see the question below: "WHO IS NOT REQUIRED TO REGISTER...?".

If you do not register in time, there could be negative consequences. Failing to register is a federal felony punishable by a fine of up to $250,000 or a prison term of five years. You can also be denied certain government benefits – such as student financial aid, citizenship, federal job training, or federal jobs.<sup>277</sup> Read on for more information.

WHO IS REQUIRED TO REGISTER WITH THE SELECTIVE SERVICE?

Selective Service registration is required for nearly ALL men ages 18 to 25 (before their 26th birthday) who live in the United States. There are a few exceptions, listed in the next question.<sup>278</sup>

WHO IS NOT REQUIRED TO REGISTER WITH SELECTIVE SERVICE?

(1) Certain people who are confined:

- People who are incarcerated in jail or prison – You DO NOT have to register for the Selective Service while incarcerated, even if you are a male between ages 18 and 25. But if you are age 25 or younger at the time of your release, you must register within 30 days of getting out.
- People who are being kept in a hospital or institution for medical reasons.

(2) Certain people who have disabilities:

- People with a mental or physical disability that prevents them from functioning in public, with or without assistance.
- People who have been confined continuously to a residence, hospital, or institution from age 18 to age 25.

(3) Certain noncitizens:

- Lawful non-immigrants holding visas in the United States.
- Seasonal agricultural workers holding visas (H-2A).<sup>280</sup>

(4) Certain military members:

- Members of the U.S. Armed Forces on active duty.
- Cadets or midshipmen in a U.S. Service Academy or Coast Guard Academy.
- Students in Officer Procurement Programs at certain U.S. military colleges.

(5) Certain people who have had sex reassignment:

- People who were born female (assigned female at birth) and have had a sex reassignment are not required to register with the Selective Service. However, people who were born male (assigned male at birth) and have had a sex reassignment are required to register.

WHEN DO I REGISTER WITH THE SELECTIVE SERVICE?

You must register within 30 days of your 18th birthday. The Selective Service will accept your late registration through age 25 (up until the last day before you turn 26, but not after).<sup>281</sup>

HOW DO I REGISTER WITH THE SELECTIVE SERVICE?

You can register in 3 ways, and all are equally acceptable. You can register (1) online, (2) by filling out a paper registration form and mailing it to the Selective Service System, OR (3) by checking the “Register Me” option on the Federal Student Financial Aid Application (called the “FAFSA”).

(1) Registering online:

If you have access to a computer with Internet access, this is the fastest and easiest way to register. (Most public libraries have free computer access; see PG. 65 for more information on public library access.)

- Go to <https://www.sss.gov/RegVer/wfRegistration.aspx>.
- Fill out the online form and then click “Submit Registration.”

(2) Registering by mail:

(3) Registering through FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid):

If you are a student applying for federal student financial aid using the FAFSA, you can register simply by checking “Register Me” on Box #22 of that application form. The U.S. DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION will send your information to the Selective Service, and you are done!

DO I NEED A SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER (SSN) TO REGISTER WITH THE SELECTIVE SERVICE?

No. If you have a SSN, you must provide it when registering; but if you don’t have one, it’s not required.

ISSUES WITH SELECTIVE SERVICE REGISTRATION

I REGISTERED WITH THE SELECTIVE SERVICE, BUT I LOST MY REGISTRATION NUMBER AND MY PROOF OF REGISTRATION. HOW CAN I GET THESE?

Contact the Selective Service to request your number and get new proof of registration. Be ready to provide your name, birthdate, Social Security Number, AND current mailing address. TO CONTACT:

- By phone: Call 1-847-688-6888.
- By mail: Mail a request to Selective Service System; P.O. Box 94638; Palatine, IL 60094-4638.
- Online: Visit <http://www.sss.gov> and click “Check Registration.” You’ll need to enter your SSN.

IT’S BEEN MORE THAN 30 DAYS SINCE I TURNED 18, AND I HAVEN’T REGISTERED WITH THE SELECTIVE SERVICE. CAN I STILL REGISTER?

- IF YOU ARE AGE 25 OR YOUNGER, then YES, you can still register. You should do so immediately!<sup>283</sup> To register, follow the steps listed above on PG. 74.
- IF YOU ARE AGE 26 OR OLDER, it’s probably too late to register. HOWEVER, if you have good reasons for not registering earlier – such as being incarcerated continuously between the ages of 18 and 25 – then you might be able to get an official “Status Information Letter” from the Selective Service stating that you were not required to register.<sup>284</sup> To learn how to request a Status Information Letter, go to PG. 75.

I AM 26 OR OLDER AND NEVER REGISTERED WITH THE SELECTIVE SERVICE – AND I DON’T FALL INTO ANY OF THE LEGAL EXCEPTIONS. WHAT ARE SOME POSSIBLE CONSEQUENCES?

If you are age 26 or older, failed to register with the Selective Service, and don’t fall into any of the legal exceptions to the registration requirement – then, by law, you could face a fine of up to $250,000 and/or a prison term of up to 5 years.<sup>285</sup> Even if you don’t face charges, you may be disqualified from certain government programs and benefits – including federal student financial aid, naturalized citizenship, federal job training, and federal jobs.<sup>286</sup> In California, failure to register with the Selective Service also means you can’t get STATE-funded student financial aid.<sup>287</sup> In some cases, if you can prove that your failure to register was unintentional, you might still be eligible for certain government benefits and programs. See the next question and the chart on PG. 74 to learn more.

I AM 26 OR OLDER AND NOW I'M DISQUALIFIED FROM CERTAIN GOVERNMENT BENEFITS AND PROGRAMS BECAUSE I NEVER REGISTERED WITH THE SELECTIVE SERVICE. WHAT CAN I DO?

It depends on 2 factors – (1) whether you had good reason for not registering, and (2) what program or benefit you are applying for.

HOW FAILURE TO REGISTER WITH THE SELECTIVE SERVICE MAY IMPACT YOUR ABILITY TO RECEIVE PUBLIC BENEFITS
YOUR REASON FOR NOT REGISTERING	IMPACT ON YOUR ABILITY TO GET PUBLIC BENEFITS
. . . You were incarcerated between the ages of 18 and 26.	You may be able to prove that you should qualify for the benefits or programs you are trying to get. To do this, you must fill out a form requesting a “Status Information Letter” from the Selective Service System. (See Appendix L, PG. 120. ) You will have to list the dates during which you were incarcerated, and attach any documents that show when and where you were incarcerated. If you can prove that you were incarcerated during the relevant time, the Selective Service System will send you an official letter stating that you were not required to register . If you show this letter to the benefit-issuing agency to which you are applying, it can't legally deny you benefits because of your Selective Service status.
. . . You didn't know about the registration requirement, OR mistakenly believed it didn't apply to you OR . . . You thought you were already registered, but the Selective Service has no record of your registration	You may still be eligible for government benefits if you can prove to the benefit-issuing agency that you did not “ knowingly or willfully ” fail to register. <sup>288</sup> The agency handling your case – NOT the Selective Service System – is in charge of deciding whether you have provided enough proof. <sup>289</sup> You must send the benefit-issuing agency certain documents as proof. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• First, you must request a “Status Information Letter” (see PG. 75) from the Selective Service System, which summarizes your status with the Selective Service.<sup>290</sup></li> <li>• Second, send this letter along with a detailed “explanation letter” stating in your own words why you didn't register.<sup>291</sup> This letter should include any information that might be relevant to the agency's decision – such as where you were living between the ages of 18 and 25, if you wrongly believed you had already registered, and/or why you didn't know about the registration requirement.<sup>292</sup></li> <li>• To present the most persuasive case, you should provide any documentation you have that supports your story.</li> </ul>

HOW DO I GET A SELECTIVE SERVICE “STATUS INFORMATION LETTER”?

You can request a Status Information Letter from the Selective Service by (1) calling, OR (2) sending a written request. If you want to show that you were incarcerated, institutionalized, and/or hospitalized between the ages of 18 and 25, be prepared to describe ALL the circumstances that prevented you from registering during that time, and have copies of documents showing all the dates you were confined.<sup>293</sup>

If you are requesting a Status Information Letter because you failed to register for other reasons, you must summarize these reasons on the request form. Note: You do not have to send a separate “explanation letter” to the Selective Service System – that's only for the agency that denied you the benefits.

TO REQUEST:

- By phone: Call 1-847-688-6888 and connect to an operator. Ask for a Status Information Letter.
- By mail: Get a copy of the “Request for Status Information Letter” form. Use the form in Appendix L, PG. 120, or visit <http://www.sss.gov/PDFs/status.pdf>, and print it from a computer. Fill out the form, sign it, and attach copies of documents to prove the information you write in the form. Mail the form, along with your documents, to: Selective Service System, P.O. Box 94638, Palatine, Illinois, 60094-4638.

<sup>290</sup> The Status Information Letter will include a code that summarizes the Selective Serving's findings in your case. Different codes correspond to different categories. For example, the Selective Service might include a code indicating that you were sent a letter to inform you of the registration requirement, but that it was returned by the post office as undeliverable. See U.S. DEP'T OF EDUC. & FED. STUDENT AID, 2014-2015 FEDERAL STUDENT AID HANDBOOK.

I'VE HEARD THAT IF I DIDN'T REGISTER WITH THE SELECTIVE SERVICE WHEN I WAS YOUNGER, I MAY NOT BE ABLE TO GET FINANCIAL AID FOR SCHOOL. IS THAT TRUE? WHAT CAN I DO?

It's true. If you failed to register with the Selective Service between the ages of 18 and 25 (before your 26th birthday), you are not eligible for state or federal financial aid – unless you fall into an exception, or you had a really good reason for not registering, such as being incarcerated during the relevant time period.

However, even if you weren't incarcerated and don't have a good reason for not registering, you still may be able to get student financial aid, if you can prove that your failure to register was unintentional. In other words, you have to prove that even though you knew you were supposed to register, you weren't avoiding it on purpose.<sup>294</sup>

To prove this, you will have to request a Status Information Letter from the Selective Service System (See Appendix L, on PG. 120), then send that letter to the relevant department at your school, along with a letter explaining why you didn't register. Generally, an employee of your school will be the one who decides whether you have provided enough proof to qualify for financial aid.<sup>295</sup> Learn more about this topic in the EDUCATION CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 832.

HELPFUL HINT

Explaining a Failure to Register with the Selective Service to your School

The school employee in charge of your case is required to consider ALL information related to your situation – not just the Letter from the Selective Serve System says happened – so provide as much detail as possible to make your case stronger. This may include information about where you were living between the ages of 18 and 25, whether you thought you were already registered, and/or why you weren't aware of the registration requirement.<sup>296</sup>

IX. CONCLUSION

If you are in reentry, you have quickly realized how important these various forms of identification (“ID”), key documents, and civic building blocks are to rebuilding your life, your identity, and your sense of self. To review, the BUILDING BLOCKS OF REENTRY: ID & VOTING CHAPTER covered the following topics:

- 1) Birth certificate
- 2) Social Security Number (SSN) and card
- 3) California state ID, driver license, and municipal ID
- 4) ID options for undocumented people
- 5) U.S. passport
- 6) Tribal enrollment and Tribal ID card
- 7) Library card
- 8) Voter registration and voting rights
- 9) Selective Service registration

We hope this chapter has empowered you to gather the important documents and ID you need to start over strong – and to understand the different steps and issues that might come up, so you can plan ahead.

Another important set of documents – not covered in this chapter – are copies of your criminal record. It is important to know what could show up from your criminal record as you apply for public benefits, programs, housing, and jobs; how to spot and fix errors; and how to get help with making your record less visible and less powerful by “cleaning” it up. Criminal record issues are so important in reentry that we have dedicated an entire chapter of this guide just to these issues. Go to the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 931, to learn more.

Congratulations on all you have accomplished! If you require further assistance, feel free to call Root & Rebound's weekly Reentry Legal Hotline at 510-279-3662, any Friday from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. PST (except holiday closures), and our legal team will do its best to provide you with information about reentry and your rights with a record. You can also email questions to Root & Rebound at roadmap@rootandrebound.org, or write a confidential, legal letter to: Root & Rebound, 1730 Franklin Street, Suite 300, Oakland, CA 94612.

CDPH Application for Certified Copy of Birth Record

PLEASE READ THE INSTRUCTIONS ON PAGE 2 BEFORE COMPLETING THIS APPLICATION

As part of statewide efforts to prevent identity theft, California law (Health and Safety Code Section 103526) permits only authorized individuals as listed on the application to receive certified copies of birth records. All others will be issued Certified Informational Copies marked with the legend, “Informational, Not A Valid Document to Establish Identity.”

Please indicate the type of certified copy you are requesting:

<input type="checkbox"/> I would like a Certified Copy . This copy will establish the identity of the registrant. (To receive a Certified Copy you MUST INDICATE YOUR RELATIONSHIP TO THE REGISTRANT by selecting from the list below AND COMPLETE THE ATTACHED SWORN STATEMENT declaring that you are eligible to receive the Certified Copy. The Sworn Statement MUST BE NOTARIZED if the application is submitted by mail unless you are a law enforcement or local or state governmental agency. )	<input type="checkbox"/> I would like a Certified Informational Copy . This document will be printed with a legend on the face of the document that states, “INFORMATIONAL, NOT A VALID DOCUMENT TO ESTABLISH IDENTITY.”  (A Sworn Statement does not need to be provided.)
---	--

NOTE: Both documents are certified copies of the original document on file with our office. With the exception of the legend and redaction of signatures and Social Security Number, the documents contain the same information.

Fee: $25 per copy (payable to CDPH Vital Records). PLEASE SUBMIT CHECK OR MONEY ORDER – DO NOT SEND CASH (CDPH cannot be held responsible for fees paid in cash that are lost, misdirected, or undelivered).

To receive a Certified Copy I am:

- The registrant (person listed on the certificate) or a parent or legal guardian of the registrant. (Legal guardian must provide documentation.)
- A party entitled to receive the record as a result of a court order or an attorney or a licensed adoption agency seeking the birth record in order to comply with the requirements of Section 3140 or 7603 of the Family Code. (Please include a copy of the court order.)
- A member of a law enforcement agency or a representative of another governmental agency, as provided by law, who is conducting official business. (Companies representing a government agency must provide authorization from the government agency.)
- A child, grandparent, grandchild, brother or sister, spouse, or domestic partner of the registrant.
- An attorney representing the registrant or the registrant’s estate, or any person or agency empowered by statute or appointed by a court to act on behalf of the registrant or the registrant’s estate.
- Appointed rights in a power of attorney, or an executor of the registrant’s estate. (Please include a copy of the power of attorney, or supporting documentation identifying you as executor.)

INFORMATION:

Birth records have been maintained in the California Department of Public Health Vital Records since July 1, 1905.

The name required on Vital Records (see Items 1C, 6C, 7C, 9C, and 12C) is the name given at birth, or a name received through adoption, court-ordered name change, or naturalization. AKAs (Also Known As) and assumed names cannot be entered as the legal name on the birth record.

INSTRUCTIONS:

1. ONLY individuals who are authorized by Health and Safety Code Section 103526 can obtain a Certified Copy of a birth record to establish identity of the registrant (person listed on the certificate). (Page 1 identifies the individuals who are authorized to make the request.) All others may receive a Certified Informational Copy which will be marked, "Informational, Not a Valid Document to Establish Identity."

Confidential Information on Birth Record: some individuals have special needs for a birth certificate that contains the confidential information provided at the time the birth record was prepared. This confidential information may be used to establish ethnicity, to provide health background, or for other personal reasons. For information on how to obtain a birth certificate containing the confidential information, please refer to the Birth Record section of our website at: www.cdph.ca.gov. Only specific individuals may obtain confidential copies.

2. Complete a separate application for each birth record requested.
3. Complete the Applicant Information section on Page 1 and provide your signature where indicated. In the Birth Record Information section, provide all the information you have available to identify the birth record. If the information you furnish is incomplete or inaccurate, we may not be able to locate the record.
4. If the registrant has been adopted, make the request in the adopted name. If the registrant was born outside the United States and re-adopted in California, mark the "Yes" box and complete the application with the adopted information. (If you are requesting a copy of the original birth certificate, you must provide a court order releasing the original sealed record.)

5. SWORN STATEMENT:

- The authorized individual requesting the certified copy must sign the attached Sworn Statement, declaring under penalty of perjury that they are eligible to receive the certified copy of the birth record and identify their relationship to the registrant – the relationship must be one of those identified on Page 1.
- If the application is being submitted by mail, the Sworn Statement must be notarized by a Notary Public. (To find a Notary Public, see your local yellow pages or call your banking institution.) Law enforcement and local and state governmental agencies are exempt from the notary requirement.
- You do not have to provide a Sworn Statement if you are requesting a Certified Informational Copy of the birth record.

6. Submit $25 for each copy requested. If no birth record is found, the fee will be retained for searching for the record (as required by law) and a "Certificate of No Public Record" will be issued to the applicant. Indicate the number of copies you want and include the correct fee(s) in the form of a personal check or postal or bank money order (International Money Order for out-of-country requests) made payable to CDPH Vital Records. PLEASE SUBMIT CHECK OR MONEY ORDER – DO NOT SEND CASH (CDPH cannot be held responsible for fees paid in cash that are lost, misdirected, or undelivered).

7. Mail completed applications with the fee(s) to:

APPENDIX B

A Listing of Vital Statistics Office Phone Numbers for Each State

For people born outside of California in the U.S., this Appendix provides a chart that contact information for the Vital Statistics Office (also called Vital Records Office) in each state. However, because these addresses and phone numbers are subject to change, you should check with the CDC for the most up-to-date information. You can:

  - Call the CDC directly by phone at 1-800-CDC-INFO (1-800-232-4636)
- OR
- Write to the CDC at:

Centers for Disease Control and Prevention
1600 Clifton Road
Atlanta, GA 30329-4027

Once you locate the Vital Statistics Office in the state where you were born, let them know that you are trying to get an authorized certified copy of your birth certificate. Ask (1) what their procedures are; (2) what you need to send the Vital Statistics Office; and (3) the cost.

IMPORTANT NOTE IF YOU ONLY HAVE A PRISON/JAIL ID CARD:

If the only identification (ID) that you currently have is a valid prison ID card, it may be enough in some states to request your birth certificate. First, call the state where you were born, follow the instructions to be connected to an operator, and confirm what document you need to provide to get your certified birth certificate.

If you only have a prison ID card, here are a few examples of what states will ask you to provide in addition to that card:

- Idaho and Delaware accept a current prison ID card (no older than the current year), with a photo on it, to be copied and sent with your application and payment for a birth certificate.
- Arizona, on the other hand, needs only a notarized signature along with full payment, and does not require a copy of your prison/jail ID card.<sup>297</sup>
- Oregon has a long list of acceptable forms of ID. If you do not have one of the primary forms of ID (such as a driver's license or passport) you may need to include as many as three documents to prove your identity. These can include parole papers showing date of birth and identity, your prison/jail ID card, vehicle registration or title, hospital card, and utility bills, among other possibilities.<sup>298</sup>

The point is, it's best to call ahead and ask!

Reduced Fee Identification Card Eligibility Verification Form Issuance Requirements

A Reduced Fee Identification Card Eligibility Verification (DL 937) can only be issued to an applicant for an identification card (ID) by a qualified verifier of income. A qualified verifier of income is an employee or volunteer of a governmental entity or an organization registered with the Internal Revenue Service as a non-profit organization that has a physical location within California who regularly assists members of the public with applications for benefits under the programs listed below as defined in California Vehicle Code (CVC) §14902(c):

- California Work Opportunity and Responsibility to Kids Act (CalWORKs) (Welfare and Institutions Code (WIC) §11200);
- Burton-Moscone-Bagley Citizens' Income Security Act for Aged, Blind, and Disabled Californians (WIC §12000);
- County or city general assistance programs (WIC §17000);
- Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (Cal Fresh) (WIC §18900);
- Food Assistance Program for Legal Immigrants and/or California Food Assistance Program (CFAP) (WIC §18930);
- Cash Assistance Program for Aged, Blind and Disabled Legal Immigrants and/or Cash Assistance Program for Immigrants (CAPI) (WIC §18937)

A person whose income meets the eligibility requirements of, or is receiving public benefits under, any of the above mentioned programs is eligible to receive a DL 937.

No Fee Identification Card Program Participation Requirements

A No Fee Identification Card Eligibility Verification (DL 933) can only be authorized for issuance to an applicant for an ID card by a qualified verifier of homelessness status which is a person who regularly verifies housing status for eligibility for homeless services in California and either works for, is one of, or volunteers for one of the entities listed below as set forth in CVC §14902 (f):

- Non-profit entity or organization that meets all of the following:
  - physically located in California;
  - registered with the Internal Revenue Service as a non-profit entity; and
  - either receives federal, state, county or municipal funding to provide services to the homeless or is otherwise sanctioned to provide those services by a local continuum of care organization.
- Government agency;
- One of the following:
  - Educational liaison;
  - Public social services provider funded by the State of California;
  - Human services provider funded by the State of California;
  - An attorney licensed to practice in California;
  - A law enforcement officer.

Eligibility for a no fee ID, as defined in CVC §14902(f), is a homeless person or homeless child or youth as defined by the federal McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act (42 U.S.C. §11301 et seq.).

U.S. PASSPORT RENEWAL APPLICATION FOR ELIGIBLE INDIVIDUALS

PLEASE DETACH AND RETAIN THIS INSTRUCTION SHEET FOR YOUR RECORDS

Date of Application: _____

CAN I USE THIS FORM?

Complete the checklist to determine your eligibility to use this form

- I can submit my most recent U.S. passport book and/or U.S. passport card with this application.  Yes  No
  - I was at least 16 years old when my most recent U.S. passport book and/or passport card was issued.  Yes  No
  - I was issued my most recent U.S. passport book and/or passport card less than 15 years ago.  Yes  No
  - My most recent U.S. passport book and/or U.S. passport card that I am renewing has not been lost, stolen, mutilated, or damaged.  Yes  No
  - My U.S. passport has not been limited from the normal ten year validity period due to passport damage/mutilation, multiple passport thefts/losses, or non-compliance with 22 C.F.R. 51.41. (Please refer to the back pages of your U.S. passport book for endorsement information.)  Yes  No
  - I use the same name as on my recent U.S. passport book and/or U.S. passport card.  Yes  No
- OR--
- I have had my name changed by marriage or court order and can submit proper documentation to reflect my name change.  Yes  No

STOP - You cannot use this form!

You must apply on application form DS-11 by making a personal appearance before an acceptance agent authorized to accept passport applications. Visit travel.state.gov to find your nearest acceptance facility.

U.S. PASSPORTS, EITHER IN BOOK OR CARD FORMAT, ARE ISSUED ONLY TO U.S. CITIZENS OR NON-CITIZEN NATIONALS. EACH PERSON MUST OBTAIN HIS OR HER OWN U.S. PASSPORT BOOK OR PASSPORT CARD. THE PASSPORT CARD IS A U.S. PASSPORT ISSUED IN CARD FORMAT. LIKE THE TRADITIONAL PASSPORT BOOK, IT REFLECTS THE BEARER'S ORIGIN, IDENTITY, AND NATIONALITY AND IS SUBJECT TO EXISTING PASSPORT LAWS AND REGULATIONS. UNLIKE THE PASSPORT BOOK, THE PASSPORT CARD IS VALID ONLY FOR ENTRY TO THE UNITED STATES AT LAND BORDER CROSSINGS AND SEA PORTS OF ENTRY WHEN TRAVELING FROM CANADA, MEXICO, THE CARIBBEAN, AND BERMUDA. THE U.S. PASSPORT CARD IS NOT VALID FOR INTERNATIONAL AIR TRAVEL.

PLEASE NOTE: YOUR NEW PASSPORT WILL HAVE A DIFFERENT PASSPORT NUMBER THAN YOUR PREVIOUS PASSPORT.

INFORMATION, QUESTIONS, AND INQUIRIES

Please visit our website at travel.state.gov. In addition, you may contact the National Passport Information Center (NPIC) toll-free at 1-877-487-2778 (TDD: 1-888-874-7793) or by email at NPIC@state.gov. Customer Service Representatives are available Monday-Friday 8:00a.m.-10:00p.m. Eastern Time (excluding federal holidays.) Automated information is available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

FAILURE TO PROVIDE INFORMATION REQUESTED ON THIS FORM, INCLUDING YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER, MAY RESULT IN SIGNIFICANT PROCESSING DELAYS AND/OR THE DENIAL OF YOUR APPLICATION.

NOTICE TO APPLICANTS RESIDING ABROAD

United States citizens residing abroad CANNOT submit this form to the domestic address listed on the Instruction Page 2. Such applicants should contact the nearest U.S. Embassy or Consulate for procedures to be followed when applying overseas.

WARNING: False statements made knowingly and willfully in passport applications, including affidavits or other documents submitted to support this application, are punishable by fine and/or imprisonment under U.S. law, including the provisions of 18 U.S.C. 1001, 18 U.S.C. 1542, and/or 18 U.S.C. 1621. Alteration or mutilation of a passport issued pursuant to this application is punishable by fine and/or imprisonment under the provisions of 18 U.S.C. 1543. The use of a passport in violation of the restrictions contained therein or of the passport regulations is punishable by fine and/or imprisonment under 18 U.S.C. 1544. All statements and documents are subject to verification.

WHAT DO I SEND WITH THIS APPLICATION FORM?

- Your most recent U.S. passport book and/or card;
- A certified copy of your marriage certificate or court order if your name has changed;
- Fees; and
- A recent color photograph.

See below for more detailed information.

1. YOUR MOST RECENTLY ISSUED U.S. PASSPORT (BOOK AND/OR CARD FORMAT).

● Submit your most recently issued U.S. passport book and/or card. When submitting a U.S. passport book and/or card with this form, please verify that the document was issued at age 16 or older in your current name (or see item #2 below) and issued within the past 15 years. You are also eligible to use this form if you currently have a U.S. passport book and/or card that complies with the previously listed criteria, and would like to obtain an alternative product (U.S. passport book and/or card) for the first time. However, you must submit the product you currently have (U.S. passport book and/or card) with this application. If your U.S. passport book and/or card has been lost, stolen, damaged, or mutilated, you must apply on the DS-11 application form as specified below.

2. A CERTIFIED MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE OR COURT ORDER. (PHOTOCOPIES ARE NOT ACCEPTED)

● If the name you are currently using differs from the name on your most recent U.S. passport, you must submit a certified copy of your marriage certificate or court order showing the change of name. All documents will be returned to you by mail. If you are unable to document your name change in this manner, you must apply on the DS-11 application form by making a personal appearance at (1) a passport agency; (2) U.S. Embassy or Consulate, if abroad; (3) any federal or state court of record or any probate court accepting passport applications; (4) a designated municipal or county official; or (5) a post office, which has been selected to accept passport applications.

3. THE CURRENT PASSPORT FEE.

● Enclose the fee in the form of a personal check or money order. MAKE CHECKS PAYABLE TO "U.S. DEPARTMENT OF STATE." THE FULL NAME AND DATE OF BIRTH OF THE APPLICANT MUST BE TYPED OR PRINTED ON THE FRONT OF THE CHECK. DO NOT SEND CASH. Passport Services cannot be responsible for cash sent through the mail. By law, the fees are non-refundable. Please visit our website at travel.state.gov for detailed information regarding current fees.

OVERNIGHT DELIVERY SERVICE: If you desire overnight delivery service for the return of your U.S. passport, please include the appropriate fee with your payment.

FASTER PROCESSING: For an additional fee, you may request expedited service. Please include this fee in your payment and submit the application to the appropriate address. Please write "Expedite" on the outer envelope when mailing. Also, TO ENSURE MINIMAL PROCESSING TIME for expedited passport book applications, Passport Services recommends using overnight delivery when submitting the application AND including the appropriate postage fee for return overnight delivery for the newly issued passport book. Expedited service is available only in the United States. Overnight return delivery is only available for passport books. Please visit travel.state.gov for updated information regarding fees, processing times, or to check the status of your passport application online.

4. A RECENT COLOR PHOTOGRAPH.

● Submit a color photograph of you alone, sufficiently recent to be a good likeness of you (taken within the last six months), and 2x2 inches in size. The image size measured from the bottom of your chin to the top of your head (including hair) should not be less than 1 inch, and not more than 1 3/8 inches. The photograph must be color, clear, with a full front view of your face, and printed on thin paper with plain light (white or off-white) background. The photograph must be taken in normal street attire, without a hat, head covering, or dark glasses unless a signed statement is submitted by the applicant verifying the item is worn daily for religious purposes or a signed doctor's statement is submitted verifying the item is used daily for medical purposes. Headphones, "bluetooth", or similar devices must not be worn in the passport photograph. Any photograph retouched so that your appearance is changed is unacceptable. A snapshot, most vending machine prints, and magazine or full-length photographs are unacceptable. A digital photo must meet the previously stated qualifications, and will be accepted for use at the discretion of Passport Services. Please visit our website at travel.state.gov for details and information.

WHERE DO I MAIL THIS APPLICATION?

FOR ROUTINE SERVICE:

National Passport Processing Center
Post Office Box 90155
Philadelphia, PA 19190-0155

FOR EXPEDITED SERVICE (Additional Fee):

National Passport Processing Center
Philadelphia, PA 19190-0955

Due to the sensitivity of the enclosed documents, Passport Services recommends using trackable mailing service when submitting your application.

NOTE REGARDING MAILING ADDRESSES: Passport Services will not mail a passport to a private address outside the United States. If you do not live at the address listed in the "mailing address", then you must put the name of the person and mark it as "In Care Of." If your mailing address changes prior to receipt of your new passport, please contact the National Passport Information Center (NPIC) at 1-877-487-2778 or visit travel.state.gov.

NOTE: You may receive your newly issued document and your returned citizenship evidence in separate mailings. If you are applying for both a passport book and/or card, you may receive three separate mailings; one with your returned citizenship evidence; one with your newly issued passport book, and one with your newly printed passport card.

If you choose to provide your email address in Item #6 on this application, Passport Services may use that address to contact you in the event there is a problem with your application or if additional information is required.

FEDERAL TAX LAW

Section 6039E of the Internal Revenue Code (26 USC 6039E) requires you to provide your Social Security number (SSN), if you have one, when you apply for a U.S. passport or renewal of a U.S. passport. If you have not been issued a SSN, enter zeros in box #5 of this form. If you are residing abroad, you must also provide the name of the foreign country in which you are residing. The U.S. Department of State must provide your SSN and foreign residence information to the U.S. Department of Treasury. If you fail to provide the information, you are subject to a $500 penalty enforced by the IRS. All questions on this matter should be directed to the nearest IRS office.

NOTICE TO CUSTOMERS APPLYING OUTSIDE A STATE DEPARTMENT FACILITY

If you send us a check, it will be converted into an electronic funds transfer (EFT). This means we will copy your check and use the account information on it to electronically debit your account for the amount of the check. The debit from your account will usually occur within 24 hours and will be shown on your regular account statement.

You will not receive your original check back. We will destroy your original check, but we will keep the copy of it. If the EFT cannot be processed for technical reasons, you authorize us to process the copy in place of your original check. If the EFT cannot be completed because of insufficient funds, we may try to make the transfer up to two times, and we will charge you a one-time fee of $25, which we will also collect by EFT.

REMITTANCE OF FEES

Passport service fees are established by law and regulation (see 22 U.S.C. 214, 22 C.F.R. 22.1, and 22 C.F.R. 51.50-56), and are collected at the time you apply for the passport service. If the Department fails to receive full payment of the applicable fees because, for example, your check is returned for any reason or you dispute a passport fee charge to your credit card, the U.S. Department of State will take action to collect the delinquent fees from you under 22 C.F.R. Part 34, and the Federal Claims Collection Standards (see 31 C.F.R. Parts 900-904). In accordance with the Debt Collection Improvement Act (Pub.L. 104-134), if the fees remain unpaid after 180 days and no repayment arrangements have been made, the Department will refer the debt to the U.S. Department of Treasury for collection. Debt collection procedures used by the U.S. Department of Treasury may include referral of the debt to private collection agencies, reporting of the debt to credit bureaus, garnishment of private wages and administrative offset of the debt by reducing, or withholding eligible federal payments (e.g., tax refunds, social security payments, federal retirement, etc.) by the amount of your debt, including any interest penalties or other costs incurred. In addition, non-payment of passport fees may result in the invalidation of your U.S. passport book and/or card. An invalidated passport card cannot be used for travel.

OTHER USES OF SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER

Your Social Security number will be provided to the U.S. Department of Treasury, used in connection with debt collection and checked against lists of persons ineligible or potentially ineligible to receive a U.S. passport book and/or card, among other authorized uses.

NOTICE TO APPLICANTS FOR OFFICIAL, DIPLOMATIC, OR NO-FEE PASSPORTS

You may use this application if you meet all of the provisions listed on Instruction Page 2, however, you must CONSULT YOUR SPONSORING AGENCY FOR INSTRUCTIONS ON PROPER ROUTING PROCEDURES BEFORE FORWARDING THIS APPLICATION. Your completed passport will be released to your sponsoring agency for forwarding to you.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO APPLICANTS WHO HAVE LOST OR HAD A PREVIOUS U.S. PASSPORT BOOK AND/OR PASSPORT CARD STOLEN

A United States citizen may not normally bear more than one valid or potentially valid U.S. passport book or more than one valid or potentially valid U.S. passport card at a time. Therefore, when a valid or potentially valid U.S. passport book or U.S. passport card cannot be presented with a new application, it is necessary to submit a Form DS-64, Statement Regarding a Lost or Stolen U.S. Passport. Your statement must detail why the previous U.S. passport book or U.S. passport card cannot be presented.

The information you provide regarding your lost or stolen U.S. passport book or passport card will be placed into our Consular Lost or Stolen Passport System. This system is designed to prevent the misuse of your lost or stolen U.S. passport book or passport card. Anyone using the passport book or passport card reported as lost or stolen may be detained upon entry into the United States. Should you locate the U.S. passport book or passport card reported lost or stolen at a later time, report it as found, and submit it for cancellation. It has been invalidated. You may not use that passport book or passport card for travel.

PROTECT YOURSELF AGAINST IDENTITY THEFT! REPORT YOUR LOST OR STOLEN U.S. PASSPORT BOOK OR PASSPORT CARD!

For more information or to report your lost or stolen U.S. passport book or passport card by phone, call NPIC at: 1-877-487-2778 or visit our website at travel.state.gov.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO U.S. PASSPORT CARD APPLICANTS ONLY

The maximum number of letters provided for your given name (first and middle) on the U.S. passport card is 24 characters. The 24 characters may be shortened due to printing restrictions. If both your given names are more than 24 characters, you must shorten one of your given names you list on item 1 of this form.

ACTS OR CONDITIONS

If any of the below-mentioned acts or conditions have been performed by or apply to the applicant, the portion which applies should be lined out, and a supplementary explanatory statement under oath (or affirmation) by the applicant should be attached and made a part of this application.

I have not, since acquiring United States citizenship/nationality, been naturalized as a citizen of a foreign state; taken an oath or made an affirmation or other formal declaration of allegiance to a foreign state; entered or served in the armed forces of a foreign state; accepted or performed the duties of any office, post, or employment under the government of a foreign state or political subdivision thereof; made a formal renunciation of nationality either in the United States, or before a diplomatic or consular officer of the United States in a foreign state; or been convicted by a court or court martial of competent jurisdiction of committing any act of treason against, or attempting by force to overthrow, or bearing arms against the United States, or conspiring to overthrow, put down, or to destroy by force, the government of the United States.

Furthermore, I have not been convicted of a federal or state drug offense or convicted for "sex tourism" crimes statute, and I am not the subject of an outstanding federal, state, or local warrant of arrest for a felony; a criminal court order forbidding my departure from the United States; a subpoena received from the United States in a matter involving federal prosecution for, or grand jury investigation of, a felony.

PRIVACY ACT STATEMENT

AUTHORITIES: Collection of this information is authorized by 22 U.S.C. 211a et seq.; 8 U.S.C. 1104; 26 U.S.C. 6039E; Executive Order 11295 (August 5, 1966); and 22 C.F.R. parts 50 and 51.

PURPOSE: We are requesting this information in order to determine your eligibility to be issued a U.S. passport.

Your Social Security number is requested in order to verify your identity. Failure to provide your Social Security number on this form may delay processing of your application.

ROUTINE USES: This information may be disclosed to another domestic government agency, a private contractor, a foreign government agency, or to a private person or private employer in accordance with certain approved routine uses. These routine uses include, but are not limited to, law enforcement activities, employment verification, fraud prevention, border security, counterterrorism, litigation activities, and activities that meet the Secretary of State's responsibility to protect U.S. citizens and non-citizen nationals abroad.

More information on the Routine Uses for the system can be found in System of Records Notices State-05, Overseas Citizen Services Records and State-26, Passport Records.

DISCLOSURE: Providing your Social Security number and the other information on this form is voluntary, but failure to provide the information on this form may, given the form's purpose of verification of identity and entitlement to a U.S. passport, result in processing delays or denial of the passport application.

Failure to provide your Social Security number may also subject you to a penalty enforced by the Internal Revenue Service, as described in the Federal Tax Law section of the instructions to this form. Your Social Security number will be provided to the Department of the Treasury and may be used in connection with debt collection, among other purposes as authorized and generally described in this section. Providing your Social Security number and other information requested on this form is otherwise voluntary.

ELECTRONIC PASSPORT STATEMENT

The U.S. Department of State now issues an "Electronic Passport" book, which contains an embedded electronic chip. The electronic passport book continues to be proof of the bearer's United States citizenship/nationality and identity, and looks and functions in the same way as a passport without a chip. The addition of an electronic chip in the back cover enables the passport book to carry a duplicate electronic copy of all information from the data page. The electronic passport book is usable at all ports-of-entry, including those that do not yet have electronic chip readers.

Use of the electronic format provides the traveler the additional security protections inherent in chip technology. Moreover, when used at ports-of-entry equipped with electronic chip readers, the electronic passport book provides for faster clearance through some of the port-of-entry processes.

The electronic passport book does not require special handling or treatment, but like previous versions should be protected from extreme heat, bending, and from immersion in water. The electronic chip must be read using specially formatted readers, which protects the data on the chip from unauthorized reading.

The cover of the electronic passport book is printed with a special symbol representing the embedded chip. The symbol  will appear in port-of-entry areas where the electronic passport book can be read.

PAPERWORK REDUCTION ACT STATEMENT

Public reporting burden for this collection of information is estimated to average 40 minutes per response, including the time required for searching existing data sources, gathering the necessary data, providing the information and/or documentation required, and reviewing the final collection. You do not have to supply this information unless this collection displays a currently valid OMB control number. If you have comments on the accuracy of this burden estimate and/or recommendations for reducing it, please send them to: U.S. Department of State, Bureau of Consular Affairs, Passport Services, Office of Program Management and Operational Support, 2201 C Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20520.

For filling out the “Request for Status Information Letter”

SECTION 1:

- Name: you must provide your complete name, and any other names you have ever used. If you have more than one last name, you must provide both names.
- Address: you must include your complete mailing address. Forms received without a mailing address will not be processed.
- Social Security Number: If you have a Social Security Number, you must provide it. Also, if you have ever used a different Social Security Account Number, provide that as well.
- Date of Birth: This form is only for men born after December 31, 1959, who are 26 years old or older. You must provide your complete date of birth.
- Daytime Telephone Number: If possible, provide a telephone number where you can be reached during the day, in case we need to contact you.
- E-mail Address: If possible, provide your e-mail address in case we need to contact you.

SECTION 2:

This section is for explaining and documenting why you did not register with Selective Service. This section consists of five different parts. You must complete and submit documentation for any and all parts that apply to you.

Military:

To obtain proof of military service (DD-214, Official Military Personnel File) write to: National Personnel Records Center, GSA, Military Personnel Records Center, 9700 Page Blvd., St. Louis, MO, 63132. Or visit <http://www.archives.gov/veterans/military-service-records>

Incarcerated, institutionalized, hospitalized, or confined to home:

For each instance, provide type of confinement, dates of confinement, and supporting documentation.

Non Citizen / Undocumented Immigrants:

If you entered the United States for the first time after your 26th birthday, you must provide documentation to support your claim. Valid documentation includes: entry stamp in your passport, I-94 with entry stamp on it. If you entered the United States illegally after your 26th birthday, you must provide proof that you were not living in the United States from age 18 to age 26. Please note: your Resident Alien Card (Green Card) is not valid as proof of entry to the United States.

If you entered the United States as a valid non-immigrant alien, and remained in that status to your 26th birthday, you must provide documentation to support your claim. For example, if you entered the United States as an F-1 Student, and remained in that status until your 26th birthday, you would need to provide documentation indicating that you were admitted on an F-1 visa and attended school full-time as required. (Acceptable documents for this situation include copies of your I-20s or a letter from the school you attended indicating your full time attendance as a non-immigrant alien). The same thing applies for all non-immigrant statuses. You must explain, if at any point, you violated the terms of your visa, or overstayed your visa and became an undocumented alien.

You should provide as much information as possible. We will use the information you provide to determine your registration status.

Transsexual:

For individuals who have had a sex change. You must indicate what gender you were born as, and attach documentation which indicates this as well.

Reason why you failed to register with Selective Service upon reaching age 18 and before reaching age 26:

Provide a written explanation for not registering with Selective Service.

SECTION 3:

Sign and date the letter. Return this letter to the address listed with copies of supporting documents, showing proof and anything else you may wish to include. Do not send original documents, as they will not be returned. You should retain a copy of all documents and correspondence submitted.

HELPFUL INFORMATION

- This form is designed to be printed for use, and cannot be completed online. After printing, complete the form, attach ALL supporting documentation, and mail to: Selective Service System, ATTN: SIL, PO Box 94638, Palatine, IL 60094-4638.
- This form is for use only by men born after December 31, 1959, who are not registered and are now 26 years old or older.
- This form is not a registration form, and by submitting it, you will not be registered.
- If you feel that you have already registered, verify your registration on our website (www.sss.gov), or call our Registration Information Office at (847) 688-6888 to obtain your Selective Service number.
- We will issue a Status Information Letter based on the information you provide. This letter will clarify your status with Selective Service.
- If you are being denied a right, benefit, or privilege because you are not registered, submit a copy of your status information letter and an explanation letter for your failure to register, to the Agency administering the right, benefit, or privilege. That Agency will make the final determination regarding your eligibility. The Selective Service System does not determine your eligibility for any right, benefit, or privilege.

Community Supervision:

PAROLE & PROBATION

Being under some type of correctional community supervision is usually required to be released from prison or jail, and can sometimes be offered by a criminal court judge in place of incarceration. In the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER, you will learn that there are many types of supervision in California – state parole, county probation, mandatory supervision, PRCS, federal probation, federal supervised release, and federal parole. This chapter will help you understand what it means to be on community supervision, what rules you have to follow, and all the rights you have as a person in reentry.

DISCLAIMER - YOUR RESPONSIBILITY WHEN USING THIS GUIDE: When putting together the Roadmap to Reentry: A California Legal Guide, we did our best to give you useful and accurate information. However, the laws change frequently and are subject to differing interpretations. We do not always have the resources to make changes to this informational material every time the law changes. If you use information from the Roadmap to Reentry legal guide, it is your responsibility to make sure that the law has not changed and applies to your particular situation. If you are incarcerated, most of the materials you need should be available in your institution's law library. The Roadmap to Reentry guide is not intending to give legal advice, but rather legal information. No attorney-client relationship is created by using any information in this guide. You should always consult your own attorney if you need legal advice specific to your situation.

PAROLE & PROBATION APPENDIX ..... 255

WHAT WILL I LEARN IN THE PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER?

- The different types of supervision in California, and the basics about each type.
For each type of supervision, you will learn:
- What to do when you first get out – a step-by-step guide
- General and special rules: What general rules (conditions) you have to follow, what special rules (extra conditions) might be added on, and how to appeal (challenge) the special conditions
- Length of supervision: How the length of supervision is calculated, and how to get off early, if possible
- Transferring supervision to a different location: What the procedures are for transferring your supervision to a different county or state
- Disability rights: How to navigate parole and probation if you have a disability and need help or accommodations
- Violations and revocations: What your rights are if you're accused of violating the conditions of your supervision, and how the revocation process works

I. INTRODUCTION

WHAT IS COMMUNITY SUPERVISION?

Community supervision is a requirement that may apply to you – either as part of a sentence that you serve after release from incarceration, OR as a sentence that you serve instead of incarceration. If you are under community supervision, this means you are monitored by a correctional officer while living in the community, and you are subject to certain rules – like where you can live and work, who you can contact, and people or places where you must regularly report.

WHY IS IT IMPORTANT TO KNOW WHAT TYPE OF SUPERVISION I AM ON, AND THE RULES I MUST FOLLOW?

It is important to know what kind of supervision you are on, and what rules of supervision apply to you, because these rules impact every part of your life: where you can travel, where and how often you have to report to a supervising officer, the steps you should take if you are having a problem with the rules (“conditions”) of your supervision, the amount of time you’ll be under supervision in the community, the types of record-cleaning and record-improving remedies available to you, the type of contact you may have with certain people or family members, your ability to vote and serve on a jury, and MORE. This chapter will help to explain the rights and responsibilities you may have under each specific type of supervision – state parole; county probation, mandatory supervision, or PRCS; federal probation, supervised release, or federal parole.

WHAT ARE THE MAIN TYPES OF SUPERVISION IN CALIFORNIA?

There are 4 main categories of supervision in California. They are:

- 1) STATE PAROLE: In California, parole is a condition of release for many people coming out of prison.<sup>299</sup> It only applies in felony cases when a person is sentenced to state prison. It also only takes effect after release from prison.
  - People sentenced to serve *determinate sentences – such as an exact term of “seven years” – serve the specified amount of time in prison ordered by the judge. Once their sentence is over, they are released.
  - People sentenced to serve *indeterminate terms, such as “25 to life with the possibility of parole,” are released only after a Board of Parole Hearings (BPH) determines that they are ready to re-enter society.<sup>300</sup>
  - Most people released from California state prison are required to serve a period of parole after they are released. People on parole – called “parolees” – remain under the control of the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation’s (CDCR) Division of Adult Parole Operations (DAPO). People on parole are supervised by parole agents, and must follow certain requirements or “conditions” of parole.<sup>301</sup>
- 2) COUNTY PROBATION & NEW FORMS OF COUNTY-LEVEL SUPERVISION: Probation is a type of supervision that a judge orders at trial as part of the original sentence, either as an alternative to incarceration OR in addition to incarceration.<sup>302</sup> California probation reduces or eliminates the time that a person must spend in custody in jail or prison.<sup>303</sup> People on probation must report to their county probation office (for more about formal probation, go to PG. 200) or to local superior court (for more about informal probation, go to PG. 196), and must meet certain requirements or “conditions” of probation. Depending on the circumstances, either the court or a probation officer monitors the person’s compliance with his or her probation terms. Informal probation, formal probation, mandatory supervision, and post-release community supervision (PRCS) are all types of community supervision that fall under the responsibility of California’s county probation departments. Unlike state parole offices, which are all operated by CDCR and DAPO, county probation departments have a lot more independence and differences between them. Here is a quick overview of the different types of county probation:
  - INFORMAL PROBATION: Informal probation is a type of supervision for some misdemeanor convictions in which you are supervised by the court, not by a probation officer. It is also called “court,” “summary,” and “misdemeanor” probation.<sup>304</sup>

- POST-RELEASE COMMUNITY SUPERVISION (PRCS): If you are released from state prison after incarceration for a non-violent, non-serious, non-sexual crime, you are placed under supervision by county probation officers, instead of being placed on state parole.<sup>306</sup> This is called post-release community supervision (PRCS). PRCS can last up to 3 years, but it can end earlier if you do not violate any conditions of your PRCS.<sup>307</sup>
  - MANDATORY SUPERVISION: In California, through a process called “split sentencing,” a judge can split the time of a sentence between a jail term and a period of supervision by a county probation officer. This type of supervision is called mandatory supervision.
- 3) FEDERAL PROBATION: People convicted of certain federal offenses may be sentenced to federal probation or supervised release. The U.S. Probation and Pretrial Services System oversees federal probation.<sup>308</sup>
- FEDERAL PROBATION: After you are convicted of a federal crime, federal probation is used as an alternative sentence to prison time.<sup>309</sup> This means federal probation is a type of sentence in itself. If you are on federal probation, you must report to your assigned probation office and comply with the conditions of your federal probation.<sup>310</sup>
  - SUPERVISED RELEASE: Supervised release is overseen by federal district courts with the help of federal probation officers.<sup>311</sup> The judge can sentence you to a term of supervised release after your release from federal prison.<sup>312</sup> In other words, a term of supervised release does not replace any part of your prison term; rather, a judge orders supervised release in addition to any prison term you may serve.<sup>313</sup> In some cases, the judge who sentences you is actually required by law to impose a term of supervised release in addition to a prison term.<sup>314</sup> It’s common for a federal sentence to include a prison term, followed by a period of supervised release.
- 4) FEDERAL PAROLE: Although federal parole was officially eliminated in 1984, certain categories of people may still be on federal parole. These categories include: (1) people who were sentenced in federal court before November 1, 1987; (2) people who violate criminal laws in Washington, DC (the nation’s capital); (3) people convicted of crimes within the U.S. military’s criminal justice system; and (4) people convicted in certain foreign transfer treaty cases. People who are on federal parole are supervised by federal probation officers.<sup>315</sup>

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE STATE AND FEDERAL SYSTEMS?

Federal and state correctional systems operate separately from each other. The system that convicted you – either federal or state – determines where you will serve time and also what type of supervision you will be on after your release.

<sup>309</sup> A defendant may receive a sentence of probation unless he or she is convicted of a Class A or B felony; probation is prohibited by statute of conviction; or the defendant is sentenced at the same time to imprisonment. 18 U.S.C. § 3561(a). A court’s authority to impose probation is based solely on statute. See Affronti v. U.S., 350 U.S. 79, 83 (1955). The authorized length of probation is between one and five years for a felony; not more than five years for a misdemeanor; and not more than one year for an infraction. 18 U.S.C. § 3561(c).

I'M NOT SURE WHAT TYPE OF SUPERVISION I AM ON. HOW DO I FIND OUT?

You may not know what type of supervision you are under. It's possible that you could be under more than one type of supervision, or under different types back-to-back. If you don't know, and you are still incarcerated, you should ask a correctional counselor in your institution. If you don't know, and you are out, you should ask the case manager or supervising officer you report to.

Once you know what type of supervision applies to you, you can skip to the section in this chapter that is relevant to your situation.

- If you are (or will be) on state parole, go to PG. 143.
- If you are (or will be) on county probation, or some other county-level supervision (like “mandatory supervision” or “PRCS”), go to PG. 202.
- If you are (or will be) on federal probation, go to PG. 219.
- If you are (or will be) on federal supervised release, go to PG. 229.
- If you are (or will be) on federal parole, go to PG. 241.

A Note About the Terms Used in the Parole & Probation Chapter:

In this Chapter, when we refer to people returning from the community from prison and jail, we often use official terms and phrases that are used by the California Department of Corrections (CDCR) and other correctional agencies. We don't always agree with this official language, and we believe it can be dehumanizing; but at times we use it in order to explain the official rules clearly to our readers. Meanwhile, we support efforts to use humanizing language when talking about currently or formerly incarcerated people. To learn more about such efforts, led by formerly incarcerated advocates, visit Root & Rebound's blog post summarizing an open letter by Eddie Ellis: <https://rootrebound.wordpress.com/2014/01/29/discourse-can-de-humanize-open-letter-on-language-from-cnus/>.

KEY TERMS IN THE PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER

Before you continue reading, it is helpful to get a sense of some of the key terms we use. Although they are each explained in the chapter, we list them here for your convenience:

- Conditions – Written rules that you are required to follow while on parole or probation.
- General conditions – Basic rules that apply to all people under supervision.
- Special conditions – Extra rules that apply to you specifically, in addition to the basic rules that apply to all people under supervision.
- Commitment offense – The offense for which you were sentenced to prison or jail.
- Discharge date – The date you are released from supervision .
- Parole period or parole term length– The period of time you have to spend on parole.

ROADMAP TO REENTRY

- Residence – The address where you live.
- Board of Parole Hearings (BPH) – A group of 12 commissioners, chosen by the California governor, who conduct hearings where they decide if a person is suitable to get released from prison onto parole.
- CDCR – The abbreviation for the “California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation,” which is a state government agency that runs the criminal justice system in California.
- California Penal Code – The collection of state laws that define all criminal offenses, procedures, and sentences in California.

A BRIEF INTRODUCTION TO THE FIRST HALF OF THIS CHAPTER: STATE COMMUNITY SUPERVISION

Every state in the U.S. runs its own criminal justice system. In the next two sections of the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER, you will learn about the types of correctional supervision in the community that are run by the state of California:

- Section II covers STATE PAROLE, which is overseen by the California Department of Corrections (CDCR) and the Division for Adult Parole Operations (DAPO).
- Section III covers COUNTY PROBATION & NEW FORMS OF COUNTY-LEVEL SUPERVISION, which are overseen locally by county probation offices and officers that report back to the state of California.

II. STATE PAROLE

WHAT WILL I LEARN ABOUT STATE PAROLE?

- The basics of state parole
- After release – what to expect in your first days out on state parole
- The length of state parole – including (a) what to do if you believe your parole term length is miscalculated, and (b) how to get off parole early
- The general conditions of state parole
- The extra (“special”) conditions of state parole, and the legal requirements for imposing these
- The process for challenging conditions of state parole
- Your rights as a parolee with a disability
- Procedures for state parole violations and revocations

BASICS OF STATE PAROLE

WHAT IS CALIFORNIA STATE PAROLE?

In California, parole is a condition of release for a person coming out of prison.<sup>316</sup> It applies only to people convicted of a state felony and sentenced to state prison. State parole takes effect only after you are released from prison.

People on parole – sometimes called “parolees” – remain under the control of CDCR. Within CDCR, parolees are more specifically under the control of the Division of Adult Parole Operations (DAPO), a division of CDCR. As a parolee, you are supervised by CDCR parole agents, and you must satisfy certain rules or “conditions” of parole.<sup>317</sup>

I AM INCARCERATED IN A CALIFORNIA STATE PRISON AND PREPARING FOR RELEASE. WILL I BE REQUIRED TO SERVE A PAROLE TERM AFTER MY RELEASE?

Possibly, depending on your specific situation and the type of offense you committed. If you are incarcerated in a California state prison, you must serve a parole term after release if any of the following apply:

- Your current prison term is for a serious felony as defined in CAL. PENAL CODE § 1192.7(c);
- Your current prison term is for a violent felony as defined in CAL. PENAL CODE § 667.5(c);
- You were sentenced as a “three-striker” under CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 667(b)-(i) or 1170.12(c)(2);
- You are classified by CDCR as a “high-risk sex offender,” regardless of your commitment offense; OR
- You are found to be a “mentally disordered offender” (MDO) under CAL. PENAL CODE § 2962.2.

IMPORTANT: If you don't fall into any of these categories, you are likely on a new form of supervision called post-release community supervision (PRCS). To learn more about PRCS, go to PG. 202. If you think you will be on state parole, not on PRCS, see the earlier section on state parole, on PG. 143.

<sup>317</sup> People who are sentenced to state prison for potential life sentences (for example, “25 years to life”) are only eligible for parole after they serve the determinate part of their sentence, and only after the Bd. of Parole Hearings (BPH, commonly called the “parole board”) determines that you are ready to re-enter society. That determination takes place during a California Bd. of Parole Hearings suitability hearing (also known as a “Lifer hearing”). Some people released from California state prison are required to serve a period of parole after they are released. Lifer Parole Process, CAL. DEP'T OF CORR. & REHAB., http://www.cdcr.ca.gov/BOPH/lifer\_parole\_process.html.

WHEN IS THE POST-RELEASE COMMUNITY SUPERVISION (PRCS) VS. PAROLE ASSESSMENT DONE?

Before you are released from prison, a correctional counselor will screen your case and decide whether to refer you to state parole or to PRCS.<sup>318</sup> The correctional counselor should start this screening process at least 180 days prior to your calculated release date.<sup>319</sup> The CDCR Form 611, “Release Program Study,” (see Appendix S, PG. 297) is used to determine whether you will be eligible for PRCS after release.<sup>320</sup>

BEFORE RELEASE: COMMON QUESTIONS ON PREPARING FOR PAROLE BOARD HEARINGS AND ON NEW LAWS AFFECTING SENTENCING AND RELEASE DATES

While Root & Rebound (the nonprofit reentry legal resource center that writes, updates, and publishes this guidebook) focuses on helping people prepare for and navigate legal barriers in reentry related to having a criminal record and/or being formerly incarcerated, we receive many questions through letters and our weekly Reentry Legal Hotline from people currently incarcerated in state prison, asking about new laws and policies affecting parole eligibility, release date calculations, and parole consideration hearings for lifers.

While Root & Rebound’s legal team does not have expertise on parole eligibility, release date calculations, and parole consideration hearings, we know it can be very difficult to get up-to-date and useful information while incarcerated about new laws impacting your life and future release.

To address this huge need, we have included new information and resources here and in the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER’S Appendix on the following issues:

- Preparing for parole consideration hearings before the California Board of Parole Hearings (BPH)
- SB 260 and SB 261
- SB 394
- The Elderly Parole Program
- Proposition 57
- SB 620 & SB 180

PREPARING FOR PAROLE CONSIDERATION HEARINGS BEFORE THE BOARD OF PAROLE HEARINGS (BPH)

WHO HAS TO GO BEFORE THE BOARD OF PAROLE HEARINGS TO BE RELEASED FROM CALIFORNIA STATE PRISON?

If you are serving on an indeterminate sentence (for example, “15 years to life”), you will go before the board 13 months before your minimum eligible parole date (MEPD) for a hearing to decide whether you should be released on parole.

There are also special early parole processes for certain populations, including youth offender parole (SB 260/SB 261), the elderly parole program, nonviolent offender parole review (Prop 57), and compassionate release. Some of these programs involve a full hearing and others are just a “paper process” with no hearing.

You can write us or call our Reentry Hotline (any Friday, 9AM - 5PM, at phone number 510-279-4662) if you would like additional information on any of these special paroles processes!

WHO CAN HELP ME PREPARE FOR THE BOARD OF PAROLE HEARINGS?

If you are serving on a life sentence, you have the right to be represented by an attorney at your parole suitability hearing. If you qualify as “indigent,” an attorney will be provided at the state’s expense. You can also hire an attorney to represent you.

See Appendix LL for a list of attorneys and organizations that provide representation at parole board hearings at reasonable rates.

WHAT ARE SENATE BILL 260 (SB 260) AND SENATE BILL 261 (SB 261)?

SB 260 and SB 261 refer to two California Senate bills that created a youth offender parole process for individuals who were convicted before they turned 23 years old and have already served 15, 20 or 25 years. As of January 18, 2017, the maximum age for youth offenders has increased from 23 to 25 years old.<sup>321</sup>

HOW CAN SENATE BILL 260 (SB 260) AND SENATE BILL 261 (SB 261) HELP ME?

If you are eligible under SB 260 or SB 261, your hearing will automatically be scheduled. See Appendix MM for an excerpt from the Human Rights Watch “Youth Offender Parole” guide. The excerpt provides a checklist for helping you determine if you are eligible for a youth offender parole hearing.<sup>322</sup>

If you believe that you are eligible but have been told that you are not, you can file a 602 appeal or fill out a special form from the Board of Parole Hearings (see Appendix NN for this “Form to Contest Disqualification by BPH as a ‘Youth Offender’”).

SB 394: YOUTH OFFENDER PAROLE HEARINGS FOR PEOPLE SENTENCED TO “LWOP” (LIFE WITHOUT THE POSSIBILITY OF PAROLE)

WHAT IS SENATE BILL 394 (SB 394)?

Starting in 2018, the Board of Parole Hearings will begin holding youth offender parole hearings for individuals who received an LWOP (life without the possibility of parole) sentence for an offense committed before they turned 18 AND who have served at least 25 years of their sentence.<sup>323</sup>

HOW CAN SENATE BILL 394 (SB 394) HELP ME?

SB 394 makes parole a possibility for many individuals who previously had no hope for release. If you are eligible under SB 394, your hearing will automatically be scheduled. The hearing process will be similar to that of SB 260 and 261 hearings. For more information, see Appendix MM.

ELDERLY PAROLE PROGRAM

WHAT IS THE ELDERLY PAROLE PROGRAM?

In 2013, as part of the Plata decision, a three-judge panel ordered CDCR to create a procedure enabling elderly individuals to face the Board of Parole Hearings before their minimum eligible parole date.<sup>324</sup> On January 1, 2018, the Legislature amended the Penal Code to include a provision on the Elderly Parole Program, changing it from a CDCR policy into state law.<sup>325</sup>

HOW CAN THE ELDERLY PAROLE PROGRAM HELP ME?

If you are at least 60 years old and have served at least 25 years of your sentence, you may be eligible for early parole consideration under the Elderly Parole Program.<sup>326</sup> Among standard determinations about your risk for future violence, the Board will place special emphasis on your age, the length of time served, and whether your physical condition has diminished since you committed your crime.<sup>327</sup> People sentenced to death or life without the possibility of parole (LWOP) are excluded from the program, as are individuals serving a sentence for killing a police officer.<sup>328</sup>

PROPOSITION 57 (“PROP. 57”)

WHAT IS PROP. 57?

Prop. 57 was passed by California voters in November 2016. It has three main parts:

1. Prosecutors can no longer direct file on minors (youth under age 18) in adult court—these cases now have to start in juvenile court for a transfer hearing where a judge uses specific factors to decide whether it would be appropriate/lawful to transfer the case to an adult criminal court;
2. CDCR was required to create a new parole process for individuals serving sentences for nonviolent offenses; and
3. CDCR was required to change its credit-earning system for people incarcerated in state prison, to reward efforts at rehabilitation.

The first part of Prop. 57 related to juveniles went into effect immediately, but does not apply retroactively to cases that were pending on appeal before Prop. 57 passed.<sup>329</sup> As of the publication date of this guidebook, CDCR’s draft rules for Parts 2 & 3 are currently in effect. The proposed final regulations are still pending.

HOW CAN PROP. 57 HELP ME?

If you were convicted of a nonviolent offense, you may be eligible for early parole consideration after completing the base term for your primary offense. Most currently incarcerated people will also get to take advantage of changes to the credit-earning system. There are more details about Prop 57 below.

WHAT IS THE PROPOSITION 57 EARLY PAROLE PROCESS?

Proposition 57 (Prop 57) created an early parole process for people in state prison who are serving determinate sentences for commitment offenses that are considered “non-violent” under the California Penal Code. A “non-violent” offense is any crime that is NOT listed in California Penal Code Section 667.5(c).<sup>330</sup> If you were sentenced to death or life without parole, then you are not eligible to participate in this process. Similarly, if you will have a 290 sex offender registration requirement upon release, either because of your current conviction offense or because of a prior offense, you are currently excluded, but a new case challenging this rule will change the regulations so that some 290 registrants will be able to participate in the early parole process.<sup>331</sup> You must also be more than 180 days away from your Earliest Possible Release Date (EPRD).

AM I ELIGIBLE FOR THE PROPOSITION 57 EARLY PAROLE PROCESS IF I AM A NONVIOLENT THIRD STRIKER?

Unfortunately, nonviolent third strikers are currently excluded from the Prop 57 parole process. However, the Three Strikes Project at Stanford is litigating a class action challenging the Prop 57 regulations. The “class” includes all third strikers whose current offense is a nonviolent felony so if that applies to you, then you are already covered by that lawsuit, and it may be in your best interest to allow it to make its way through the courts, rather than challenging the regulations yourself.

HOW DOES A PROPOSITION 57 PAROLE HEARING WORK?

The new parole process for nonviolent offenders is done by paper-review, which means a hearing officer of the Parole Board will review your information to determine if you qualify for parole. There is no formal, in-person hearing. The standard used by BPH is whether the “inmate poses a current, unreasonable risk of violence or a current, unreasonable risk of significant criminal activity.” This is called the “public safety screen.” The parole officer makes this determination based on the information in your central file and RAP sheets, your behavior in prison, and any statements written on your behalf by friends and family. Letters of support should be sent to:

Board of Parole Hearings
Sacramento, CA 95812-4036

Please make sure the letter-writers know to include your CDCR number clearly on the letter so that it gets sent to the right file. BPH confirmed to us that a copy of every support letter that comes in will get routed to your C-file. The prosecutor and victim(s) are also notified of your hearing date and have 30 days to provide written statements to be considered by the hearing officer.

HOW WILL THE BOARD OF PAROLE HEARINGS DECIDE WHETHER I PASS THE PUBLIC SAFETY SCREEN?

The regulations include a new Section to Title 15 entitled: “Factors to Consider During a Review on the Merits.”<sup>332</sup> This section describes all of the factors that will be weighed in favor and against parole release when the hearing officer conducts the review. These factors include aspects of an individual’s current commitment offense, prior criminal history, and behavior record while in prison.

WHAT CHANGES DID PROPOSITION 57 MAKE TO CREDIT EARNING?

Prop. 57 increases opportunities for currently incarcerated people to earn credit for good conduct and completing educational and rehabilitative activities. These credits will advance your release date and/or initial parole hearing dates, depending on if you have a set-length or indeterminate sentence. CDCR now recognizes the following categories of credits:

- Good Conduct Credits are awarded if you comply with prison rules and regulations and perform duties assigned by your institution.
- Extraordinary Conduct Credits are awarded at the discretion of the Director of the Division of Adult Institutions if you perform a heroic act in a life-threatening situation or provide exceptional assistance in maintaining the safety and security of the prison.
- Milestone Completion Credits are awarded if you complete specific rehabilitative and educational programs.
- Rehabilitative Achievement Credits are awarded if you participate in institution-approved activities which promote educational, behavioral, or rehabilitative development.
- Educational Merit Credits are awarded for your educational achievements while in CDCR custody, including a high school diploma or equivalent, a collegiate degree at the associate, bachelor, or post-graduate level, or a professional certificate as an Alcohol and Drug Counselor.

All people who are currently incarcerated will qualify for credits except those sentenced to death or life without the possibility of parole. However, please note that the rate of receiving Good Conduct Credits varies based on your conviction offense.

SB 620: UNWARRANTED FIREARM ENHANCEMENTS

WHAT IS SENATE BILL 620 (SB 620)?

SB 620 amended existing California law related to mandatory firearm enhancements, allowing judges to strike, dismiss, or tailor the duration of a firearm enhancement depending on each individual’s circumstances.<sup>333</sup> Before this change, judges were required to impose specific firearm enhancements every time a gun was used in the commission of a felony.<sup>334</sup>

HOW CAN SENATE BILL 620 (SB 620) HELP ME?

SB 620 is NOT retroactive, which means it will not apply to criminal cases that are already final — unless you are being resentenced pursuant to another law.<sup>335</sup> If you are convicted of a felony that involved a firearm but have not been sentenced, the judge has the option to dismiss your firearm enhancement entirely “in the interest of justice,” or reduce the time added on to your sentence.<sup>336</sup>

SB 180: DRUG SENTENCING REFORM

WHAT IS SENATE BILL 180 (SB 180)?

SB 180 amended existing California law imposing mandatory sentencing enhancements on individuals convicted of drug-related offenses that had prior convictions involving controlled substances.<sup>337</sup> Starting January 1, 2018, courts will only impose sentencing enhancements for prior felony convictions involving specific controlled substances and committed with the help of a minor.<sup>338</sup>

HOW CAN SENATE BILL 180 (SB 180) HELP ME?

SB 180 is NOT retroactive, which means it will not apply to criminal cases that are already final.<sup>339</sup> However, if you have a drug prior and pick up a new case, the court will no longer be required to impose a three-year sentencing enhancement if you are convicted, unless your case involves a minor.

AFTER RELEASE: WHAT TO EXPECT IN YOUR FIRST DAYS OUT ON STATE PAROLE

WHAT ARE SOME OF MY RESPONSIBILITIES WHEN I FIRST GET OUT OF STATE PRISON UNDER STATE PAROLE SUPERVISION?

There are several responsibilities to be aware when you first get out of state prison and are living in the community on parole:

1. FIRST, MAKE CONTACT WITH YOUR PAROLE AGENT AND VISIT YOUR ASSIGNED PAROLE OFFICE.

CDCR makes it clear that “it is up to you to get yourself to your parole office” upon release, so do your best to make contact with your parole agent right away, and visit the office as soon as you can, if you don’t have a set appointment time.<sup>340</sup>

You should call your parole agent when you first get out. The agent’s name, address, and telephone number should be on CDCR Form 611, “Release Program Study” (RPS). You should have received a copy of the RPS at least 45 days before your release date – or, if less than 45 days remain because your legal status changed in prison, then as soon as possible before your release to parole.<sup>341</sup> (To see an example RPS, go to Appendix S, PG. 297.) If you cannot reach your parole agent, or if you do not know who that person is, try going to the closest parole office you can find and ask for help. The parole office can call your parole agent and let him or her know you are coming and when you will be there. For a phone directory of California state parole offices, visit: http://www.cdcr.ca.gov/Parole/Public\_Officers\_and\_Regional\_Offices/.

If you were given a date, time, and place to report to your parole agent (see your Form 611, Release Program Study (RPS)), you should report to him or her at that time in that location.<sup>342</sup> If you get out on a weekday and can visit the office that day, we recommend that you do so. If you get out on a weekend or national holiday when the parole office is closed, it is recommended that you visit the office the very next day it is open.

If you get stuck out of town, get lost, or cannot get to where you have to go, contact your parole agent by calling collect. If you cannot contact your parole agent, call the Parole Headquarters for your region, and ask for the Officer of the Day. (For the Northern Region Headquarters, call 1-916-255-2758; for the Southern Region Headquarters, call 1-909-468-2300). If you don’t know which region you’re in, call the Division of Adult Parole Operation’s Headquarters at (916) 445-6200.<sup>343</sup>

2. IF ANY CRIMES ARE COMMITTED AGAINST YOU AFTER YOUR RELEASE, TELL YOUR PAROLE AGENT.<sup>344</sup>
3. IF YOU ARE STOPPED BY THE POLICE FOR ANY REASON, TELL YOUR PAROLE AGENT.<sup>345</sup>
4. REGISTER WITH THE LOCAL POLICE OR SHERIFF, IF NECESSARY.

This requirement does not apply to all people on parole. It may apply to you if you went to prison for a sex, drug, gang, or arson case.<sup>346</sup> Before you get out of prison, you should be told whether you have to register with the local police or sheriff as a condition of parole. Specifically, your correctional counselor at the prison should check a box on your CDCR Form 611, "Release Program Study" (RPS), indicating your registration requirements; and this form must be given to you at least 45 days before your expected release date.<sup>347</sup> (See an example of the RPS form in Appendix S, PG. 297). You will then have to sign a form that tells you when and how you must register. (See the chart below.)<sup>348</sup> If you have questions, talk with your correctional counselor in the prison, or with your parole agent once you are out.<sup>349</sup> Upon release, you should then register with the police or sheriff as soon as possible. Please refer to the chart on the next page for a summary of registration requirements.

WHAT COUNTY WILL I BE PAROLED TO, AND WHO DECIDES?

You will most likely be paroled from prison to the county where you last lived (called your "last legal residence").<sup>352</sup>

However, CDCR will place you on parole in a different county if it would be "in the best interests of the public."<sup>353</sup> This exception may apply to you if you were convicted of certain violent felonies (including murder, voluntary manslaughter, mayhem, rape, sodomy by force, oral copulation, lewd acts on a child under 14, or any felony punishable by death), or a crime involving stalking or a great bodily injury enhancement. In any of these cases, you will not be paroled to a county where you would be within 35 miles of the residence of a victim or witness if: (1) the victim or witness has requested additional distance, and/or (2) the BPH or CDCR finds that there is a need to protect the victim or witness.<sup>354</sup> If the BPH or CDCR decides to send you to another county for parole, the deciding agency must provide a written statement of the reasons for its decision.<sup>355</sup>

If you are required to register for a gang-related offense, the local police/ sheriff's office may ask for relevant information from you like the name of the gang, size of the gang, where the gang tends to congregate, and/or where gang members live. Usually a parole officer will tell someone of this registration requirement in the first days after release from prison, and may give the parolee instructions for when and how to make an appointment to register with the local police or sheriff's office.

Can I transfer my parole to a different county?

For information on how to request a transfer of your parole location from one county to a different county, see PG. 185, or from one state to a different state, see PG. 217.

DO I GET ANY FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE OR “GATE MONEY” FROM PAROLE WHEN I FIRST GET OUT?

Yes, but it is very limited and for a very small amount. You are entitled to the money in your trust account and to gate money. You may be able to get other emergency funds by requesting them through your parole agent. Read more about trust accounts and gate money below.

(1) TRUST ACCOUNTS:

Money that you brought to prison, earned in prison, or received in prison is kept in an interest-bearing trust account. The “interest” is paid to the trust account on a monthly basis, minus “operational expenses” (fees charged for operating the account). Any money in your trust account, including any interest earned, must be given to you at your release.<sup>356</sup>

WHAT IS “INTEREST”?

Interest is a small percentage of your money that is held in your account. Periodically, interest gets added to your account, due to the fact that someone else (the prison) is holding your money.

(2) GATE MONEY (a.k.a. “RELEASE ALLOWANCE”):

YOU GET $200 GATE MONEY IF:

If you are leaving a California state prison and you are (1) paroled, (2) placed on post-release community supervision (PRCS), or (3) discharged from a CDCR institution or reentry facility, you are entitled to $200 in state funds upon release.<sup>357</sup> These funds are known as “gate money” or “release allowance.”

Even though your parole agent is responsible for giving you these funds, the agent is not required to give you the entire amount immediately. Instead, your parole agent may distribute the $200 in separate, smaller amounts over a period of 60 days following your release.<sup>358</sup> By the end of those 60 days, you should have received the entire $200. If you need to buy clothes or a bus ticket at the time of your release, you must pay for it; CDCR does not provide extra gate money for clothing or transportation. If you ask CDCR to help cover these costs, it will deduct the amount from your $200 gate money.<sup>359</sup>

BUT NOTE: If you were returned to prison or jail on a parole violation – and you were incarcerated for less than 6 months – you should receive $1.10 for each day you were held, up to a maximum of $200.<sup>360</sup>

IMPORTANT: You also have the right to the $200 gate money in the following cases:

- If you were sent to a local jail for civil commitment proceedings or evaluation as a “sexually violent predator” (SVP).<sup>361</sup>
- If you are a “lifer parolee” who returned to prison on a parole violation, and you are being re-released to parole.<sup>362</sup>
- If you served 6 straight months or more, either on a sentence OR on a return-to-custody for a parole violation (these 6 months could be time in jail or in prison).<sup>363</sup>

If you do not receive your gate money in one of these situations (which is common), file an administrative appeal. Ask your jail or parole agent for the proper forms (see PG. 178 for a detailed discussion of the 602 appeals process).

YOU GET $100 GATE MONEY IF YOU RECEIVED A $100 ADVANCE:

If you are released from prison into a Community Correctional Reentry Facility<sup>364</sup> or Alternative Custody Program (ACP),<sup>365</sup> you may be given an advance of up to $100 of your gate money at that time.<sup>366</sup> Once you are released from the reentry facility or ACP, you may receive only what is left of the $200 – for most, this will be $100 that has not yet been given to you.<sup>367</sup>

YOU WILL NOT RECEIVE YOUR GATE MONEY IF YOU ARE RELEASED FROM PRISON INTO THE CUSTODY OF ANOTHER AGENCY THAT IS DETAINING YOU:

If you are released from a state prison into the custody of another state prison, a federal prison, or a county jail, you will not get gate money until you are released from that custody.<sup>368</sup> (This might happen if you face charges or have been convicted in another state or in the federal system.) Similarly, if you are released from prison into the custody of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) and are waiting for a deportation hearing date, you will not get gate money.<sup>369</sup>

YOU LOSE YOUR RIGHT TO GATE MONEY IN THE FOLLOWING SITUATION:

If you “abscond” from parole before receiving all of your gate money, you give up your right to the gate money. This means if you flee, go missing, fail to report to your parole agent, or fail to let your parole agent know where you are, you lose your right to the $200 gate money.<sup>370</sup> If you abscond from parole, you also risk: 1) getting your parole revoked and going back to prison; 2) being held on parole for a longer time period than originally required; 3) being forced to wear a GPS tracking device while on parole (see PG. 161).

WHAT CAN I DO IF I DON'T GET MY GATE MONEY?

Your parole officer should give you gate money at your release. If, however, your officer does not have the money or does not know where to send it, you should file an administrative appeal (CDCR Form 602 and CDCR Form 22) and start the grievance process. We recommend keeping copies and dates of any appeals or grievance forms you submit.<sup>372</sup> If you are in special proceedings – like MDO (mentally disordered offender) or SVP (sexually violent predator) hearings – getting gate money may be more complicated. If that is the case, you can call Root & Rebound’s Reentry Legal Hotline at 510-279-4662 (Fridays, 9 am - 5 pm PST) for assistance. You may have to file an administrative appeal (learn how on PG. 178.); or you could ask your public defender or defense attorney to file a motion on your behalf with the court to recover your gate money.

(3) EMERGENCY FUNDS:

There are 2 types of emergency funds<sup>373</sup> that you can request through your parole agent: (1) cash assistance loans (also called “financial assistance funds”)<sup>374</sup> and (2) funds for services (also called “bank drafts”).<sup>375</sup> Unfortunately, since budgets are tight, these funds are extremely limited.

These funds are discretionary. This means that your parole agent and his or her supervisor decide whether to give you a cash assistance loan or funds for services. Their decision will depend on the following factors:

- Whether there is money available;<sup>376</sup>
- The circumstances, including your history and needs;<sup>377</sup> AND
- Whether you are a citizen (as there are legal limits on the financial assistance that California State Parole can provide to certain parolees who are not U.S. citizens).<sup>378</sup>

<sup>365</sup> Alternative Custody Program (ACP) means a voluntary program developed for female inmates whose current commitment offense is neither violent nor serious and whose prior or current commitment offense is not a registerable sex offense pursuant to PC section 1170.05 that allows eligible inmates committed to state prison to serve their sentence in the community in lieu of confinement in state prison. ### (1) FIRST TYPE OF EMERGENCY FUND: Cash Assistance Loans:

Cash assistance loans (a.k.a. “financial assistance funds”) are loans that you may request from your parole agent. CDCR expects you to pay back these loans as soon as possible (for example, once employment or other financial circumstances allow you to do so). These loans are only granted when there is a critical need and assistance is not available from any other source.<sup>379</sup> The loans are usually for amounts under $50. The parole agent’s supervisor must approve any loan over $50 or any series of loans totaling more than $150 in a 30-day period.<sup>380</sup>

(2) SECOND TYPE OF EMERGENCY FUND: Funds for Services

Your parole agent is also authorized to distribute funds for services (a.k.a. “bank drafts”), including for housing, food, and clothing. Your parole agent may authorize a loan of up to $500 for you to make over-the-counter purchases. The check may be written either directly to you or to the vendor who is selling the item you are purchasing. Once again, the loans are granted on an emergency basis, and you must pay the money back as soon as you can.<sup>381</sup>

LENGTH OF STATE PAROLE

HOW DO I KNOW THE LENGTH OF MY PAROLE?

Your parole date will be listed on your CDCR Form 1515, “Notice and Conditions of Parole” (see example in Appendix G, PG. 268). The Division of Adult Parole Operations (DAPO) is responsible for calculating these dates based on state law, and your parole agent must tell you what they are.

IF I AM ON STATE PAROLE, WHAT LAW SETS THE LENGTH OF MY PAROLE?

If you are on state parole, the length of your parole period is set by state law<sup>382</sup> and is based on your commitment offense (the crime you are or were incarcerated for), and the date when the commitment offense occurred (NOT the date you were sentenced or released).<sup>383</sup>

In most cases, there is a minimum parole period that can be increased up to a maximum parole period if you commit parole violations.<sup>384</sup> Because state laws set the minimum and maximum parole term lengths, the date that a person actually gets off parole will be determined by a number of factors. See PG. 153 for more information.

There are three discharge dates to know – your controlling, maximum, and presumptive discharge date – that all affect when you can get off parole. And there are a number of factors that interact with those three dates to determine whether you can get off parole earlier or later than expected. See the chart on PG. 153 below for details about these three discharge dates.

You can find the parole term lengths in California Penal Code § 3000(b) (for set-length parole terms) and § 3000.1 (for life-long parole terms). For your reference, we have included copies of the current versions of these laws in Appendix F, PG. 265. (The California Penal Code is a body of laws that apply to crimes, parole, and other criminal justice system-related laws in California). To look up the discharge dates that apply to you, see Appendix C, PG. 261 of this chapter.

WHAT STOPS THE CLOCK FOR MY LENGTH OF TIME ON PAROLE?

The clock for your parole period is paused if:

- (1) YOU GO MISSING: Any time you “abscond” from parole (go missing or fail to report to your parole agent), and any time you are not available for parole supervision, this “stops the clock” and does not count toward the parole period.
- (2) YOU HAVE TO GO THROUGH SEXUALLY VIOLENT PREDATOR (SVP) PROCEEDINGS: The parole term is “tolled” (paused) until the SVP proceedings are dismissed or you are discharged from the Department of State Hospitals (DSH).
- (3) YOU ARE SENT TO COUNTY JAIL (NOT PRISON) FOR A NEW FELONY CONVICTION. If you are sentenced to a county jail term for a new felony conviction, you will stay on parole while serving your jail sentence, but the clock will pause on your parole term. If the jail sentence ends before your controlling discharge date (CDD) (see the chart below), you must report to your parole officer upon release and finish serving your original parole term. But if you are sentenced for a new felony conviction, your parole will just be forgotten about – it isn’t paused, but it no longer matters.

THE 3 DISCHARGE DATES TO KNOW TO FIGURE OUT WHEN YOU GET OFF STATE PAROLE

CONTROLLING DISCHARGE DATE (CDD)	MAXIMUM DISCHARGE DATE (MDD)	PRESUMPTIVE DISCHARGE DATE (PDD)
THE CDD IS YOUR BASE PAROLE PERIOD. For example, if someone is on parole for 5 years with a maximum of 7 years, then the Controlling Discharge Date (CDD) is 5 years from the day of release from state prison.<sup>385</sup>	THE MDD IS THE MAXIMUM TIME YOU CAN BE HELD ON PAROLE. For example, if someone is on parole for 5 years with a maximum of 7 years, then the Maximum Discharge Date (MDD) is 7 years from the day of release from state prison.<sup>386</sup>	THIS IS THE DATE YOU ARE ELIGIBLE TO GET OFF PAROLE EARLY. The PDD is the date you can be discharged from parole, and the date that you should be discharged if the BPH does not find “good cause” (a good reason) to retain you.<sup>387</sup> This date is always before your CDD (base term). You can only get off on your PDD if you have served parole continuously without disruptions, meaning no violation time, suspensions, or “dead time” for absconding (going missing or failing to report to your parole agent). For example, someone might have a 5-year parole length with a Presumptive Discharge Date (PDD) of 3 years. This means that the person is eligible to be discharged after 3 continuous years on parole. IMPORTANT! Some people do not have a PDD—meaning certain individuals do not have a date on which they are eligible to get off parole early.<sup>388</sup>

HELPFUL HINT

In addition to these three very important dates, you can ask your parole agent to recommend that you get off parole even earlier than your presumptive discharge date (PDD) – but this is very hard to achieve. For you to get off parole earlier than your PDD, every level of authority has to agree: the parole agent and his or her supervisor, the Regional Administrator for your parole region, and, the Board of Parole Hearings (BPH) must each approve your early release from parole.

To determine your CDD, MDD, and PDD, see Appendix B, PG. 259. For a sample worksheet to calculate your own parole discharge date, see Appendix C, PG. 261.

WHAT CAN I DO IF I THINK MY PAROLE TERM HAS BEEN MISCALCULATED?

If you believe the length of your parole term has been miscalculated, you can appeal (challenge) your parole term length with CDCR. You must exhaust the administrative appeal process before you can go to court. Learn more about filing an administrative appeal (using CDCR Forms 22 and 602) on PG. 178.

<sup>385</sup> Time during which a parolee absconds or is unavailable for supervision does not count toward either the CDD. There is no limit on how long the CDD can be extended due to absconding or unavailability. CAL. PENAL CODE § 3000(b)(6)(B). Time served in custody for parole revocation terms will extend the CDD, but only until the MDD is reached. The CDD comes from state law: CAL. GOV’T CODE § 3000(b) (set-length parole terms) and § 3000.1 (life-long parole terms).

<sup>386</sup> The MDD also comes from state law: CAL. GOV’T CODE § 3000(b) (set-length parole terms) and § 3000.1 (life-long parole terms). There is no limit on how long the CDD can be extended due to absconding or unavailability. CAL. PENAL CODE § 3000(b)(7). See also CAL. PENAL CODE § 3000(b)(6). Time served in custody for a parole revocation will extend the CDD, but only until the MDD is reached.

<sup>388</sup> There is no presumptive discharge date from state parole for any person serving a life-long parole period following an indeterminate life term for a sex offense under CAL. GOV’T CODE §§ 269, 288.7(c), 667.51, 667.61(j), (l), or (m), or 667.71 [if a victim was a child under age 14]. There is also no presumptive early discharge for parolees who were sentenced to prison for offenses committed between July 1, 1977, and December 31, 1978. 15 CAL. CODE REGS. § 2535(b)(5). See In re Miller, 2006 WL 1980385 (Cal. Ct. App. July 17, 2006) at n.2 (discussing CAL. PENAL CODE § 3000(b), Stats. 1977, chs.2, p.165, as it was prior to 1979).

GETTING OFF STATE PAROLE

CAN I GET OFF STATE PAROLE EARLY?

It depends. This is usually a possibility, but Parole has “discretion” – meaning, power to decide as it sees fit – with some legal limits on how it makes this decision. Most people have the legal right to a “presumption” – or assumption – that they should get off parole early. Based on this, most people have a “presumptive discharge date” or PDD. Learn more about PDDs on PG. 153.

Some people do not have a PDD because of the nature of their commitment offense and when it occurred. See Appendix B, PG. 259, for a list of people who do not have PDDs.

If you have a PDD, then by law, the exact timing of your PDD depends on your underlying commitment offense and when it occurred. The PDD periods can be found in California Penal Code Sections 3000, 3000.1, 3001.<sup>389</sup> If you fit into more than one category, the longer period applies. See Appendix B, PG. 259 for a list of PDDs.

WHAT SHOULD HAPPEN WHEN I REACH MY PRESUMPTIVE DISCHARGE DATE (PDD)?

If you are entitled to a PDD by law, then the Board of Parole Hearings (BPH) must conduct a discharge review hearing within 30 days of your PDD.<sup>390</sup> At this hearing, BPH must decide whether to let you off early based on your parole agent’s report (submitted to the BPH on CDCR Form 1502).<sup>391</sup> In this report, your parole agent will make a recommendation either for or against letting you off parole early,<sup>392</sup> considering factors like:

- (1) Commitment Offense: Whether the original offense involved weapons or great bodily harm; was part of large-scale criminal activity; or caused considerable concern in the local community.
- (2) Institutional Adjustment: Whether you were involved in serious gang activities or acts of violence in prison.
- (3) Parole adjustment: Whether you have followed your parole conditions, or were involved in any criminal behavior or activities (including using drugs or involvement in gang activities).
- (4) Placement Returns: Whether you were returned to custody for controlled substance or psychiatric treatment.
- (5) Supervision Needed: Continued supervision needed for your safety or the safety of the public.<sup>393</sup>

What if CDCR or Parole staff makes a mistake in the report?

If your parole agent (or another CDCR or Parole staff) makes a “mistake of fact” in the report to the BPH recommending to keep you on parole, you can file a “CDCR Form 602” administrative appeal challenging the mistake.<sup>394</sup> The steps for filing an administrative appeal are described on PG. 178.

If the reviewers of your 602 appeal find that there was a significant mistake in your parole agent’s report to the BPH, and that this mistake led to you being kept on parole past your PDD, they can change the recommendation and ask the BPH to reconsider its decision so that you will be discharged from parole.<sup>395</sup> Alternatively, if there is no mistake in the parole agent’s report, but you believe that the BPH has decided to keep you on parole without “good cause” (a good reason), you may want to challenge the BPH decision directly; in that case, you do not need to file a 602 appeal.<sup>396</sup> For information about how to challenge a BPH action directly, go to PG. 155.

WHAT ARE MY RIGHTS DURING THE PRESUMPTIVE DISCHARGE DATE (PDD) REVIEW PROCESS?

You have the right to see a written record of the BPH’s decision about whether to keep you on parole. The BPH is required to make a written record of its decision, and to send a copy of that decision to you.<sup>397</sup> If it is more than 30 days past your PDD and you did not receive

WHAT IS A “MISTAKE OF FACT”?

A “mistake of fact” is a legal term used to describe an error that someone makes because he or she doesn’t know the facts of what really happened.

WHAT IS “GOOD CAUSE”?

“Good cause” basically means “good reason.” According to CDCR, to find good cause for a decision is to find it more likely than not – by a “preponderance of the evidence” – that the decision is based on true facts and solid reasons. (15 CAL. CODE REGS. § 2000(b)(50)).

written notice of the BPH's decision, you may be entitled to IMMEDIATE DISCHARGE FROM PAROLE if the BPH failed to make a decision in your case. See PG. 156 for more information.

DO I HAVE A RIGHT TO APPEAR AT THE DISCHARGE REVIEW HEARING BEFORE THE BOARD OF PAROLE HEARINGS (BPH)?

No. You do not have a right to appear in person at the BPH review hearing.<sup>398</sup> But, if CDCR staff makes a “mistake of fact”<sup>399</sup> in the report that goes to BPH (see definition above on PG. 154), then you can file a CDCR Form 602 administrative appeal asking for reconsideration, and clarifying the mistake that has been made.<sup>400</sup> See the steps for filing a 602 appeal on PG. 178.

ON WHAT BASIS CAN THE BPH DECIDE TO KEEP ME ON PAROLE PAST MY PDD INSTEAD OF LETTING ME OFF EARLY?

The BPH must have “good cause” to keep you on parole past your presumptive discharge date (PDD), if you are entitled to one.<sup>401</sup> The law sets out broad factors that may count as “good cause” to keep you on parole – such as your original crime, in-prison behavior, and parole adjustment (defined on PG. 154 above).<sup>402</sup> At this time, there are no published court cases challenging a BPH finding of good cause for keeping someone on parole, so unfortunately there isn't much legal guidance. If you are trying to challenge a finding of good cause, it may help for you to show the BPH as much evidence as possible that you have adjusted well to parole, followed all your parole conditions, made efforts to pay off your restitution, complied with any registration requirements, and made significant efforts to turn your life around (both in prison and after release) since your commitment offense. Include documentation of any employment, education or training, as well as certificates for completing programs that helped you improve yourself or learn new skills.

WHAT HAPPENS IF THE BPH DECIDES TO CONTINUE MY PAROLE?

If the BPH decides to continue your parole past your PDD, you should be reviewed for possible discharge each year until your maximum discharge date (MDD) is reached.<sup>403</sup> At these annual review dates, you will remain on parole unless the BPH takes action to discharge you.<sup>404</sup>

CAN I APPEAL THE BPH'S DECISION TO KEEP ME ON PAROLE PAST MY PDD?

Yes. Since you are challenging a decision by the BPH, not a decision by Parole, you do NOT need to file a 602 appeal. You can challenge the BPH decision directly in state court.<sup>405</sup>

If there was not a mistake in Parole's report/recommendations to the BPH, but you still want to challenge the BPH's decision to keep you on parole past your PDD because you don't think they had good cause, then there is no administrative appeals process.<sup>406</sup> Instead, you will go straight to filing a writ of habeas corpus in the state superior court where your parole is located to challenge the BPH's decision.

REMINDER! YOU CAN CHALLENGE FACTUAL MISTAKES IN YOUR PAROLE AGENT'S DISCHARGE REVIEW REPORT

If your parole agent or parole staff makes a FACTUAL MISTAKE in a recommendation to the BPH about whether or not you should be discharged early, you can challenge that mistake through a 602 appeal (see PG. 178 for that process). (15 CAL. CODE REGS. § 3723).

WHAT HAPPENS IF I DON'T GET NOTICE OF A BPH DECISION WITHIN 30 DAYS AFTER MY PDD?

It depends on why you didn't get the notice. There are two possibilities:

IT HAS BEEN MORE THAN 30 DAYS SINCE MY PRESUMPTIVE DISCHARGE DATE (PDD), AND NO RESPONSE FROM BPH ABOUT WHETHER I AM DISCHARGED FROM PAROLE. WHAT NEXT?
POSSIBILITY #1: You never received a decision because the BPH did not hold a hearing within the 30 days following your PDD.	POSSIBILITY #2: The BPH held a hearing and decided to retain you on parole, but never told you its decision.
If your situation falls under this first possibility, then you should be automatically discharged.<sup>407</sup> The law states that unless the BPH acts to retain a person on parole after PDD, the parolee "shall" be discharged from parole.<sup>408</sup> This means that parole ends automatically if the BPH fails to take action to retain the person on parole.<sup>409</sup> So, if there is no decision to retain you within 30 days after your PDD, you should be discharged from parole immediately. If it's more than 30 days past your PDD, file a CDCR Form 22 with your parole agent and a CDCR Form 602 appeal with your parole region's Appeals Coordinator to resolve this. For the steps on how to file these forms and start the appeals process, see the steps on PG. 178.	If this is your situation, the BPH's decision to retain you on parole is still valid by law, even though BPH didn't properly notify you within the 30-day time limit set by law<sup>410</sup> This means you are still on parole. However, you can appeal the BPH's decision.<sup>411</sup> You can file a state petition for a writ of habeas corpus (see details in Appendix K, PG. 280). The court may then order BPH to provide you with a copy of its decision, which you can use to challenge BPH's finding of good cause<sup>412</sup> by filing another petition for a writ of habeas corpus (see PG. 280).

CONDITIONS OF STATE PAROLE

GENERAL CONDITIONS FOR EVERY PERSON ON STATE PAROLE

The general conditions (rules) that apply to you and ALL people on state parole are the following.<sup>413</sup>

- Unless other arrangements are approved in writing, you should report to your parole agent on the first working day following your release.
- You must inform your parole agent of your residence, employment, education, and/or training.
- You must report any change or anticipated change to your residence (the address where you live) before the change.
- You must inform your parole agent within 72 hours (3 days) of any change to your employment – including a change in job location, a change in your employer, or getting terminated/fired/laid off from your job.
- You must comply with all of your parole agent's instructions.
- You cannot travel more than 50 miles from your residence without your parole agent's prior approval. If you're homeless, your residence is any location at which you regularly reside, regardless of how many days or nights you stay there. This means all structures with an identifiable street address, including homeless shelters, vehicles, and motels.<sup>414</sup>

WHY IS IT IMPORTANT TO KNOW AND UNDERSTAND THE CONDITIONS OF MY PAROLE?

It is important to know and understand these conditions because if you violate any of them, you may be arrested, incarcerated in a county jail, or returned to state prison, even if you are not convicted of a new crime. (See CAL. PENAL CODE § 3000.08(c).)

<sup>407</sup> DOM § 81080.1.1 ("By law, a parolee, unless committed to prison for a "violent felony" under PC 667.5(c), is discharged if the BPH does not order the parolee retained on parole by the 30th day after completion of one, two, three, five, or seven years of continuous parole as appropriate to the commitment category.").

- You cannot leave your county of residence for more than 48 hours at a time.
- You cannot leave California without prior written approval of your parole agent.
- You cannot engage in any illegal activities (which includes any activities that would violate any state, federal, county, or municipal law). If you engage in illegal activity, even if you are not convicted of a crime, your parole may be revoked.
- If you are arrested for any felony or misdemeanor crime, you must inform your parole agent as soon as possible.
- You cannot own, use, possess, or have access to:
  - Any type of gun or ammunition<sup>415</sup>
  - Any weapon;<sup>416</sup>
  - Any knife with a blade longer than two inches, except kitchen knives (which must be kept only in the kitchen of your home) and knives related to your employment (which may be used and carried only in connection with your employment); or
  - A crossbow of any kind.
- Because you cannot own or have access to or control of any of these weapons/instruments, if you live with someone who has a gun, weapon, knife, or crossbow in your residence, you must make sure that the other person removes those items from the residence, or at least keeps the items locked in a place to which you don't have access.
- You must waive extradition to the State of California from any other state or the District of Columbia (Washington, D.C.). This means that you must give up the right to a formal procedure for returning you to California should you leave the state and get arrested or taken into custody. In other words, you cannot challenge any effort by California to return you to the state.<sup>417</sup>
- If another jurisdiction (other state) has lodged a “detainer” against you (meaning the other state has ordered that you be held there), you may be released to the custody of that state, which means that California will let that other state take control of your supervision and detention temporarily.<sup>418</sup> However, if you are released from the other state's custody before your California state parole would have ended, or if the other state decides not to hold you, you must immediately contact the nearest California state parole office for instructions on reporting to a parole agent.<sup>419</sup>
- You have almost no rights against searches or seizures by a probation officer, a CDCR agent or officer, or any law enforcement/police officer. See the next question (PG. 158) for more detailed information about searches and seizures while you're on parole.

ALL PEOPLE ON PAROLE: LITTLE PROTECTION AGAINST SEARCHES & SEIZURES

One of the general conditions of parole is that lose most rights against searches and seizures by parole and law enforcement—but you do have some rights. Since this is a very important issue in daily life, this section explains in detail what privacy rights you do and do not have against parole and police searches.

WHAT ARE MY RIGHTS TO PRIVACY OF PERSON, RESIDENCE, OR PROPERTY WHILE ON PAROLE?

You lose most of your constitutional rights against searches and seizures while you're on parole. When you are OFF PAROLE, the government and law enforcement cannot unreasonably search you or your property or take things from you; and if they search you illegally, they can't use what they find as evidence against you in court.<sup>420</sup> But when you are ON PAROLE, you have very few rights when it comes to searches of yourself, your property, or your residence. If you are on parole:

<sup>415</sup> This includes “any device which a reasonable person would believe to be capable of being used as a gun, or any ammunition which could be used in a gun.” In addition to CDCR Regulations that govern gun and weapon ownership while on parole, it is important for you to know that California law makes it a felony for any ex-felon to own, possess, or have custody or control of any firearm—so this applies even once you are off parole. Federal law also makes it a crime for an ex-felon to possess a firearm or ammunition that has been shipped or transported through interstate or foreign commerce. A certificate of rehabilitation (see PG. 153) does not restore the right to possess a firearm. In some cases, but not all, the right can be restored by a full pardon.

<sup>416</sup> You may not own, use, possess, or have access to a weapon as defined in state or federal laws, or any device, which a reasonable person would believe to be capable of being used as a weapon.

- You, your residence, and any of your property can be searched or seized (taken) by a probation officer, a CDCR agent or officer, or any other peace/police officer, at any time (day or night), with or without a warrant, with or without cause<sup>421</sup> – even if non-parolees live with you.<sup>422</sup>
- Officers can also search the passenger compartment of any car while you are a passenger, even if you are not the driver or owner of the car.<sup>423</sup>
- If you are placed in custody pending parole revocation proceedings, parole agents and other law enforcement officers may search your property.<sup>424</sup>

The U.S. Supreme Court has upheld these conditions for people on parole even though the same conditions would violate the constitutional rights of someone who is not on parole or not in custody.<sup>425</sup>

If a law enforcement or parole officer knows you're on parole, then the officer is allowed to assume you can be searched without a warrant, without consent, and without reasonable suspicion or "probable cause" – since this is a general condition that applies to all people on parole.<sup>426</sup> HOWEVER, if officers do not know that you are on parole,<sup>427</sup> or if they do not have "probable cause" to believe that you live in the residence they want to search,<sup>428</sup> then they CANNOT search you, your residence, or your property in ways that go beyond normal rules that protect all citizens

WHAT IS "PROBABLE CAUSE"?

An officer has "probable cause" to search someone on parole, his/her residence, or his/her property when the officer has heightened knowledge that they are at the address where the parolee or the subject of an arrest warrant lives.

Motley v. Parks, 432 F.3d 1072, 1079 (9th Cir. 2005) overruled in part by United States v. King, 687 F.3d 1189 (9th Cir. 2012).

ARE THERE ANY OTHER LIMITATIONS ON PAROLE SEARCHES?

Yes. When the officer knows or has probable cause to believe you are on parole, there is just one rule limiting his or her power to search you. The rule is that "searches must be no more intrusive than necessary for a legitimate interest in parole supervision."<sup>429</sup>

Courts have understood this to mean that parole searches must be "reasonable" – meaning they cannot take place too often, be at unreasonable times of day or night, be unreasonably long, or be conducted in an "arbitrary or capricious" (random or reckless) manner.<sup>430</sup> Searches cannot be motivated by the officer's dislike of you, nor can they be used in ways that don't serve legitimate law enforcement purposes (for example, they can't be used to harass or embarrass you).<sup>431</sup>

When conducting a parole search of your house, law enforcement officers must give you notice of their authority and purpose for the search before they enter your house.<sup>432</sup>

WHAT IF A PAROLE OR LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICER CONDUCTS A SEARCH THAT I BELIEVE IS UNLAWFUL? WHAT ACTION CAN I TAKE?

When law enforcement officers conduct an unlawful search, a person on parole has very few legal remedies. First off, it is very rare for a court to find that a parole search was "unreasonable." Note that even if a court finds that a parole search was "unreasonable" and therefore unlawful, evidence found through that search can still be used against you at a parole revocation hearing.<sup>433</sup>

If you believe that officers unlawfully searched you or your property, you should tell the attorney who is representing you. At a parole revocation hearing, you and your attorney should be notified of evidence used against you (see PG. 188 for information on parole revocation hearings).

SUMMARY—WHILE YOU ARE ON PAROLE, OFFICERS CAN SEARCH YOU OR YOUR PROPERTY:

- WITHOUT your consent (your permission);
- WITHOUT a search warrant;
- WITHOUT “probable cause” or even reasonable suspicion that you violated parole.<sup>434</sup>

BUT... In order to search you or your property, an officer must know or have a reason to know that you are on parole or some other type of supervision. Courts have said that a search may be illegal if the parole officer didn’t know, or didn’t have reason to know, that the person being searched was on parole. However, any items that are taken (seized) during the search may still be used as evidence against you in a later court proceeding or in a revocation hearing. Still, a search or seizure cannot be more intrusive than reasonably necessary. If you believe you were illegally searched—tell your lawyer, contact a public defender’s office, or call Root & Rebound’s Reentry Legal Hotline at 510-279-4662 (Fridays, 9 am - 5 pm PST).

ADDITIONAL LAWS THAT APPLY TO ALL PEOPLE ON STATE PAROLE

In addition to general conditions, there are other laws that impact the civil rights of all people on state parole. These won’t be listed on your CDCR Form 1515: Notice and Conditions of Parole (the form your parole agent gives you upon release), but they are just as important.

WHAT OTHER LAWS & RESTRICTIONS APPLY TO ALL PEOPLE ON STATE PAROLE?

Additional laws and restrictions that apply to you and all people on state parole are:

1. YOU CANNOT VOTE WHILE ON STATE PAROLE — In California, people who are on state parole (or currently incarcerated in state or federal prison) cannot vote in any elections.<sup>435</sup> Outside of California, people with felony convictions may vote in some elections but not others. Voting laws vary by state, so if you ever move to a new state, you should look into that state’s voting requirements. (To learn more about voting rights, see PG. 68 in the ID & VOTING CHAPTER.)
2. YOU CANNOT SERVE ON A JURY WHILE ON STATE PAROLE — In California, people with felony convictions cannot serve on juries, even after they have been discharged from parole.<sup>436</sup> This means you may not be able to serve on a jury for the rest of your life (unless the law changes).

Is there any way to get back my right to serve on a jury?

Possibly. Depending on your situation, you might be able to:

- Have your felony reduced to a misdemeanor (misdemeanors don’t prevent you from serving on a jury in California); or
  - Apply for a Certificate of Rehabilitation (COR), which automatically includes an application for a Governor’s Pardon. A COR won’t restore your right to serve on a jury, but a Pardon will.
  - Apply directly for a Governor’s Pardon, which will restore your right to serve on a jury.<sup>437</sup>
  - (For more information on all three of these possible remedies, see the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 931.)
3. YOU CANNOT BE ON PRISON GROUNDS WITHOUT APPROVAL WHILE ON STATE PAROLE — In California, it is a crime for a former prisoner to be on prison grounds for any reason without the warden’s prior approval.<sup>438</sup> To obtain permission to visit, you must get written approval from your parole agent and send it to the warden, along with a letter requesting the warden’s permission and a completed visiting questionnaire (CDCR Form 106, see Appendix O, PG. 287).<sup>439</sup>

IMPORTANT VOTING RIGHTS UPDATE!

While you still cannot vote in state prison or on state parole, a new law allows many more people to vote in California with criminal records—learn more on PG. 68 of the ID & VOTING CHAPTER.

<sup>436</sup> CAL. CODE CIV. PROC. § 203(a)(5). The California Supreme Court has upheld this restriction. See Rubio v. Superior Court, 24 Cal. 3d 93 (1979) (holding that there is no fundamental right to serve on a jury and that excluding ex-felons from juries does not violate the Equal Protection Clause because the prohibition is rationally related to the state goal of assuring impartial verdicts).

HELPFUL HINT: GENERAL VS. SPECIAL CONDITIONS

What conditions beyond “general conditions” could be imposed on me?

There are both discretionary special conditions that your parole agent can impose on you as long as these conditions meet certain legal standards (see PG. 257), and also mandatory special conditions that are imposed on certain categories of individuals, as required by state law. Keep reading to learn about special conditions.

SPECIAL CONDITIONS OF STATE PAROLE: CONDITIONS THAT APPLY ONLY TO CERTAIN PEOPLE ON PAROLE

Sometimes, the Board of Parole Hearings (BPH) or a parole agent may impose special parole conditions that add EXTRA limitations to a person’s life. This section explains when special conditions may be applied, and what rights you have against these conditions.

WHO SETS SPECIAL PAROLE CONDITIONS, AND HOW DO THEY DECIDE?

CDCR and individual parole agents can require you to follow certain special conditions, which are special rules you must follow while on parole.<sup>440</sup>

If you are a “lifer” in California, or if you were released onto parole before July 1, 2013, or if you were charged with a parole violation before July 1, 2013,<sup>441</sup> then the BPH can require you to follow certain special parole conditions.<sup>442</sup>

If you are not a “lifer,” county Superior Court judges are now in charge of handling your parole conditions and revocations of your parole.<sup>443</sup> Superior Court judges may impose special parole conditions, but these special conditions must be “reasonably related” to your commitment offense (the offense for which you spent time in prison), your “criminogenic needs” (issues that affect your risk of recidivism, such as substance abuse, family ties, and social relationships), and your criminal history.<sup>444</sup>

Special conditions required by CDCR and/or your parole agent will depend on your individual circumstances, including your commitment offense, your criminogenic needs, your criminal history,<sup>445</sup> specific conditions required by law (called mandatory special conditions), and more. Your special conditions will be part of your parole plan, and they can change depending on how well you do on parole.<sup>446</sup> (See the next question to learn about what your parole plan is.)

WHAT IS MY PAROLE PLAN?

Your parole plan is an individualized plan to guide your supervision, which DAPO staff will prepare before your release, based on an individual evaluation of your strengths, needs, risk factors, and overall risk of reoffending. Your parole plan will include information identified in your evaluation —your strengths, needs, risk factors, and overall risk of reoffending — as well as goals for your successful reentry; “triggers” that may lead to negative behavior; strategies for avoiding “triggers”; special parole conditions; and your supervision category.<sup>447</sup> Your supervision category is based on DAPO’s initial evaluation of your risk of reoffending, as well as your progress while on parole.<sup>448</sup>

DO YOU THINK THAT A SPECIAL PAROLE CONDITION IS VIOLATING YOUR LEGAL RIGHTS?

CAN I ASK FOR MY SUPERVISION LEVEL TO BE REVIEWED OR REDUCED?

Yes. Most parolees who complete 180 days of satisfactory parole will automatically be assigned to the “minimum supervision” category — EXCEPT for people whose commitment offense is legally classified as “violent” (see CAL. PENAL CODE § 667.5); 290 registrants (see CAL. PENAL CODE § 290); people with cases that received a lot of media or public attention, and certain gang members (as documented on CDCR Form 812-A). Even if you are not automatically assigned to “minimum supervision” after 180 days of completing satisfactory parole, you can ask the unit supervisor to reduce your supervision level, and he or she will make a decision on your case. (CAL. PENAL CODE § 3504.)

You should receive a copy of your parole plan before you are released. While on parole, you should be meeting regularly with your parole agent to review your parole plan, progress with specific goals and strategies, and other issues. Your parole agent will adjust your parole plan based on your progress and other changes in your situation.<sup>449</sup> S/he should also review your supervision category periodically to see if it should be changed.<sup>450</sup>

IMPORTANT: Victims and witnesses of your crime can ask for special parole conditions to be added to your parole, including no-contact provisions and/or requirements that you are not paroled to the county where they live (learn more on PG. 185).<sup>451</sup> BPH and CDCR also commonly impose special no-contact provisions for crime partners, which would prevent you from contacting/seeing anyone who was your co-defendant in your criminal case. Lastly, state law requires special conditions for certain categories of people – these are called mandatory special conditions.<sup>452</sup> Specifically, there are mandatory special conditions for “sex offenders” (see PG. 163) and for “mentally disordered offenders” (see PG. 176).

WHAT ARE COMMON EXAMPLES OF SPECIAL PAROLE CONDITIONS?

The most common special conditions for a person on state parole are:

1. You cannot drink alcohol;
2. You must submit to drug testing;
3. You must participate in mental health treatment.<sup>453</sup>
4. You must wear a GPS device – Note that some people on parole will be required to wear GPS tracking devices (usually ankle monitors). It is the CDCR’s policy to require GPS monitoring for:
  - o Any parolee validated as a member or associate of a prison gang, street gang, or “disruptive group”;
  - o Any parolee placed on “high control” supervision;
  - o Any parolee with a history of being unavailable for supervision, absconding (going missing), escalating parole violations, or other such factors indicating the parolee is likely to commit another crime; and
  - o Any parolee required by the BPH to have a GPS monitoring condition.<sup>454</sup> Failure to wear the GPS device or to keep it charged is a violation of parole.<sup>455</sup> Parolees can be required to pay for the cost of the GPS if they are able to do so.<sup>456</sup>

WHEN WILL I FIND OUT THE CONDITIONS OF MY PAROLE, INCLUDING ANY SPECIAL CONDITIONS THAT APPLY TO ME?

- WHILE INCARCERATED:

Your correctional counselor should inform you of your parole conditions at least 45 days before your release, using a CDCR Form 1515: “Notice and Conditions of Parole.”<sup>457</sup> You will be asked to sign the Form 1515.<sup>458</sup> You will also be given a copy of the Form 1515 for you to keep upon your release. Even if you disagree with a special condition listed in the Form 1515, it is usually best to sign the Form 1515 and comply with the conditions while at the same time taking steps to challenge any disputed condition through the appeals process (see PG. 178). If you don’t sign the form, you might not get out of prison until the matter is resolved.<sup>459</sup>

WARNING

Your parole may be revoked for 6 months if you (1) refuse to give any required DNA sample prior to release, or (2) refuse to sign any documents acknowledging a duty to register as a sex offender. (See CAL. PENAL CODE § 3060.5).

<sup>448</sup> The various supervision categories are: Transition Phase: All individual immediately after release onto parole; Category A: Reserved primarily for individuals evaluated as High Drug, High Property and High Violence risk levels (California Static Risk Assessment values of 3, 4 and 5); Category B: Reserved primarily for individuals evaluated as Moderate Risk (CSRA values of 2); Category C: Reserved primarily for individuals evaluated as Low Risk (CSRA values of 1); Category D: Reserved primarily for individuals on parole who are in custody, in jail-based Custody Drug Treatment Program (ICDTP), Civil Addicts pending court discharge, gravely ill, or other situations. - ONCE YOU'RE RELEASED:

When you are out and you first meet with your parole agent, he or she should give you a copy of your Form 1515 to keep, and he or she should explain ALL the general and special conditions of your parole.<sup>460</sup> It is important that you fully understand your parole conditions. If you do not understand some or all of them, ask your parole agent to clear up your questions or concerns.

If your parole agent doesn't present you with the Form 1515 in your first meeting, you should ask him or her to do so. Again, it is very important that your parole agent explains to you all your conditions of parole — and if he or she does not do so, you should ask.

WHAT MAKES A SPECIAL CONDITION OF PAROLE UNLAWFUL OR INVALID?

Yes. A parole condition is invalid if it fails any one of the following four legal tests:

TEST 1: A parole condition is invalid if:

1. It has no relation to the commitment offense; AND
2. It bars conduct that is not in itself criminal; AND
3. It requires or forbids conduct that is not reasonably related to future criminal conduct or activities.<sup>461</sup>

For this test, you must show that the condition is invalid based on all three of these factors.

For example: Courts have held that if a parolee has no history of alcohol abuse or committing crimes while intoxicated, alcohol testing cannot be imposed as a condition of parole because using alcohol (1) is unrelated to the parolee's past criminal conduct, (2) is not illegal in itself, and (3) is not reasonably related to the parolee's risk of future criminality.<sup>462</sup>

TEST 2: A parole condition is invalid if:

1. It infringes on (violates) a constitutional right, AND
2. It is broader than necessary to promote public safety or rehabilitation.<sup>463</sup>

TEST 3: A parole condition may be invalid if it is excessively broad or so vague that you cannot understand or follow it.<sup>464</sup>

For example: If a parole condition prohibits you from associating with members of a certain group, then to be valid, it must include a requirement that you actually know (or should know) whether the people you're associating with are members of the prohibited group.<sup>465</sup>

TEST 4: A parole condition is invalid if it limits the type of employment you can have, and this limitation does not directly relate to your crime.<sup>466</sup>

For example: If you were previously convicted for bouncing a check, a parole condition that forbids you from becoming a salesperson would be invalid.<sup>467</sup>

SPECIAL CONDITIONS OF STATE PAROLE AND OTHER LAWS THAT APPLY TO SEX OFFENDERS (“290 REGISTRANTS”)

This section has important information about the legal requirements that apply to people who were convicted of sex offenses and must register as sex offenders under California Penal Code section 290 et seq. We refer to people who must register as sex offenders as “290 registrants” below. In California, some legal requirements apply to 290 registrants only while they are on state parole, and other rules apply to 290 registrants for the rest of their life, so please read carefully!

If you are a 290 registrant, there are five main types of special requirements that apply to you: (1) you must register with local law enforcement authorities, (2) you may be subject to GPS tracking while on parole (and possibly for life), (3) you may be restricted around where you can live (“residency requirements”), where you can go, and where you can be employed, (4) information about your identity, and in some cases where you live, may be disclosed to the public; and (5) the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (CDCR) may place other special conditions of parole on you.<sup>468</sup>

IMPORTANT LEGAL UPDATE: TIERED REGISTRATION

In 2017, Governor Jerry Brown signed a law ending lifetime 290 registration for people convicted of low-level offenses. The new law splits the existing registry into three levels – or “tiers.”<sup>469</sup> While those considered “high risk sex offenders” (see PG. 169 for definition) will still be required to register for life, registrants whose offense places them on the lower tiers may petition for removal after 10 or 20 years, as long as they have not committed another registerable offense in that period. The court will have the discretion to grant or deny the petition, and will consider input from the District Attorney in making its decision. This law will not go into effect until 2021 and regulations still need to be written to give the details of these changes to the registry.

➤ REGISTRATION REQUIREMENTS

IMPORTANT! If you are required to register as a sex offender, you have only 5 working days to register with the city police department (or sheriff’s department if there is no city police department) after you are released from custody or placed on probation or parole.<sup>470</sup> Read more about registration requirements in this section.

WHO HAS TO REGISTER AS A SEX OFFENDER?

Here we discuss three situations in which you would be required to register as a sex offender in California:

SITUATION 1: You must register as a sex offender if you have ever been convicted of any crime listed in California Penal Code section 290(c). Cal. Penal Code section 290(c) includes a wide range of felony and misdemeanor offenses including forcible sex crimes against adults, most sex crimes involving children, prostitution and child pornography-related crimes, kidnap or assault for the purpose of committing a sex crime, soliciting another person to commit a sex offense, and attempt or conspiracy to commit any of the included crimes.<sup>471</sup>

SITUATION 2: You can also be required to register based on convictions for crimes that are not listed in § 290(c) if you committed the crime “as a result of sexual compulsion or for purposes of sexual gratification.”<sup>472</sup> This determination is made by the judge when you are convicted or sentenced for the crime.<sup>473</sup>

SITUATION 3: Even if you were not convicted of a qualifying sex crime, you will be required to register if you meet any of the following criteria:

- You were adjudicated (found guilty) as a ward in juvenile court for certain sex offenses and committed to the CDCR Division of Juvenile Justice (DJJ) (formerly the California Youth Authority or CYA) or the equivalent agency in another state;<sup>474</sup>
- You have been found not guilty by reason of insanity of any offense listed in Cal. Penal Code § 290(c);<sup>475</sup>
- You have ever been found to be a Mentally Disordered Sex Offender (MDSO) or Sexually Violent Predator (SVP);<sup>476</sup>
- You have been convicted in another state or in a federal or military court of an offense that has the same elements as one of the offenses listed in Cal. Penal Code § 290(c).<sup>477</sup> Also, if you are required to register as a sex offender in another state, you are almost certainly required to register with California law enforcement when you are in California.<sup>478</sup>

WHEN SHOULD I LEARN ABOUT MY DUTY TO REGISTER AS A SEX OFFENDER?

When you are sentenced for a sex offense, the court should inform you of your duty to register.<sup>479</sup> If you pled guilty or no contest to a sex offense, you should also have been informed of any registration requirement before you entered your plea.<sup>480</sup> In addition, when you are released from incarceration, the custody or supervision agency (that is, the parole or probation department) should inform you of your registration requirements.<sup>481</sup> For example, if you are in state prison, your correctional counselor and parole officer should go over the registration requirement as part of informing you about your conditions of parole (see PG. 161). See PG. 173 for a discussion of the limited situations in which you might be able to challenge a registration requirement.

DO I HAVE TO REGISTER IN CALIFORNIA IF I LIVE IN A DIFFERENT STATE BUT SOMETIMES GO TO WORK OR SCHOOL IN CALIFORNIA?

If you live in another state, but you are employed in or doing business in California for more than 14 days in a row or more than 30 days in a year, OR if you are attending school full-time or part-time in California, you are required to register in California.<sup>482</sup>

DO I HAVE TO REGISTER IN CALIFORNIA IF I MOVE OUT OF STATE?

If you are moving out of state, you must tell the local California authorities in the city or county that you are leaving; and the notification must be given in person and within 5 working days of your move.<sup>483</sup> After that, you don't need to keep registering in California, so long as you do not spend much time in California (but see the previous question if you work or go to school here).<sup>484</sup>

However, you may need to register in your new state because the Federal Sex Offender Registration and Notification Act (SORNA) requires sex offenders to register with local authorities in each location in which they reside, are employed or are going to school. The SORNA registration requirements can last for between 10 years and life, depending on the nature of the sex crime and whether you have a clean record after being <sup>474</sup> CAL. PENAL CODE § 290.008. The list of juvenile offenses for which registration is required is shorter than that which applies to adults or juveniles tried as adults. Compare CAL. See also In re Derrick B. (2006) 39 Cal.4th 535, 539- 540 (court does not have authority to require juvenile to register for offense not listed in registration statute applicable to juveniles, even if offense was committed for sexual gratification). Also, registration is not required if the juvenile was discharged from the CYA for the sex offense before January 1, 1986. CAL. PENAL CODE § 290.008(a).

Even though the SVP determination process is civil and not criminal, it still triggers a registration requirement under CAL. PENAL CODE § 290 et seq. See CAL. WEL. & INST. CODE § 6600. On the other hand, the MDSO designation allowed for people on state parole to be committed to state mental health institutions or outpatient programs. The MDSO law was repealed in 1982, but individuals who were in state hospitals and community programs at the date it was repealed are still subject to its provisions and are required to register under Section 290.) <sup>480</sup> See People v. McClellan (1993) 6 Cal.4th 367, 379-381 (defendant may be allowed to withdraw guilty plea if he was not advised of mandatory registration requirement and would not have entered the plea if he had known of it); People v. Olea (1977) 59 Cal.App.4th 1289, 1298-1299 (discretionary registration requirement may not be imposed after no contest or guilty plea unless the possibility of registration was included in the plea agreement). Any challenge to the plea should be filed as soon as the defendant becomes aware of the registration requirement; otherwise, the challenge may be deemed to be untimely. ## I HAVE TO REGISTER AS A SEX OFFENDER IN CALIFORNIA. HOW AND WHEN DO I REGISTER?

If you are required to register as a sex offender, here are the basic steps for how to register—including important information on when you have to do it:

STEP 1: Gather the information and documents you need to register.

As soon as you can (perhaps a trusted loved one or advocate could even help while you are still incarcerated), you should gather all of the information and documents you will need to register. This includes:

- The address(es) of all of your current residence(s) (see STEP 3 for more information);<sup>487</sup>
- Proof of your residence location—such as an ID with your address, a recent rent or utility bill or receipt, or a bank or official document showing your address;<sup>488</sup>
- The name and address of your employer; and
- The license plate number of any car that you drive regularly.

STEP 2: If possible, call ahead to the city police department (or sheriff's department if your city does not have a police department) to verify where and when you can register.

Some city police departments (or sheriff's departments if your city has no police department) have special locations and hours when they register people. Calling ahead can help you avoid wasting time waiting around at the police station. If you cannot reach the city police by phone to verify hours and location, that is okay—just skip this step and go in person.

STEP 3: Within 5 days of your release from custody or on to parole or probation, you must register in person with the city police department (or the sheriff's department if there is no city police department) in every place that you live. Bring the information and documents (see Step 1) you need with you!

You have 5 working days after you are released from custody (prison or jail) or placed on supervision (parole or probation) to register.<sup>489</sup> You must register in person with the police department in the city where you live, or with the sheriff's department if you live in an unincorporated area or in a city that has no police department.<sup>490</sup> If you live at more than one address, and your addresses are in different cities or counties, you must register with multiple police or sheriff's departments so that you are registered in all locations.<sup>491</sup>

PLEASE NOTE: The definition of “residence” here is broad and you can be “residing” at an address for registration purposes even if you are only spending the night there occasionally or staying there on a temporary basis.<sup>492</sup>

When you register, you will be required to provide all of your current residence addresses.<sup>493</sup> Your fingerprints will be taken. You must also provide the name and address of your employer, the license plate number of any car that you drive regularly, and proof of your residence location, such as an ID with your address, a recent rent or utility bill or receipt, or a bank or official document showing your address.<sup>494</sup>

IMPORTANT! Ask the police for proof of your registration. The police must provide you with a copy free of charge.

<sup>485</sup> 42 U.S.C. § 16901 et seq. (effective on July 27, 2006). SORNA has withstood most constitutional challenges. See e.g., United States v. Shoulder (9th Cir. 2013) 738 F.3d 948 (SORNA does not violate ex post facto or due process clause, and is within the scope of Congress's authority); United States v. Elkins (9th Cir. 2012) 683 F.3d 1039 (SORNA does not violate ex post facto clause); United States v. Richardson (9th Cir. 2014) 754 F.3d 1143 (OK to delegate authority to Attorney General to determine extent of SORNA's retroactive applicability); United States v. Cabrera-Gutierrez (9th Cir. 2013) 756 F.3d 1125 (U.S. Congress has authority under Commerce Clause to enact SORNA); but see Reynolds v. United States (2012) ___ U.S. __; 132 S. Ct. 975 (sex offenders whose crimes were committed prior to SORNA can't be punished for violations that occurred before U.S. Attorney General issued valid retroactivity rules) and United States v. Mattix (9th Cir. 2012) 694 F.3d 1082 (SORNA's effective date for people with pre-SORNA sex offenses is August 1, 2008).

Gonzales* (2010) 183 Cal.App.4th 24 (upholding conviction for failing to register as a second “residence” a place where defendant visited about three times a week but did not spend the night); *People v. STEP 4: If you are a college student, employed by a college, or living on a college campus, you must also register with the campus police.<sup>495</sup>

STEP 5: Update your registration every year within 5 working days of your birthday—and more often if you fall into one of the special categories listed below.**

Unless you fall into a special category listed below, you must re-register every year, within 5 business days of your birthday, with the police department in the city where you live (or with the county sheriff's department if your city is unincorporated or has no police department).<sup>496</sup>

**SPECIAL CATEGORIES*** - People who Must Register More Often than Once Every Year:

In addition to registering every year within 5 working days of your birthday, you must register more often if you fall into one of the following categories . . .

- If you are homeless (called “transient” by parole and the relevant laws), you are required to register within 5 working days of release from prison or jail, at least every 30 days after that, and within 5 working days of your birthday every year.<sup>497</sup>
- If you have a home but then become homeless, you must update your registration within 5 working days of losing your home.<sup>498</sup> When you register, you will have to provide information about where you sleep, eat, work, and spend time.<sup>499</sup> Note that if you spend the night at a shelter, that shelter qualifies as a “residence,” and you will have to register the address of the shelter within 5 working days of going there.<sup>500</sup> If you then find a place to live, you must update your registration and tell the authorities your new address within 5 working days.<sup>501</sup>
- If you have ever been found to be a Sexually Violent Predator (SVP), you must update your registration every 90 days, and within 5 working days of your birthday every year.<sup>502</sup>
- If you change your name, you must notify the police or sheriff within 5 working days of your name change, and within 5 working days of your birthday every year.<sup>503</sup>
- If you get sent to the CDCR or a state mental hospital, officials at those institutions are supposed to inform the California Department of Justice (DOJ) of your confinement.<sup>504</sup> If you are incarcerated or civilly committed for 30 days or more, you must re-register within 5 days of your release.<sup>505</sup> NOTE: You do not need to re-register if you are incarcerated or civilly committed for less than 30 days and you then return to your last registered address (unless your normal re-registration date came up while you were incarcerated—in which case you still need to re-register).<sup>506</sup>

STEP 6: If you are on state parole, you must also provide your parole officer with proof of registration within 6 working days of your release from prison.

If you are on parole, you must also provide your parole officer with proof of registration within 6 working days of your release from prison.<sup>507</sup> The police must provide you with a copy of your registration form free of charge. You must notify your parole officer of any updates or changes to your registration information within 5 working days of the update or change.<sup>508</sup>

DO I HAVE TO DISCLOSE ALL MY INTERNET ACCOUNTS AND EMAIL ADDRESSES?

In November 2012, California voters passed Proposition 35 (the CASE Act), which would require 290 registrants to turn over lists of all of their Internet identifiers and service providers to the law enforcement agencies with which they register (see definitions in footnote).<sup>509</sup> Registrants would also have to give written notification

<sup>509</sup> CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 290.014(b), 290.015(a)(4)-(6). An “internet service provider” is “a business, organization, or other entity providing a computer and communications facility directly to consumers through which a person may obtain access to the Internet,” but does not include “any system operated or services offered by a library or educational institution.” CAL. PENAL CODE § 290.024(a). An “internet identifier” is “an electronic mail address, user name, screen name, or similar identifier used for the purpose of Internet forum

within 24 hours of any change to their internet identifiers or service providers.<sup>510</sup> The internet information must be updated as part of the annual registration process, and the registrant must sign statement acknowledging the requirement.<sup>511</sup>

However, civil rights advocates (the ACLU and others) have filed a federal lawsuit arguing that Proposition 35 violates the U.S. Constitution's First Amendment rights to free speech and free association. In January 2013, the federal court granted a preliminary injunction, which has been upheld by the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeal.<sup>512</sup> This means that the state of California cannot enforce Proposition 35 unless and until a court rules that Proposition 35 does not violate the U.S. Constitution.

FOR HOW LONG DO I HAVE TO REGISTER AS A SEX OFFENDER?

If you have to register as a sex offender in California, then you must register for the rest of your life, so long as you live in the state.<sup>513</sup> It does not matter whether you are on or off parole, PCRS or probation, or whether you have otherwise completed your criminal sentence.

HOW MUCH TIME DO I HAVE TO REGISTER WITH THE CITY POLICE AFTER I AM RELEASED FROM PRISON OR JAIL, OR PLACED ON PAROLE OR PROBATION?

You have 5 working days to register after you are released from custody or placed on probation or parole.<sup>514</sup> When you register, you will be required to provide all of your current residence addresses.<sup>515</sup> Your fingerprints will be taken. You must also provide the name and address of your employer, the license plate number of any car that you drive regularly, and proof of your residence location, such as an ID with your address, a recent rent or utility bill or receipt, or a bank or official document showing your address.<sup>516</sup>

I AM A 290 REGISTRANT ATTENDING CLASSES OR EMPLOYED AT A COLLEGE. DO I HAVE TO REGISTER WITH THE SCHOOL?

Yes. If you are a college student, employed by a college, or living on a college campus, you must also register with the campus police.<sup>517</sup>

WHAT HAPPENS IF I FAIL TO REGISTER AS A SEX OFFENDER?

Failure to register is a crime. If your underlying sex offense was a misdemeanor conviction or juvenile adjudication, then failure to register is usually a misdemeanor for the first offense, and a felony for any further violations. If your underlying sex offense conviction was a felony conviction, failure to register is usually a felony.<sup>518</sup>

There is no end to when you can be charged for failure to register since California courts consider it to be a continuing offense (in other words, there is no statute of limitations to charging someone with this as a crime).<sup>519</sup> If you fail to register after moving to a new state, you could also be convicted of violating federal registration laws.<sup>520</sup>

You can be convicted of a separate offense for each requirement you violate. For example, you can be convicted of two crimes for failing to update your registration annually and failing to inform authorities of a change of address, even if both offenses happened during the same time period.<sup>521</sup> However, there are rules that prevent California courts from imposing sentences for two or more registration crimes that stem from one single act. For example, if you move to a new county and do not notify the police or appropriate authorities in either the county you are leaving OR the county you are entering, you can be convicted of two crimes but can be punished for only one.<sup>522</sup>

The punishment for failure to register can be severe. Many of the crimes that require registration are violent or serious offenses, so a person who fails to register may face a doubled sentence under California's "two strikes law" or even a life sentence under California's "three strikes law."<sup>523</sup> Courts have upheld some third strike sentences for failure to register despite claims that those sentences were cruel and unusual punishment in violation of the U.S. Constitution's Eighth Amendment.<sup>524</sup> In a few cases, courts have overturned life sentences where the failure to register was a technical violation, such as not registering annually though staying at the same address.<sup>525</sup>

WHAT HAPPENS IF MY FAILURE TO REGISTER WAS BY ACCIDENT OR I JUST FORGOT TO REGISTER?

To be considered a crime, your failure to register must be "willful."<sup>526</sup> If you can show that you did not know you had to register or that you were unable to register due to circumstances beyond your control, then you may be able to avoid a conviction for violating the registration law.<sup>527</sup>

HOWEVER, it is very difficult to show that you did not know you had to register unless you were never notified of your duty to register.<sup>528</sup> Simply forgetting to register is not a defense to this crime, even if your memory lapse was related to depression.<sup>529</sup> But if you had a severe, involuntary (uncontrollable) physical or mental condition that caused you not to have actual knowledge of the duty to register, then you should be able to avoid a conviction.<sup>530</sup>

DO I HAVE SPECIAL REGISTRATION REQUIREMENTS AS A TRIBAL MEMBER?

➤ GPS TRACKING

I AM A 290 REGISTRANT. DO I HAVE TO WEAR A GPS TRACKER? FOR HOW LONG?

Under Proposition 83, which became effective on November 8, 2006, if you: (1) have been convicted of a felony that requires you to register as a sex offender, AND (2) were sentenced to prison, then the law says that you must wear a GPS tracking device (usually an ankle bracelet) during your parole, and for the rest of your life.<sup>531</sup>

The GPS requirement does not apply to persons who were convicted AND already paroled, given probation, or otherwise released from custody BEFORE November 8, 2006.<sup>532</sup>

<sup>522</sup> People v. Britt (2004) 32 Cal.4th 944, 953-954; People v. Meeks (2004) 123 Cal.App.4th 695, 703; People v. Villegas (2012) 205 Cal. App. 4th 642 (failure to report move, and failure to report new address upon learning of it, were separate violations which allowed for multiple convictions, but multiple punishments were prohibited).

<sup>523</sup> See CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 667(b)-(i), 667.5(c), 1192.7(c). Although Proposition 36, which passed on November 7, 2012, reduces the scope of California's "Three Strikes" law, a person who has two prior "strikes" and is convicted of failing to register can still get a life sentence in some circumstances.

<sup>524</sup> See, e.g., In re Coley (2012) 55 Cal.4th 524 (not cruel and unusual punishment to sentence defendant to 25 years to life for failing to update registration where refusal to register was intentional and prior criminal history heinous); Crosby v. Schwartz (9th Cir. 2012) 678 F.3d 784 (26 years to life was not cruel and unusual punishment for a registration violation where defendant had lied about his identity in an attempt to deceive); see also People v. App. 4th 1066 ("Because a 25-year recidivist sentence imposed solely for failure to provide duplicate registration information is grossly disproportionate to the offense, shocks the conscience of the court and offends notions of human dignity, it constitutes cruel and unusual punishment under both the state and federal Constitutions. We shall remand the matter to the trial court for resentencing."). See also Gonzalez v. Edgar (2002) 104 Cal.App.4th 210, 221 (conviction reversed where defendant was transient, documents did not provide clear notice of requirements, and prosecutor failed to show defendant knew he was required to register additional addresses); People v. <sup>531</sup> Penal Code § 3004(b); see also Penal Code § 3000.07(a). Also, please note that it is unclear whether the lifetime GPS rule is being enforced (it appears that it is not); and in an interesting development, the U.S. Supreme Court held that forcing a person to wear a GPS device for life constitutes a "search" under the U.S. Constitution's Fourth Amendment. The Court sent the case back to the state courts to rule on whether such a requirement is unreasonable. Grady v. North Carolina (2015) ___ U.S. ___, 135 S.Ct.1368.

However, there are other laws that allow parole authorities, the court, and the Board of Parole Hearings to require parolees to wear GPS tracking devices.<sup>533</sup>

WHEN AND WHERE DO I GET MY GPS TRACKER?

You must report to your parole officer within 1 working day after release from custody (unless instructed otherwise) to get your GPS device.<sup>534</sup>

DO I HAVE TO PAY FOR MY GPS TRACKER?

It's possible. CDCR can require you to pay to cover the cost of the GPS monitoring.<sup>535</sup> But the CDCR can also waive (cancel) these fees if you are unable to pay, and must consider whether you owe any court-ordered fines, restitution, or other payments.<sup>536</sup> If the GPS cost is unaffordable for you, ask for a waiver.

WHAT HAPPENS IF I DON'T WEAR OR DISABLE MY GPS TRACKER?

If you are on parole and do not comply with a GPS requirement, your parole can be revoked. If you do not report on time to get your GPS device, your revocation term will be 180 days unless the court decides that such a term is not appropriate; and if you disable or remove your GPS device, your revocation term will be 180 days.<sup>537</sup> After you are off parole, the law does not specify any punishment if you do not comply with the purportedly "life-long" GPS requirement.<sup>538</sup>

RESIDENCY, MOVEMENT & EMPLOYMENT RESTRICTIONS

I AM A 290 REGISTRANT. ARE THERE RESTRICTIONS ON WHERE I CAN LIVE?

IMPORTANT: There are many rules affecting where 290 registrants can live, move, and work, and extra rules if you are a 290 registrant currently on state parole. Please read carefully to know what applies in your situation!

IMPORTANT LEGAL DEFINITION: "Distance" is measured by a straight line between the main entrance of your residence and the boundary of the nearest park or school – not by driving or walking distance.<sup>539</sup>

RULE 1: If you are a 290 registrant AND currently on state parole AND you were convicted of specific sex acts involving children (specifically any offenses listed under California Penal Code sections 288 or 288.5), AND CDCR determines you to be a "high-risk" parolee, then the law says you cannot live with half a mile (or 2,640 feet) from any K-12 school or park where children regularly gather.<sup>540</sup>

RULE 2: If you are a 290 registrant on parole, are not allowed to live in a single-family house with another 290 registrant, unless they are legally related by birth, marriage, or adoption.<sup>541</sup>

RULE 3: If you are required to register as a sex offender due to a crime against a minor, you cannot reside (except as a client) in a child day care facility or residential facility or a foster family home. Violation of the law is a misdemeanor.<sup>542</sup>

RULE 4: Much stricter and broader residency restrictions were enacted on November 8, 2006 by Proposition 83, which banned registered sex offender from living within 2,000 feet of a school or park where children regularly gather.<sup>543</sup> HOWEVER, in March 2015, the California Supreme Court held that the Proposition 83 residency restrictions were unconstitutional as applied in San Diego County in the case In re Taylor.<sup>544</sup>

DEFINING "HIGH RISK"

When a 290 registrant is released into the community, DAPO conducts a risk assessment to determine their likelihood of returning to prison. The most common risk assessment tool is the Static-99R, which scores each person based on factors such as their age, existing priors, and the gender of the alleged victim. If a person gets a score of 4 or higher, DAPO designates them as a High Risk Sex Offender (HRSO).

The Court found that Proposition 83 severely restricted parolees' ability to find housing, greatly increased homelessness, and hindered access to medical and mental health treatment, drug and alcohol programs, and other rehabilitation services. Instead of promoting public safety, the residence restrictions actually hurt the efforts of parole and law enforcement authorities to supervise and assist sex offender parolees. The court thus concluded that the infringement on parolees' liberty and privacy interests had no rational relationship to advancing the state's legitimate goal of protecting children from sexual predators, and violated the parolees' constitutional Fourteenth Amendment due process right to be free of unreasonable, arbitrary and oppressive official action. Following this decision, judges in other counties began to grant "temporary relief" to many more individual parolees —excusing them from having to follow the residency restrictions under Jessica's Law.<sup>545</sup>

In the In re Taylor case, the California Supreme Court stated that the CDCR still has authority to impose special conditions of parole on a case-by-case basis, including residency restrictions that may be more or less restrictive than those in Proposition 83.<sup>546</sup>

CDCR is now reviewing all 290 registrants on a case-by-case basis—and may impose restrictions less than or greater than 2,000 feet depending on the individual parolee's circumstances.<sup>547</sup> If you are subject to residency restrictions, you may still be able to work in the restricted area - BUT only if you have permission from your parole agent.<sup>548</sup>

CDCR will automatically apply residency restrictions barring 290 registrants from living within 2,000 feet of a school or park apply to individuals convicted as adults of certain offenses involving children<sup>549</sup>—namely Lewd Acts with a Child Under 14,<sup>550</sup> and Continuous Sexual Abuse of a Child.<sup>551</sup> Residency restrictions for all other 290 registrants are determined on a case-by-case basis, based on criminal history and other relevant information.<sup>552</sup> If you are required to register as a sex offender on parole, you can contact your local county public defender's office for more information.

What if I want to live in a nursing home?

If you are applying to a longterm care facility for seniors and are still incarcerated or on community supervision, the CDCR is required by law to disclose your status as a 290 registrant.<sup>553</sup> Whether the facility can deny you on this basis depends on what type of facility it is.

Skilled nursing facilities, defined as healthcare institutions featuring around-the-clock medical support and meeting federal criteria for Medicaid and Medicare reimbursement, may not be able to deny you based on your registrant status IF your doctor recommends your placement there.<sup>554</sup> Assisted-living facilities, on the other hand, usually don't involve doctors' recommendations, as their residents typically need assistance with some day-to-day activities but may not need constant medical care.<sup>555</sup> These facilities can deny or expel you for a variety of reasons, including your 290 status.

Am I allowed to move to another state while I am on parole?

290 registrants can submit a formal application for transfer of supervision to another state, which then has the choice to accept or deny the proposed move. DAPO will send the new state a variety of information to aid it in reaching its decision. This includes your risk assessment scores, a summary of your criminal sexual behavior, a police report, and details about the alleged victim.<sup>556</sup>

If the receiving state approves your application, you are required to report your sex offender registrant status.<sup>557</sup>

Are there any exceptions to these residency restrictions for registered sex offenders?

Yes. There are two types of exceptions:

1. Your parole agent should make exceptions to these conditions if (a) you are mentally ill, and (b) you are either living in a licensed mental health facility or need medical care in such a facility.<sup>558</sup>
2. If you are homeless, you may stay at locations such as bridges, encampments, and bus stops that are closer than 2,000 feet to a school or park, but you must keep your parole agent informed of where you are.<sup>559</sup> Also, if you are homeless, you may stay temporarily at an address without establishing “residency” if the stay is for approved work, receiving medical services, or conducting legitimate business (for example: if you are working or completing a task at a licensed business, professional, or government building).<sup>560</sup>

What happens if I don’t comply with these residency restrictions?

If you are on parole and you do not comply with the residence restrictions, you may be arrested on a parole violation charge, referred for a revocation hearing, and possibly returned to jail for up to 180 days.<sup>561</sup>

I AM A 290 REGISTRANT. ARE THERE CERTAIN PLACES I’M NOT ALLOWED TO GO?

Maybe. Some cities, towns, and counties have enacted local ordinances that prohibit or restrict sex offenders from going to places where children may be present (schools, libraries, museums, parks, bus stops close to parks). However, there have been a lot of recent legal challenges to these types of restrictions.

For example, in 2014, California’s Fourth District Court of Appeal struck down a city ordinance in Irvine that barred sex offenders from entering city parks or recreation facilities without written permission from the police chief.<sup>562</sup> The court held that sex offender registration is governed by state law, and that local governments cannot impose additional or different types of registration requirements. Other cases raising such challenges are still in process. Alliance for Constitutional Sex Offense Laws, a California-based nonprofit organization, provides updates about recent legal developments on its website at www.californiarsol.org.

I AM A 290 REGISTRANT. ARE THERE PLACES I’M NOT ALLOWED TO WORK?

Maybe. If your registerable offense involved a minor, there are restrictions on your ability to work with young people. For example, you cannot work or volunteer in a child day care facility, residential facility, or a foster family home.<sup>563</sup> If your crime involved a minor under the age of 16, you cannot work or volunteer directly with minors in a setting that would leave you unaccompanied on more than an incidental or occasional basis, nor can you have supervisory or disciplinary power over a child.<sup>564</sup>

Even if your crime was not against a minor under age 16, if you want to work or volunteer in a setting where you will touch minors or will be around minors regularly without other people present, then you must notify the employer or volunteer organization that you are a sex offender registrant when you apply for or accept the position.<sup>565</sup> Failure to comply with ANY of the above laws is a misdemeanor.<sup>566</sup>

If you want to obtain a license for some type of business or profession, your criminal history including your sex offense may affect whether you will be granted a license. (See PG. 601 for more information.) You should check with the agency responsible for issuing licenses for information on its policies and application procedures. Also, prospective employers generally can ask you at some point in the process about your criminal conviction history before deciding whether or not to hire you. See [PG. Error! ## ➤ PUBLIC NOTIFICATION

I AM A 290 REGISTRANT. CAN THE GOVERNMENT RELEASE INFORMATION ABOUT ME TO THE PUBLIC?

Probably. Unless you fall under certain exceptions or your sex offense was handled in juvenile court, the state can publish your name, photograph, physical description, date of birth, and zip code on the internet.<sup>567</sup> This information is published on what is sometimes called the “Megan’s Law” website, after a public notification law passed in 2004.<sup>568</sup> The government can’t publish certain information about you; this means the Megan’s Law website should not include the name of your employer or any criminal history not related to your registration requirement.<sup>569</sup>

In addition to the Megan’s Law website, state and local law enforcement agencies can release information about 290 registrants by other means when necessary to protect the public.<sup>570</sup>

WARNING: It is a misdemeanor for a 290 registrant to look at the Megan’s Law website.<sup>571</sup> However, according to the Alliance for Constitutional Sex Offense Laws, it is not illegal to ask a non-290 registrant to obtain that information, then print or email it to you.<sup>572</sup>

I THINK I AM BEING DISCRIMINATED AGAINST OR TARGETED BECAUSE OF PUBLIC INFORMATION ABOUT MY SEX OFFENSE. IS THIS LEGAL?

The information on the Megan’s Law website should only be used for protection of the public. If it is used to commit a crime against you, the person who committed the crime may be punished and can also be liable in a civil suit.<sup>573</sup>

You cannot be excluded from a public business establishment because of your registration status. In addition, the information should not be used to deny you health insurance, credit, educational funds, housing, or (with certain exceptions) a job.<sup>574</sup>

CAN I GET MY INFORMATION REMOVED FROM THE MEGAN’S LAW WEBSITE?

You can apply to be taken off the Megan’s Law website if you have never been found to be a Sexually Violent Predator (SVP) AND your only registerable sex offenses fall into any of the following categories:

1. A violation of Penal Code section 243.4(a) (sexual battery);
2. A misdemeanor violation of Penal Code section 647.6 (child molestation) or former section 647(a) (Lewd conduct in public);
3. An offense that did not involve oral copulation or penetration of any type where the victim was your child, stepchild, grandchild or sibling AND for which you successfully completed or are successfully serving probation; or
4. A violation of Penal Code sections 311.1; 311.2(b), (c), or (d); 311.3; 311.4; 311.10 or 311.1 (offenses related to child pornography), if the minor was 16 years or older.

➤ OTHER SPECIAL CONDITIONS OF PAROLE THAT APPLY TO 290 REGISTRANTS

I AM A 290 REGISTRANT, AND I AM ON STATE PAROLE. WHAT OTHER SPECIAL CONDITIONS OF PAROLE COULD APPLY TO ME?

Parole officials may impose other special conditions on parolees who were convicted of sex offenses. Some of these are required by state law and others can be imposed at the discretion of parole officials.

Mandatory special conditions of parole—meaning they are required by state law—include the following:

- Attendance at group therapy for at least one year;
- Waiver (giving up) of the privilege against self-incrimination;
- Waiver the right not to participate in polygraph examination;

<sup>568</sup> These public notification rules apply even to a person who entered a plea bargain to a sex offense prior to the adoption of Megan’s Law on September 24, 2004, unless there was a specific agreement that future retroactive changes to the registration laws wouldn’t apply. See Doe v. Harris, 57 Cal.4th 64. (2013).

- Waiver of psychotherapist-patient privilege during conversations with state-funded therapists. This means that any information you share in a therapy session could be used against you in the future if you ever face new criminal charges or Sexually Violent Predatory (SVP) proceedings.<sup>575</sup>

Discretionary special conditions of parole—meaning the parole officer gets to decide based on individual factors whether or not to impose these—include the following possibilities:

- Limitations or prohibitions on accessing computers, the Internet, or certain publications.<sup>576</sup>
- Prohibitions on living with minors, including your own children, step-children, nieces, nephews, or siblings.<sup>577</sup>

NOTE: In the Packingham v. North Carolina case, decided in 2017, the U.S. Supreme Court invalidated a North Carolina law prohibiting sex offender registrants from accessing social media websites.<sup>578</sup> Though California does not have a similar law, the Packingham case could be useful to refer to when challenging parole conditions related to social media or Internet usage.

WHAT HAPPENS IF I DON'T COMPLY WITH ONE OF THESE CONDITIONS?

Violating a condition of parole can subject you to a parole revocation term of up to 180 days in jail.<sup>579</sup> If the violation is a crime, you could also face new criminal charges. Moreover, re-incarceration on a parole violation or a new criminal term could potentially trigger a Sexually Violent Predator (SVP) evaluation and SVP commitment proceedings.

I THINK MY PAROLE CONDITIONS ARE UNFAIR OR ILLEGAL. WHAT CAN I DO?

Generally, a parole condition is valid unless you can show that the condition (1) has no relation to the crime of which you have been convicted; (2) relates to conduct which is not in itself criminal; and (3) requires or forbids conduct that is not reasonably related to future criminality.<sup>580</sup>

You can also convince a court to hold a parole condition invalid if the condition infringes upon a constitutional right and is not reasonably related to a compelling state interest.<sup>581</sup> Conditions that affect constitutional rights may also be invalid if they are broader than necessary to promote public safety or rehabilitation or if they are so vague that they cannot be understood and followed.<sup>582</sup> Also, conditions of parole that limit employment must directly relate to your crime.<sup>583</sup>

If you think your parole conditions are illegal under the above standards, you may be able to challenge them using the legal procedures described in the next section.

➤ CHALLENGING 290 REGISTRATION & RESTRICTIONS

HOW DO I CHALLENGE MY 290 SEX OFFENDER REGISTRATION REQUIREMENT, RESIDENCY RESTRICTIONS, OR OTHER CONDITIONS OF PAROLE?

You may think you have good legal grounds to challenge a 290 registration requirement, other statutory requirement (such as GPS tracking, or a restriction on where you can live or go or a public notification provision), or parole condition. The procedures you can use to fight the restriction or requirement will depend on which part of the state government set the rule, the point in time at which you are filing your case, whether

<sup>577</sup> Whether such conditions are lawful depends on case-by-case factors, such as the scope of the condition, your type and number of sex offenses, the findings of any risk assessment evaluation, the sex and age of the minor child, and the closeness of the family relationship. See e.g., United States v. Wolf Child (9th Cir 2012) 699 F.3d 1082 (unreasonable and overbroad to prohibit registrant from living with or being in company of any minor under 18 or socializing with anyone with minor children, resulting in registrant being unable to live with or see his own (non-victim) daughters or socialize with his fiancée).

Although Dominguez and Lent concern probation conditions, courts apply the same legal analysis to conditions of parole. In re Corona, 160 Cal.App.4th 315 (2008); In re Stevens, 119 Cal.App.4th 1228, 1234 (2004).

or not you are still in custody or on some type of supervised release (parole, PRCS or probation), and whether the issue is a matter of state law or federal law. Sometimes you will have several different options. The following sub-sections very briefly and generally summarize the available legal procedures.

No matter what type of court action you file, can request that the court stay enforcement of the requirement or restriction while your case is going on. A court is more likely to grant your request if you can convince the court that your fundamental rights are being violated in a manner that will cause you irreparable harm and that you are likely to eventually win your case.<sup>584</sup> You should state on the cover page of your first petition or complaint that you are making a “Request for Stay,” and then in the next few pages explain why the court should stay the requirement or restriction.

Upon request, the Prison Law Office can provide free, detailed information on each of these types of actions. Information manuals and forms are also available on the Resources page of the Prison Law Office website at www.prisonlaw.com. You can write them at:

Administrative Appeal

If you are challenging a condition of parole set by CDCR (and which is not a condition required by a state statute or court order), you almost always must file a CDCR Form 602 administrative appeal before you can file any type of court action in either state or federal court. If your administrative appeal is denied, you should keep re-filing it until you get responses at all three levels of review.

If you are challenging a requirement set by a state statute or a court order, then you do not need to go through the 602 administrative appeal process. The 602 appeals process is described in detail starting on PG. 178.

Direct Criminal Appeal

If you were very recently convicted of a sex crime and your sentencing included a registration order, or if you recently had your parole revoked or were otherwise subjected to a court order imposing a new condition of probation or parole, then you can challenge the court’s order in a direct appeal. You can also file a direct appeal from a conviction for violating the registration laws. You must file a notice of direct appeal within 60 days after you are sentenced.

You can raise both state law and federal law issues in a direct appeal. However, if you pled guilty or no contest, the types of issues you can raise will be limited. If you do not have money to pay a lawyer, the court will appoint a lawyer to represent you in your direct appeal case.

State Habeas Corpus Petition

If you are in custody or on parole, probation, or PRCS, then you can file a state court petition for writ of habeas corpus challenging a sex offender requirement or restriction imposed by the court, state law, CDCR parole officials, or local probation officials. You can raise state and/or federal legal claims. Be aware that if you could have raised your issue on direct appeal, or if you delayed in filing your habeas petition, you may have to convince the court why your case should be allowed to proceed anyway. Otherwise, state habeas procedures are relatively simple and speedy.

If the court allows the case to proceed, it must appoint an attorney for you if you want and can’t afford one. If a local superior court denies your petition, you can re-file it, first in the Court of Appeal, then in the California Supreme Court.

State Petition for Writ of Mandate

If you are NOT either incarcerated or under parole, probation or PRCS supervision, then you CANNOT file a state habeas petition. Instead, you can challenge your sex offender registration or other requirement by filing a petition for writ of mandate.<sup>585</sup> Mandate procedures are somewhat similar to habeas corpus procedures. If your petition for writ of mandate is denied, you can re-file your case to the court of appeal and then to the California Supreme Court. The court has discretion to appoint an attorney to represent you, but there appears to be no requirement that it do so.

Federal Habeas Corpus Petition

If you are in custody or on parole, probation, or PRCS for your sex offense, you can file a federal habeas corpus petition challenging your sex offender requirements or restrictions.<sup>586</sup> However you must first have presented your issues to the California Supreme Court, either through a direct appeal or a state habeas corpus petition.

Federal habeas involves very strict timelines and procedural requirements, and the federal courts have limited authority to overturn state court decisions. Also, you can only raise federal law claims. The court has discretion to appoint an attorney to represent you, but there is no requirement that it do so in most cases. If your petition is denied, you may be able to appeal to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Federal Civil Rights (§ 1983) Lawsuit

If you are either in OR out of custody, you can challenge a sex offender requirement or restriction by filing a federal civil rights (§ 1983) lawsuit. However, your lawsuit must not attack the validity of your criminal conviction or sentence OR seek a speedier release from parole.<sup>587</sup> You can generally raise only federal law issues (although there may be circumstances in which you can also include closely related state law claims). You may be able to ask for injunctive relief (an order that the state do or stop doing something) and/or money damages.

Unfortunately, federal civil rights lawsuits can involve complicated and slow procedures. Also, the court can ask an attorney to represent you only in exceptional circumstances. If you lose your case, you may be able to appeal to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals.<sup>588</sup>

SPECIAL CONDITIONS OF PAROLE FOR MENTALLY DISORDERED OFFENDERS (MDO)

WHAT DOES IT MEAN TO BE A “MENTALLY DISORDERED OFFENDER” (MDO) – AND WHAT MANDATORY SPECIAL CONDITIONS APPLY TO MDOS ON PAROLE?

Under state law, you may be classified as a “mentally disordered offender” (MDO) on parole only if:

1. You have been diagnosed with a serious mental illness that causes you to pose a substantial danger of physical harm to others, AND
2. You have been sentenced to prison for an offense involving violence.<sup>589</sup>

According to the CDCR, if you are a MDO, must receive inpatient treatment from the Department of State Hospitals (DSH)<sup>590</sup> as a mandatory condition of parole.

WHO DECIDES WHETHER I’M A MDO? WHEN DOES THIS HAPPEN?

There are several steps to the MDO determination process:

STEP 1: First, while you are in prison, CDCR mental health staff and a DSH psychologist or psychiatrist must screen you for classification as a MDO.<sup>591</sup>

STEP 2: If both agree that you qualify as a MDO, the CDCR should send certification papers to the Board of Parole Hearings (BPH) stating that you have been found to be a MDO.<sup>592</sup>

STEP 3: The BPH must notify you that you’ll have to undergo DSH inpatient treatment as a parole condition.<sup>593</sup> The BPH must also notify you of your right to challenge the MDO finding.<sup>594</sup>

I THINK I’VE BEEN WRONGLY CLASSIFIED AS A MDO. WHAT CAN I DO?

You can challenge the CDCR’s finding that you are a MDO, which means requesting a hearing before the BPH. If you challenge the finding, the BPH must do the following:

1. Have you evaluated by two independent mental health professionals, AND
2. Hold a hearing before a BPH commissioner.

At the hearing, the state will be required to prove “by a preponderance of evidence” (that it’s more likely than not) that you’re a MDO – specifically, that (1) you’ve been diagnosed with a serious mental illness that causes you to pose a substantial danger of physical harm to others, AND (2) you were sentenced to prison for a violent offense.<sup>595</sup> If you want a lawyer at the hearing, the state must provide one for free.<sup>596</sup>

What if, at this hearing, the BPH commissioner decides to agree with the CDCR’s finding that you are a MDO? You can challenge that decision by filing a petition in the local county superior court to demand a jury trial. If you request a trial, the BPH must provide you with (1) a petition form and (2) instructions for filing the petition. At trial, the state must prove “beyond a reasonable doubt” that you met the criteria of being classified as a MDO.<sup>597</sup> If you want a lawyer at trial, the state must provide one for free.

I HAVE BEEN FOUND TO BE A MDO. CAN I ASK TO BE TREATED AS AN OUTPATIENT?

It might be possible. The normal rule is that if you are a MDO on parole, you must be placed in inpatient treatment (confined to a state hospital where you will live and receive mental health treatment) – unless the Department of State Hospitals (DSH) finds that you can be treated safely as an outpatient.<sup>598</sup>

After 60 days in DSH custody, you can request a hearing before a BPH commissioner to ask for outpatient status as a MDO (this means you would live in the community but go to a mental health hospital for treatment).<sup>599</sup> At the hearing, the DSH must show by “a preponderance of the evidence” (that it is more likely than not) that you require inpatient treatment.<sup>600</sup> Once you request this hearing, you have the right to a free appointed attorney (called a “panel attorney”)<sup>601</sup> and the appointment of two independent evaluators. If you disagree with the BPH commissioner’s decision, you may appeal it in county superior court (see below for more information).<sup>602</sup>

ONCE I HAVE BEEN FOUND TO BE A MDO, WHEN AND HOW OFTEN WILL MY MDO STATUS BE REVIEWED?

The BPH must review your status as a MDO when you reach your presumptive discharge date (PDD: the date when you should be discharged early from parole, unless the BPH finds a good reason to keep you; see PG. 153). At that date, the BPH must decide to recommend either that you continue in your MDO inpatient placement, or that you be discharged.<sup>603</sup> If the BPH recommends that you continue in your MDO placement, it MUST hold re-commitment proceedings, which are similar to the original MDO commitment procedures (see PG. 176 for information about the initial MDO classification process that happens in prison).<sup>604</sup> Before you are re-committed, you should receive written notice of the decision.<sup>605</sup> If you are re-committed multiple times as a MDO, you could end up serving your entire parole term in a DSH hospital.<sup>606</sup>

CAN THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE HOSPITALS (DSH) HOLD ME BEYOND MY MAXIMUM DISCHARGE DATE (MDD)?

Possibly. If you are classified as a MDO and you reach your maximum discharge date (your maximum parole term under state law, after which you must be discharged; see PG. 153), the DSH can seek to continue your mental health commitment. This means you would have to stay in inpatient treatment for one more year.<sup>607</sup>

WHAT IS THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE HOSPITALS (DSH)?

The DSH was created in 2012 to take over the functions of the now-defunct Department of Mental Health (DMH). DSH oversees inpatient mental health treatment facilities in California.

WHAT IS “RE-COMMITMENT”?

Re-commitment is the process by which DSH decides that a person is still a MDO and must be confined in a DSH facility for another year.

The district attorney will represent the DSH. At trial, the DSH must prove that you still meet MDO criteria – that you are (1) diagnosed with a serious mental illness that causes you to pose a substantial danger of physical harm to others, AND (2) were sentenced to prison for an offense involving violence.<sup>609</sup>

<sup>609</sup> The burden of proof in an MDO hearing is “beyond a reasonable doubt”—this means that in order for you to be re-committed, the district attorney must prove, beyond a reasonable doubt, that you are still both: (1) diagnosed with a serious mental illness that causes you to pose a substantial danger of physical harm to others AND (2) were sentenced to prison for an offense involving violence. ## HOW TO CHALLENGE STATE PAROLE CONDITIONS

HELPFUL HINT

It's suggested that you sign the Form 1515, and then challenge the condition later. Don't refuse to sign!

First, while you can and should challenge a parole condition that you believe is unlawful, it is usually best for you to sign the CDCR Form 1515: "Notice and Conditions of Parole," and to follow all the conditions while you are taking steps to challenge the problematic condition. Otherwise, you may end up having to spend additional time in custody while the matter is being resolved. (For an example Form 1515, see Appendix G, PG. 268)

HOW CAN I CHALLENGE A PAROLE CONDITION THAT I BELIEVE IS UNLAWFUL?

IF THE CONDITION WAS IMPOSED BY THE BPH:

To challenge a BPH decision or a parole condition set by the BPH, you do not need to file an administrative appeal – UNLESS the issue involves a disability. Since the BPH has no administrative appeal process, you can immediately file a state petition for writ of habeas corpus with the superior court in the county of your parole. See Appendix K, PG. 280, at the end of this chapter, to learn about the process.

IF THE CONDITION WAS IMPOSED BY PAROLE:

To challenge a parole condition imposed by the Department of Adult Parole Operations (DAPO or "Parole"), you will have to file an administrative appeal, known as a 602 appeal. Keep in mind there are very strict time limits to this entire process, and there are three levels to the appeals process before going to court!

You can challenge your parole conditions by following these steps:

STEP 1: Begin your administrative appeal by filing CDCR Forms 22 and 602—and include no more than one issue per form. In general, you have 30 calendar days to submit the appeal after the problem occurs

Submit these two forms at the same time: (1) a CDCR Form 22 to your parole agent, requesting an interview to discuss the issue; and (2) a CDCR Form 602 appeal to the Regional Appeals Coordinator.

Attach a copy of your Form 22 request to your Form 602 appeal; and, vice versa, attach a copy of your Form 602 to your Form 22 request.<sup>610</sup>

- SUBMIT FORM 22: File a CDCR Form 22, "Request for Interview, Item or Service" with your parole agent.<sup>611</sup> You can get this form from any parole field office.<sup>612</sup> There is an example of Form 22 in Appendix I, PG. 275, but always ask for the most current version. Once you have filled out the Form 22, you can deliver it by mail or in person to your parole agent at your parole office. To find your local parole office's address, visit the following online directory and click on your region:
  - From the time your parole agent receives your Form 22 request, he or she has 3 working days to return the form you submitted with the agent's response on it, along with a copy of the response. Specifically, your parole agent must: (1) note his or her decision on the original form, (2) sign and date the original form, and (3) retain a copy for his or her records.<sup>613</sup>
- SUBMIT FORM 602: At the same time, submit a formal administrative appeal using CDCR Form 602 to your Regional Appeals Coordinator.<sup>614</sup> There is an example Form 602 in Appendix J, PG. 277, but always ask your parole agent for the most current version. Along with filling out the Form 602, compile all supporting documents listed on the form. You MUST also include both a copy of your CDCR Form 1515 AND a copy of your Form 22 as supporting documents. Enclose all these documents along with your Form 602, and send it to your Regional Appeals Coordinator. Ask your agent or see Appendix D on PG. 263 for a list of Regional Appeals Coordinators.

WARNING: If you send a CDCR Form 602 appeal to the DAPO Regional Appeals Coordinator before filing a CDCR Form 22 with your parole agent, the Appeals Coordinator may screen out and reject your 602 appeal because Parole wants parolees to try and solve issues informally with their agents before a formal appeal is processed. As long as you file the Form 22 and Form 602 at the same time (and attach a copy of each one to the other one), your 602 appeal should be reviewed. Note that the timeline for your agent to respond to your Form 22 request is much shorter than the timeline the Appeals Coordinator has to respond to your Form 602 appeal.

IMPORTANT NOTE ABOUT GATHERING SUPPORTING DOCUMENTS: Time limits are not suspended just because you are attempting to get supporting documents; you should go ahead and file your appeal and explain why you are unable to get the documents.<sup>615</sup> If you do that, the Appeals Coordinator might grant you additional time to get the documents.<sup>616</sup> Failure to meet the timelines may cause you to lose the opportunity to exhaust administrative remedies; thus, you should always file your appeal as soon as possible after the incident or decision that is the subject of your grievance.<sup>617</sup>

STEP 2: CDCR has 30 working days to respond to your 602 administrative appeal (this is called the “first level” of the appeal process).

You should receive a response to your 602 within 30 working days (so don't count state holidays or weekends). In most cases, if CDCR denies your 602 appeal at the first level of review, you must continue your challenge through all three levels of the administrative appeals process before you can start a case in court.<sup>618</sup>

There are special rules for processing 602 appeals concerning miscalculated parole discharge dates. First level review is done by the records office staff.<sup>619</sup> If your appeal is denied at the first level, you can request second level review, which consists of a “computation review hearing.” Unless you waive (give up) these rights, you should be notified at least 24 hours before the date and time of the hearing.<sup>620</sup> At the end of the hearing, you should get a copy of the hearing decision on a CDCR Form 1033.<sup>621</sup> If your appeal is denied at this second level, and/or if you are dissatisfied with the hearing decision, you can submit your appeal to the CDCR Appeals Chief for third level review.

If CDCR denies your 602 administrative appeal at the first level of review, you have 30 calendar days to submit a second level appeal.

STEP 3: If CDCR denies your 602 administrative appeal at the second level of review, you have 30 calendar days to submit a second level appeal.<sup>622</sup>

STEP 4: Finally, if you exhaust (complete) all three levels of the 602 administrative appeals process, you can continue to challenge the calculation of your parole length (or any other parole condition) by filing a state petition for a writ of habeas corpus in the superior court of the county of your parole. To learn how, see the next question, and Appendix K, PG. 280!

WHAT IS THE LEGAL TEST FOR FINDING SPECIAL CONDITIONS OF PAROLE UNLAWFUL?

This is a review from PG. 162! Courts have held that parole conditions are invalid if they don't pass the following 4 tests:

TEST 1: A parole condition is invalid if it: (1) has no relation to the commitment offense; (2) bars conduct that is not in itself criminal; AND (3) requires or forbids conduct that is not reasonably related to future criminal conduct or activities. You must show that the parole condition is invalid based on all 3 factors (just one or two is not enough).

TEST 2: A parole condition is invalid if it infringes on (violates) a constitutional right AND is broader than necessary to promote public safety or rehabilitation.

TEST 3: A parole condition may be invalid if it is excessively broad or so vague that you cannot understand or follow it.

TEST 4: A parole condition is invalid if it limits the type of employment you can have, but does not directly relate to your crime.

You will need to explain how the parole condition you are challenging is invalid under one of these legal tests.

IMPORTANT NOTE: If you are challenging the length of your parole term, you do not need to use these legal tests, but instead you would explain why the parole term length is incorrect based on the California Penal Code and Title 15 regulations. You would still use the same 602 appeals process described above. To learn more about parole term lengths, see PG. 152.

WHAT TIMELINES MUST I FOLLOW IN SUBMITTING AN ADMINISTRATIVE APPEAL?

To submit an initial 602 administrative appeal, you have 30 days after the problem, event or decision occurs, or after having first knowledge about the action or decision being appealed. If Parole's response doesn't satisfy you at the first- or second-level of the appeals process, you have 30 days to submit a higher-level appeal.<sup>623</sup>

Time limits don't stop while you are trying to get supporting documents, so you should file your appeal and explain why you are unable to get the documents on time.<sup>624</sup> The Appeals Coordinator might grant you additional time to get the documents.<sup>625</sup> Failure to meet the timelines could lead to your appeal being rejected and being unable to go to court—so file your appeal as soon as possible after the problem or incident occurs.<sup>626</sup>

PLEASE NOTE: There are special timelines and procedures for submitting (1) emergency appeals (see PG. 180), (2) appeals of involuntary psychiatric transfer, and (3) disability-related appeals (see PG. 183).<sup>627</sup>

WHEN AND HOW DO I FILE AN APPEAL OF AN INVOLUNTARY PSYCHIATRIC TRANSFER?

You must appeal file an appeal of an involuntary psychiatric transfer within 30 calendar days of receiving the hearing decision. This appeal must be sent directly to the CDCR Appeals Chief in Sacramento for review. If possible, attach a copy of the hearing decision to your appeal.<sup>628</sup>

WHEN AND HOW DO I FILE AN EMERGENCY APPEAL?

If waiting for answers to an appeal under the normal time limits would cause you serious risk of injury or harm, you may file an emergency appeal and ask for more speedy processing.<sup>629</sup> Circumstances in which an emergency appeal can be filed include when you need protective custody or when you are being transferred to a prison where you have an enemy. If you want to file an emergency appeal, write "Emergency Appeal" on the top of the 602 form and submit it to the Appeals Coordinator. You should explain on the form why the appeal should be treated as an emergency. You may also ask that an action (such as a transfer) be delayed until after the appeal is completed. Intentional misuse of the emergency appeal process may qualify as "abuse" as discussed above.<sup>630</sup> If emergency processing is refused, you will be notified of that; the appeal will either be accepted by the Appeals Coordinator for regular processing or returned with a notice that the appeal is being rejected for some reason.<sup>631</sup> If emergency processing is granted, the first level review is waived or bypassed and the appeal will be sent to the second level. Second level review should be completed within five working days.<sup>632</sup> If you do not agree with the second level decision, you may send the appeal back to the Appeals Coordinator, who will send it electronically to the CDCR Appeals Chief for third level review. The third level decision must be completed within five working days.<sup>633</sup>

WHAT TIMELINES MUST CDCR/PAROLE FOLLOW IN RESPONDING TO MY 602 APPEAL?

CDCR/Parole must respond to your 602 appeals within the following time limits:

- Parole has 30 working days (from date of receipt by Appeals Coordinator) to complete and return to you a first level response to your 602 appeal.<sup>634</sup>
- Parole has 30 working days (from date of receipt by Appeals Coordinator) to complete and return to you a second level response to your 602 appeal.<sup>635</sup>
- Parole has 60 working days (from date of receipt by Appeals Chief) to complete and return to you a third level response to your 602 appeal.<sup>636</sup>

IMPORTANT EXCEPTIONS:

- CDCR/Parole is allowed to exceed the above time limits only in certain situations:
- The parolee, staff, or witnesses are unavailable;
- The complexity of the decision, action, or policy requires additional research;
- It's necessary to involve other agencies or jurisdictions in the appeal; or
- A state of emergency requires CDCR/Parole to postpone "nonessential administrative decisions and actions, including normal time requirements for such decisions and actions."

IMPORTANT!

WHAT CAN I DO IS CDCR/PAROLE IS VIOLATING THE LEGAL TIME LIMITS FOR RESPONDING TO MY 602 ADMINISTRATIVE APPEAL?

Except for the Third Level of a 602 appeal, CDCR/Parole must provide you in writing with (1) an explanation of the reasons for delay, and (2) an estimated completion date. This information must be given to you within the time limits listed on PG. 180.<sup>637</sup>

Unfortunately, it is likely that the CDCR Regional Appeals Coordinator office will not provide a formal written response to your 602 appeal within the timelines required by law. Be sure to ask your parole agent and parole agent's supervisor for the formal response to your 602 appeal at any and all of the three levels of review. If you have asked for a formal written response, and you do not receive one in person or by mail within a reasonable time, you can:

(1) File another 602 appeal, noting CDCR and Parole's failure to give you a formal response to your 602 appeal within the timelines required by law.

(2) File a state petition for a writ for habeas corpus in your local superior court. State in the petition that because CDCR and Parole didn't send you a formal response to your 602 appeal within the legal timelines, you've exhausted (completed) the only administrative appeals process available to you.

(3) Take informal actions to help create a record of what is happening with your original 602, such as:

→ Calling the Regional Appeals Coordinator office requesting a formal response to your 602 be sent to you (document each phone call); AND

→ Writing and send a dated and signed letter to the Regional Appeals Coordinator where you sent the original 602, noting CDCR and Parole's failure to return a formal response to your 602 appeal within the timelines required by law; AND → Writing and sending a dated and signed letter directly to the parole field office where you report, with attention to your agent AND your agent's supervisor, noting CDCR's failure to return a formal response to your 602 appeal within the timelines required by law. In the letter you should include:

- Your full name;
- Your CDCR number;
- A brief explanation of the issue(s) that your original 602 appeal(s) was about (include the date that the formal response was due back to you, and how much time has passed since then; what level you are at in the appeals process; and any other facts about the 602 appeal that you believe are relevant); AND
- A copy of your original 602 appeal, if you have one, as evidence of your appeal.

Why are these actions suggested? In the appeals process, it is best to have any problems PUT INTO WRITING in a formal letter to the parole office. This is more helpful than just having informal conversations, which don't leave any documentary evidence..

Where do I send my letters?

1. Send the first letter directly to the parole office where you report, with attention to your parole agent AND your agent's supervisor. Visit Parole's website at http://www.cdcr.ca.gov/Parole/Public\_Officers\_and\_Regional\_Offices/ to find the address of your parole office. (Click on your region for a full list of offices and addresses.)
2. Send the second letter to the Regional Appeals Coordinator for your region (the same office address where you sent your original 602 appeal). There are now two regions of parole; their addresses are below:

CAN MY ADMINISTRATIVE APPEAL BE REJECTED?

An appeal may be rejected by the Appeals Coordinator. There are many reasons why an appeal might be rejected, including not having used and received a response to a Form 22 request.<sup>638</sup> An appeal can also be rejected for filing more than the allowable number of appeals, failing to fill out the form properly, failing to attach supporting documents, trying to address multiple unrelated issues, or submitting an appeal that is too lengthy or too vague.<sup>639</sup> If an appeal is rejected, you should get a notice that tells you why and what you can do to correct the problem and get the appeal processed.<sup>640</sup> If an appeal is rejected because of a correctable problem, you should try to correct the problem and resubmit the appeal within 30 calendar days of the rejection.<sup>641</sup> If the problem cannot be corrected and/or you think the rejection decision is incorrect, you can send the appeal back to the Appeals Coordinator with an explanation and/or evidence as to why the appeal should be accepted.<sup>642</sup> Following up on improperly rejected appeals through the highest level is important if you want to preserve your right to file a legal action regarding the original problem, because a rejected appeal may not satisfy the exhaustion of administrative remedies requirement for a lawsuit.<sup>643</sup>

CAN MY APPEAL BE CANCELLED?

An appeal may be cancelled by the Appeals Coordinator if the time limits were exceeded and you could have submitted the appeal within the time limits. An appeal may also be cancelled for other reasons, such as if the issue is not within the CDCR's jurisdiction, if the appeal is a duplicate, if you re-submit a rejected appeal without correcting the defect or explaining why the Prison Law Office Administrative Appeals Letter (October 2015) page 6 correction was not made, or if you refuse to be interviewed or cooperate with the reviewer.<sup>644</sup> If an appeal is cancelled, you should get a notice that tells you why.<sup>645</sup> If you think the cancellation was made in error, and you can provide more information showing that your appeal should not have been cancelled or that there are exceptional reasons why the appeal should be processed; you should send the appeal back to the Appeals Coordinator (or the CDCR third level Appeals Chief if the cancellation was at that level) and ask him or her to exercise discretion to process the appeal.<sup>646</sup> You also can file a new appeal challenging improper application of the cancellation rules; if the appeal was cancelled at the third level, you should send your new appeal directly to the third level Appeals Chief.<sup>647</sup> Again, it is important to follow up on improperly cancelled appeals if you want to preserve your right to bring a legal action about the original problem.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN TO "ABUSE" THE 602 ADMINISTRATIVE APPEAL PROCESS?

In addition to having appeals rejected or cancelled, a prisoner who "abuses" the appeal process may be subjected to other restrictions. Abuse of the appeal process includes submitting more than one non-emergency appeal within a period of 14 calendar days, repeatedly re-submitting appeals that have been cancelled, or submitting an appeal that contains false, obscene, or slanderous, statements, purposely exceeding the space provided on the 602 form, or misusing the emergency appeals process.<sup>648</sup> The first abusive appeal will be processed routinely, but the Appeals Coordinator will begin screening future non-emergency appeals for abuse. If you persistently submit abusive appeals, the Appeals Coordinator will send you a warning letter.<sup>649</sup> If the abuse continues, the Appeals Coordinator will meet with you, and can then suspend processing of your non-emergency appeals and refer the matter to the third level Appeals Chief.<sup>650</sup> The Appeals Chief can decide to restrict you to one non-emergency appeal every 30 calendar days for a period of one year; any further appeal abuse can result in an extension of your restriction period.<sup>651</sup>

I FILED A 602 ADMINISTRATIVE APPEAL AND COMPLETED ALL LEVELS OF THE PROCESS, OR NEVER HEARD BACK. CAN I NOW TAKE MY APPEAL TO COURT?

Yes. If your 602 appeal was denied at all three levels of administrative review, OR if you never received a formal response from CDCR/Parole after an unreasonable delay, you have completed the administrative appeals process (in legal language, we say you have "exhausted" your administrative appeals). If you want to continue challenging the condition of parole (or parole term length), you can now file a state petition for a writ of habeas corpus in the county of your parole.<sup>652</sup>

Through a habeas corpus proceeding, an incarcerated person or someone on parole can ask a court for "injunctive relief." This means you ask a judge to order that prison or parole officials DO something or STOP DOING something. For example, a court could order parole officials to drop an illegal parole condition OR to fix a parole term length miscalculation. For details on filing a habeas corpus petition, see Appendix K, PG. 280.

HELPFUL HINT

Real-Life Practice Tips for 602 Administrative Appeals

In real life, what often happens is that the Division of Adult Parole Operations (DAPO) Regional Appeals Coordinator sends a formal written response to a 602 appeal, but it never gets delivered to the parolee who filed it. Sometimes the formal response is sent to a parole agent, who fails to deliver it. If something like this happens in your case, and you have not physically received a formal written response to your 602 appeal, then CDCR/DAPO has not provided you with a formal written response as required by law.

After 30 working days have passed, you can try asking your parole agent where the formal response to your 602 is and request a copy be sent to you immediately. But if an unreasonable amount of time passes, and you still don't get a formal response, then you have exhausted (completed) the administrative appeals process and can file a state petition for a writ of habeas corpus (or file a second 602 appeal about the delay). If you do not hear back within the time limits set by law, read more about your different options on PG. 181.

Please note: A short delay probably won't be seen as "unreasonable" or count as "exhausting" the administrative appeals process. For example, if the formal response to your appeal was a week late; or if it was filed away by mistake, but your parole agent immediately fixed the mistake by handing you a copy when you requested it, this may not be seen as unreasonable. But if a month or more has passed since your formal response was due and you have asked but not received it, this looks more like an unreasonable delay and an exhaustion of the administrative appeals process, allowing you to bring the case to state court, if you wish.

Remember: The DAPO Regional Appeals Coordinator's response to your 602 appeal, discussed in this box, is different and separate than the parole agent's written response to your Form 22 request.

I FILED A 602 APPEAL CHALLENGING A PAROLE CONDITION. WHAT HAPPENS TO A PENDING 602 APPEAL IF I VIOLATE PAROLE?

It depends. If the parole violation is currently under review and you have not had a new prison or jail term set, it will not have an affect on your pending CDCR Form 602 administrative appeal. However, if you receive a new sentencing term related to your parole violation, the 602 appeal is invalidated. You will have to file a new Form 1515 and Form 602 to restart the process.

HOW CAN I CHALLENGE A PAROLE CONDITION THAT I CANNOT FOLLOW BECAUSE OF A DISABILITY I HAVE?

LEARN ABOUT YOUR RIGHTS AS A PERSON ON PAROLE WITH A DISABILITY ON PG. 186! You have rights to be accommodated for physical disabilities, learning disabilities, and developmental disabilities while on parole.

If you cannot satisfy a parole condition because of a disability you have, or if the parole condition is unfair to you because of your disability, the steps to challenge that condition are different than the appeals process discussed on PG. 178. First, figure out which agency put the condition on you – Parole or the BPH – and then follow the proper steps described below:

IF THE CONDITION WAS IMPOSED BY PAROLE: Fill out and file a CDCR Form 1824 "Request for Reasonable Modification or Accommodation" (see a sample Form 1824 in Appendix Q, PG. 291). To learn more about this procedure, read the section on "YOUR RIGHTS ON PAROLE WITH A DISABILITY" at PG. 186.

IF THE CONDITION WAS IMPOSED BY THE BPH: Fill out BPH Form 1074 "Request for Reasonable Accommodation" (see a sample Form 1074 in Appendix R, PG. 294), and send it to: BPH ADA COORDINATOR, 1515 K Street, Suite 600, Sacramento, CA 95814.

If the BPH does not respond in a way that solves the issue, you can submit an appeal to the second and third levels of review (learn more about the different levels of appeal and timelines on PG. 178). (Note: You don't need to file an appeal to challenge most conditions imposed by the BPH, but you do if the condition relates to your disability.)

Find the forms you need online here: http://www.cdcr.ca.gov/BOPH/Inmates\_w\_Disabilities\_Resource.html

IF YOU ARE UNSURE WHETHER PAROLE OR THE BPH IMPOSED THE CONDITION ON YOU: Ask your parole agent if it was Parole or the BPH.

ADDITIONAL RESOURCE

The Prison Law Office (PLO), a nonprofit organization that works on prisoners' rights, has published a detailed information letter describing the rules, timelines, and procedures for administrative appeals. You can obtain this letter for free by writing to the PLO at: Prison Law Office, General Delivery, San Quentin, CA 94964. OR visit the Prison Law Office's online Resources page at: www.prisonlaw.com.

A NOTE IF YOU ARE CURRENTLY INCARERATED: For the most part, the 602 administrative appeal process is the same or similar for people currently incarcerated as it is for people released on parole. However, there are some key differences, like the process for challenging health care issues while incarcerated. Challenging prison conditions is outside the scope of this guidebook, which focuses on reentry and the impact of a criminal record on your rights after release. For more information on challenging prison conditions, you can write a confidential, legal letter to Prison Law Office (mailing address and website above).

TRANSFER LOCATIONS ON STATE PAROLE

In this section, you will learn how to request that your parole be transferred: from one county to another county, or from California to a different state.

I WANT TO TRANSFER MY PAROLE TO ANOTHER COUNTY IN CALIFORNIA. HOW CAN I DO THAT?

You can make this request either while you are still incarcerated (recommended!) or after you have been released into the community. If your transfer request is denied, you may challenge the denial by filing a 602 appeal (see above PG. 178).

How to request a transfer while you're incarcerated:

You can ask your correctional counselor for a Transfer Investigation Request form (TIR) and to submit it on your behalf.

In filling out your TIR, explain the reasons why being in your requested county will help you be more successful in rehabilitation and reentry. You should also provide supporting documents that back up these reasons, such as letters from supportive family members, from your doctor, and/or from a potential employer. Submit these supporting documents along with your Transfer Investigation Request (TIR).<sup>653</sup>

If you are a “lifer” (a person serving a life sentence), your correctional counselor should submit your TIR to the Board of Parole Hearings (BPH). Most likely, the BPH will discuss your request with the district attorney who is responsible for your case before making a decision. The BPH could deny your transfer request if:

1. It believes denying your request will better protect the safety of the victim;
2. It believes denying your request will better protect the public's safety;
3. You don't have proof of a work or educational program in your requested county;
4. You don't have family or any other support system in your requested county.<sup>654</sup>

If you are not a lifer, the correctional counselor should submit your TIR to the Division of Adult Parole Operations (DAPO), which will make the final decision about your transfer.<sup>655</sup> DAPO should consider the following in making a decision about the transfer request:

- Any need to protect the safety of the parolee, a victim, a witness, or other person;
- Any public concern that would reduce the chance that parole would be successfully completed;
- A confirmed work offer or an educational or vocational program;
- The existence of family members who have strong ties with you and will support your efforts to complete parole successfully; and
- The presence or lack of any needed mental health treatment programs.<sup>656</sup>

DAPO may deny your request to transfer counties if there are concerns about any of the above. Note: The transfer request process also tends to be slower and more difficult if you have to register under Cal. Penal Code section 290.

How to request a transfer after you are released:

Once you are released from prison, you do not need a special form to request a county transfer; you can and should ask your parole agent directly, in a dated letter and/or in person. We highly recommend that you put your request in writing, make a copy of your request before giving it to your parole agent, and keep your copy in a safe place — just in case you don't receive a response and need to follow up with proof of your original request.

In your request to your parole agent, explain the reasons why being in your requested county will help you be more successful in rehabilitation and reentry. You should also provide supporting documents that back up these reasons, such as letters from supportive family members, from your doctor, and/or from a potential employer.<sup>657</sup>

A NOTE ABOUT INTERSTATE TRANSFERS:

The Interstate Compact for Adult Offender Supervision also governs the rules for all interstate transfers of state probation, including PRCS and mandatory supervision.

HELPFUL TIP— REQUEST TRANSFER WHILE INCARCERATED:

If possible, you should make the request for transfer while you are still in prison — when your CDCR Form 611: Release Program Study is being prepared. For more information about Form 611, see Appendix S, PG. 297.

<sup>654</sup> CAL. PENAL CODE § 3003(b). If you receive treatment pursuant to Penal Code section 2960—BPH may also deny your transfer request if your requested county doesn't have the necessary outpatient treatment programs.

After receiving your transfer request, your parole agent should prepare a Transfer Investigation Request form (TIR) and submit it to the parole unit supervisor. The supervisor should then consider the following factors:

- Any need to protect the safety of the parolee, a victim, a witness, or other person;
- Any public concern that would reduce the chance that parole would be successfully completed;
- A confirmed work offer or an educational or vocational program;
- The existence of family members who have strong ties with you and will support your efforts to complete parole successfully; and
- The presence or lack of any needed mental health treatment programs.<sup>658</sup>

The Division of Adult Parole Operations (DAPO) may deny your request to transfer counties if there are concerns about any of the above. Note: The transfer request process also tends to be slower and more difficult if you have to register under Cal. Penal Code section 290.

HELPFUL HINT

Parole will allow only a limited number of transfers to each county. For this reason, even if all of the factors listed above are in your favor, your transfer request may still be denied. With this in mind, when submitting your request, you should put together the strongest application possible. Gather as much support as you can, especially from your parole agent, correctional counselor, and any other government officials you know – such as judges, district attorneys, and public defenders. It would also be great to get the support of leaders from the community you want to transfer to

I AM ON STATE PAROLE, AND I WANT TO TRANSFER TO ANOTHER STATE. WHEN AND HOW CAN I DO THAT?

IMPORTANT: The same rules for transferring states apply to people on ANY type of state or county supervision. That means if you are on state parole, probation, PRCS, OR mandatory supervision—the process and rules to transfer your supervision to another state are the same. To read about interstate transfer, see PG. 217.

YOUR RIGHTS AS A PAROLEE WITH A DISABILITY

I HAVE A DISABILITY. DO I HAVE THE RIGHT TO GET ACCOMMODATIONS FOR MY DISABILITY WHILE I AM ON PAROLE?

Yes. The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) and California state law<sup>659</sup> protect you from discrimination due to your disabilities.<sup>660</sup> There are specific rules and procedures that govern your rights while you are in prison or on parole in California:

- The rules for individuals with physical disabilities (such as mobility, hearing, and vision disabilities) and learning disabilities are in the Armstrong Remedial Plan (January 3, 2001, amended December 1, 2010), § IV.S.
- The rules for individuals with developmental disabilities are in the Clark Remedial Plan (March 1, 2002), § VIII.

HOW WILL MY PAROLE AGENT KNOW ABOUT MY DISABILITY AND MY RELATED SPECIAL NEEDS?

Your correctional counselor in the prison is required to notify your parole agent about your disability and related special needs. Your correctional counselor should do this by providing information on CDCR Form 611, “Release Program Study” (RPS) (see a copy of this form in Appendix S, PG. 294) and additional specific forms that explain the accommodations you need. If you have a physical disability, your correctional counselor should use CDCR Form 1845 (see example in Appendix T, PG. 300); and if you have a developmental disability, your correctional counselor should use CDCR Form 128C-2 (see example in Appendix U, PG. 303). If you see that the information about your disability is not on your Form 611 RPS, tell your correctional counselor (if you’re still incarcerated) or your parole agent (if you’re out). If, after you talk to your correctional counselor or parole agent, your disability is still not being recorded or accommodated, file an appeal. The appeal process is explained on PG. 187.

PRACTICAL TIP IF YOU ARE CURRENTLY INCARCERATED, PREPARING FOR RELEASE, AND REQUIRE A DEVICE FOR YOUR DISABILITY:

The prison staff may fail to give you the device you need for your disability when you are released. If this happens to you, inform your parole agent immediately and file a disability-related appeal on CDCR Form 1824 (read more about this special appeals process on PG. 187).

IN GENERAL, WHAT ACCOMMODATIONS MUST PAROLE MAKE FOR PEOPLE WITH DISABILITIES?

If you are a person with a disability, parole staff must make the following accommodations:

1. First, parole staff must make sure that you receive “effective communication” during all orientations, interviews, and supervision meetings, and when you are notified of conditions of parole and registration requirements. This means parole staff must provide any help necessary for you to understand the information being communicated. Examples include:<sup>661</sup>
  - Assistance by a sign language interpreter for a hearing-impaired person;
  - Reading aloud of written materials for a vision-impaired person; or
  - Simplifying information for a developmentally disabled person.
2. Second, parole staff must make reasonable changes to procedures so that you can receive services in a location that is accessible to you. For example:
  - If a disability makes it difficult for you to get to the parole office, the parole agent should meet you somewhere else, such as at your home.
  - If the parole agent refers you to community service such as a drug treatment center, a job center, or a literacy center, the parole staff should make sure that you can actually get to the programs and services offered.
  - If you are required to attend a program at the parole office (such as an outpatient clinic), that program must be accessible considering your special needs.
3. Third, if, while you are in prison, you are using a wheelchair or other healthcare appliance (such as a cane, prosthesis, eyeglasses, or prosthetic eyes), you have the legal right to keep the device when you leave prison, even if the state provided you with the device.
4. Fourth, if parole staff is transporting you somewhere, parole staff must consider all of your disability needs in deciding what mode of transportation to use.
5. Lastly, if parole staff arrests you while you are on parole, they must take your disability into account in deciding whether or how to put physical restraints on you. For example:
  - If you need to use a cane, the parole agent should not cuff you behind your back.

PAROLE IS NOT ACCOMMODATING MY DISABILITY, AND I AM NOT GETTING FAIR TREATMENT OR EQUAL ACCESS TO PAROLE SERVICES OR PROGRAMS. WHAT CAN I DO?

If you are a person with a disability asking for fair treatment or asking for access to parole services or programs, there is a special CDCR appeals process for you. Follow these steps:<sup>662</sup>

STEP 1: Fill out CDCR Form 1824, “Request for Modification or Reasonable Accommodation” (a yellow form, see Appendix Q, PG. 291). If you cannot fill out the form due to your disability, seek help from your parole agent, an advocate, or a friend or family member. All parole offices should have this form. You do not need to request an informal review through Form 22 (like you do with the regular 602 appeals process), and you do not need to fill out Form 602, before filing a Form 1824.

STEP 2: If you get a first level response from Parole denying your request, you can appeal to the second level by attaching the original CDCR Form 1824 (find a sample copy in Appendix Q, PG. 291) to a regular CDCR Form 602 administrative appeal (find a sample copy in Appendix J, PG. 277), with Section F of CDCR Form 602 filled out. Send both forms to the Regional Parole Administrator (see Appendix D, PG. 277 for the contact information).

STEP 3: If you get a second level response denying your request, you can send the appeal to the third level for review.

STEP 4: If you get a third level response denying your request, that means you have “exhausted” (completed) all three levels of the 1824 disability appeals process, and you can bring the issue to court by filing a state petition for a writ of habeas corpus in the superior court of the county of your parole. See Appendix K, PG. 280 to learn how. Find the forms online at: http://www.cdcr.ca.gov/BOPH/Inmates\_w\_Disabilities\_Resource.html

DURING A PAROLE REVOCATION HEARING, DO I HAVE RIGHTS TO ACCOMMODATIONS FOR MY DISABILITY?

Yes. Under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), you have a right to reasonable accommodations for your disability during parole violation/revocation proceedings.<sup>663</sup> For example, parole staff must:

- Ensure access to the hearing room if you are a parolee with mobility impairments;
- Provide Braille, taped documents, or reading assistance if you are a vision-impaired parolee;
- Provide assistance in communicating if you are a developmentally disabled parolee;
- Provide sign language interpretation if you are a hearing-impaired parolee.<sup>664</sup>

In addition, parole staff must always use “effective communication” and provide reasonable accommodations when interacting with you – even when they are:

1. Arresting you;
2. Modifying your parole conditions; or
3. Imposing sanctions like flash incarceration.<sup>665</sup>

When revocation proceedings begin, parole staff should alert jail staff and the attorney appointed to you about your special needs.<sup>666</sup> In the courtroom, your attorney and the court should be responsible for ensuring your needs are met throughout the court process.<sup>667</sup>

KEEP IN MIND: If you have a disability and are on parole, and you are having problems receiving help from parole staff, you can submit a CDCR Form 1824, “Request for Modification or Reasonable Accommodation,” (read more on PG. 187).

STATE PAROLE VIOLATIONS & REVOCATIONS

Under AB 109, California’s “Realignment” law, there were major changes to the procedures required for California state parole revocations. These changes took effect on July 1, 2013.<sup>668</sup> The new rules for revocation hearings laws are explained in this section.

HOW DID REALIGNMENT CHANGE THE WAY PAROLE REVOCATION HEARINGS WORK (AS OF JULY 1, 2013)?

1. CHANGE TO WHO HEARS THE CASE

The biggest change is that local county superior courts will now hear most parole revocation cases.<sup>669</sup> Before July 1, 2013, the Board of Parole Hearings (BPH) was responsible for hearing all parole revocation cases, and now that responsibility has mostly shifted to the courts.<sup>670</sup> Superior court judges will hear these cases in state court.<sup>671</sup> One idea behind this change was to create more transparency and fairness by having independent, unbiased judges hear the cases and weigh the evidence.

However, the BPH will continue to hear certain cases – specifically:

- Parole consideration for lifers (also called “parole suitability hearings”);
- Medical parole hearings;
- Cases regarding mentally disordered offenders (MDOs); and
- Cases regarding “sexually violent predators.”

2. CHANGE TO WHERE YOU SERVE A SENTENCE FOR A PAROLE VIOLATION

- If your parole is revoked for a violation that occurred on or after July 1, 2013, you will be sentenced to COUNTY JAIL, not state prison.
- If your parole is revoked for a violation that occurred before July 1, 2013, you would have been sent back to STATE PRISON. so this is a big change in the law.
- EXCEPTION: This change does not apply to a parolee who is classified as a “serious offender” – meaning a parolee who was a life-term prisoner under California Penal Code § 3000.1, or one who was convicted of certain sex offenses under California Penal Code § 3000(a)(4)). If you fall under this classification, you will still be sent back to state prison to serve time for a parole revocation. The BPH retains control of your case, and will later decide whether to release you back onto parole.<sup>672</sup>

3. CHANGE TO THE AMOUNT OF TIME YOU SERVE

NOTE FOR FORMER “LIFERS”:

This change in the law means that if you were a “lifer” in prison, your parole revocation hearing will be before the BPH, not the local county superior court.

If you serve your parole violation (revocation) term in county jail, you will serve a maximum of 180 days.<sup>673</sup> Most people serve their parole revocation terms in county jails.

But if you are a former lifer, you may serve a maximum of 12 months in prison for a parole violation.<sup>674</sup> If your maximum parole period is life-long (this may be true if your commitment offense was murder or a sex offense), you may be sentenced to up to a year in prison for a revocation — and, at some point during that year, the BPH may determine that you should be incarcerated longer.<sup>675</sup>

IF I AM SUSPECTED OF A PAROLE VIOLATION, WHO HAS AUTHORITY TO ARREST ME? DO THEY NEED A WARRANT?

A parole agent or police officer can arrest you if he or she has probable cause to believe you violated a parole condition. (By law, a belief supported by “probable cause” is defined as the reasonable belief of a reasonable person looking at the specific facts of the situation.)<sup>676</sup> BUT the arresting agent/officer does not need a warrant. A judge COULD issue a warrant for your arrest, but does not have to. (CAL. PENAL CODE § 3000.08(c)). If the parole agent suspects that you have violated a parole condition, you can be arrested by a parole agent or peace officer at any time until the judge makes a “final disposition” ( a final decision about your guilt or innocence in the case).<sup>677</sup>

WHAT HAPPENS IF I AM ARRESTED FOR AN ALLEGED PAROLE VIOLATION?

Here is what you can expect if you are arrested for an alleged parole violation:

1. After an arrest, a CDCR parole agent can place you on “hold” — meaning he or she can place you in jail until further proceedings take place.<sup>678</sup>
2. Once you are on “hold,” parole staff decides if there is “good cause” to believe that you violated a law or parole condition. The staff does not have to hold a hearing or give you a chance to provide more information, but they have to make this decision among themselves.<sup>679</sup>
3. What happens next? It depends on whether CDCR staff finds probable cause to believe you committed the alleged violation.
  - If CDCR staff does not find probable cause, you will be re-released on parole.<sup>680</sup>
  - If CDCR staff does find probable cause, they must decide whether “intermediate sanctions” can address the violation, or whether a formal revocation proceeding needs to happen. Intermediate sanctions might include:
    - New parole conditions;
    - Sending you to a special reentry court;
    - Requiring your participation in treatment or rehabilitation programs; or
    - “Flash incarceration,” which is detention in the county jail for up to 10 consecutive days.<sup>681</sup>
4. If CDCR staff decides that intermediate sanctions are not enough, they will file a formal parole revocation petition in the local superior court.<sup>682</sup>
  - The CDCR’s petition should describe:
    - The relevant conditions of parole;
    - The circumstances of the violation;
    - The history and background of the parolee (you); and
    - Parole staff’s recommendations for disposition (meaning: their recommendations as to what the outcome of the parole revocation petition should be).
  - At this point, CDCR staff should tell you your rights, including: (1) the right to consult with a lawyer, and (2) if you can’t afford to hire a lawyer, the right to have the court appoint you a lawyer for free (the public defender). We recommend that you consult with an attorney or public defender before waiving (giving up) any rights.

IMPORTANT: The CDCR may inform you that you have the right to waive both your right to an attorney and your right to a hearing, admit the parole violation, and accept the CDCR's proposed revocation term (sometimes called a "screening offer"). The waiver of an attorney or hearing must be in writing.<sup>683</sup> Again, before you waive any rights, WE RECOMMEND THAT YOU ASK TO SPEAK TO AN ATTORNEY, AND IF YOU CANNOT AFFORD ONE, THAT YOU WAIT FOR YOUR FREE ATTORNEY TO MEET WITH YOU. Please note: There is currently no timeline required for these steps to happen, which is concerning.

Currently, the law does not set any timelines for parole revocation steps.<sup>684</sup> CDCR staff are supposed to make a probable cause determination within 2 business days after a hold is placed on you, notify you of your charges and rights within 3 business days after the hold, and either file a revocation petition with the court or release you within 7 business days after the hold. But these timelines are not formal regulations, and the CDCR is not obligated to enforce them.

SUMMARY

If I have been arrested for an alleged parole violation, what three types of actions can parole staff decide to take against me?

1. Intermediate sanctions: new parole conditions, reentry court, and treatment or rehabilitation programs.
2. Flash incarceration for up to 10 days. No court involvement required.<sup>685</sup>
3. Petition the local superior court for a formal revocation under California Penal Code § 1203.2.<sup>686</sup>

WHERE CAN I FIND THE LEGAL RULES THAT APPLY TO PAROLE REVOCATION HEARINGS?

California Penal Code Section 1203.2.

WHO REPRESENTS THE CDCR'S PAROLE DEPARTMENT IN THE HEARING?

The district attorney.

WHO REPRESENTS ME IF I CANNOT AFFORD AN ATTORNEY?

The public defender.

WHAT IS THE LEGAL STANDARD FOR FINDING ME GUILTY OF A PAROLE VIOLATION?

At the parole revocation hearing, the judge must decide whether a "preponderance of the evidence" (meaning more than half of the evidence) supports the charges. In other words, the district attorney must prove that it is more likely than not that you violated parole.

IF I GO TO JAIL ON A PAROLE VIOLATION, AM I ENTITLED TO BAIL?

No.<sup>687</sup> You have no right to bail on a pending parole violation charge.<sup>688</sup> However, a court could still grant it. Once a court has "jurisdiction" (legal authority) over a petition to revoke your parole, the court can set bail and release you "on your own recognizance" (leaving it up to you to return for the revocation hearing).<sup>689</sup> If you are not released on bail, your revocation hearing should be held within 90 days.<sup>690</sup>

WHAT RIGHTS DO I HAVE DURING A PAROLE REVOCATION HEARING?

The superior court judge cannot suspend or revoke your parole unless there is "good cause" (a good reason) to believe that you have violated your parole conditions.<sup>691</sup>

<sup>684</sup> The Valdivia Injunction, which previously set timeliness requirements on the parole revocation process, is no longer in effect. Because of the major changes in parole laws, the court overseeing Valdivia decided that the case is "moot" (meaning no longer applicable) and that any problems with the new parole revocation procedures will have to be raised in new cases. Thus, advocates for people on parole have expressed concerns that there could be long delays between the placement of parole holds in jail and CDCR's filing of revocation petitions. Advocates are also concerned that parolees may be pressured into giving up their rights and taking "screening offers" (like a parole revocation plea bargain) without having an opportunity to consult with an attorney. <sup>690</sup> CAL. PENAL CODE § 1381.5; Gonzalez v. Superior Court, 166 Cal. App. 4th 922 (2008).

<sup>691</sup> CAL. PENAL CODE § 3063. Note: In Morrissey v. Brewer, the U.S. Supreme Court established the minimum due process requirements for parole revocation proceedings under the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. Cases since Morrissey have reaffirmed those rights and described them with greater detail.

As a parolee, you have the following rights:

1. The right to receive written notice of the alleged violation (the rule or law that Parole claims you have broken) and possible consequences, with enough information to allow you to prepare a defense and obtain evidence that can help explain or justify your actions.<sup>692</sup>
2. The right to have Parole disclose any evidence against you (just like at trial).<sup>693</sup>
3. The right to timely hearing of the charges – including a probable cause hearing and a formal revocation hearing (within 90 days if you were not granted bail).<sup>694</sup>
4. The right to present witnesses and documentary evidence.<sup>695</sup>
5. The right to confront and cross-examine witnesses who speak against your interest<sup>696</sup> You have a conditional right under the U.S. and California constitutions to cross-examine people whose statements are used against you in a parole violation proceeding.<sup>697</sup> BUT SEE NOTE BELOW!
6. The right to a “neutral and detached hearing body” (meaning a fair and unbiased judge).<sup>698</sup>
7. The right to receive a written statement of the decision, the evidence relied on, and the reasons for revoking parole.<sup>699</sup>

IMPORTANT! You may waive (give up) your right to a revocation hearing by admitting that you violated parole.<sup>700</sup> If you believe your rights are violated during the process or in a hearing, say something and tell your lawyer. If you are unsure if your rights have been violated, or if you don't understand your rights, ask your lawyer or public defender. If you do not have a lawyer or public defender, call your local public defender's office.

WHEN CAN WITNESSES BE EXCUSED FROM APPEARING AT MY PAROLE REVOCATION HEARING?

Witnesses may not be required to testify in front of you at your parole revocation hearing if they are considered to be fearful or confidential.<sup>701</sup> Before your hearing, talk with your lawyer about all potential witnesses – those for you and those against you.

- “Fearful witnesses” are witnesses whose identity is known to you but who: (1) have indicated that they are at a risk of harm if they testify in your presence; or (2) have requested that their contact information be withheld from you. Testimony of a fearful witness can be taken outside the parolee's presence, but your attorney must be present.
- “Confidential witnesses” are witnesses, whose identity is not known to you, and who would be at a risk of harm if their identity were disclosed.<sup>702</sup> However, if confidential information is used as part of the evidence that you violated parole, you can ask the District Attorney (prosecutor) to show you this information. If the District Attorney refuses to show you this information, then he or she must prove that showing you this information would create a risk of harm to the informant.

Parole Comm'n*, 741 F.2d 1197 (9th Cir. 1984) (due process violated by lack of notice of basis for parole violation charge); Rizzo v. Armstrong, 921 F.2d 855, 858 (9th Cir. 1990) (failure to give notice of consequences if parole revoked at hearing).

<sup>694</sup> Morrissey v. Brewer, 408 U.S. 471, 485 (1972); People v. Woodall, 216 Cal. App. 4th 1221 (2013) (probation revocation procedures that fail to provide probable cause hearing do not violate due process rights if full hearing occurs relatively soon or if preliminary hearing on any new criminal charges is conducted). See also CAL. PENAL CODE § 1381.5; Gonzalez v. Superior Court, 166 Cal. App. 4th 922 (2008).

<sup>697</sup> U.S. CONST. amend. VI; CAL. CONST. art. I, § 15. Thus, upon your request, the people who gave the information that proves the parole violation charge should be made available for you to question them at the hearing, unless the judge determines that requiring the witness to appear would create a risk of harm. If the state has “good cause” (a good explanation or reason) for failing to present a witness and that good cause outweighs your right to confront the witness, the witness's prior statements may be presented at the hearing, even if those statements were made outside of court. The more important the witness's testimony is to the case, the stronger your right to confront and cross-examine that witness is. Courts may overturn a parole revocation if the hearing officer relies on unsworn hearsay (out of court statements) without determining the unavailability of the declarant or the reliability of the hearsay, or without considering the parolee's interests prior to admitting the evidence. See, e.g., In re Miller, 145 Cal. App. 4th 1228 (2006).

WHAT HAPPENS IF AN IMPORTANT STATE WITNESS DOESN'T SHOW UP TO MY PAROLE REVOCATION HEARING?

If a “material” (essential) state witness fails to attend your parole revocation hearing and the hearing cannot fairly proceed without the witness, the court can postpone the hearing or dismiss the case against you.

To decide whether the witness’s testimony would be “material,” the court should balance the importance of the witness’s expected testimony against the availability and reliability of another source of the same information. Also, if the state’s material witnesses fail to appear, but your witnesses are present, you and your attorney may want to ask that the judge take the testimony of your witnesses before postponing the rest of the hearing.

AT MY PAROLE REVOCATION HEARING, CAN THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY BRING EVIDENCE THAT WAS FOUND IN AN UNLAWFUL SEARCH OR SEIZURE?

Yes. Unfortunately, the “exclusionary rule,” which applies in criminal cases, does not apply in parole revocation hearings. This means that unlawfully obtained evidence may be used against you in your parole revocation hearing – even if it would be excluded from a criminal court trial, and even if actually was excluded from a criminal court trial related to the same issue.<sup>703</sup>

SUMMARY OF SENTENCING

The court’s 3 options for sentencing/punishing you if it finds that you violated parole are:

1. Return you to parole supervision with changes (called “modifications”) to your conditions of parole, including possible time in county jail;
2. Refer you to a Reentry Court or other Evidence-Based Practice program; or
3. Revoke your parole and order confinement.<sup>704</sup>

IF THE JUDGE REVOKES MY PAROLE AND ORDERS ME BACK INTO CUSTODY, WHERE WILL I SERVE AND FOR HOW LONG?

It depends on your conviction history.

(1) MOST PEOPLE - Almost everyone who has his or her parole revoked will serve the parole revocation sentence in county jail.<sup>705</sup> You will most likely get 180 days in county jail, even if there were multiple grounds for the revocation.<sup>706</sup>

You can earn “half-time” credit on parole revocation sentences (meaning 2 days “good conduct credit” for every 2 days actually served in custody), regardless of the nature of the commitment offense or parole violation. If you are serving a parole revocation sentence and you violate jail rules or refuse to do assigned work, then you may lose some or all of your good conduct credits.<sup>707</sup>

(2) FORMER “LIFER” - There are different rules if you are on parole after serving an indeterminate prison term of “life with the possibility of parole.” If you are a former lifer:

- You can get a parole revocation sentence term of up to 12 months;
- You are not entitled to earn good conduct credits; and
- Your revocation sentence could be extended if you violate rules while you are in custody.<sup>708</sup>

(3) CERTAIN SEX OR MURDER CONVICTIONS - There are also different rules for people convicted of certain sex offenses or certain murder convictions:<sup>709</sup>

- If you have life-long parole (some people convicted of sex offenses or murder) and it gets revoked, you’ll be sent back to prison, not county jail.<sup>710</sup>
- Within 1 year of being returned to prison, a two-member BPH panel will hold a hearing. The panel must release you within 1 year of the date of the revocation—unless it determines the seriousness of the parole

violation requires longer incarceration for public safety. If the two-member BPH panel keeps you in prison longer than 1 year, you have the legal right to a parole consideration hearing every year afterwards.<sup>711</sup>

WHAT RIGHTS DO I HAVE IF I AM A PERSON WITH A DISABILITY GOING THROUGH PAROLE REVOCATION PROCEEDINGS?

Under a federal law called the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), you have the legal right to reasonable accommodations during parole violation/revocation proceedings.<sup>712</sup> Examples of accommodations could include:

- Ensuring access to the hearing room for a parolee with mobility impairments;
- Providing Braille, taped documents, or reading assistance for a vision-impaired parolee;
- Providing assistance in communicating for a developmentally disabled parolee; OR
- Providing sign language interpretation for a hearing-impaired parolee.<sup>713</sup>

Just like all other aspects of parole, the CDCR's parole staff must use "effective communication" and provide reasonable accommodations when interacting with you. That means that they must use effective communication and provide reasonable accommodations when:

1. Arresting you;
2. Modifying your conditions of parole; or
3. Imposing sanctions like flash incarceration.<sup>714</sup>

KEEP IN MIND: If you are on parole and have disabilities, and you are having problems receiving help from parole staff, you can submit a CDCR Form 1824, "Request for Modification or Reasonable Accommodation," (learn more on PG. 187). CDCR parole staff should also alert jail staff and the lawyer appointed to represent you about what your needs are when revocation proceedings begin.<sup>715</sup>

HOW DO I CHALLENGE (APPEAL) A PAROLE REVOCATION DECISION OR ACTION MADE BY THE COUNTY SUPERIOR COURT?

If you are challenging a decision made by the county superior court, you should be able to file a direct appeal under the statute that allows an appeal "from any order made after judgment, affecting the substantial rights of the party."<sup>716</sup> Follow these steps:

STEP 1: To appeal, the parolee must file a Notice of Appeal in the Superior Court within 60 calendar days after the original court's decision.<sup>717</sup>

STEP 2: When a timely Notice of Appeal is filed, the Superior Court will prepare a record of the parole revocation proceedings consisting of all the documents filed in the original court and transcripts of the hearings, and will then provide these documents to the Court of Appeal, the State, and you (the parolee). In a direct appeal, the Court of Appeal must appoint a free attorney to represent you if you do not have enough money to pay for a private attorney.<sup>718</sup>

IMPORTANT: If you do not file a timely Notice of Appeal, or if the issue involves information outside the court record, then you may be able to raise the issues in a state court petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

WHAT TYPES OF ISSUES COULD I BRING UP IN A CHALLENGE TO PAROLE REVOCATION PROCEEDINGS, DECISIONS, OR ACTIONS?

There are many types of issues that you can raise in a challenge to a revocation proceeding or decision. For this reason, we recommend that you speak with your attorney if you believe that your rights have been violated! Your claim could be based on violations of state or federal constitutional due process rights, California or federal statutes, or California administrative rules. For example, you could argue that:

- The revocation hearing is being unreasonably delayed;
- You were denied the right to cross-examine witnesses at the parole revocation hearing; or
- The evidence did not support the revocation decision.

UNFORTUNATELY—in most cases, the process for raising such challenges will be too slow to provide you any relief before you have served the entire parole revocation sentence term. BUT You may still benefit by:

- Getting your parole revocation cases re-heard;
- Getting their revocations vacated; and/or
- Getting the time served for the revocation deducted from the controlling parole discharge date.

WHAT IS THE PROCESS FOR APPEALING A DECISION MADE BY CDCR?

You can challenge a CDCR action or lack of action in these stages by filling out a CDCR Form 602 administrative appeal (see Appendix J, PG. 277 for copy of form) and submitting it to the CDCR's parole agent.

Possible uses for a 602 appeal include challenging the CDCR's decision to place a parole hold or find probable cause for a violation, asking for an attorney for the early stage of the revocation process, or challenging a delay by CDCR in filing a formal petition.<sup>719</sup>

There are two reasons for filing a CDCR Form 602 administrative appeal and re-filing it to the highest level necessary:

1. First reason—It might solve the problem.
2. Second reason—Courts usually require you to “exhaust administrative remedies,” meaning you filed an appeal and completed all three levels of review before filing a case in court.<sup>720</sup>

After completing any required administrative remedies, you can challenge a CDCR or BPH action or decision by filing a state court petition for a writ of habeas corpus. If the judge issues an “order to show cause,” it must appoint a free lawyer to represent you if you request one and show that you do not have enough money to pay for a private lawyer.<sup>721</sup> See Appendix K, PG. 280 for information on when and how to file a state court petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

III. COUNTY-LEVEL COMMUNITY SUPERVISION: PROBATION, PRCS, AND MANDATORY SUPERVISION

WHAT WILL I LEARN ABOUT COUNTY PROBATION, PRCS, AND MANDATORY SUPERVISION?

- How California’s “Realignment” law changed county-level probation and supervision
- The different types of county-run supervision: informal probation, formal probation, post-release community supervision, and mandatory supervision
- Terms and conditions of probation and supervision
- How to request a change to your probation or supervision conditions
- How to request a transfer to a different county
- What to do if your probation or supervision is revoked
- What happens at a probation revocation hearing
- How to challenge probation conditions
- How to challenge probation revocation

For certain state convictions, the judge may sentence you to a form of county-level supervision as part (or all) of your sentence. This can happen in a few different ways:

1. You may be sentenced to serve some time in county jail, followed by a term on county probation or on California’s new Mandatory Supervision; OR
2. You may be sentenced to serve time in state prison, followed by a term on California’s new Post-Release Community Supervision; OR
3. You may be sentenced directly to a term of probation (without any time served in jail).

WHAT IS COUNTY PROBATION?

Probation is a suspended state prison or county jail sentence.<sup>722</sup> In other words, instead of doing the full amount of time in custody (in prison or jail), you can stay in the community under supervision and be required to follow certain rules and conditions.<sup>723</sup> The primary purpose of probation is rehabilitation.<sup>724</sup>

All probation sentences are different. However, there are some standard conditions that apply to most, if not all, people on county-level probation in California. If you have a disability, you should get certain accommodations on probation, so make sure you see PG. 186 to learn about requesting the accommodation(s) you need. Each county is responsible for running its own probation department, and each of these departments has its own specific rules.

HOW DID CALIFORNIA’S “REALIGNMENT” LAW CHANGE CALIFORNIA’S COUNTY-RUN PROBATION SYSTEM?

The Realignment law (“AB 109”) fundamentally changed sentencing law and created new forms of community supervision in California. Because of prison overcrowding, the U.S. Supreme Court ordered California to reduce the number of people it was holding in state prisons. To do this, California decided to keep only people convicted of certain serious felonies in prison. For people convicted of felonies that are “non-serious” and “non-violent,” California transferred responsibility from the state prisons and parole board to the county jails and probation departments. This means that:

- If you were convicted after October 1, 2011, of a felony that falls within the Realignment definition of non-serious, non-violent, and non-sexual (the 3 “nons” or “non-non-non”), you will serve your time in county jail instead of state prison. (You also must not have any prior serious, violent or sexual felony convictions.) Under Realignment, you may also be allowed to serve some of your sentence on community supervision, instead of spending the full term in custody.

- If you were convicted of a “non-non-non” with no priors before October 11, 2011, and you are serving your sentence in prison, you will be put on county-level supervision (PRCS) instead of state parole when you are released.

Here are the 4 types of community supervision after Realignment: (1) informal probation (also known as “summary” or “court” probation); (2) formal probation; (3) post-release community supervision (PRCS) (new after Realignment) and (4) mandatory supervision (new after Realignment).

WHAT TYPES OF SUPERVISION NOW FALL UNDER THE CONTROL OF COUNTY PROBATION AFTER REALIGNMENT?

Here is a quick overview of the different types of supervision that are now under the control of county probation departments in California after Realignment:

1. Informal Probation (also called summary or court probation): Informal probation is a type of supervision in which you are supervised by the court, not by a probation officer. A judge may order informal probation for misdemeanor convictions, but not for felony convictions at the time you’re sentenced; however, if you receive formal probation for a felony conviction, your supervision level may be later reduced to informal probation.<sup>725</sup> To learn more, go to PG. 196.
2. Formal Probation: Formal probation is a type of supervision in which you are supervised by a probation officer. It’s the minimum supervision that a judge can order for a felony conviction, and it can also be given out for some more serious misdemeanor convictions and people who have prior convictions.<sup>726</sup> To learn more, go to PG. 200.
(Note: Depending on the type of felony, you may not be on probation, but rather on state parole, which is covered separately, beginning on PG. 143.)
3. Post-Release Community Supervision (PRCS): PRCS is a new type of supervision created by Realignment. Now, people who are released from state prison after serving a sentence for a non-violent, non-serious, non-sexual crime will be supervised by local county probation officers instead of state parole officers. PRCS can last up to 3 years, but will end after 1 year if you do not violate any of your PRCS conditions.<sup>727</sup> To learn more, go to PG. 202.
4. Mandatory Supervision: Mandatory supervision is also a new type of supervision created by Realignment. If you were convicted of a “non-non-non” felony, judges in California state courts can now use a tool called “split sentencing,” which splits the time of your sentence between time in jail and a period of supervision by a county probation officer. This period of supervision after the jail term is called mandatory supervision.<sup>728</sup> To learn more, go to PG. 208.

INFORMAL PROBATION (A.K.A. SUMMARY PROBATION OR COURT PROBATION)

BASICS OF INFORMAL PROBATION

WHAT IS INFORMAL PROBATION (A.K.A. SUMMARY PROBATION OR COURT PROBATION)?

Informal probation (also known as “summary” probation or “court” probation) is a type of supervision in which you are supervised by the court, and not by a probation officer. If you are convicted of a misdemeanor in California, you may be placed on informal probation.<sup>729</sup> Note: You may also end up on informal probation if, after you have spent a certain amount of time on formal probation, probation decides to lower your supervision level.

WHO WILL MONITOR ME UNDER INFORMAL PROBATION?

The County Superior Court.

AFTER RELEASE: WHAT TO EXPECT IN YOUR FIRST DAYS OUT ON INFORMAL PROBATION

WHAT ARE SOME GOOD FIRST STEPS TO TAKE WHEN I AM FIRST PLACED ON INFORMAL PROBATION?

Instructions for what to do when you first start your probation term will be different depending on what county you are being supervised in. The best thing to do when you are first placed on informal probation (whether you were in jail or not), is to call or visit your county probation department immediately to find out what requirements and instructions apply to you.

LENGTH OF INFORMAL PROBATION

HOW LONG IS INFORMAL PROBATION?

The length of your informal probation depends on what the court ordered, which usually depends on what county you are being supervised in. Under state law, your period of informal probation may last up to five years, but it is often less, depending on the county you were convicted in.<sup>730</sup> Each county sets its own mandatory minimum probation term (which can be as low as one year). Remember, every county in California operates differently.<sup>731</sup>

GETTING OFF INFORMAL PROBATION

CAN I GET OFF INFORMAL PROBATION EARLY?

Possibly. California law allows you to ask the court to be released early from your informal probation term.<sup>732</sup> Some people are able to satisfy all of the conditions of their probation (all of the things the court orders you to do, such as attend counseling or pay restitution) before their probation term is up. For this reason, judges are often willing to release people from probation early.<sup>733</sup> The process is the same for asking a court to terminate your informal probation, formal probation, or mandatory supervision early. If the judge grants your request (called a "motion") to end your informal probation early, then you might also be able to ask for certain convictions to be dismissed from your record! For more information on how to file a Motion for Early Termination of Probation, and how to request a dismissal of your eligible convictions, please see the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 931.

CONDITIONS OF INFORMAL PROBATION

I AM ON INFORMAL PROBATION. WHAT CONDITIONS WILL THE COURT IMPOSE ON ME?

Once informal probation is ordered, the court will decide what conditions of probation to impose on you. Below is some general information to know about your conditions of probation.

Conditions set by the Criminal Court Judge:

The judge in the criminal court has a lot of freedom in determining the conditions of your informal probation, and can impose any reasonable conditions for the purposes of rehabilitation or to protect the community.<sup>734</sup> However, the court cannot impose a condition that is unreasonable or that does not properly take into consideration the circumstances of your case.<sup>735</sup> Informal probation conditions differ from offense to offense.

Some common examples of informal probation conditions are:

- "Violate no laws" - This is a general condition for everyone on informal probation, that means you cannot break any laws while you are on informal probation (minor traffic offenses do NOT count);
- No-contact (stay-away) orders - These prevent you from being around or communicating with certain individuals;

<sup>732</sup> CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.3(a). "The court may at any time when the ends of justice will be subserved thereby, and when the good conduct and reform of the person so held on probation shall warrant it, terminate the period of probation, and discharge the person so held."

- Restitution payments OR community service - Courts are required to order restitution payments, either to the victim or to the state, as a condition of probation.<sup>736</sup> Read more about restitution payments in the COURT-ORDERED DEBT CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 654.
- Up to 1 year in county jail;<sup>737</sup>
- Anger management courses;
- Substance abuse treatment programs;
- Restrictions on your ability to have access to or carry weapons;<sup>738</sup>
- Fines of up to $1,000;<sup>739</sup>
- Minimum fine or jail sentence sometimes required by law - For some misdemeanor convictions, the court must impose a minimum fine or jail sentence as a condition of your probation.<sup>740</sup>

WHEN WOULD A COURT ORDER COMMUNITY SERVICE INSTEAD OF RESITITUTION?

For example, if you are unemployed due to a disability, and unable to make restitution payments to the state, the court may order you to instead complete community service (CAL. PENAL CODE § 1202.4(n)). But if your probation is revoked, the court must impose restitution instead (CAL. PEN. CODE § 1202.4(n)).

I AM ON INFORMAL PROBATION. WILL I HAVE TO REPORT TO A PROBATION OFFICER?

No. If you're on informal probation, you'll report to the County Superior Court.<sup>741</sup> The judge gets to decide how you will report and how often you will have to report. In some cases, the judge may ask you to appear in court for "progress reports" to make sure you are following the conditions of your probation.<sup>742</sup> In most cases, however, you will not actually have to appear in court; the court will monitor your progress through your attendance in required courses or treatment programs. But if you fail to attend these courses or programs, you may have to go to court to explain to the judge why. Make sure you contact the probation department in your county for a list of courses or treatment programs that the court recognizes and accepts.

WHAT WILL THE JUDGE LOOK FOR IF I HAVE TO GO TO COURT FOR "PROGRESS REPORTS?"

When you go to court for a "progress report," the judge will be checking to see if you are following the conditions of your probation. The judge will also ask you about your participation in any programs (e.g. AA meetings, anger management classes) that you were assigned as part of your probation.

It is important that you BRING DOCUMENTATION of any progress or positive steps that you've made toward fulfilling your probation conditions. For example, you should bring written proof of your attendance in court-ordered treatment programs, or of the number of hours of community service or public works service you have completed.

HOW DO I CHANGE A CONDITION OF MY INFORMAL PROBATION?

Under state law, you can ask the judge to modify (change) your probation terms AT ANY TIME.<sup>743</sup> This does not mean the judge will do so, but you can always ask!

To ask the judge to change a condition of your probation, you have to file a motion with the court that is monitoring your probation, asking that your probation conditions be modified. You must show why there is a good reason ("good cause") for the judge to modify your conditions. Remember to bring all documentation of your progress with you to court (such as reports and attendance sheets from any courses you were required to take as part of your misdemeanor probation).

There is no standardized statewide form for requesting a modification of probation conditions, but some counties may have local forms for this purpose. You can contact the county Superior Court clerk's office to find out if there is a local form for requesting a change. If not, you and

WHAT IS "GOOD CAUSE"?

"Good cause" means a reason that is persuasive enough to convince a judge that s/he should make an order.

<sup>736</sup> CAL. PENAL CODE § 1202.4(a). However, if the court finds "compelling and extraordinary reasons for not imposing restitution," it must order community service as a condition of probation instead, unless it also finds "compelling and extraordinary reasons" for not requiring community service. CAL. PENAL CODE § 1202.4(n).

<sup>740</sup> For example, if you are convicted of driving on a suspended license and this offense occurred within 5 years of a prior offense for driving on a suspended license, the court must impose a minimum 10-day jail sentence as a condition of probation (see CAL. VEH. CODE § 14601(c) (West 2014)). The CAL. GOV'T CODE also has special mandatory probationary terms for specific offenses, such as completion of a domestic violence rehabilitation program (DVRP) for those convicted of a crime of domestic violence (see CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.097(a)(6) (West 2014)).

<sup>742</sup> For example, if the court ordered you to go to substance abuse treatment, then when you appear for your "progress report," the court will ask for written reports or attendance sheets from your treatment program.

your attorney will have to draft a motion. If you had a public defender assigned to your case, you can ask him or her to file a motion to modify your probation terms for you. If you had a private attorney but can no longer afford one, you may call the public defender's office and ask if they will represent you in your attempt to change your probation conditions.

Before the judge can modify your conditions, the court must notify the prosecutor (the district attorney) in your case, and hold a hearing in which the prosecutor will have a chance to speak.<sup>744</sup> If the judge decides to change your conditions, he or she must state the reasons for doing so.<sup>745</sup>

For more information on the process for filing a motion to modify the conditions of your probation, see Appendix Y, PG. 311.

IF YOU ARE ASKING FOR THE CHANGE BECAUSE OF A DISABILITY:

If you are asking to change a condition because of a disability, you should explain why your disability makes it difficult for you to comply with your current probation conditions, and what changes (in conditions) or assistance (from the probation department or other services) you need to successfully complete your probation. For example, if you were ordered to perform public works service (like highway cleanup), but your disability prevents you from doing so, you may ask the judge at the local county superior court for a modification that allows you to do community service (like volunteering at the local public library) instead.

When you go to court, remember to BRING DOCUMENTATION OF YOUR DISABILITY and explain the reasons why your disability makes it difficult for you to follow the current conditions and rules of your probation.

TRANSFERRING LOCATIONS ON INFORMAL PROBATION

HOW DO I TRANSFER MY INFORMAL PROBATION TO A DIFFERENT COUNTY?

The California Superior Court of the county in which you were convicted of a crime has jurisdiction (decision-making power) over your county-to-county probation transfer.<sup>746</sup>

A judge will decide whether your transfer is appropriate, and will look at:

1. Permanency of your residence (whether you actually live in the transfer county permanently);
2. Local programs available for you in the transfer county; and
3. Restitution orders and victim issues.<sup>747</sup>

Below is the process for one county's probation department to submit a "notice of motion for transfer" in order to send your supervision to a different county's probation department.<sup>748</sup> (Note, this process also applies to transferring Mandatory Supervision from one county to another.)

1. First, when you are released on probation, the court in the county where you were convicted must transfer the case to the superior court in the county where you plan to live permanently (or for the rest of your probation), unless the court determines that the transfer would be inappropriate.
2. Next, the proposed receiving county may provide comments on the record about the proposed transfer.
3. The transferring court and the transferring probation department must investigate your transfer and must make a speedy decision.
4. If victim restitution was ordered as a condition of your probation, the transferring court determines the amount of restitution before the transfer, unless that court can't make that decision within a reasonable period of time from when the transfer was requested. If a case is transferred without the amount of restitution being decided, the transferring court must make a determination about the restitution amount as quickly as possible.
5. For every other determination related to probation (besides the amount of victim restitution), the receiving county will have the power to make those decisions, and must agree to do so.
6. The transfer order must require you to be in the care and custody of the probation officer of the receiving county.
7. If it applies, the transfer order must also include an order for reimbursement of reasonable costs for processing the transfer to be paid to the transferring county.
8. The transferring county must send copies of any orders and any probation reports to the court and the probation officer in the receiving county within 2 weeks of finding that you permanently reside in or have permanently moved to the receiving county.

9. The receiving county may also follow these rules and procedures to again transfer your probation supervision to another county later on.

HOW DO I TRANSFER MY INFORMAL PROBATION TO A DIFFERENT STATE?

IMPORTANT: The same rules for transferring states apply to people on ANY type of state or county supervision. That means if you are on state parole, probation, PRCS, OR mandatory supervision—the process and rules to transfer your supervision to another state are the same. To read about interstate transfer, see PG. 217.

VIOLATIONS & REVOCATIONS ON INFORMAL PROBATION

WHAT ARE THE RULES FOR VIOLATIONS & REVOCATIONS OF INFORMAL PROBATION?

The rules and procedures for informal probation violations and revocation proceedings are the same as for formal probation. For more information, read more in the formal probation section on PG. 211.

FORMAL PROBATION

BASICS OF FORMAL PROBATION

WHAT IS FORMAL PROBATION?

Formal probation is a type of community supervision that is part of the original sentence handed down by a judge at trial, as an alternative to or in addition to incarceration, for most felonies (those that did not lead to prison time or supervision under PRCS or Mandatory Supervision) and some misdemeanor convictions.<sup>749</sup>

Formal probation reduces or eliminates the time you must spend in custody, and allows you to either remain in or return sooner to the community, so long as you follow your probation conditions.<sup>750</sup>

This means that some people never serve time in custody for their conviction, but instead are sentenced to formal supervision in the community, while other people are sentenced to some time in custody, plus formal supervision in the community afterward.

WHO WILL MONITOR ME ON FORMAL PROBATION?

Depending on the circumstances, either the court (and the judge of that court) or a probation officer will monitor you to make sure you follow your probation conditions.<sup>751</sup> Generally, you must report to the probation officer once a month, although the judge could require you to report more or less often than that.<sup>752</sup> It is very important to remain in contact with your probation officer, or it could trigger a probation violation hearing. In some counties, your probation officer may allow you to report to them through a kiosk at a local probation office.<sup>753</sup>

WHAT'S THE MAIN DIFFERENCE BETWEEN FORMAL AND INFORMAL PROBATION?

The main difference between formal and informal probation is that, unlike with informal probation, if you are on formal probation, you are assigned a probation officer.

IMPORTANT! How formal probation operates, and what services are available, varies from county to county. Ask your probation officer what is available to you in your county.

AFTER RELEASE: WHAT TO EXPECT IN YOUR FIRST DAYS OUT ON FORMAL PROBATION

WHAT ARE SOME OF MY RESPONSIBILITIES WHEN I FIRST GET RELEASED ONTO FORMAL PROBATION?

Instructions for what to do when you first start your probation term will be different depending on what county you are being supervised in. When you first get out, call or visit your county probation department immediately to find out what requirements and instructions apply to you.

LENGTH OF FORMAL PROBATION

HOW LONG WILL I BE ON FORMAL PROBATION?

Formal probation is typically imposed for a term of 3-5 years.<sup>754</sup> The length of your probation depends on what the court ordered, and that usually depends on what county you are being supervised in (since each county has some discretion to set the minimum length of formal probation within this range).<sup>755</sup>

CAN I GET OFF FORMAL PROBATION EARLY?

Possibly. California law allows you to ask the court to be released early from your probation.<sup>756</sup> If you have completed all of the conditions of your probation (for example, paid all fines/fees, completed all counseling) and you are at least halfway through your probation term (for example, 1½ years through a 3-year probation term), you may be a good candidate to have your probation ended early. The process for terminating (ending) formal probation early is the same as the process for ending informal probation or Mandatory Supervision early. If your request (called a “Motion”) to end your formal probation early is granted by the judge, then you might also be able to ask for certain convictions to be dismissed from your record! For more information on how to file a Motion to Terminate Probation early, and also how to request dismissals of eligible convictions, please see the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 931.

CONDITIONS OF FORMAL PROBATION

IMPORTANT: It is important to know the conditions of your probation because, if you do not follow the terms and conditions of your formal probation, your probation could be revoked and you could:

- Be sent to jail, or go to prison (where the court had earlier suspended a prison sentence by granting you formal probation);<sup>757</sup>
- Be sentenced to the maximum sentence authorized for the crime you were convicted of;
- Have additional terms, such as public works service (“PWS” or “volunteer works”) or community service added to your probation;<sup>758</sup>
- Have your probation revoked, and reinstated, for a new period of three-five years<sup>759</sup> (see PG. 211 on probation revocation proceedings).

WHAT ARE COMMON CONDITIONS OF FORMAL PROBATION?

There are some general/standard rules and conditions that apply to most (if not all) people on formal probation, BUT REMEMBER, EVERY COUNTY WILL HAVE DIFFERENT RULES AND CONDITIONS.

1. Meeting with your probation officer as often as required, generally once a month;
2. Payment of restitution, fines, and fees;<sup>761</sup>
3. Participation in individual or group therapy;
4. Mandatory drug testing, if you were convicted of certain drug-related crimes;
5. Community service;

<sup>754</sup> CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.1(a) provides: “The court, or judge thereof, in the order granting probation, may suspend the imposing or the execution of the sentence and may direct that the suspension may continue for a period of time not exceeding the maximum possible term of the sentence, except as hereinafter set forth, and upon those terms and conditions as it shall determine. The court, or judge thereof, in the order granting probation and as a condition thereof, may imprison the defendant in a county jail for a period not exceeding the maximum time fixed by law in the case. However, where the maximum possible term of the sentence is five years or less, then the period of suspension of imposition or execution of sentence may, in the discretion of the court, continue for not over five years.”

<sup>755</sup> Each county sets its own mandatory minimum. Alameda County, Alpine County, Inyo County, Placer County, Plumas County, Sacramento County, San Joaquin County, & Tuolumne County require a minimum of 5 years on formal probation, while most counties in California only require a minimum of 3 years on formal probation.

<sup>756</sup> CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.3(a). “The court may at any time when the ends of justice will be subserved thereby, and when the good conduct and reform of the person so held on probation shall warrant it, terminate the period of probation, and discharge the person so held.”

6. An agreement to submit to law enforcement searches of your person, residence, or property with or without a warrant (sometimes called a “search condition” or a “4th Waiver”);
7. No contact with victim(s) and following any stay away orders not to harass victim(s);
8. Not associating with people who you know are gang members;<sup>762</sup>
9. Agreement not to violate any laws.

To challenge or try to change the conditions of probation, see the next question and answer.

HOW DO I CHANGE A CONDITION OF MY FORMAL PROBATION?

Follow the outlined steps below to request a change (called a “modification”) in your probation terms: Start by contacting the Court Clerk at your local county superior court where you were convicted to ask if there is a local form. If not, you and your attorney will have to draft a motion. See Appendix Y, PG. 311 for more information. (Note: The process for requesting a change to informal probation conditions is the same as the process for requesting a change to formal probation conditions.)

TRANSFERRING LOCATIONS ON FORMAL PROBATION

I WANT TO TRANSFER MY FORMAL PROBATION TO ANOTHER COUNTY. CAN I DO THAT?

It’s possible. The California Superior Court of the county that you were convicted of a crime in has jurisdiction (decision-making power) over county-to-county transfers for probation.<sup>763</sup>

When deciding whether transfer is appropriate, the judge will look at:

1. Permanency of your residence (whether you actually live in the transfer county permanently);
2. Local programs available for you in the transfer county; and
3. Restitution orders and victim issues.<sup>764</sup>

I AM ON FORMAL PROBATION AND WANT TO TRANSFER TO ANOTHER COUNTY. HOW CAN I DO THAT?

The rules and process for transferring your formal probation to another county are the same as the rules that apply to informal probation.<sup>765</sup> For more information on this process, see PG. 199.

I AM ON FORMAL PROBATION AND WANT TO TRANSFER TO ANOTHER STATE. HOW CAN I DO THAT?

IMPORTANT: The same rules for transferring states apply to people on ANY type of state or county supervision. That means if you are on state parole, probation, PRCS, OR mandatory supervision—the process and rules to transfer your supervision to another state are the same. To read about interstate transfer, see PG. 217.

VIOLATIONS & REVOCATIONS OF FORMAL PROBATION

WHAT ARE THE RULES FOR VIOLATIONS & REVOCATIONS OF FORMAL PROBATION?

See PG. 211 for the rules and procedures. Probation revocation proceedings are the same for informal probation (PG. 196), formal probation (PG. 200), and a newer form of supervision called “Mandatory Supervision” (PG. 208).

POST-RELEASE COMMUNITY SUPERVISION (PRCS)

PRCS is run by your local county probation office and the rules vary from county to county across California. We have tried to provide information here that will be helpful to all as general rules and guidelines, but we encourage you to ask people in your particular county probation office about how PRCS operates locally, and what services or programs are available to you there.

BASICS OF PRCS

WHAT IS POST-RELEASE COMMUNITY SUPERVISION (PRCS)?

In 2011, California's "Realignment" Law (A.B. 109) created a new form of community supervision under which certain people leaving state prison are monitored by the probation departments of each county, instead of by state parole. This new form of supervision is called Post-Release Community Supervision (PRCS).

As of October 1, 2011, people who are released from state prisons for crimes that are non-violent, non-serious, AND non-sexual are placed on PRCS under the supervision of county probation officers.<sup>766</sup>

WHO WILL BE RELEASED FROM STATE PRISON TO COUNTY SUPERVISION ON PRCS?

The following people will be released from state prison onto PRCS supervision:

- Individuals currently serving terms for non-violent, non-serious commitment offenses;
- Some sex offenders; AND
- Individuals who, prior to October 1, 2011, would have been placed on non-revocable parole (NRP).<sup>767</sup>

IMPORTANT NOTE: If you were paroled from state prison before October 1, 2011, you will stay on parole, and not be placed on PRCS. However, if you are returned to the custody of state prison due to a parole revocation case, the CDCR will screen your case beginning at least 180 days before your calculated release date (see the next question about this timeline) to decide if you should be (1) returned to state parole or (2) placed on PRCS after serving the revocation term.<sup>768</sup>

WHO WILL NOT BE RELEASED FROM STATE PRISON TO COUNTY SUPERVISION ON PRCS?

The 3 nons—anyone convicted of the following offenses will be released onto state PAROLE, not PRCS:

1. A "serious" felony (as described in Cal. Pen. Code § 1192.7(c));
2. A "violent" felony (as described in Cal. Pen. Code § 667.5(c));
3. Individuals with an indeterminate life-term, including third-strikers, who were sentenced pursuant to Cal. Pen. Code § 667(e)(2) or § 1170.12(c)(2);
4. Any crime for which the person is classified as a high-risk sex offender (as defined by CDCR);
5. Any crime for which the person is required, as a condition of parole, to undergo treatment by the State Department of State Hospitals (DSH) as a mentally disordered offender pursuant to Cal. Pen. Code § 2962.<sup>769</sup>
6. If you think you will be on parole, not PRCS, see earlier section on state parole, PG. 143.

WHEN IS THE PRCS VS. PAROLE ASSESSMENT DONE?

Before you are released from prison, a correctional counselor will screen your case and decide whether to refer you to state parole or PRCS.<sup>770</sup> The correctional officer should start this screening process at least 180 days prior to your calculated release date.<sup>771</sup> The CDCR Form 611, "Release Program Study" (RPS) (see example in Appendix S, PG. 297) is used to determine if you will be eligible for PRCS after release.<sup>772</sup>

AFTER RELEASE: WHAT TO EXPECT IN YOUR FIRST DAYS OUT ON PRCS

WHAT MUST I DO WHEN I FIRST GET OUT ON PRCS?

You must report to your County Probation Department for PRCS supervision within 2 working days after your release from state prison, court, or county jail.<sup>773</sup> Instructions for what to do when you first get out on PRCS vary from county to county. Please see Appendix Z on PG. 313 for some examples of the PRCS release process in a few California counties.

WHERE WILL I BE RELEASED TO ON PRCS?

In most cases, you will be sent to the county of your last legal residence before you were incarcerated.<sup>774</sup> However, CDCR can send you to PRCS in a different county for various reasons, including victim safety concerns, to help you maintain family ties, or so you can benefit from work or educational programs.<sup>775</sup>

Please keep reading for more information on how to make a request to be sent to a different county other than the one you last legally lived in.

CAN I REQUEST THAT CDCR SEND ME TO PRCS IN A DIFFERENT COUNTY THAN WHERE THEY WANT TO SEND ME?

Yes. While you are in prison, you can request to be released on to PRCS in a different county than where CDCR has assigned you—which is typically the county of last legal residence. Please read the section on how to request a PRCS County Transfer, beginning on PG. 206.

LENGTH OF PRCS

HOW LONG DOES PRCS SUPERVISION LAST?

PRCS can last a minimum of six months, and a maximum of 3 years.<sup>776</sup> Remember PRCS can end earlier if you do not violate any conditions of your PRCS.<sup>777</sup>

If at any time you abscond (go missing) or are otherwise unavailable for supervision, that amount of time will not count toward the total PRCS period.<sup>778</sup>

CAN I GET OFF PRCS EARLY?

It’s possible. If you have no violations of your PRCS, the county probation department that supervises you may discharge you after 6 consecutive months of no violations.<sup>779</sup> But early release from PRCS is discretionary—it’s up to the supervising agency to decide. Most individuals discharge from PRCS within 30 days after serving a continuous year without violations.<sup>780</sup>

CONDITIONS OF PRCS

WHAT CONDITIONS MUST I FOLLOW IF I AM ON PRCS?

You must comply with all of your conditions on PRCS.<sup>781</sup> The standard conditions include:

- 1) A waiver of your Fourth Amendment Rights—agreeing to be searched by law enforcement without probable cause;
- 2) Informing the Probation Department of your home and work addresses; and
- 3) Never possessing or having access to weapons.<sup>782</sup>

IS THERE A DOCUMENT WHERE I CAN FIND ALL MY PRCS CONDITIONS?

Yes—you should refer to your signed CDCR Form 1515, “Notice and Conditions of Parole” (see Appendix G, PG. 268 for an example of this form).<sup>783</sup>

If you do not sign the conditions while you are still incarcerated, the prison/jail staff will notify the county of your supervision, and you can be held in custody until you sign Form 1515 or until your credits expire.<sup>784</sup>

A NOTE ABOUT ADDING EXTRA (SPECIAL) CONDITIONS OF PRCS:

The county probation office may send special conditions to CDCR prior to release, but they must be related to your offense. So CDCR can make the PRCS conditions, and then the local county probation office can add to those conditions, if the new conditions are lawful.

CAN I CHALLENGE A PRCS CONDITION?

Yes. The legal standards for determining whether a PRCS condition is unlawful are generally the same as for parole conditions.<sup>785</sup> Please refer to, PG. 178 to understand what makes a PRCS or state parole condition lawful or unlawful.

HOW DO I CHALLENGE A PRCS CONDITION?

The procedure will depend on whether the supervising agency (the county probation department) or the court made the decision, and when the challenge is being raised.

IF THE CONDITION WAS SET BY THE PROBATION OFFICER SUPERVISING YOUR PRCS: then you should complete any administrative appeal or grievance process that is available through Probation. If there is no administrative appeal process or the administrative appeal is unsuccessful, then you can file a state petition for a writ of habeas corpus in the local superior court.<sup>786</sup> See Appendix K PG. 280 to learn how to file a state petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

IF THE CONDITION WAS SET BY THE COURT JUDGE OR A COURT-APPOINTED HEARING OFFICER: then you should be able to proceed with a court challenge. It appears likely that a direct appeal can be filed under the statute that allows an appeal to be filed “from any order made after judgment, affecting the substantial rights of the party.” To appeal, you must file a notice of appeal in the superior court within 60 calendar days after the court’s decision.

When a timely notice of appeal is filed, the Superior Court will prepare a record of the parole revocation proceedings with all the documents filed in the court AND transcripts of the hearings, and will provide these documents to the Court of Appeal, the State, and to you (the parolee).

- In a direct appeal, an attorney will be appointed by the Court of Appeal at state’s expense, if the parolee does not have enough money to pay for one.
- If you wish to have a court-appointed attorney, you must file your notice of appeal within 60 calendar days after the court’s decision.

If the notice of appeal is not timely filed or if the issue involves information that is not in the court record, it might be possible to raise the issues in a state court habeas corpus petition.

IMPORTANT: Whether or not issues from your case can be raised on a habeas appeal can be a difficult subject to determine. For this reason, it is recommended that you seek help from a court-appointed attorney, if possible. Again, remember that if you wish to have a court-appointed attorney, you must file your notice of appeal within 60 calendar days after the court’s decision.

Please refer to Appendix K, on PG. 280 for more information on direct appeals and state habeas corpus petitions, including sample forms.

WHAT COULD HAPPEN IF I DO NOT FOLLOW THE CONDITIONS OF MY PRCS?

There are different types of consequences for not following (violating) the terms and conditions of your post-release community supervision (PRCS). These include:

- INTERMEDIATE SANCTIONS: PRCS agencies are supposed to develop and use “intermediate sanctions” for minor violations of PRCS conditions. Intermediate sanctions could include programs like drug treatment, mental health counseling, and job assistance.<sup>787</sup>
- FLASH INCARCERATION: Another type of punishment for violating a PRCS condition is “flash incarceration.” Flash incarceration is an immediate return to jail for a period of up to 10 days.<sup>788</sup> One of the conditions for being placed on PRCS is that you give up the right to demand a court hearing before being subject to flash incarceration.<sup>789</sup>
- COURT PETITION TO MODIFY/REVOKE/TERMINATE PRCS: If county probation decides that more serious punishment is appropriate for the violation, the agency will file a petition to modify, revoke, or terminate PRCS through the County Superior Court. Probation’s petition will be filed with a hearing officer appointed by the local Superior Court. Either the supervising agency (probation department) or the hearing officer can decide to keep a person in custody (in jail) while the petition is pending.<sup>790</sup>

TRANSFERRING LOCATIONS ON PRCS

HOW DO I TRANSFER MY PRCS TO ANOTHER COUNTY IN CALIFORNIA?

California state law governs the process for transferring a person's PRCS between counties.<sup>791</sup> Unlike with transfers of informal probation, PG. 196, formal probation, PG. 200, and Mandatory Supervision, PG. 208,<sup>792</sup> the Court does NOT have the authority to transfer a person's PRCS. Instead, the PRCS transfer process is administrative, and happens directly from one county to another.<sup>793</sup> The internal policy of probation departments is to accept post-release transfers only, so once you are released, the process for transferring counties on PRCS is as follows:

STEP 1: Write a letter to your probation officer formally stating your intention to live in another county.

STEP 2: The probation department must find that transfer is appropriate under the circumstances. In addition to considering factors such as the victim's safety, the probation officer must determine that:

- You have proof of permanent residence in another county (see box), AND
- Your change of residence was either approved by probation OR didn't violate the terms and conditions of your PRCS.<sup>794</sup>

STEP 3: The supervising agency (the county probation department) then has two weeks to send any information it received from CDCR before you were released to the probation department in your new county of permanent residence.<sup>795</sup>

STEP 4: Once the new county's probation department has verified your permanent residency in its county, the agency must accept you on PRCS there.<sup>796</sup>

IMPORTANT NOTE: Your supervising agency (the county probation department) is not required to transfer your PRCS to another county unless you have shown your ability to establish permanent residence within another county without violating the terms and conditions of your PRCS.

How do I prove I have a permanent residence to transfer my PRCS to a new county?

To verify that you live in the requested county, the county probation department will need proof of permanent residence. This may include:

- A face-to-face visit from a probation officer at your new home
- A California driver's license with your new address
- Voter registration documents
- A copy of a rental agreement
- A form from a friend or family member verifying that you will live with them
- Credit card or utility bills
- Car registration or insurance documents

Living somewhere only for employment or school, or living in a transitional housing or residential treatment facility, will not be considered a "permanent residence" for the purpose of transferring your PRCS to another county.<sup>797</sup>

HOW DO I TRANSFER MY PRCS TO ANOTHER STATE?

IMPORTANT: The same rules for transferring states apply to people on ANY type of state or county supervision. That means if you are on state parole, probation, PRCS, OR mandatory supervision—the process and rules to transfer your supervision to another state are the same. To read about interstate transfer, see PG. 217.

VIOLATIONS & REVOCATIONS OF PRCS

IF THE PROBATION DEPARTMENT PURSUES THE CASE IN COURT, DO I HAVE THE RIGHT TO A HEARING FOR A PRCS VIOLATION PETITION?

Yes. If you must respond to a PRCS violation petition, you have the right to a hearing in County Superior Court.<sup>798</sup>

DO I HAVE THE RIGHT TO A FREE ATTORNEY IF I CAN'T AFFORD ONE AT A PRCS VIOLATION HEARING?

Yes, at least in some cases—you have the right to a free court-appointed attorney if you cannot afford your own.<sup>799</sup> You can give up the right to an attorney and a hearing, admit the violation, and accept the proposed punishment,<sup>800</sup> but it's suggested that you ALWAYS ask for an attorney and hearing.

IF THE JUDGE FINDS THAT I HAVE VIOLATED THE TERMS OR CONDITIONS OF MY PRCS, WHAT ARE POSSIBLE PUNISHMENTS?

If you are found to have violated the terms or conditions of your PRCS at a hearing, the judge, magistrate, or hearing officer can:

- Return you to PRCS supervision with modified (changed or new) conditions;
- Refer you to a special program or to a special “reentry court” for assessment for a special program;<sup>801</sup> OR
- Revoke (take away) your PRCS and order you to county jail for a maximum term of 180 days.<sup>802</sup>

NOTE: If you are ordered to serve county jail time for a PRCS violation, you can earn 2 days of good conduct credits for every 2 days you actually serve.<sup>803</sup>

HOW CAN I CHALLENGE A COURT DECISION REVOKING MY PRCS, OR A DECISION BY THE HEARING OFFICER AFTER A PRCS VIOLATION HEARING?

You can almost always challenge the judgment of a PRCS revocation hearing.<sup>804</sup> To appeal, you must file a notice of appeal in the county Superior Court within 60 calendar days after the court's decision.<sup>805</sup>

After a timely notice of appeal is filed, the Superior Court will prepare a record of the PRCS revocation proceedings that includes all the documents filed in the court and transcripts of the hearings. The Superior Court must then provide these documents to (1) the Court of Appeal, (2) the State/ District Attorney (representing the Probation Department), and (3) you. In a direct appeal, the court of appeal must appoint an attorney to represent you for free if you don't have enough money to pay for one.<sup>806</sup> In order to have a court-appointed attorney, you must file your notice of appeal within 60 calendar days after the court's decision.

HELPFUL HINT

If you or your lawyer did not file a “notice of appeal” on time:

If the “notice of appeal” is not filed on time, or if the issue involves information that isn't in the court record, then it might be possible to raise the issues in a state court habeas corpus petition (see Appendix K, PG. 280 to learn about the general process for filing one). This is not recommended unless (1) your notice of appeal wasn't filed in time, or (2) the appeal involves information that the court has no record of.

MANDATORY SUPERVISION

BASICS OF MANDATORY SUPERVISION

WHAT IS MANDATORY SUPERVISION?

If you receive a split sentence (jail and community supervision time), you could be placed on Mandatory Supervision after your release from county jail. California's 2011 Realignment law (AB 109) has given criminal courts in California a legal tool called "split sentencing."<sup>807</sup> Split sentencing allows a judge to split the time of a person's sentence between a jail term and a period of supervision by a probation officer.

While Mandatory Supervision is not technically probation by law, it will feel the same—you will be supervised by a county probation officer, and it will feel a lot like probation in how the supervision functions.<sup>808</sup>

Please note: Mandatory Supervision is run by the counties and rules vary from county to county across California. We have tried to provide information here that will be helpful to all, but we encourage you to find out information from your particular county probation office about how Mandatory Supervision operates, and what services or programs are available to you there.

WHO CAN BE RELEASED ONTO MANDATORY SUPERVISION?

You are eligible for a "split sentence" and Mandatory Supervision if your felony conviction is for a non-violent, non-serious, non-sex offense (the "3 nons") by law.<sup>809</sup>

You CANNOT get a "split sentence" if:

1. You have a prior or current felony conviction for a serious felony described in Cal. Pen. Code § 1192.7(c);
2. You have a prior or current conviction for a violent felony described in Cal. Pen. Code § 667.5(c);
3. You have a prior felony conviction in another jurisdiction for an offense that has all the elements of a serious or violent felony discussed directly above;
4. You are required to register as a sex offender pursuant to Cal. Pen. Code § 290 et seq.; OR
5. Your conviction included a sentence enhancement pursuant to Cal. Pen. Code § 186.11.
6. These 5 categories of individuals will still have to serve their sentence in state prison.<sup>810</sup>

AFTER RELEASE: WHAT TO EXPECT IN YOUR FIRST DAYS OUT ON MANDATORY SUPERVISION

WHAT MUST I DO AFTER I GET RELEASED ONTO MANDATORY SUPERVISION?

You must report to your County Probation Department for Mandatory Supervision within 2 working days after your release from state prison, court, or county jail.<sup>811</sup>

Other instructions for what to do when you first get out on Mandatory Supervision vary from county to county, and you should check with your local county's probation office for a list of all the requirements.

LENGTH OF MANDATORY SUPERVISION

HOW LONG WILL I BE ON MANDATORY SUPERVISION?

It depends. The judge in the court that convicted you sets the term and length of mandatory supervision, and it is different for every person depending on what your conviction is for. BUT there are limitations. Split sentences cannot be longer than the maximum sentence possible for the conviction—meaning the total time you serve in custody (in jail) and supervision time (time on Mandatory Supervision) cannot be more than the maximum original sentence.

Possibly. California law allows you to ask the court to be released early from mandatory supervision.<sup>812</sup> It is entirely up to the judge to decide whether to terminate your mandatory supervision early. Since they are given so much discretion, some judges (and even some whole counties) are unwilling to let people off of mandatory supervision early, regardless of the person's progress. Many judges see mandatory supervision as an alternative to incarcerating you for the whole time (that's why it's called "split sentencing" because the judge split your sentence between incarceration and being on mandatory supervision in the community), so for the most part they are less likely to end your mandatory supervision early as compared with probation.

We recommend that you speak with an attorney BEFORE filing a "Motion to Terminate Mandatory Supervision" early. If you go ahead with asking a judge to end your mandatory supervision early (such a request is called a "Motion") and it is granted, then you might also be able to ask for certain convictions to be dismissed from your record! For more information on how to file a Motion to Terminate Probation early, and also how to request dismissals of eligible convictions, please see the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, PG. 931.

CONDITIONS OF MANDATORY SUPERVISION

WHAT ARE THE CONDITIONS OF MANDATORY SUPERVISION?

State law requires Mandatory Supervision to be supervised by a county probation officer with the same "terms, conditions, and procedures that apply to people on probation (such as submitting to drug testing)."<sup>813</sup>

Generally speaking, Probation Officers use routine office appointments, employment services and treatment program partnerships to ensure compliance with terms and conditions of probation.

CAN I EARN GOOD TIME CREDITS ON MANDATORY SUPERVISION?

TRANSFERRING LOCATIONS ON MANDATORY SUPERVISION

HOW DO I TRANSFER COUNTIES ON MANDATORY SUPERVISION?

The rules and process for transferring your Mandatory Supervision to another county are the same as the rules that apply to informal and formal probation.<sup>815</sup> For more information on this process, see PG. 199.

HOW DO I TRANSFER STATES ON MANDATORY SUPERVISION?

! IMPORTANT: The same rules for transferring states apply to people on ANY type of state or county supervision. That means if you are on state parole, probation, PRCS, OR mandatory supervision—the process and rules to transfer your supervision to another state are the same. To read about interstate transfer, see PG. 217.

VIOLATIONS & REVOCATIONS OF MANDATORY SUPERVISION

WHAT IS THE PROBATION VIOLATION AND REVOCATION PROCESS ON MANDATORY SUPERVISION, AND WHAT ARE MY RIGHTS IN THAT PROCESS?

Go to PG. 211 to learn about your rights during the probation violation and revocation process.

WHAT HAPPENS IF I AM UNABLE TO ABIDE BY THE CONDITIONS OF MY MANDATORY SUPERVISION?

If you're on Mandatory Supervision, the violation and revocation process works the same way as it does for informal probation and formal probation.<sup>816</sup> Please read the violation and revocations information on PG. 211, for a description of the law and how the process works.

YOUR RIGHTS AS A PERSON WITH A DISABILITY ON MANDATORY SUPERVISION

I HAVE A DISABILITY. WHAT RIGHTS DO I HAVE REGARDING ACCOMMODATIONS FOR MY DISABILITY?

The federal Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) and California state law protect you against discrimination based on your disability, and protect your rights to equal treatment and reasonable accommodations.

If you are on probation (informal or formal), PRCs, or Mandatory Supervision<sup>817</sup>, you have the right to:

1. Reasonable accommodations and changes in procedures so that you can participate in probation services, programs, and activities, and can successfully complete the terms of your supervision.<sup>818</sup>
EXAMPLES INCLUDE:
  - If you are in a wheelchair, probation staff should make sure that any programs, meetings, and services are in wheelchair-accessible buildings.
  - If your probation officer refers you to community service (such as a drug treatment center, job center, or literacy center), or requires you to complete a program, the probation staff should make sure that you can actually get to the services and participate in the programs.
  - If you are required to complete a work program, probation staff should make sure that you are given a (alternative) job that you are able to do with your disability.
2. Effective communication so that you can fully understand and participate in probation programs, services, activities, and proceedings.<sup>819</sup> This includes communication during orientations, interviews, and supervision meetings; when you are notified of conditions of probation and registration requirements; and during grievance and revocation proceedings. EXAMPLES include:
  - Assistance by a sign language interpreter for a hearing-impaired person;
  - Reading aloud of written materials for a vision-impaired person; or
  - Simplifying information for a developmentally disabled person.
3. Additional assistance (including services) and aids (like healthcare devices) to accommodate your disability and ensure that you can fully and successfully participate in programs, activities, and services. EXAMPLES include:
  - Providing sign language interpretation if you are hearing impaired or
  - Wheelchair assistance if you have difficulty walking and cannot access a building.<sup>820</sup>
4. Information about your right to receive accommodations and equal treatment, and how this affects your probation programming and requirements.<sup>821</sup>

HOW CAN I REQUEST AN ACCOMMODATION OR FILE A COMPLAINT IF I FEEL THAT PROBATION IS NOT ACCOMMODATING MY DISABILITY, OR IF I AM NOT GETTING ACCESS TO PROBATION SERVICES OR PROGRAMS?<sup>822</sup>

Unlike for state parole, there are no formal probation policies or procedures to request accommodations or file a complaint related to your disability. Each county does things differently, and many counties have no formal procedures. You can first talk to your probation officer and explain the situation to him/her OR you may ask a judge to modify your probation to accommodate your disability by filing a motion requesting a change. Please Appendix AA, on PG. 314, for detailed steps on the process.

In addition to federal and state law, some cities or counties may provide additional protections for individuals with disabilities, which protect your rights while you are on supervision in that county. <sup>822</sup> The information in this section is based on our staff's conversation with probation staff in Alameda, Contra Costa, and Yolo Counties, and our law clerk's conversation with probation staff in Sacramento. If your county Probation Department employs more than 50 people (including POs and other staff), the department is required by law to provide a formal complaint (grievance) process. 28 C.F.R. § 35.107(b). However, most Probation Departments do not have formal grievance procedures to request accommodations or complain about discrimination based on disability.

VIOLATIONS & REVOCATIONS OF FORMAL PROBATION, INFORMAL PROBATION, & MANDATORY SUPERVISION

The following questions and answers apply to most forms of county-level community supervision in California, including informal probation, formal probation, and Mandatory Supervision, but NOT Post-Release Community Supervision (PRCS).

PRE-HEARING

WHAT IS THE PROBATION REVOCATION PROCESS IN CALIFORNIA?

The following probation revocation process applies to: (1) informal probation, (2) formal probation, and (3) Mandatory Supervision.<sup>823</sup>

WHAT COULD HAPPEN IF I DON'T FOLLOW THE CONDITIONS OF MY PROBATION?

If any probation officer, parole officer, or police officer has probable cause to believe that you are violating any term or condition of your supervision, the officer may re-arrest you (even without a warrant) and bring you before the court.<sup>824</sup>

This is the case so long as you are on probation—at any point until the time your probation terminates or your case is dismissed. Alternatively, the court may, in its own discretion, issue a warrant for your re-arrest.<sup>825</sup>

If you willfully miss a scheduled court date (“progress report”), this is considered a probation violation and the court will issue a bench warrant for your arrest.<sup>826</sup>

CAN I BE REVOKED FOR NOT PAYING RESTITUTION?

Yes, BUT not if you cannot afford to pay. If you do not pay restitution, your probation can be revoked.<sup>827</sup> But your probation will not be revoked due to a failure to pay restitution unless the court determines that: 1) you have the ability to pay, and 2) you willfully failed to pay.<sup>828</sup>

CAN FLASH INCARCERATION BE USED AS AN INTERMEDIATE SANCTION?

If you are on informal probation, formal probation, or Mandatory Supervision flash incarceration CANNOT be used as an intermediate sanction. Flash incarceration can ONLY be used for people on parole or PRCS.<sup>829</sup>

AM I ENTITLED TO BAIL?

It depends. Bail amounts for probation violations vary from county to county. Bail amounts for probation violations may also depend on the type of offense you were convicted of, and whether you are on informal or formal probation.<sup>830</sup> If you have internet access, you can usually find standard felony and misdemeanor bail amounts for probation violations (also referred to as “bail schedules”) on your county Superior Court’s website, or call your county public defenders office to ask them about bail amounts for probation violations.<sup>831</sup>

WHAT DOES THE COURT HAVE THE POWER TO DO TO MY PROBATION STATUS?

The court can:

1. Reinstatement your probation with the same probation terms and conditions;
  2. Reinstatement and modify (meaning change the terms or conditions of your probation),
  3. Revoke and terminate (meaning take away your probation and sentence you to jail or prison time).
- The court can modify, revoke, or terminate probation’s supervision of you on its own motion or upon the petition (a formal, legal request through the court) of you, the probation or parole officer, or the District Attorney. This applies to informal probation, formal probation, and Mandatory Supervision.<sup>832</sup>

Restitution shall be consistent with a person’s ability to pay.”).

THE HEARING

WHAT COURT WILL HEAR MY CASE?

The court in the county in which you are supervised has “jurisdiction” (the legal authority) to hear the motion or petition to modify, revoke, or terminate your probation.<sup>833</sup>

For those on probation, it will be either the court in the county in which you are supervised or the court in the county in which the alleged violation of supervision occurred.<sup>834</sup>

WHO HEARS THE CASES?

WHO REPRESENTS THE INTEREST OF PROBATION IN THE HEARING?

WHAT DOES THE PROSECUTOR (D.A.) NEED TO PROVE?

The prosecutor, also known as the District Attorney (DA), must prove that is more likely than not that you violated probation.<sup>837</sup>

Unlike a criminal trial where the DA must prove the case “beyond a reasonable doubt,” the DA in a probation revocation hearing only needs to prove by a “preponderance of the evidence” that you violated probation.<sup>838</sup>

DO I HAVE A RIGHT TO NOTICE OF THE PROBATION REVOCATION HEARING?

You must be given notice before your first court appearance in the probation revocation proceedings, unless you agreed in writing to a modification (a change) or termination (an end) of a specific term of your supervision.<sup>840</sup>

If you agreed in writing to a modification or termination of a specific term of your supervision, you also do not have to make an in-person appearance in court for the hearing.<sup>841</sup> We suggest that you speak with an attorney or public defender prior to waiving your right to a revocation hearing.

DO I HAVE THE RIGHT TO AN ATTORNEY AT THE HEARING?

Yes.<sup>842</sup> Before you waive the requirement to personally appear at the hearing or before you accept an offer of modification of your probation conditions, you should be informed that you have the right to an attorney, and if you cannot afford one, you have the right to a free attorney provided by the court.<sup>843</sup>

If you waive the right to an attorney, this waiver must be in writing.<sup>844</sup> Again, we suggest that you speak with an attorney or public defender prior to waiving your right to a revocation hearing.

WHAT RIGHTS DO I HAVE DURING A PROBATION REVOCATION HEARING?

There are minimal due process requirements for probation revocation proceedings.<sup>845</sup> This means that you don’t have all of the same rights that you have at trial.<sup>846</sup>

WHAT DOES “PREPONDERANCE OF THE EVIDENCE” MEAN?

Requires the court to find that more than half of the evidence at least 51% of it supports the charges or alleged probation violation.

First, constitutional principles permit the revocation of probation when the facts supporting it are proven by a preponderance of the evidence. <sup>843</sup> Pursuant to CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.2(b)(2)

<sup>845</sup> In Morrissey v. Brewer, the U.S. Supreme Court established minimal due process requirements for parole revocation proceedings under the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. 408 U.S. 471, 488-89 (1972). With regard to the revocation of probation, the Court subsequently held that “a probationer, like a parolee, is entitled to a preliminary and a final revocation hearing, under the

You have the following rights:

1. Written notice of the alleged violations and the possible consequences, with enough information to allow you to prepare a defense and obtain mitigating evidence (meaning evidence that would lessen the perceived severity of the violation or help justify it);<sup>847</sup>
2. Disclosure of the evidence against you;<sup>848</sup>
3. Timely hearing of the charges at a probable cause hearing and a formal revocation hearing;<sup>849</sup>
4. The right to present witnesses and evidence.<sup>850</sup> You can subpoena and present witnesses and evidence.<sup>851</sup> A person served with a subpoena for a parole revocation hearing is required to appear at the hearing unless the hearing is held at a place outside the county of his or her residence and more than 75 miles from his or her residence;<sup>852</sup>
5. The right to confront and cross-examine adverse witnesses.<sup>853</sup> You have a conditional right under the U.S. and California constitutions to confront witnesses whose statements are used against you in a probation violation hearing.<sup>854</sup> This means that you or your attorney may cross-examine any people who gave information or testified that you violated your probation.<sup>855</sup>
6. A fair and unbiased hearing body;<sup>856</sup> and
7. A written statement of the decision, the evidence relied on, and the reasons for revoking parole.<sup>857</sup>

IMPORTANT: You may waive (give up) your rights, either expressly—by saying you give up the right, or by implication—by failing to assert the right.<sup>858</sup> Therefore, it is important that you take advantage of your rights and complain if a right is violated.

AT MY PROBATION REVOCATION HEARING, CAN THE PROSECUTOR (D.A.) INTRODUCE EVIDENCE OBTAINED THROUGH AN UNLAWFUL SEARCH OR SEIZURE?

Yes.<sup>859</sup> You should note that the “exclusionary rule” that usually applies in a criminal court trial—a rule that bars evidence obtained in violation of the Fourth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution—does NOT apply in probation revocation hearings. This means that even if evidence was suppressed in an earlier criminal trial, it can still most likely be brought in to a later parole revocation hearing.<sup>860</sup> conditions specified in Morrissey.” Gagnon v. Scarpelli, 411 U.S. 778, 782 (1973). Thus, the State “must provide the same process [found in Morrissey] when terminating a probationer from probation.” State v. Rogers, 144 Idaho 738, 742-43 (2007); State v. Scraggins, 153 Idaho 867, 871 (2012). While Morrissey and Gagnon holdings make clear that probationers do not retain the full constitutional protections afforded criminal defendants, a probationer has a protected liberty interest in continued probation, and is therefore entitled to due process before probation may be revoked. Morrissey and Gagnon set forth those minimum due process requirements. See State v. Scraggins, 153 Idaho 867, 871 (2012). Cases since Morrissey have reaffirmed those rights and described them more specifically. See People v. Vickers, 8 Cal. 3d 451 (1979) (“[T]he efficient administration of justice requires that the defendant be assisted by retained or appointed counsel at all revocation proceedings other than at summary proceedings had while the probationer remains at liberty after absconding.”); see also, *Gagnon v. <sup>855</sup> You keep this right to cross-examine a witness unless: a.) the hearing officer (i.e. the judge) determines that there is “good cause” that the witness does not have to testify, and b.) that the “good cause” outweighs (exceeds) your right to confront that particular witness.<sup>855</sup> If the hearing officer determines that there is “good cause” that a witness does not have to testify, then the hearing officer may take into consideration that witness’s past out-of-court statements, even though the witness will not be in court you to confront. For example, if a judge determines that there is “good cause” that a witness’s safety will be in danger if he or she testifies at your probation revocation hearing, then the witness’s past statements are admissible at your hearing. But remember—the more important the witness’s testimony is to the case, the stronger your right to confront and question that witness is (see U.S. v. Comito, 177 F.3d 1166 (9th Cir. 1999); Valdivia v Schwarzenegger, 599 F.3d 984, 989 (9th Cir. 2010); People v. Arreola, 7 Cal.4th 1144, 1154 (1994)). See also *Gagnon v. ## CAN A WITNESS BE EXCUSED FROM TESTIFYING IN FRONT OF ME AT A PROBATION REVOCATION HEARING?

Witnesses may not be required to testify in front of you if they are deemed fearful or confidential.<sup>861</sup>

- “Fearful witnesses” are witnesses whose identity is known to you but who: (1) have indicated that they are at a risk of harm if they testify in your presence; or (2) have requested that their contact information be withheld from you. Testimony of a fearful witness can be taken outside the parolee’s presence, but the parolee’s attorney must be present.
- “Confidential witnesses” are witnesses whose identity you are unaware of and who would be at a risk of harm if their identity were disclosed.<sup>862</sup> However, if confidential information is used as part of the reason you’re charged with violating probation, you can request that the prosecutor disclose (reveal) this information or prove that revealing this information would create a risk of harm to the confidential witness.<sup>863</sup>

WHAT HAPPENS IF A VERY IMPORTANT WITNESS DOESN’T SHOW UP TO THE PROBATION REVOCATION HEARING, EVEN THOUGH HE/SHE WAS REQUIRED TO ATTEND?

If a very important (called “material”) state witness fails to attend a parole revocation hearing, and the hearing cannot fairly proceed without the witness, the court can postpone the hearing or dismiss the case.<sup>864</sup>

SENTENCING

HOW LONG CAN I BE SENTENCED TO JAIL TIME FOR A PROBATION REVOCATION?

It depends on what your original conviction was for. When your probation is revoked and terminated, the court may—if the original sentence was suspended—now sentence you to jail for the longest period (the maximum sentence) that you could have originally been sentenced for the specific crime you were convicted of committing.<sup>865</sup>

COULD I BE SENTENCED TO PRISON INSTEAD OF JAIL FOR A PROBATION REVOCATION?

It’s possible. You could be sentenced to prison time instead of jail time if the crime that you were originally convicted of is one that would have allowed a judge to sentence you to prison.<sup>866</sup> On the other hand, if the crime you were originally convicted of would not have allowed a judge to sentence you to prison time, then your probation revocation time cannot be sentenced to prison either.

SUMMARY: POSSIBLE SENTENCES FOR A PROBATION REVOCATION

What are the options the court has for sentencing/ punishment if they revoke probation? The judge could:

- 1) Reinstate your probation on the same terms and conditions;
- 2) Reinstated and modify (change) the terms of your probation to make them more difficult, (including adding fines, community service, or public works service); OR
- 3) Revoke and terminate your probation—and send you to jail or prison, depending on the commitment offense.<sup>867</sup>

<sup>864</sup> To decide whether the witness’s testimony would be “material,” the court will weight the importance of the witness’s expected testimony against the availability and reliability of any alternative source of the same information. Also, if the state’s material witnesses fail to appear, but your witnesses are present, you and your attorney may want to ask that the court to take the testimony of your witnesses before postponing the rest of the hearing.

IF MY PROBATION IS REVOKED AND TERMINATED, HOW LONG WILL I BE SENT TO PRISON OR JAIL?

It depends. The length of time that you will be sentenced depends on what the judge ordered at the time you were sentenced. When you were initially sentenced to probation, the sentencing judge had the option of either ordering that the Execution of Sentence be Suspended (ESS) or ordering that the Imposition of Sentence be Suspended (ISS). Trying to figure out if the judge imposed ESS or ISS can be tricky. This is a complex area of law, so ask your lawyer if the judge ordered ESS or ISS. Here are the basics:

- ESS means that the sentence is only executed (meaning, you serve the sentence) if your probation is revoked because you violated your probation conditions.
- ISS means that your sentence has not yet been determined at the time the judge sentences you to probation. But, if you have ISS and you violate the terms of your probation, and your probation is revoked, then the court, at time that the court finds you in violation of your probation, will sentence you to whatever length sentence (up to the maximum for your specified offense) it deems appropriate.<sup>868</sup>

CHALLENGING A REVOCATION DECISION

WHAT RIGHTS DO I HAVE IF I AM A PERSON WITH A DISABILITY GOING THROUGH PROBATION REVOCATION PROCEEDINGS?

The ADA and California state law protect your rights during probation revocation proceedings.<sup>869</sup> In addition, you have a constitutional right to Due Process during a revocation hearing,<sup>870</sup> this means that the court must give you notice of and ensure that you can participate effectively in the hearing. (See PG. 212 above for more information on your Due Process rights during a probation revocation hearing).

If you have a disability, you have the following rights during probation revocation proceedings:

- Reasonable accommodations from Probation staff<sup>871</sup> Examples of accommodations include: Ensuring access to the hearing room for a person with mobility impairments; providing Braille or taped documents or reading assistance for a vision-impaired person; providing assistance in communicating for a developmentally disabled person; or providing sign language interpretation for a hearing-impaired person.
- Probation staff must use effective communication and provide accommodations when interacting with people on probation with disabilities.<sup>872</sup> That means that they must use effective communication and provide accommodation when arresting parolees or modifying conditions of probation.<sup>873</sup>
- In the courtroom, attorney and court are responsible for meeting your needs during the court processes.<sup>874</sup>
- Additional assistance to accommodate your disability so that ensure that you can fully and successfully participate in the revocation proceeding.<sup>875</sup>
- Information about your right to receive accommodations and equal treatment, and how this affects your probation programming and requirements.<sup>876</sup>

IMPORTANT TIPS IN COURT:

- Tell the judge about your disability and how it affects your probation: Remember, the judge has much more power than your probation officer in deciding whether or not to revoke your probation. So if your disability is making it difficult for you to comply with your probation conditions (and if this is the reason for your revocation), you should try to explain this to the judge. Remember to bring documentation (i.e. letters from doctors, medical reports) of your disability to court with you.
- Tell the Judge what assistance you need from the Probation Department to accommodate your disability: You should also explain if you need any additional assistance from the Probation Department.<sup>877</sup>
- Bring Witnesses: Finally, you can also bring any witnesses (for example, a doctor, therapist, or other service provider) and evidence (such as a letter from your doctor or prescription for medication) to show how your disability affects you.

<sup>868</sup> If you plead guilty and have ISS, then whether or not your sentence will be imposed in front of the same judge who accepted your guilty plea depends on whether or not you signed an Arbuckle waiver. An Arbuckle waiver occurs when a defendant waives his right to be sentenced by the same judge who presided over his/her trial/accepted the change of plea. Without an Arbuckle waiver, any sentencing imposed by another judge is unlawful.

CAN I CHALLENGE A DECISION/ACTION BY THE COUNTY SUPERIOR COURT?

Yes. If you are on probation and would like to challenge a court's revocation decision or related action, you can file a direct appeal on "any order made after judgment, affecting the substantial rights of the party."<sup>878</sup>

STEP 1: To file an appeal, you must file a notice of appeal in the superior court within 60 calendar days after the court's decision.<sup>879</sup>

STEP 2: When you file a timely notice of appeal, the County Superior Court will prepare a record of the probation revocation proceedings consisting of all the documents filed in the court and transcripts of the hearings and provide these documents to you, the court, the state (the prosecutor). In a direct appeal, the court must appoint an attorney to represent you for free if you do not have enough money to pay for one. If you wish to have a court-appointed attorney, you must file a timely notice of appeal within 60 calendar days after the court's decision. For a list of County Superior Courts, visit: <http://www.courts.ca.gov/find-my-court.htm>.

STEP 3: If you do not file a timely notice of appeal or if your case involves information outside the court record, then you may be able to raise the issues in a state court petition for a writ of habeas corpus (see explanation in Appendix K, on PG. 280).

There are many issues that you can raise in a challenge to a revocation proceeding or decision. Claims can be based on violations of state or federal constitutional due process rights, California or federal statutes, or California administrative rules. For example, a person could argue that the revocation hearing is being unreasonably delayed, that he or she was denied the right to cross-examine witnesses at the hearing, or that the revocation decision was not supported by the evidence. Unfortunately, in most cases, the process for raising such challenges will be too slow to provide any relief before you serve the entire revocation term. However, you may still benefit by getting your revocation case re-heard, getting revocations vacated, and/or getting the parole department to subtract the time served for the revocation from your parole "controlling discharge date" (CDD).

IV. TRANSFERRING STATES WHILE UNDER COMMUNITY SUPERVISION

HOW DO I TRANSFER STATES WHILE I AM UNDER COMMUNITY SUPERVISION—SUCH AS STATE PAROLE, PROBATION, PRCS, OR MANDATORY SUPERVISION?

First, some background: The rules for transferring from one state to another when on state- or county-level supervision (such as parole, PRCS, mandatory supervision, or county probation) are set by a legal agreement called the Interstate Compact for Adult Offender Supervision.<sup>880</sup> The Compact applies in all 50 states, Puerto Rico, and the U.S. Virgin Islands.<sup>881</sup> If you are classified as a sex offender requesting transfer to a different state, special additional rules apply to you (see PG. 218).

If you are currently incarcerated:

At the earliest, California can send an interstate transfer request for you 120 days before your expected release date (ERD).<sup>882</sup> The receiving state should respond within 45 days of receiving the transfer request.<sup>883</sup> The process can be sped up in an emergency.<sup>884</sup>

If you are formerly incarcerated:

If you are living in the community, you may request to transfer your parole to a new state if you meet basic eligibility requirements (listed below under Step 1).

STEP 1: Confirm that you meet the basic eligibility requirements to request an interstate parole transfer. The basic requirements are:

- As of the time your application is submitted to your requested state, you have 90 days (3 months) or more, or an undecided amount of time, left to serve on parole;
- You have a valid supervision plan;
- You have not had parole revoked and have no pending parole revocation charges; AND
- EITHER of the following is true:
  - You are a resident of the receiving state OR You have family that lives in the state and is willing and able to assist you (regardless of whether you decide to live with them), and you can obtain employment or have another means of supporting yourself;<sup>885</sup> AND
  - You have paid off your restitution orders in California, unless a judge finds that releasing you to transfer parole to another state would be “in the interests of justice.”<sup>886</sup>

IMPORTANT NOTE: Even if you do not meet these requirements, California and the receiving state (the state you wish to transfer to) may agree to grant your request if they find “good cause” (a very good reason) to do so.<sup>887</sup>

STEP 2: If you meet the eligibility requirements, communicate your transfer request to your parole agent. It’s best to make this request in writing so that you have a paper trail, and keep a copy of it in a safe place.

STEP 3: Your parole agent should confirm that you meet the eligibility requirements. He or she must then submit a transfer request to the CDCR’s Interstate Compact Unit in Sacramento, CA.

STEP 4: If the CDCR approves, it should send the transfer request to the receiving state. The receiving state should then decide whether to approve your transfer request.<sup>888</sup>

STEP 5: If the receiving state approves your request, you should then be transferred.<sup>889</sup>

<sup>881</sup> An Interstate Commission has developed rules for transfer eligibility and supervision. The Interstate Commission’s rules have the same effect as statutory law and are mandatory in the states that adopted them. All state officials and state courts must carry out the terms of the Compact and comply with these rules. To the extent that state statutes, rules, or policies conflict with the terms of the Compact or rules created by the Commission to carry out the Compact, then such statutes, rules, or policies are superseded by the Commission’s rules to the extent of any conflict. More information on the Compact and rules made by the Interstate Commission for Adult Supervision and California State Council can be found at www.interstatecompact.org.

WARNING: Special rules apply in a couple of situations: (1) if you must register as a sex offender (see next question), or (2) you are on state parole and still owe victim's restitution. If you owe victim's restitution, you are barred under California state law from transferring your parole to a different state<sup>890</sup>

I AM A 290 SEX OFFENDER REGISTRANT UNDER COMMUNITY SUPERVISION, AND I WANT TO TRANSFER TO ANOTHER STATE. ARE THERE SPECIAL RULES THAT APPLY TO MY TRANSFER REQUEST?

Yes. If you are registered as a sex offender and want to transfer your state or county supervision (meaning state parole, PRCS, or county probation) to a different state, then In addition to the steps and rules listed in the previous question, the following special rules also apply to your transfer request:

1. You must meet the eligibility requirements listed in the question above (see PG. 217)—it is up to the receiving state whether or not you have met these requirements.
2. You are not allowed to leave the sending state until the sending state's request for transfer of supervision has been approved, or reporting instructions have been issued, by the receiving state.
3. In addition to the information normally required in an application for transfer, the sending state must provide the following information in a request to transfer the supervision of a registered sex offender (if available):
  - o assessment information, including sex offender specific assessments;
  - o social history;
  - o any information relevant to the sex offender's criminal sexual behavior;
  - o a law enforcement report that provides specific details of sex offense;
  - o victim information, including: (1) the victim's name, sex, age and relationship to you and (2) the statement of the victim or victim's representative;
  - o and the sending state's current or recommended supervision and treatment plan.
4. The receiving has 5 business days to review your proposed residence to make sure it will comply with local policies and laws before issuing you reporting instructions. If the proposed residence violates state law or policy, the receiving state may deny reporting instructions.
5. You are not allowed to receive a travel permit by your sending state until reporting instructions are issued by the receiving state (with very few exceptions). Talk to the California Interstate Compact Office or contact a lawyer if you need advice—since the rules are complex.<sup>891</sup>

A BRIEF INTRODUCTION TO THE SECOND HALF OF THIS CHAPTER: FEDERAL COMMUNITY SUPERVISION

We mentioned earlier that each state in the U.S. runs its own criminal justice system—including deciding criminal laws, methods of incarceration, and community supervision. In addition to each state running its own system, the federal government (which oversees all the states) has a separate system to prosecute federal offenses (including things like drug trafficking, human trafficking, immigration, national security, computer fraud, corporate “white-collar” crimes.) In the next two sections of the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER, you will learn about the types of correctional supervision in the community that are RUN BY THE U.S. FEDERAL GOVERNMENT:

- Part V covers FEDERAL PROBATION
- Part VI covers FEDERAL SUPERVISED RELEASE
- Part VII covers FEDERAL PAROLE

V. FEDERAL COMMUNITY SUPERVISION: FEDERAL PROBATION

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- Important basic information about Federal Probation
- What to expect in your first days out on Federal Probation
- The general conditions of Federal Probation
- What extra (special) conditions of Federal Probation can be added
- How to challenge the conditions of Federal Probation
- How to transfer locations while on Federal Probation
- The process of violations & revocations on Federal Probation
- Your rights as a person with a disability on Federal Probation

BASICS OF FEDERAL PROBATION

WHAT IS FEDERAL PROBATION?

After you are convicted of a federal crime, federal probation is often used as an alternative sentence to prison time.<sup>892</sup> That means that federal “probation” is considered a sentence in itself. For the most part, if you are placed on federal probation, you must report to your assigned probation office and comply with all the terms and conditions (rules) of your federal probation.<sup>893</sup>

WHO IS SUPERVISED BY FEDERAL PROBATION?

1. People who are on “federal probation”
2. People who are on something called “supervised release”
3. People who would have, in the past (and today in Washington, D.C. only) be put on federal parole

AFTER RELEASE: WHAT TO EXPECT IN YOUR FIRST DAYS OUT ON FEDERAL PROBATION

WHEN MUST I REPORT TO MY PROBATION OFFICER?

You must report to your probation officer within 72 hours (3 days), or sooner if a judge or U.S. Probation Officer orders you to do so.<sup>894</sup>

<sup>892</sup> A defendant may receive a sentence of probation unless he or she is convicted of a Class A or B felony; probation is prohibited by statute of conviction; or the defendant is sentenced at the same time to imprisonment. 18 U.S.C. § 3561(a). A court’s authority to impose probation is based solely on statute. See Affronti v. U.S., 350 U.S. 79, 83 (1955). The authorized length of probation is between one and five years for a felony; not more than five years for a misdemeanor; and not more than one year for an infraction. 18 U.S.C. § 3561(c).

Read the written statement given to you by U.S. Probation for information on where, when, and to whom you should report.<sup>895</sup> If you cannot remember where you were supposed to report or have lost your written statement, you should report to the nearest U.S. Probation office and they will be able to help you.<sup>896</sup> To find the U.S. Probation office closest to you:

1. Go to the U.S. Courts' website here: http://www.uscourts.gov/Court\_Locator/CourtLocatorSearch.aspx
2. Fill in your city, state, and zip code.
3. Under the "Court Type" drop-down menu, choose "Probation Offices"
4. A list of offices nearest you will appear. If you click the link for "Details" on any one of those listings, it will take you to a new web page with the street address, phone number for the U.S. Probation office, and an interactive map of the location.

Sometimes the Federal Bureau of Prisons (BOP)—which oversees the federal prison system across the country—will release you to a transitional house (a "halfway house"), before you've reached your actual release date—usually 6 months ahead of time.

Before you leave federal prison, the prison staff will give you a "Notice of Release and Arrival" (Form BP-S714.056), which will clearly state the exact amount of time you are allowed for transportation from the prison to the transitional house. Once at the transitional house, you might be subject to a lockdown period (for example, a 72-hour lockdown period)—meaning you cannot leave for those days.

After being released from a transitional house, Federal Probation staff will give you another Notice of Release and Arrival (Form BP-S714.056). For some people on federal probation, that is the moment that the 72-hour clock for checking in with your Probation Officer begins. That form will also clearly state your home confinement date. The transitional house you are leasing in may have requirements you first have to meet to their satisfaction before you will be released to home confinement—usually on an ankle monitor until the 6 months are up.

IMPORTANT: If you were released from federal prison before October 26, 2016, and were given a Bureau of Prisons pre-paid debit card issued by Chase, you may be eligible for payment under a class action settlement.<sup>897</sup> To find out more information about the lawsuit, and determine whether you are owed money as a member of the class action, contact the Settlement Administrator at 1-888-280-6496.

LENGTH OF FEDERAL PROBATION

HOW LONG IS MY SUPERVISION UNDER FEDERAL PROBATION?

1. FELONY CONVICTION: Minimum 1 year to maximum 5 years; or
2. MISDEMEANOR CONVICTION: Maximum 5 years.
3. INFRACTION: Maximum 1 year.<sup>899</sup>

Therefore, to know the range of time you could be sentenced to federal probation, you will need to know if you were convicted of a felony, misdemeanor, or infraction. If you aren't sure, ask your federal public defender or your probation officer.

<sup>898</sup> There are three types of crimes in the federal criminal justice system: Felonies, Misdemeanors, and Infractions. Felonies are offenses for which a term of imprisonment of more than one year is possible. Misdemeanors are offenses for which a term of imprisonment no greater than one year may be imposed. Finally, Infractions are offenses for which the term of imprisonment may be no longer than five days. See 18 U.S.C. § 3559.

<sup>899</sup> 18 U.S.C. § 3561(c)(1)(3). The United States Sentencing Guidelines provide a recommendation to sentencing judges based on a number of factors, including the seriousness of the instant offense and the defendant's prior criminal record. Ultimately, this recommendation is reflected in a Guideline Sentencing Range sitting at the intersection of the applicable Offense Level and Criminal History Category. See United States Sentencing Guidelines 2014 Sentencing Table, http://www.ussc.gov/sites/default/files/pdf/guidelines-manual/2014/2014sentencing\_table.pdf; U.S.S.G. § 1B1.1 General Application Principles, <http://www.ussc.gov/sites/default/files/pdf/guidelines-manual/2014/GLMFull.pdf>. The Sentencing Guidelines recommend that probation be imposed for at least one year, but no longer than five years, if the Guideline Offense Level is 6 or greater. When the Guideline Offense Level is less than 6, the Guidelines recommend probation be imposed for no greater than three years. See U.S.S.G. § 5B1.2(a), Term of Probation, http://www.ussc.gov/sites/default/files/pdf/guidelines-manual/2013/manual-pdf/2013\_Guidelines\_Manual\_Full.pdf.

CAN I GET OFF OF FEDERAL PROBATION EARLY?

Possibly. You can ask for early release from federal probation from the judge who originally sentenced you.

- For a misdemeanor conviction or an infraction, you can file a petition and ask the judge to terminate your federal probation at any time.
- For a felony conviction, you can file a petition and ask the judge to terminate your federal probation after one year.<sup>900</sup> Talk to your U.S. Probation Officer about this request first, because he or she can help you ask the judge for this.

The court has the power to decide whether or not to let you off probation early. In most cases, judges will deny requests to be let off probation early. But that doesn't mean that you shouldn't try, especially if you've done really well on your probation. And remember, it is really helpful if your Probation Officer supports your request.

You have the best shot of being let off of federal probation EARLY if:

- You have completed 2/3 of your probation term (or at the very least, you are ½ way through),
- You have had no violations,
- You have complied with all the terms of your probation,
- You have paid all restitution and fines, and
- Your probation officer agrees that you should be let off early<sup>901</sup>

What factors might the judge consider in my request?

It depends on the judge. Ultimately, the decision to end your federal probation early is up to the judge who originally sentenced you. To get off of federal probation early, you must show the judge that you have earned it through good conduct, and it must be in the interest of justice.<sup>902</sup> See Appendix EE, PG. 320 for more information.

Here is the full list of factors that the judge may consider in deciding whether to let you off probation early:

- Whether or not your Probation Officer or the Prosecutor support your request;
- The nature and seriousness of the crime you were convicted of;
- Your criminal history and/or mental illness history;
- Whether the judge believes you are a threat to the public;
- Whether the judge believes you have been sufficiently punished;
- Whether you have completed any substance abuse treatment or rehabilitation programs;
- How your sentence compares to the federal sentencing guidelines recommended sentence;
- U.S. Sentencing Commission policy statements;<sup>903</sup>
- Whether you've paid restitution to the victims.<sup>904</sup>

COULD MY TIME ON FEDERAL PROBATION BE EXTENDED BEYOND THE ORIGINAL SENTENCE?

Yes, but only if you were not originally given the maximum term on federal probation that would be allowed by law. The judge may extend your probation at any time before the end of your sentence, but must give you a hearing before doing so. At that court hearing, the judge can make your probation term longer if he or she did not originally give you the maximum authorized term.<sup>905</sup>

A judge may extend your time on federal probation instead of sending you to jail if he or she finds you violated your conditions of probation (see PG. 222 which discusses conditions of federal probation). The maximum amount of time you'll spend on federal probation supervision depends on whether you were convicted of a felony, misdemeanor, or infraction. Look at PG. 220 to figure out the maximum amount of time you could spend on federal probation.

<sup>903</sup> In 2011, the Sentencing Commission issued a policy statement informing judges that they may let former narcotics abusers from supervised release early, if that person has successfully completed a treatment program. See United States Sentencing Commission, 2013 Guidelines Manual, <http://www.ussc.gov/guidelines-manual/2013/2013-5d12>. See 18 U.S.C. § 3583(e)(1)-(2).

CONDITIONS OF FEDERAL PROBATION

WHAT ARE CONDITIONS OF FEDERAL PROBATION, AND WHY ARE THEY IMPORTANT?

Your conditions of federal probation are the rules set by the judge that you must follow if you want to remain in the community under supervision, and not be sent back to prison. These are called “release conditions”—they tell you what you can and can’t do in the community. These conditions are broken down into two types: (1) mandatory conditions and (2) discretionary conditions.

Examples include:

- Not being able to own/store guns or other weapons;
- No contact with victims or witnesses; restrict your association with certain people or groups;
- Restricted travel;
- Curfews;
- Community service;
- Electronic monitoring;
- Employment requirements;
- Mental health treatment;
- Substance abuse treatment.

It is important for you to know what conditions you must follow on federal probation so that you don’t get into trouble or sent to prison for violating those rules.

Also: be sure to talk to your U.S. Probation Officer about how to get connected to any needed services or resources offered in your community.<sup>906</sup>

WHERE CAN I FIND A WRITTEN STATEMENT OF MY CONDITIONS OF FEDERAL PROBATION?

The judge must direct the probation officer to provide you with a written statement that explains all the conditions you must follow, and is clear and specific enough to guide your conduct under supervision.<sup>907</sup>

The conditions of supervision are also listed on the “Judgment in a Criminal Case” produced by the court after your sentencing hearing. Ask your attorney or the Clerk of the Court where you were sentenced for a copy of this document so that you can be sure of your obligations to the Court. Most judges will not excuse your failure to comply with the conditions of supervision simply because you did not receive a copy of the conditions.<sup>908</sup>

HOW OFTEN DO I HAVE TO SEE MY PROBATION OFFICER IF I AM ON FEDERAL PROBATION?

It depends. How often you must report to your probation officer varies widely based on the individual “supervision plan” developed for you by your probation officer.<sup>909</sup>

Some supervision plans require weekly meetings and even more frequent phone contact; for others, occasional or monthly contact is sufficient. Meetings may take place at the probation office, your home, or your workplace.<sup>910</sup> Probation officers sometimes make “surprise” visits. For this reason, it is important that you always inform your probation officer of any changes to your work schedule.

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN MANDATORY & DISCRETIONARY CONDITIONS?

Federal law governs the mandatory conditions of federal probation (the law breaks it down into a list of mandatory conditions (required) and discretionary conditions (not required)).<sup>911</sup>

1. Mandatory conditions are the rules that judges must impose.
2. Discretionary conditions are the rules that judges can, but do not have to, impose.

If a judge wants to impose a discretionary condition, he or she MUST find that the condition reasonably relates to sentencing factors,<sup>912</sup> and is reasonably necessary for the purposes of supervision.<sup>913</sup>

The only difference to note is that intermittent confinement may be imposed as a condition of probation during the first year of federal probation. Intermittent confinement means temporarily going into Bureau of Prisons (BOP) custody for a night, a weekend, or possibly for a longer period of time.<sup>914</sup>

WHAT ARE THE MANDATORY CONDITIONS ON FEDERAL PROBATION?

The following conditions are mandatory and apply to EVERYONE on Federal Probation. (Note: These also apply to everyone on Supervised Release, see PG. 229.)

1. You cannot commit another federal, state, or local crime during the entire length of your federal probation. The court must make this condition known and clear to you.
2. You cannot unlawfully use a controlled substance.
3. You must submit to one drug test within 15 days of release and at least 2 periodic drug tests thereafter (as determined by the court).
  - a. Consequences for a confirmed positive drug test include:
  - b. Possible prison time, and
  - c. Court-ordered participation in a substance abuse treatment program (unless your current or past participation in such a program warrants an exception)<sup>915</sup>
4. You must cooperate in the collection of a DNA sample.<sup>916</sup> You may be placed in prison for up to one year or fined up to $100,000 if you fail to cooperate with a DNA sample.
5. You must notify your U.S. probation officer if there is any significant change in your income or economic circumstances, which would impact how much you can pay towards any unpaid restitution, fines, or special assessments.<sup>917</sup> Even those receiving SSI/SSDI “Disability” benefits will be asked to pay. If you are low-income, you should communicate with your probation officer about how you might be able to arrange payments you can afford.

POSSIBLE EXCEPTION TO THE BAN ON SUBSTANCE USE

The Court can completely remove or suspend this condition if your pre-sentence report (or other reliable sentencing information) indicated a low risk of future substance abuse.

IMPORTANT NOTE: other mandatory conditions may apply depending on your commitment offense! See the next question.

WHAT ARE ADDITIONAL MANDATORY CONDITIONS THAT ONLY CERTAIN PEOPLE ON FEDERAL PROBATION HAVE TO FOLLOW?

The following are mandatory conditions that apply to ONLY CERTAIN people on Federal Probation, depending on your commitment offense.

> MANDATORY CONDITIONS if you were convicted of a felony:

You must also follow at least one of the following two conditions, as ordered by the judge:

- Pay restitution to a victim of the offense,<sup>918</sup> OR
- Perform community service.<sup>919</sup>

EXCEPTIONS: You do not have to obey one of these two additional conditions if one of the following applies to you:

- The judge imposed a fine that removed this requirement; OR
- The judge finds on the record that extraordinary circumstances exist that would make such a condition plainly unreasonable, in which case the judge must impose one or more of the other discretionary conditions.<sup>920</sup>

> MANDATORY CONDITION if you are required to register as a sex offender:<sup>921</sup>

WHAT DISCRETIONARY CONDITIONS WILL I HAVE TO FOLLOW ON FEDERAL PROBATION?

For a discretionary condition to be lawful, the following must be true:

- 1) It must be “reasonably related” to the nature and circumstances of the offense, your personal history and characteristics, the need to protect the public from you committing future crimes, and the need to provide you educational or vocational training, medical care, or other correctional treatment; AND
- 2) It cannot deprive you of liberty (meaning, your ability to live your life freely without excessive restrictions) any more than “reasonably necessary” to deter future crimes, protect the public, and for the purpose of providing you with training and treatment.<sup>923</sup>

A judge may order discretionary conditions on your federal probation—but only if it meets this two-part legal standard.

Furthermore, discretionary conditions of federal probation can be thought of in two categories—(1) “standard conditions,” which are imposed in almost every person’s case (see note directly below), and (2) other discretionary conditions that may be added to you in particular (see the next question).

AN IMPORTANT NOTE ABOUT STANDARD CONDITIONS

The list of “Standard Conditions” below—while technically discretionary (not required)—will be added by the judge in almost every case of federal probation (the same is true for Supervised Release, see PG. 229). These “standard conditions” will be IN ADDITION TO the general conditions of federal probation discussed on PG. 223 above.<sup>924</sup> For a full list, please see PG. 317. If you are on federal probation that means you will likely have to follow all of these rules.

WHAT RULES MUST THE JUDGE FOLLOW WHEN ORDERING DISCRETIONARY CONDITIONS ON MY FEDERAL PROBATION?

To add a discretionary condition to your federal probation, the judge must find that that the conditions are reasonably related to the following factors:

- The nature and circumstances of the offense;
- Your personal history and characteristics;
- Reflecting the seriousness of the offense, to promote respect for the law and to provide just punishment for the offense;
- Adequately deterring future criminal conduct;
- Protecting the public from further crimes committed by you; and/or
- Providing you with needed educational or vocational training, medical care, or other correctional treatment in the most effective manner.<sup>925</sup>
- Furthermore, if the additional discretionary conditions deprive you of liberty or property, the judge must find that the conditions are reasonably necessary to:
  - Reflect the seriousness of the offense, to promote respect for the law, and to provide just punishment for the offense;
  - Adequately deter future criminal conduct;
  - Protect the public from further crimes committed by you; and/or
  - Provide you with needed educational or vocational training, medical care, or other correctional treatment in the most effective manner.<sup>926</sup>

CAN I ASK THAT MY CONDITIONS OF FEDERAL PROBATION BE CHANGED?

Yes. The judge may change, reduce, or increase the conditions of a sentence of federal probation at any time before your probation term ends.<sup>927</sup> The judge may change or increase the conditions of your probation if you violate a condition of probation. In the best-case scenario—if you have not had any violations and you have fulfilled all probation requirements—the judge may end your probation early.<sup>928</sup> In the worst-case scenario, the judge may revoke your probation and sentence you to time in prison.

<sup>927</sup> 18 U.S.C. §§ 3563, 3583; see also FED. R. CRIM. PRO. 32.1 (describing the procedures required for the probation officer to petition the Court for a modification or revocation of probation or supervised release, and for the Court in adjudicating a potential revocation or modification). The Court can also modify or revoke your Federal Probation or Supervised Release after the official end of the term (i.e., a specific number of years after your release from custody) so long as the violation and Probation Officer’s Petition to Modify or Revoke was filed with the Court before the official end of the term of supervision. This means that the Probation Office can obtain an arrest warrant years after an event occurred.

CAN I CHALLENGE UNLAWFUL DISCRETIONARY CONDITIONS THAT WERE ADDED ON TO MY FEDERAL PROBATION?

YES. If you think that a discretionary condition is illegal, then you can appeal the condition. For a federal probation condition to be lawful:

1. It must be “reasonably related” to the nature and circumstances of the offense, your personal history and characteristics, any concerns of public safety, and the need to provide you educational or job training, medical care, or correctional treatment; AND
2. Cannot deprive you of liberty (meaning, your ability to live your life freely without excessive restrictions) any more than “reasonably necessary” to deter future crimes, protect the public, and provide you with training and treatment.<sup>929</sup>

Courts have emphasized that BOTH of these requirements must be met to impose a DISCRETIONARY CONDITION on you.<sup>930</sup> If you object to a special condition, it is the government’s responsibility (NOT yours) to show that the condition is legally justified.<sup>931</sup> We suggest that you speak with an attorney if you think a condition of your probation is illegal.

HOW CAN I CHALLENGE UNLAWFUL DISCRETIONARY CONDITIONS THAT WERE ADDED ON TO MY FEDERAL PROBATION?

Within 14 days of your sentencing hearing, you must file a Notice of Appeal with the Clerk of the Court where you were convicted.<sup>932</sup> Once this occurs, you should contact the Federal Public Defender’s Office in your federal judicial district. For a list of Federal Public Defender’s Offices in California, visit:

TRANSFER LOCATIONS ON FEDERAL PROBATION, FEDERAL SUPERVISED RELEASE, OR FEDERAL PAROLE

IMPORTANT: This section on transfers applies to anyone who is on federal community supervision, such as federal probation, supervised release, or federal parole.

HOW CAN I MOVE IF I AM ON FEDERAL SUPERVISION (LIKE FEDERAL PROBATION, FEDERAL SUPERVISED RELEASE, OR FEDERAL PAROLE)?

If you are currently incarcerated and preparing for your release:

You may be able to request a transfer to another district. The request must be submitted to your Case Manager with the Bureau of Prisons since you will not yet have a Probation Officer.

If you are formerly incarcerated and already release and living in the community:

<sup>933</sup> To read more about federal probation and supervised release violations and revocation, and the legal distinctions between the two of them and the codes that govern them, see Administrative Office of the United States Court, Revocation of Probation and Supervised Release, <http://www.fd.org/docs/select-topics---probation/revocation-of-prob-and-sup-release.pdf>.

The process depends on whether you are asking to move to a new residence within the same district OR to a new residence in a different district. Because federal supervision is based on districts, it is not a question of whether you are asking to move across state lines but, instead, whether you are asking to move into a different district. The Interstate Compact on Adult Offender Supervision (ICAOS) does not apply to federal supervision. In a nutshell, it's easier to move within the same district than to move to a new one. The steps below outline both possibilities:

POSSIBILITY #1: *If you are moving to a new residence within your current district, it's suggested that you follow these steps:

- STEP 1: Notify your Probation Officer that you want to change your address, and submit that address and the contact information for anyone else living at that address. You must get permission from your Probation Officer to move within your current U.S. Probation District—even if it's across the street.
- STEP 2: Your Probation Officer will investigate the new address—so long as it is located in the same U.S. Probation District. As part of that investigation, your Probation Officer will:
1. Make sure the new address actually exists;
  2. Make sure that other people living at the new address are willing and able to have you in their home;
  3. Run a background check on everyone living at the new address;
  4. PLEASE NOTE: Since it is a standard condition for all people on federal supervision to avoid associating with anyone else who has a felony conviction, your request to move/transfer to live with someone who has been convicted of a felony will likely be denied.
  5. Make sure that everyone at the new address knows about and agrees to the “Search Condition” of your supervision.<sup>934</sup>
  6. Make sure there are no weapons at the new address.

IMPROVING
APPROVED

Your request is much more likely to be approved if you have a good track record - clean drug tests, always going to your meetings with your Probation Officer, staying out of trouble with law enforcement.

POSSIBILITY #2: *If you are moving to a new residence outside of your current U.S. Probation District, it's suggested that you follow these steps:

- STEP 1: Before you ask for a formal transfer to a new district—which can be a longer, more challenging process—ask your probation officer for what is called “courtesy supervision” by another district.

This technically keeps your case in the original district, but allows you to live in and travel to the district of your choice. Your probation officer AND the probation officer of the other district have to agree. After doing this, it is much easier to transfer to the courtesy district than to just transfer from one district to another without “courtesy supervision” being set up first.

- STEP 2: If “courtesy supervision” is denied or doesn't work out, you can still request a formal transfer.

Tell your Probation Officer that you want to change your address, and submit that address and the contact information for anyone else living at that address. You must get permission from your Probation Officer to move to a new address in a different U.S. Probation District.

- STEP 3: Your Probation Officer must submit a “Transfer Investigation” to the new district.

The Transfer Investigation generally takes 30 days or longer, since both your current district and the new district must investigate your new proposed address and approve the transfer. As part of the “Transfer Investigation,” a Probation Officer in the receiving District will:

1. Make sure the new address actually exists;
2. Make sure that other people living at the new address are willing and able to have you in their home;
3. Run a background check on everyone living at the new address;
4. PLEASE NOTE: Since it is a standard condition for all people on federal supervision to avoid associating with anyone else who has a felony conviction, your request to move/transfer to live with someone who has been convicted of a felony will likely be denied.
5. Make sure that everyone at the new address knows about and agrees to the “Search Condition” of your supervision.
6. Make sure there are no weapons at the new address.

<sup>934</sup> The Search Condition might read something like “The defendant is prohibited from possessing controlled substances. To ensure that the defendant is in compliance, the defendant will submit to search of his person, home, or vehicle at any time of the day or night by any law enforcement or probation officer without cause.” This means your friends may get searched if at your home (or vice versa). If either of you have any contraband, there is a good chance both of you will be getting in trouble.

STEP 4: The receiving District must approve or deny the transfer after conducting the “Transfer Investigation.”

The receiving district can deny your request to transfer/move for any reason. The sending district where you are currently supervised must wait for a response before it can act to transfer your supervision.<sup>935</sup>

IMPORTANT: Some districts have hard and fast rules about certain offenses—for example, that they won’t accept people with sex offenses, or the receiving district will require a more intense investigation of that person.

WHAT FACTORS COULD HELP MY REQUEST TO MOVE/TRANSFER BE APPROVED?

Most U.S. Probation Districts have some internal criteria for analyzing requests to transfer into their District. The following are factors that will likely work in your favor if you can show these to your Probation Officer:

1. Reliable job offer in new area;
2. Proven family and community ties;
3. Other positive connections to the new area;
4. Reasonable plan for living in the new area (e.g., income, social and family support, etc.);
5. The new address was your legal residence prior to incarceration, and had nothing to do with your criminal offense;
6. You have nowhere else to go and would be homeless if you don’t move; and
7. The move appears to be in your best interest for other reasons not listed above.

WHAT FACTORS COULD HURT MY REQUEST TO MOVE/TRANSFER FROM BEING APPROVED?

Most U.S. Probation Districts have some internal criteria for analyzing requests to transfer into their District. The following are factors that will make it less likely that your request to move or transfer districts is approved:

1. No job offer in new area;
2. No or weak family and community ties in the new area;
3. Weak social connections to the new area, or connections that could be a bad influence on you;
4. Unreasonable plan for moving (e.g., no income, no social or family connections, etc.);
5. You are unable to provide contact information for the people you are connected to or the people you will be living with at the new address;
6. You appear to be trying to escape a possible violation of your Federal Probation or Supervised Release conditions in your current District;
7. The new address where you want to move is unsafe;
8. Someone with a felony or someone who is currently on community supervision for a criminal conviction lives at the new address; and
9. The residence is connected to a previous criminal offense committed by you or by someone who you would be living with.

I AM ON FEDERAL PROBATION, FEDERAL SUPERVISED RELEASE, OR FEDERAL PAROLE. IS IT POSSIBLE TO MOVE WHILE A TRANSFER INVESTIGATION IS STILL PENDING?

Maybe. Sometimes a U.S. Probation Officer will give someone permission to move while an investigation is pending.

For example, you may be allowed to move before an official approval of your transfer request if:

1. An eviction is forcing you out of your home and you have nowhere else to live but at the new address in your current district or a different district;
2. You have a job offer that requires you to start on a specific date;
3. Another emergency reason that requires you to move.

IF YOUR NEED TO MOVE IS URGENT:

You should inform your Probation Officer and request a travel permit while the “Transfer Investigation” and approval are still pending. But please be aware, if the new district completes its “Transfer Investigation” and denies the transfer request for any reason, you would be required to move back to the original sending district.<sup>936</sup> If you do not move back, you will be violating the Court’s Order to follow the directions of the Probation Officer. If the court finds you were not following the directions of your Probation Officer, it can revoke your supervision and send you to prison.

CAN I CHALLENGE A DENIAL OF MY TRANSFER REQUEST?

Yes. If your request to move/transfer has been denied by your current probation officer, you can ask to speak with a Supervising U.S. Probation Officer. However, it is often the case that the request has already gone through a supervisor, and has been denied with the supervisor's approval. Other times, a request to move/transfer will be conditionally denied, meaning you could get your request approved later on if you do the things asked of you, like finding a safer home to move to, securing a firmer job offer, finding a different family member to connect with in the new place, etc.<sup>937</sup>

I AM ON FEDERAL SUPERVISION. CAN I MOVE IN WITH SOMEONE WHO LIVES IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING (LIKE PUBLIC HOUSING, SECTION 8, OR A VOUCHER PROGRAM)?

It depends. If the family member or person you want to move in with lives in subsidized housing, there might be federal, state, or local laws that restrict someone on federal probation or Supervised Release from moving into the residence. It may depend on what your conviction was for. To avoid putting that person's government-assisted housing subsidy at risk, refer to the HOUSING CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 332, to learn more about how your criminal record or supervision status might affect where you can live.

VI. FEDERAL COMMUNITY SUPERVISION: SUPERVISED RELEASE

BASICS OF SUPERVISED RELEASE

WHAT IS SUPERVISED RELEASE?

Supervised release is overseen by Federal District Courts with the assistance of federal probation officers.<sup>938</sup> The judge can sentence you to a term of supervised release in addition to a prison sentence.<sup>939</sup> In other words, a term of supervised release does not replace any time you are sentenced to prison; rather, a judge orders supervised release in addition to any term in prison you may serve.<sup>940</sup> In some cases, the judge that sentences you is actually required by law to impose a term of supervised release in addition to a prison term.<sup>941</sup> It's common today for a federal sentence to include a period of time in prison, followed by a period of time in the community on supervised release.

SENTENCING REFORM ACT

Some historical background: In 1984, as part of the Sentencing Reform Act ("SRA") that created the federal sentencing guidelines system, Congress got rid of federal parole and created Supervised Release.

HELPFUL HINT

What's the difference between Supervised Release and Federal Probation?

Federal Probation: Federal probation is a substitute for incarceration, meaning that probation is ordered instead of incarceration.

Supervised release: Supervised release is ordered in addition to incarceration. This means that after you are released from prison, you may be placed on supervised release.

Note that people on federal probation and supervised release usually have to follow the same or similar rules.

AFTER RELEASE: WHAT TO EXPECT IN YOUR FIRST DAYS OUT ON SUPERVISED RELEASE

Generally, you must report to your probation officer within 72 hours (3 days) of release, or sooner if a judge or a U.S. Probation Officer orders you to do so.<sup>942</sup> It is very important to read the written statement given to you by U.S. Probation for information on where, when, and to whom you should report.<sup>943</sup>

LENGTH OF SUPERVISED RELEASE

HOW LONG IS MY SUPERVISION UNDER SUPERVISED RELEASE?

Supervised Release can be up to 5 years, with a few exceptions discussed below.<sup>944</sup> The length is determined by the "Class" of crime for which you were convicted.<sup>945</sup> Find out which "Class" of crime you were convicted of (for example, a Class A Felony, Class B Felony, Class A Misdemeanor, etc.), and see the chart in the Appendix HH, PG. 325, for more information on calculating the length of your time on Supervised Release.

IMPORTANT EXCEPTIONS:

Despite the lengths of Supervised Release listed above, the term length may be up to life if you committed:

- An offense listed in 18 U.S.C. § 2332b(g)(5)(B), which resulted in, or created a foreseeable risk of, death or serious bodily injury to another person; OR
- A sex offense— for these commitment offenses, the maximum term of supervised release as allowed by statute is recommended.

CAN I GET OFF SUPERVISED RELEASE EARLY?

Possibly. You can ask for an early termination of supervised release from the judge who originally sentenced you. You are eligible to be released early after one year of supervised release.<sup>946</sup> Talk to your U.S. Probation Officer about this request first, because he or she can help you ask the judge for this.

The court has the power to decide whether or not to let you off supervised release early. In most cases, judges will deny requests to be let off supervised release early. But that doesn't mean that you shouldn't try, especially if you've done really well on your supervised release. And remember, it is really helpful if your Probation Officer supports your request.

HELPFUL HINT

You have the best shot of being let of supervised release early if:

- You have completed 2/3 of your supervised release term (or at the very least ½ way through),
- You have had no violations,
- You have complied with all the terms of your supervised release,
- You have paid all restitution and fines, and
- Your probation officer agrees that you should be let off early<sup>947</sup>

WHAT FACTORS CAN THE JUDGE CONSIDER?

It depends on the judge. Ultimately, the decision to end your supervised release early is up to the judge who originally sentenced you. To get off of supervised release early, you must show the judge that you have earned it through good conduct, and it must be in the interests of justice.<sup>948</sup>

Here is the full list of factors that the judge may consider when deciding whether to let you off supervised release early:

- Whether or not your Probation Officer or the Prosecutor support your request;
- The nature and seriousness of the crime you were convicted of;
- Your criminal history and/or mental illness history;
- Whether the judge believes you are a threat to the public;
- Whether the judge believes you have been sufficiently punished;
- Whether you have completed any substance abuse treatment or rehabilitation programs;
- How your sentence compares to the federal sentencing guidelines recommended sentence;
- U.S. Sentencing Commission policy statements;<sup>949</sup>
- Whether you've paid restitution to the victims.<sup>950</sup>

CONDITIONS OF SUPERVISED RELEASE

WHAT ARE CONDITIONS OF SUPERVISED RELEASE, AND WHY ARE THEY IMPORTANT?

Your conditions of Supervised Release are rules set by the judge that you must follow if you want to remain in the community under supervision and not end up back in prison. These are called “release conditions”—and tell you what you can and can't do in the community.

EXAMPLE of release conditions include:

- Not having guns or other weapons;
- No contact with victims or witnesses;
- Restrictions on your association with certain people or groups;
- Restrictions on your travel; or
- A curfew;
- Community service;
- Electronic monitoring;
- Employment requirements;

It is important for you to know what conditions you must follow on Supervised Release so that you don't get into trouble or sent back to prison for violating those rules. Also, be sure to talk to your U.S. Probation Officer about how to get connected to any needed services or resources offered in your community.<sup>951</sup>

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN MANDATORY & DISCRETIONARY CONDITIONS OF SUPERVISED RELEASE?

Federal law governs the mandatory conditions of Supervised Release (the law breaks it down by a list of mandatory conditions (required) and discretionary conditions (not required)).<sup>952</sup>

WHERE CAN I FIND A WRITTEN STATEMENT OF MY CONDITIONS OF SUPERVISED RELEASE?

The court must direct the probation officer to provide you with a written statement that explains all the conditions you must follow, and is clear and specific enough to guide your conduct under supervision.<sup>953</sup>

The conditions of supervision are also listed on the Judgment in a Criminal Case produced by the Court after your sentencing hearing. Ask your attorney or the Clerk of the Court for a copy of this document so that you can be sure of your obligations to the Court. Most Judges will not excuse your failure to comply with the conditions of supervision simply because you did not receive a copy of the conditions.<sup>954</sup>

HOW OFTEN DO I HAVE TO SEE MY PROBATION OFFICER IF I AM ON SUPERVISED RELEASE?

It depends. How often you must report to your probation officer varies widely based on the individual "supervision plan" developed for you by your probation officer.<sup>955</sup>

Some supervision plans require weekly meetings and even more frequent phone contact; for others, occasional or monthly contact is sufficient. Meetings may take place at the probation office, your home, or your workplace.<sup>956</sup> Probation officers sometimes make "surprise" visits. For this reason, it is important that you always inform your probation officer of any changes to your work schedule.

WHAT ARE THE MANDATORY CONDITIONS THAT APPLY TO ME AND EVERYONE ELSE ON SUPERVISED RELEASE?

The following conditions are mandatory and apply to EVERYONE on Supervised Release.<sup>957</sup> (Note: These also apply to everyone on Federal Probation, see PG. 223).

1. You cannot commit another federal, state, or local crime during the entire length of your Supervised Release. The court must make this condition known and clear to you.
2. You cannot unlawfully use a controlled substance.
3. You must submit to one drug test within 15 days of release and at least 2 periodic drug tests thereafter (as determined by the court).
4. Consequences for a confirmed positive drug test include:
5. Possible prison time, and
6. Court-ordered participation in a substance abuse treatment program (unless your current or past participation in such a program warrants an exception)<sup>958</sup>
7. You must cooperate in the collection of a DNA sample.<sup>959</sup> You may be placed in prison for up to one year or fined up to $100,000 if you fail to cooperate with a DNA sample.
8. You must notify your U.S. probation officer if there is any significant change in your income or economic circumstances, which would impact how much you can pay towards any unpaid restitution, fines, or special assessments.<sup>960</sup> Even those receiving SSI/SSDI "Disability" benefits will be asked to pay. If you are low-income, you should communicate with your probation officer about how you might be able to arrange payments you can afford.

IMPORTANT NOTE: Other mandatory conditions may apply depending on your commitment offense!!! See below:

WHAT ARE ADDITIONAL MANDATORY CONDITIONS THAT ONLY CERTAIN PEOPLE ON SUPERVISED RELEASE HAVE TO FOLLOW?

The following are mandatory conditions that apply to ONLY CERTAIN people on Supervised Release, depending on your commitment offense.

> MANDATORY CONDITIONS if you were convicted of a felony:

You must also follow at least one of the following two conditions, as ordered by the judge:

1. Pay restitution to a victim of the offense,<sup>961</sup> OR
2. Perform community service.<sup>962</sup>

EXCEPTIONS: You do not have to obey one of these two additional conditions if one of the following applies to you:

- The judge imposed a fine that removed this requirement; OR
- The judge finds on the record that extraordinary circumstances exist that would make such a condition plainly unreasonable, in which case the judge must impose one or more of the other discretionary conditions (listed below, PG. 230).<sup>963</sup>

> MANDATORY CONDITION if you were convicted of a domestic violence crime for the FIRST time:<sup>966</sup>

You must attend an offender rehabilitation program that has been approved by the court—in consultation with a State Coalition Against Domestic Violence or other appropriate experts—so long as an approved program is readily available within a 50-mile radius of your legal residence.<sup>967</sup>

ARE THERE ANY ADDITIONAL CONDITIONS I WILL HAVE TO FOLLOW ON SUPERVISED RELEASE?

Most likely, yes. The U.S. Sentencing Commission recommends that the “Standard Conditions” be applied to everyone on Supervised Release (this is the same as for Federal Probation conditions, discussed earlier on PG. 223),<sup>968</sup> See the question “WHAT DISCRETIONARY CONDITIONS WILL I HAVE TO FOLLOW ON SUPERVISED RELEASE?” on PG. 233 for more information.

WHAT RULES MUST THE JUDGE FOLLOW WHEN ORDERING DISCRETIONARY CONDITIONS ON MY SUPERVISED RELEASE?

To add a discretionary condition to your Supervised Release, the judge must find that that the conditions are reasonably related to the following factors:

- The nature and circumstances of the offense;
- Your personal history and characteristics;
- Reflecting the seriousness of the offense, to promote respect for the law and to provide just punishment for the offense;
- Adequately deterring future criminal conduct;
- Protecting the public from further crimes committed by you; and/or
- Providing you with needed educational or vocational training, medical care, or other correctional treatment in the most effective manner.<sup>969</sup>

Furthermore, if the additional discretionary conditions deprive you of liberty or property, the judge must find that the conditions are reasonably necessary to:

- Reflect the seriousness of the offense, to promote respect for the law, and to provide just punishment for the offense;
- Adequately deter future criminal conduct;

- Protect the public from further crimes committed by you; and/or
- Provide you with needed educational or vocational training, medical care, or other correctional treatment in the most effective manner.<sup>970</sup>

If a judge is going to impose a special condition, then both of the following requirements must be met:

1. The condition must have a reasonable relationship to the factors listed above on PG. 230 AND
2. The condition must be reasonably necessary to achieve the purposes listed above on PG. 230.

If you object to the discretionary condition, it is the federal government's burden to show that the discretionary condition is justified.<sup>971</sup>

These are the same legal standards and rules that applied to setting discretionary conditions for people on federal probation (see below for information about discretionary conditions).

WHAT DISCRETIONARY CONDITIONS WILL I HAVE TO FOLLOW ON SUPERVISED RELEASE?

If the above legal standards are met (refer to the last two questions), the judge may order discretionary conditions on your Supervised Release. These can be thought of in two categories—standard conditions, which are imposed in almost every case (see Appendix CC, PG. 317), and other discretionary conditions that may be added (see Appendix DD, PG. 230).

STANDARD CONDITIONS— The list of “Standard Conditions”—while technically discretionary (not required)—are added by the judge in almost every case of Supervised Release (and federal probation), as recommended by the U.S. Sentencing Commission, the agency that oversees federal sentencing guidelines.<sup>972</sup>

You will likely be ordered to follow most if not all of the following rules (conditions):<sup>973</sup>

- You cannot leave the limits of your judicial district (meaning the area that the court has jurisdiction—i.e. the “Southern District of California”) without written permission from the court or your probation officer.
- You must file a written report with your probation officer within the first 5 days of each month, or as directed by your probation officer.
- You must truthfully answer any questions and follow any instructions that your probation officer asks of you.
- You must meet your family responsibilities, primarily paying any court-ordered child support or support for the parent with whom your child is living.
- You must work regularly at a lawful occupation, unless your U.S. probation officer excuses you for school, training, or other reasons the officer finds acceptable.
- You must notify your probation officer at least 10 days before you change your address (some officers will require more or less notice, so check your conditions).
- You cannot drink alcoholic beverages to excess. You cannot use or distribute illegal drugs, or frequent places where others use or distribute drugs.
- You cannot associate with people engaged in criminal activity. (This means you cannot hang out with or spend time with people who are committing crimes.)
- You cannot associate with anyone convicted of a felony unless your U.S. probation officer gives you permission to do so. (Again, this means that unless your probation officer says differently, you are not allowed to hang out with or spend time with someone who has been convicted of a felony. Just spending time with someone who has been convicted of a felony can be considered a violation of your probation, even if you were not doing anything else wrong.)
- You must let your probation officer to visit you any time at home or elsewhere.
- You must let your probation officer to take any contraband that he or she finds in plain view around you.
- You must get in touch with your U.S. probation officer within 3 days (72 hours) if you're arrested or questioned by law enforcement (again, some officers will require you to report faster, so check your conditions).
- You cannot serve as an informant to law enforcement without court permission.
- As directed by your U.S. probation officer, you must notify other people about any risks that your criminal record, personal history or characteristics might pose; and you must allow your U.S. probation officer to notify people of any risks posed by your criminal record, personal history or characteristics.

<sup>971</sup> U.S. v. Weber, 451 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2006) (“We have long held that a term of supervised release is part of a defendant’s sentence . . . and, like imprisonment, restricts a defendant’s liberty and fundamental rights . . . . As a result, when the government seeks to restrict a defendant’s liberty through a term of supervised release, it shoulders the burden of proving that a particular condition of supervised release involves no greater deprivation of liberty than is reasonably necessary to serve the goals of supervised release.”).

- You must pay any court-ordered “special assessment” and fines, and follow any court-ordered payment plan set up for you.
- You must notify your U.S. probation officer if there is any significant change in your income or economic circumstances which would impact how much you can pay towards any unpaid restitution, fines, or special assessments (NOTE: this is a mandatory condition for people on federal probation, and a recommended “standard condition” for people on Supervised Release).

WHAT ADDITIONAL DISCRETIONARY CONDITIONS MAY I HAVE TO FOLLOW ON SUPERVISED RELEASE?

If the above legal standards are met (refer to PG. 225), the judge may order additional discretionary conditions on your Supervised Release. As discussed, the Standard Conditions listed on PG. 317 above are almost always added. For a full list of discretionary conditions that may be added see Appendix DD, PG. 318):

CAN MY CONDITIONS OF SUPERVISED RELEASE BE CHANGED?

Yes. A judge may change, reduce, or increase your conditions before your Supervised Release term ends.<sup>974</sup> A probation officer can also change your conditions of Supervised Release.

Changes in conditions (called “modifications”) usually happen because you got in trouble with your probation officer (for example, you tested dirty on a drug test), or you didn’t follow a condition of your Supervised Release. In this type of situation, the probation officer will usually ask a judge to change your conditions, often with the consent of your attorney, to get an order for you to do something (for example, to get an order that you go into in-patient, residential substance abuse treatment).

PRACTICE TIP—AN ATTORNEY CAN HELP YOU: It’s been suggested that it is sometimes easier to work out any changes to your conditions of supervised release directly with your probation officer, rather than go before a judge. To protect yourself in this type of situation, it is best to “invoke your right to counsel”—meaning ask for an attorney to represent you—and then you can communicate with your attorney who will work something out with the probation officer or represent you before the judge if the issue ends up going back to court.<sup>975</sup>

WARNING: Sometimes a U.S. probation officer will ask you to waive (give up) your right to an attorney and submit to a change of your conditions of Supervised Release (called a “modification”).<sup>976</sup> You may be asked (directly or indirectly) to give up your right to an attorney. You should NOT give up this right. You should “invoke your right to counsel instead,” and ask for an attorney. If you do not agree to changes in the conditions of your Supervised Release, then any changes will require the same justification as conditions imposed during the original sentencing hearing.<sup>977</sup>

HOW DO I CHALLENGE UNLAWFUL DISCRETIONARY CONDITIONS THAT WERE ADDED ON TO MY SUPERVISED RELEASE?

Within 14 days of your sentencing hearing, you must file a Notice of Appeal with the Clerk of the Court where you were convicted.<sup>978</sup> Once this occurs, you should contact the Federal Public Defender’s Office in your federal judicial district. . For a list of Federal Public Defender’s Offices in California, visit: <http://www.fd.org/docs/defender-contacts/federal-public-and-community-defender-directory.pdf?sfvrsn=9>.

A discretionary condition on your Supervised Release may be imposed only if it:

1. Is “reasonably related” certain statutory (meaning, included in the law) sentencing factors,<sup>979</sup> which include the nature and circumstances of the offense, the history and characteristics of the defendant, the need to protect the public from further crimes of the defendant, and the need to provide needed educational or vocational training, medical care, or other correctional treatment; AND

<sup>974</sup> 18 U.S.C. §§ 3563, 3583; see also FED. R. CRIM. PRO. 32.1 (describing the procedures required for the probation officer to petition the Court for a modification or revocation of probation or supervised release, and for the Court in adjudicating a potential revocation or modification). The Court can also modify or revoke your Federal Probation or Supervised Release after the official end of the term (i.e., a specific number of years after your release from custody) so long as the violation and Probation Officer’s Petition to Modify or Revoke was filed with the Court before the official end of the term of supervision. This means that the Probation Office can obtain an arrest warrant years after an event occurred.

2. Involves “no greater deprivation of liberty than is reasonably necessary” to serve the purposes of deterrence, protection of the public, and training and treatment.<sup>980</sup>

Courts have emphasized that BOTH of these requirements must be satisfied in order to impose a special condition.<sup>981</sup> Moreover, in the event of an objection, it is the government’s burden to show that the condition is justified.<sup>982</sup>

NOTE: The rules and processes for challenging discretionary conditions of Supervised Release are the same as those that apply to that apply to Federal Probation (refer back to PG. 225 for information on challenging discretionary conditions of federal probation.)

VIOLATIONS AND REVOCATIONS – FOR BOTH FEDERAL PROBATION AND SUPERVISED RELEASE

The same rules and processes for violations and revocations apply to both federal probation and Supervised Release.<sup>983</sup> Read this section if you are on either of these two types of federal supervision and have questions about violations and revocations.

WHAT IS A VIOLATION OF MY FEDERAL PROBATION OR SUPERVISED RELEASE?

It is a violation of your Federal Probation or Supervised Release (SR) if you break any law or disobey any condition of your post-release supervision. Read about conditions of Federal Probation (PG. 222) and Supervised Release (PG. 230) above.

If your probation officer thinks you have broken one of your conditions of supervision, you may be charged with a violation.<sup>984</sup>

1. If the judge finds that you have violated one of your conditions of supervision, you could go to prison.<sup>985</sup>
2. If you are having trouble with your Probation officer, or if you think you are in danger of being violated, you should call your attorney. If you have retained a private attorney, you should call him or her. If you don't have a private attorney, you should call the Federal Public Defender in your District. Often an attorney can help you resolve a supervision problem before there is a formal violation charge.<sup>986</sup>

CAN MY U.S. PROBATION OFFICER SEND ME BACK TO PRISON?

No, your probation officer cannot send you back to prison, but it is part of the officer's job to tell the court about a violation of your conditions. The judge at court, however, usually CAN send you back to prison.

- MINOR VIOLATIONS: Typically, if your probation officer learns of a minor violation of a condition, or believes that a violation is likely to happen, the officer will discuss with you how to avoid a more serious problem. Alternatively, the probation officer might ask the judge to modify your conditions of Federal Probation or Supervised Release.
- SERIOUS or REPEATED VIOLATIONS: After a serious violation or repeated violations, your probation officer may tell a judge about these violations and request revocation of your Federal Probation/Supervised Release. If this happens, you have the right to a revocation hearing, at which the judge may decide to revoke your Federal Probation/Supervised Release and send you back to prison.<sup>987</sup>

WHAT COULD THE COURT DO IF IT FINDS THAT I VIOLATED MY FEDERAL PROBATION OR SUPERVISED RELEASE?

FOR A FEDERAL PROBATION VIOLATION: If the judge finds that you violated a condition of Federal Probation, it may:

1. Continue you on federal probation, with or without lengthening your term, or changing/increasing the conditions you must follow; OR
2. Revoke your federal probation and resentence you.<sup>988</sup>

FOR A SUPERVISED RELEASE VIOLATION: If the judge finds that you violated a condition of Supervised Release, it may:

1. Continue you on supervised release, with or without lengthening the term, or changing/ increasing the conditions you must follow; OR
2. Revoke your Supervised Release and send you back to prison.<sup>989</sup> For certain violations, the court is required to do this by law (it's mandatory).<sup>990</sup>

<sup>983</sup> To read more about federal probation and supervised release violations and revocation, and the legal distinctions between the two of them and the codes that govern them, see Administrative Office of the United States Court, Revocation of Probation and Supervised Release, <http://www.fd.org/docs/select-topics---probation/revocation-of-prob-and-sup-release.pdf>.

WHEN IS REVOCATION OF FEDERAL PROBATION OR SUPERVISED RELEASE MANDATORY?

For both Federal Probation and Supervised Release, revocation and additional time sentenced to prison are mandatory if the violation is one of the following:

1. Possession of controlled substance (in violation of the condition set forth in section 18 U.S. C. 3563(a)(3));
2. You possess a firearm<sup>991</sup> (in violation of Federal law or a condition of probation);
3. You refuse to comply with drug testing,<sup>992</sup> or
4. You test positive for illegal controlled substances more than 3 times over the course of 1 year.<sup>993</sup>

If one of the above situations occurs, then your probation officer or the prosecutor will have to file a violation notice, telling the judge that they think you have violated.<sup>994</sup>

WHAT WILL HAPPEN IF MY VIOLATION WAS ALSO A NEW CRIMINAL OFFENSE?

All violations of the law are also violations of your conditions of supervision.<sup>995</sup> Essentially, the law treats a new criminal conviction as two wrongs: (1) Disobeying the federal court by violating a condition of your supervision, AND (2) Whatever you did to break the law.<sup>996</sup> If you get arrested on state or federal charges while on federal probation or Supervised Release, you will probably be violated in federal court.

A NOTE ABOUT SENTENCING WHEN THERE IS ANOTHER PENDING CRIMINAL CASE AGAINST YOU FOR THE SAME OFFENSE: Your sentence for the violation of your federal probation or Supervised Release will be SEPARATE from whatever sentence you might get in the other criminal case, and will probably FOLLOW your sentence for the new criminal conviction (in other words, these sentences will follow one after the other).

WHAT ARE POSSIBLE SANCTIONS FOR AN ALLEGED VIOLATION OF FEDERAL PROBATION OR SUPERVISED RELEASE?

When there's an allegation that you violated your federal probation or Supervised Release, revocation proceedings will usually begin. The law and rules that govern these revocation hearings can be found in the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure, Section 32.1.<sup>997</sup> There will be a series of steps that you will follow in a revocation hearing, from appearing in front of a Magistrate Judge, to attending a Probable Cause Hearing, and finally attending a Revocation Hearing. The steps below are a general outline of the revocation process, and possible outcomes:

STEP 1: Initial Appearance

Whenever someone is first taken into federal custody or has been cited/summoned to federal court, he or she has an initial appearance before a Magistrate Judge. This appearance allows the Court to advise you of the charges, set a preliminary hearing date (unless waived or you are out of custody) and direct you to the District Judge presiding over your case.

NOTE: If you are arrested outside of the federal district that has jurisdiction over your case (usually the place where you are being officially supervised), then you have additional rights at this Initial Appearance stage. First, you have the right to an "Identity Hearing," where the government must show only that you are the person named in the warrant for arrest, not that you actually committed the crime. Second, you have the right to receive a reliable certified electronic COPY of the original revocation petition that was filed (this right to receive a copy of the revocation petition is called "Arrival of Process").<sup>998</sup>

STEP 2: Probable Cause Hearing

Know Your Rights! If you are held in custody for an alleged violation of your federal probation or Supervised Release, then you have the following rights:

1. You must receive a prompt hearing to determine if there is "probable cause" to hold you for a revocation hearing (a.k.a. the "probable cause hearing").<sup>999</sup> If you are in custody, you only receive what is called a

YOUR RIGHT TO COUNSEL

If you had an Assistant Federal Defender before, that same attorney will probably represent you in the revocation process. In some cases you may get a different attorney from the same office. If you had a private lawyer but can no longer afford to pay, the court must appoint a lawyer for you.

“probable cause hearing.” This will usually happen within one week, but “prompt” does not have a specific timeframe, so it could be longer.<sup>1000</sup>

2. You must be given notice of the hearing.<sup>1001</sup>
3. You must be given an opportunity to appear and present evidence, an opportunity to question opposing witnesses (if requested), and be told of your right to an attorney.<sup>1002</sup>
4. The Rules of Evidence are more relaxed; hearsay is allowed. This means that the judge can consider evidence (testimony, photographs, etc.) that he would not be able to consider in a full criminal trial.
5. You will usually appear before the same judge who sentenced you. The judge will explain your rights and make sure you have a lawyer.
6. If you are not held to answer (i.e., probable cause is not found), then the allegations will be dismissed. If you are held to answer (i.e., probable cause is found), then you will be directed to a District Judge to enter an admission or denial to the allegations.<sup>1003</sup> If you admit the allegations, the Judge will either set a future date for sentencing or sentence you right then and there. However, if you deny the allegations, then you go to a revocation hearing.

IMPORTANT NOTE ABOUT PENDING CRIMINAL CHARGES AGAINST YOU & THE REVOCATION PROCESS: Unless your lawyer advises you otherwise, do not admit a violation that’s based on pending criminal charges until the pending charges are resolved. Admitting to criminal conduct during the revocation hearing in federal court could then be used against you in your pending criminal case. It’s best to consult with your attorney to figure out what to do in your situation.

STEP 3: Revocation Hearing

You have the right to a revocation hearing before a District Judge within a reasonable time in the district that has decision-making power (called “jurisdiction”) over your case.<sup>1004</sup>

KNOW YOUR RIGHTS IN THE REVOCATION PROCESS

- You must be given notice of the hearing.<sup>1005</sup>
- You must be given written notice of the charges against you (i.e., the alleged violation of your supervision).<sup>1006</sup>
- You must receive notice of your right to an attorney. If you can’t afford an attorney, you will be appointed a Federal Public Defender in your District, or another court-appointed defender.
- You must have the opportunity to appear at the revocation hearing.<sup>1007</sup>
- You must have an opportunity to see the evidence against you, as well as the opportunity to present your own evidence;<sup>1008</sup>
- The Rules of Evidence are more relaxed; hearsay is allowed. This means that the judge can consider evidence (testimony, photographs, etc.) that he would not be able to consider in a full criminal trial.
- Additional constitutional rights described in <http://www.ussc.gov/sites/default/files/pdf/training/online-learning-center/supporting-materials/Revocation-of-Probation-and-Supervised-Released.pdf> (pp. 6-7).

WHAT LAWS GUIDE THE COURT IN SENTENCING ME FOR MY REVOCATION OF FEDERAL PROBATION OR SUPERVISED RELEASE?

IMPORTANT NOTE: The laws about revocation sentencing are confusing and difficult to figure out on your own! You have the right to lawyer if you can’t afford one, and it’s best to ask your attorney to walk through your specific situation and help you understand what the judge can sentence you to if your federal probation or Supervised Release is revoked.

The chart shown below on PG. 239 is important because this period determines the maximum amount of time you can be sent to prison for violating the terms and conditions of your Supervised Release.

<sup>1000</sup> For example, if you are in custody doing time on a state charge, and that state charge serves as the violation of your SR, the PO can wait until your state sentence is over before bringing you to have your PC hearing even though the PO may have filed the violation petition and the warrant issued at the start of the client’s sentence in state prison. A state defendant could be serving a 15-year state sentence such that his 5-year term of SR would have expired by the time he is done with his state time. However, so long as the petition was filed within the supervised release period, then there is an argument to be made that he can still be sent to prison on a federal violation. Perhaps most judges would not do this, but it is a possibility.

For example, assume you have been convicted of a Class A felony and receive 5 years of Supervised Release. Then, let's say, you violate the terms and conditions of your supervision. The judge may, but is not required to, sentence you to four years in prison.<sup>1009</sup> If the judge were to do that, you could only be placed on supervision for one additional year. However, if you were to violate your supervision again, the judge could sentence you up to the maximum available term of imprisonment (which is 5 years), but could not impose any additional supervision.<sup>1010</sup> This could result in you serving nine years in prison on revocations when the original term of supervision was only 5 years.

EXCEPTIONS: Offenses committed on or before April 30, 2003:

There are special rules, however, if you committed the offense of conviction on or before April 30, 2003. Assume the same situation as described above: you're convicted of a Class A felony, sentenced to prison with five years of Supervised Release. Upon your first revocation, you are sentenced four years in prison and one year of Supervised Release. If you violated your Supervised Release again, you can only be sentenced to one year in prison (meaning that the difference between the total term of Supervised Release available by statute for that offense minus the amount of prison imposed during any previous revocation(s)). This is different than the first scenario when the judge could impose a five-year term on a second revocation after imposing a four-year term on the first revocation.

REVOCAION SENTENCING GUIDELINES:

In addition to the statute governing the maximum terms of supervision, judges must consider the United States Sentencing Guidelines in determining your sentence upon revocation.<sup>1011</sup> The recommended sentence is based on (1) the Grade of Violation, (2) your Criminal History Category at the time of your original conviction, and (3) the Class of your original conviction.

This chart outlines Congress' recommended terms of imprisonment upon revocation:

REVOCAION TABLE (IN MONTHS OF IMPRISONMENT)

Grade of Violation	Criminal History Category*
	I	II	III	IV	V	VI
Grade C	3-9	4-10	5-11	6-12	7-13	8-14
Grade B	4-10	6-12	8-14	12-18	18-24	21-27
Grade A	12-18	15-21	18-24	24-30	30-37	33-41

However, if you were on probation or supervised release as a result of a sentence for a Class A felony, the Congress' recommendation looks like this:

Grade of Violation	Criminal History Category*
	I	II	III	IV	V	VI
Grade A	24-30	27-33	30-37	37-46	46-57	51-63

Although these are only recommendations for the judge, the judge must consider them first when rendering a decision.

CAN I APPEAL THE COURT'S REVOCAION DECISION/ACTION? WHAT COURT HAS JURISDICTION?

It depends. The appellate court (which is the court above the district court) that made the decision will have the authority to hear the case, unless you have already completed your time on supervision. In that case,

<sup>1010</sup> 18 U.S.C. § 3583(h) (explaining that the length of any term of supervised release imposed upon revocation shall not exceed the term of supervised release authorized by statute for the offense that resulted in the original term of supervised release, less any term of imprisonment that was imposed upon revocation of supervised release); see also U.S. v. Knight, 580 F.3d 933 (9th Cir. 2009).

<sup>1011</sup> The United States Code and the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure provide guidance for revocation of federal probation and Supervised Release. In addition, Chapter 7 of the U.S. Sentencing Guidelines addresses revocation of probation and supervised release. Every circuit has held that because the Sentencing Commission intended the policy statements of Chapter 7 to be recommendations, and not binding. But they must be considered. See United States Sentencing Commission, Revocation of Parole and Supervised Release, <http://www.ussc.gov/sites/default/files/pdf/training/online-learning-center/supporting-materials/Revocation-of-Probation-and-Supervised-Released.pdf>.

appellate courts have held that they don't have authority to hear the case, because you have already completed your sentence, and have no "injury" that the court can fix.<sup>1012</sup>

WHAT WILL THE JUDGE LOOK FOR WHEN REVIEWING MY APPEAL?

The judge who is reviewing your revocation case will look at different aspects using different legal standards.

Unless a violation is for drug or firearm possession, which requires revocation, a district court judge's decision to revoke your federal probation or Supervised Release will be reviewed by the higher-up appellate judge for "abuse of discretion."<sup>1013</sup> This means, the judge reviewing your case will only grant you an appeal if they found that the district court judge below them actually mishandled your case—by acting unreasonably or incorrectly applying the law.

The higher-up appellate judge who is reviewing your case can also review the LAW that was applied by the district court judge below as if the questions were being asked for the first time. In other words, the reviewing judge can freshly make his or her own judgment about whether the lower court correctly applied the law (this is called a "de novo" review).<sup>1014</sup>

If there were any FACTUAL ERRORS made in your case, the appellate judge will view those for "clear error."<sup>1015</sup> This means that the court will not find a factual error unless all the evidence together shows a mistake was made.<sup>1016</sup> However, if you fail to object to an argument or a fact, then the judge in the appeals court may review the case under the "plain error" standard—a harder burden for you to meet (this means that the appeals court has to find that the error is extremely unjust or unfair).

Again, the SENTENCE that you received at the revocation hearing will be reviewed for reasonableness, which means that the higher-up appellate judge looks to see if the judge at the district court below abused his or her discretion in making a decision in the case, by mishandling the case (acting unreasonably or incorrectly applying the law).<sup>1017</sup>

VII. FEDERAL COMMUNITY SUPERVISION: FEDERAL PAROLE

The Sentencing Reform Act of 1984 eliminated federal parole for most people convicted of a federal crime. Now, instead of defendant's serving an indeterminate sentence (i.e., one where a parole board determines how much of the Judge's sentence you serve), all federal defendants serve 85% of his or her sentence. This is much like "mandatory release" discussed below. See the information on "RELEASE PLANNING" at Appendix II, PG. 326. In light of the Sentencing Reform Act, only a few groups of individuals are serving a federal parole sentences.

BASICS OF FEDERAL PAROLE

WHO IS RELEASED ONTO FEDERAL PAROLE?

Federal parole now applies only to individuals who were:

- Sentenced for a federal offense before November 1, 1987;
- Convicted of violating the laws of the District of Columbia in D.C. Superior Court before August 5, 2000;
- Convicted of crimes within the military criminal justice system;
- Convicted in certain foreign transfer treaty cases.<sup>1018</sup>

IF I AM ON FEDERAL PAROLE, WHY DO I REPORT TO A U.S. PROBATION OFFICER?

Federal U.S. Probation offices and officers are responsible for overseeing and administering federal parole.<sup>1019</sup> U.S. Probation Officers provide parole services as request of the USPC. Thus, U.S. probation officers function as parole officers and supervise people on federal parole and mandatory release.<sup>1020</sup>

BEFORE RELEASE: WHAT TO KNOW ABOUT GETTING RELEASED ONTO FEDERAL PAROLE

I AM STILL INCARCERATED. WHAT IS THE LEGAL PROCESS FOR GETTING RELEASED FROM FEDERAL PRISON ONTO FEDERAL PAROLE?

There are several steps you will follow in planning for your release from federal prison onto federal parole. These will include creating a release plan, creating a plan for payment of restitution and fines, investigation of your plan, and release. Please see the Appendix II, PG. 326 to find out more.

STEP 1: Release Plan

Once you have a release date from the U.S. Parole Commission (USPC), you must complete a satisfactory plan for parole supervision to actually get released. If the release plan is NOT approved, your release may be delayed regardless of the date the USPC had set when it first granted your parole.

The Regional Commissioner of the USPC may change your date of release (earlier or later) onto parole to allow more time for release planning. At most, the Regional Commissioner can delay your release onto parole for 120 days; otherwise, you have the right to a hearing if the Regional Commissioner wants to push back your release date more than 120 days.<sup>1021</sup>

Generally, you are required to have the following included in your release plan:

1. Availability of legitimate employment;
2. An approved residence for the prospective parolee; and
3. Availability of necessary aftercare if you are ill or will require special care.<sup>1022</sup>

<sup>1018</sup> Federal parole in the United States was a system that existed prior to the Sentencing Reform Act of 1984. Parole of federal prisoners began after enactment of legislation on June 25, 1910.[1] Under parole, prisoners were eligible for release before their sentences were complete. Parole boards under the United States Parole Commission determined whether a prisoner should be released and whether or not a parolee who violated parole should be sent back to prison. The U.S. Parole Comm'n (USPC, or "Parole Commission") was just reauthorized for 5 more years, effective beginning November 1, 2013. Despite the abolishment of federal parole in 1987, the USPC currently has jurisdiction over more than 17,800 individuals convicted of felonies under the D.C. Penal Code, and 3500 individuals convicted of the other kinds of eligible federal offenses discussed above.

STEP 2: Unpaid Fines & Restitution

Your release onto parole might also be delayed if you still owe court-ordered fines or restitution.<sup>1023</sup> When you still have fines or restitution to pay, a reasonable plan for payment, or a performance of services, if ordered by the court, will be included in your parole release plan, where feasible.<sup>1024</sup>

STEP 3: Investigation Phase

Your U.S. Probation Officer will do an investigation to make sure that the person's release plan is appropriate. This investigation will start with the probation officer asking you questions about your release plan. The probation officer will then follow up and verify your answers. For example, if you told the probation officer that your approved residence did not have any persons with a felony record, the probation officer will follow-up to make sure this is true.

STEP 4: Release

After the Parole Commission approves your release plan, and a U.S. Probation Officer completes an investigation, you will be released on the date set by the Parole Commission (unless there is misconduct or some other reason leading to a change in the date).

WHAT COULD HAPPEN IF I REFUSE TO SIGN THE CERTIFICATE OF RELEASE?

If you don't sign the certificate of release, one of the two following things could happen:

- 1) If you have been granted a parole date and you refuse to sign the certificate of release (or any other document necessary to fulfill a condition of release), the USPC will treat your refusal as a withdrawal of your application for parole, effective on the date of your refusal. You will not be released on parole and you will have to reapply for parole consideration.
- 2) If you are scheduled for release to supervision through good-time deduction and you refuse to sign the certificate of release, you will be released but you still must follow the conditions listed on the certificate of release, or risk violation and revocation (see Appendix GG, PG. 322).<sup>1025</sup>

DO I HAVE TO RETURN TO THE SAME COMMUNITY THAT I CAME FROM FOR MY FEDERAL PAROLE?

Usually, yes. In most instances, you will be released to parole in the U.S. Judicial District of your legal residence, or in the U.S. Judicial District where you were convicted of the federal offense.<sup>1026</sup>

THERE IS ONE EXCEPTION: if the U.S. Parole Commission decides that your chances of success on parole will be better in another community, or believes it would serve "the public interest," it can order you be paroled to a different District.<sup>1027</sup>

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN FEDERAL PAROLE AND "MANDATORY RELEASE"?

If you are never granted parole during your prison sentence, you will be released through "Mandatory Release" (unless you have forfeited all your statutory "good time credits"). The institution's officials set your Mandatory Release date by calculating how much statutory "good time" credit you have a legal right to, and how much extra "good time" is earned.

The law states that if you are entitled to Mandatory Release, you must "be treated as if released on parole" and are "subject to all provisions of the law relating to the parole of United States prisoners until the expiration of the maximum term or terms for which [you were] sentenced, less 180 days." What this really means is that you should have a release plan (see question above) as if you were going out on parole. You will also be supervised by a U.S. Probation Officer as if on federal parole until 180 days before the end date of your sentence—so long as you don't violate the conditions of your mandatory release, in which case the U.S. Parole Commission (USPC) can hold you under supervision until the original full term date of the sentence.

IS IT POSSIBLE THAT I BE RELEASED FROM FEDERAL PRISON AND NOT BE ON ANY TYPE OF COMMUNITY SUPERVISION?

Yes, it is possible, but rare. If you are NOT paroled and have less than 180 days left on your original sentence when you are released, you will be released without supervision. However, if a "special parole term" is being served, supervision will end at the full term date, and this 180-day date does not apply.

AFTER RELEASE: WHAT TO EXPECT IN YOUR FIRST DAYS OUT ON FEDERAL PAROLE

AFTER I AM RELEASED TO FEDERAL PAROLE, WHEN AND TO WHOM MUST I REPORT?

US. Probation Officers function as parole officers and provide supervision to persons released on parole or on mandatory release.<sup>1028</sup>

- You will go to an approved residence<sup>1029</sup> and report within 3 days (72 hours) to the United States Probation Office shown on your certificate of release.<sup>1030</sup>
- You must continue to report to a U.S. Probation Officer in-person as instructed by your officer once released.
- In addition, you must submit a monthly written report, and follow all the conditions of your release.<sup>1031</sup>
- U.S. Probation Officers must also provide you with parole services at the request of the U.S. Parole Commission (USPC).<sup>1032</sup>

LENGTH OF FEDERAL PAROLE

HOW LONG WILL I BE ON FEDERAL PAROLE?

You will be on parole and under the supervision of a U.S. Probation Officer until the maximum expiration date of the sentence (for offenses committed before April 11, 1987), unless the Commission ends your supervision earlier.

IMPORTANT NOTE: Your time on federal parole runs at the same time as any other Federal, State, or local sentence to supervision.<sup>1033</sup>

- IF YOUR SUPERVISION IS ENDED EARLY: You will be given a Certificate of Early Termination, which may also be provided to other supervising agencies.<sup>1034</sup>
- IF YOU ARE NOT RELEASED TO PAROLE, AND INSTEAD YOU ARE MANDATORILY RELEASED: Your supervision by a U.S. Probation Officer automatically ends 180 days before the maximum expiration date, unless the USPC ends supervision earlier. If your supervision is ended early, you will be given a Certificate of Early Termination.<sup>1035</sup> You have been mandatorily released if you reached the end of the sentence imposed by the court minus any “good time” deductions you earned during the time of your confinement.<sup>1036</sup>

CAN I GET OFF FEDERAL PAROLE EARLY?

Possibly. Read about when and how you can ask to be released from federal parole early.

- Every year, your U.S. Probation Officer submits a report to the Parole Commission about your adjustment in the community. After reviewing the report and any recommendations it contains, the Parole Commission may decide to end your parole supervision early.<sup>1037</sup>
- At any point in time, you may request, or the Parole Commission on its own motion may decide, to end your parole supervision early.<sup>1038</sup>
- After you’ve completed 2 years on federal parole (again: not counting any time you spend on parole before the most recent release, and not counting any time you spent in confinement on another sentence<sup>1039</sup>), the Parole Commission must consider terminating your federal parole, and again must consider early termination at a minimum every year thereafter.<sup>1040</sup>
- After you’ve completed 5 years on federal parole (again: not counting any time you spend on parole before the most recent release, and not counting any time you

WHAT IS A “GOOD RISK DETERMINATION”?

It is VERY difficult to have a “very good risk” determination for the SFS. This is because the score sheet is written to be nearly impossible for someone to every have that good of a score. To have a VG (Very Good) you have to have 10 -8 SFS, which is very hard given that you lose a point just for being on parole. The scorecard is very “stacked” against the parolee. not.

spent in confinement on another sentence), by law, the Parole Commission must end your supervision UNLESS it finds—after conducting a hearing with you present—that you are likely to engage in future conduct violating criminal law. You have the right to a personal hearing before the Parole Commission can make such a finding to keep you on federal parole past 5 years.<sup>1041</sup> You should not waive your right to this hearing.

HOW DOES THE U.S. PAROLE COMMISSION DECIDE WHETHER TO LET ME OFF FEDERAL PAROLE EARLY?

The Parole Commission must consider the following guidelines, which indicate that your federal parole should be ended early:

1. You received a “salient factor score” (SFS) in the “very good risk category” AND you have completed 2 continuous years of supervision free from an incident of new criminal behavior or serious parole violation (which includes a new arrest or report of a parole violation if supported by substantial evidence of guilt, even if no conviction or parole revocation results);<sup>1042</sup> OR
2. You received a “salient factor score” in a risk category other than very good AND you have completed 3 continuous years of supervision free from an incident of new criminal behavior or serious parole violation (which includes a new arrest or report of a parole violation if supported by substantial evidence of guilt, even if no conviction or parole revocation results).<sup>1043</sup>

However, the USPC may disregard the outcome indicated by the 2 guidelines above based on case-specific factors, including:

1. Your current behavior;
2. Your background; and
3. Your criminal history.<sup>1044</sup>

IF I AM DENIED EARLY TERMINATION OF MY FEDERAL PAROLE, CAN I CHALLENGE THE U.S. PAROLE COMMISSION’S DECISION?

Yes.<sup>1045</sup> You can appeal to the National Appeals Board.<sup>1046</sup> However, the National Appeals Board does not often reverse the decision of the Parole Commission, unless an error was made. There are several steps to challenge the Parole Commission’s decision not to let you off federal parole early. Please see the Appendix JJ, PG. 327 for full details on each step.

STEP 1: You may send a written appeal to the National Appeals Board challenging any decision to grant (other than a decision to grant parole on the date of parole eligibility), rescind, deny, or revoke parole.

NOTE: If you want to appeal a decision denying your parole on the date of parole eligibility, you instead need to submit a “petition of reconsideration” to the USPC.<sup>1047</sup>

STEP 2: Use the proper form (Parole Form I-22)<sup>1048</sup> and file your written appeal within 30 days from the date of entry of the decision that you are appealing. If you don’t file within 30 days of the decision, you lose your right to challenge/appeal it.

OTHER REQUIREMENTS OF YOUR APPEAL:

1. The appeal must include an opening paragraph that briefly summarizes the legal grounds for the appeal.
2. You should then list each ground separately and clearly explain the reasons or facts that support each ground.

If your appeal doesn’t meet these requirements, the USPC may return it to you, in which case you have 30 additional days from the date the appeal is returned to submit an appeal that meets the above requirements.

LEGAL GROUNDS FOR YOUR APPEAL CAN INCLUDE:

1. That the guidelines were wrongly applied in your:
  - o Severity rating;

- Salient factor score;
  - Time in custody;
2. That a decision outside the guidelines was not supported by the reasons or facts as stated;
  3. That especially mitigating circumstances (for example, facts relating to the severity of the offense or your probability of success on parole) justify a different decision;
  4. That a decision was based on wrong information, and the correct facts justify a different decision;
  5. That the USPC did not follow correct procedure in deciding the case, and a different decision would have resulted if it would have followed the right procedure;
  6. There was important information that you did not know at the time of the hearing;
  7. There are compelling reasons why a more lenient decision should be given on grounds of compassion
  8. The Attorney General (AG) may file an appeal by making a written request to have the Regional Commissioner's regarding decision regarding an individual's federal parole. The request by the AG must be within 30 days of the Commissioner's decision. The National Board of Appeals will have 60 days, after receiving the AG's request, to reaffirm, modify or reverse the Commissioners decision. The Board of Appeals decision has to be provided in writing to both the AG and prisoner the appeal relates to.<sup>1049</sup>

How can I strengthen my appeal?

You can provide additional information for the USPC to consider in an addendum to your original appeal. An addendum is when you have new or additional information you would like to give to USPC, but you have already turned in your application. You can send the new information to USPC with a note that you would like to attach the new information as an "addendum." You can attach exhibits (photos, documents that help your case, etc.) to your appeal, but the exhibits shouldn't be copies of documents that the USPC already has.

STEP 3: The National Appeals Board may affirm, modify, or reverse the decision of the Parole Commissioner(s) below.

STEP 4: You receive the National Appeals Board's decision. The National Appeals Board must act within 60 days of receiving your papers to affirm, modify, or reverse the decision below. The decision of the National Appeals Board is final.<sup>1050</sup>

CONDITIONS OF FEDERAL PAROLE

WHAT CONDITIONS MUST I FOLLOW ON FEDERAL PAROLE?

There are a lot of general and additional conditions that it is important to follow! Here is an overview of all the general conditions, and you should also be aware of any special conditions that might apply to you.<sup>1051</sup>

GENERAL CONDITIONS OF FEDERAL PAROLE

1. Go directly to your approved residence in the district named in your Certificate of Release (unless you are released to a "detaine"r, which means another jurisdiction has a legal "hold" keeping you from leaving);
2. Report in-person within 3 days (72 hours) to the U.S. Probation Office named on your Certificate of Release. If because of an emergency you are unable to appear in person within 3 days (72 hours) after your release, you should report to the nearest U.S. Probation Office and obey any instructions that the "duty officer" gives you.
  - a. If you were released to another authority (not U.S. Probation), then you should follow these first 2 steps as soon as you are released from the custody of the other authority.
3. Cooperate with your Probation Officer, and provide any information requested to your Probation Officer. You must answer completely and truthfully when the Probation Officer asks you for information.

<sup>1051</sup> See 28 C.F.R. § 2.40(a)(1) ("All persons on supervision must follow the conditions of release described in § 2.204(a)(3) through (6). These conditions are necessary to satisfy the purposes of release conditions stated in 18 U.S.C. 4209. Your certificate of release informs you of these conditions and other special conditions that we have imposed for your supervision."); 28 C.F.R. 2.85(a)(1) (D.C. federal parole) ("General conditions of release and notice by certificate of release. All persons on supervision must follow the conditions of release described in § 2.204(a)(3) through (6). Your certificate of release informs you of these conditions and other special conditions that we have imposed for your supervision.").

4. Between the first and third day of each month, you must make a written report to the supervision officer on a form provided to you. The written report will look different depending where you are. It will most likely look like a worksheet where you will fill out your address, job information, and answer other questions about your life, or a form that you will fill out and submit on line at the probation office’s website. Your Probation Officer will show you how to fill this out and give it to you at your check-in.
5. Report to your Probation Officer as that officer directs.
6. Tell your Probation Officer if you are arrested or questioned by law enforcement/police within 2 days of the contact with law enforcement.
7. Tell your Probation Officer if you change your job or address within 2 days of the change.
8. You must let the Probation Officer to visit your home and workplace.
9. You must let the Probation Officer take any item that the officer reasonably believes you are not allowed to have (for example, an illegal drug or a weapon), and that is in plain view in your possession (meaning they can see it without having to open drawers or dig through compartments), including in your home, workplace, or vehicle.
10. You must take a drug or alcohol test whenever your Probation Officer orders you to take the test.<sup>1052</sup>

TALKING TO OUR P.O. ABOUT AN ARREST

Under the federal law that governs federal parole, if you end up being arrested for an incident that police questioned you about (or any other incident), you must tell your probation officer. It could help to show the USPC that you are being honest with your P.O. and trying hard to comply.

Additional Conditions that Prohibit Certain Conduct:

1. You cannot violate any law and must not associate with any person who is violating any law.
2. You cannot possess a firearm, any other dangerous weapon, or ammunition.
3. You cannot illegally possess or use a controlled substance.
4. You cannot drink alcoholic beverages to excess.
5. Stay away from a place where a controlled substance is illegally sold, used, or given away.
6. You cannot leave your district of supervision without permission. (See PG. 248 for instructions on how to get permission to leave your district of permission.)
7. You cannot associate with a person who has a criminal record without the permission of your Probation Officer.
8. You cannot act as an informant (meaning someone who gives information to law enforcement/police about secret or criminal activities) for any law enforcement officer without the prior approval of the U.S. Parole Commission.<sup>1053</sup>

Additional Conditions You Must Follow:

1. You must make a good faith effort to work regularly, unless excused by your Probation Officer.
2. You must support your children and any legal dependents.
3. You must participate in an employment-readiness program if your supervision officer tells you to do so.
4. You must make a good faith effort to pay any fine, restitution order, court costs or assessment or court-ordered child support or alimony payment. If asked by your Probation Officer, you must provide your financial information. You must cooperate with your Probation Officer in setting up an installment plan to pay these debts and obligations.
5. If your underlying conviction was for a domestic violence crime, and it was your first conviction for domestic violence, you must attend an approved offender-rehabilitation program for the prevention of domestic violence (if such a program is readily available within 50 miles of your home).
6. If required by law, you must register with any applicable special offender registration law, for example, a law that requires you to register as a “sex offender” or a “gun offender.”
7. If directed by your Probation Officer AND if authorized by the DNA Analysis Backlog Elimination Act of 2000, you must provide a DNA sample.
8. You must inform a person about your criminal record or personal history if your supervision officer determines that your relationship or contact with this person may pose a risk of harm to this person. The Probation Officer may direct you to do this and then ask for some form of confirmation or proof that you followed the direction. The Probation Officer may also speak directly with that person.<sup>1054</sup>

I AM ON FEDERAL PAROLE. CAN I TRAVEL OUTSIDE MY FEDERAL PAROLE DISTRICT?

Yes, if you get permission from your Probation Officer and/or the Parole Commission first.<sup>1055</sup>

1. Your Probation Officer may give you permission to travel outside your federal parole district without approval of the U.S. Parole Commission in the following situations:
  - Vacation trips for 30 days or less.
  - Trips to look into certain employment possibilities for 30 days or less.
  - Repeated travel across a district boundary, no more than 50 miles outside the district, for a job, shopping, or recreation.<sup>1056</sup>
2. For the following types of travel, you must (1) get the Parole Commission's advance permission in writing, and (2) show a substantial need for such travel:
  - All foreign travel;
  - A job that requires you to repeatedly travel more than 50 miles outside your federal parole district (except offshore job locations); and
  - Vacation travel outside the district for more than 30 days.<sup>1057</sup>
3. A special condition imposed by the Regional Commissioner prohibiting certain travel shall supersede any of the above general rules.<sup>1058</sup> This means that if you have a special condition that prohibits certain travel then you will not be able to travel even if you meet the conditions above.

SPECIAL CONDITIONS OF FEDERAL PAROLE

WHAT SPECIAL CONDITIONS COULD APPLY TO ME ON FEDERAL PAROLE?

If the U.S. Parole Commission determines that it is necessary to protect the public from further crimes and to provide adequate supervision over you, it may impose a special condition other than one of the general conditions above. Examples of special conditions of release that the Commission might require of you are found at 28 C.F.R. § 2.204(b)(2), and include the following possible requirements:

1. If the Parole Commission requires you to participate in a drug-treatment program, you must submit to a drug test before release and to at least two other drug tests, as determined by your Probation Officer. However, a decision not to impose this special condition, because available information indicates that you have a low risk of future substance abuse, constitutes good cause (a good reason under the law) for suspending the drug testing requirements of 18 U.S.C. 4209(a).<sup>1059</sup> Furthermore, a grant of parole or re-parole depends on your passing all pre-release drug tests administered by the Federal Bureau of Prisons (BOP).<sup>1060</sup>
2. You must live in or participate in a program at a community corrections center, or both, for all or part of your period of supervision;
3. You must participate in a drug-or alcohol-treatment program, and abstain from all use of alcohol and other intoxicants;
4. As an alternative to incarceration, you may be put on house arrest (home confinement), meaning you remain at home during nonworking hours, and your compliance is monitored by telephone or electronic signaling devices;
5. You must allow a supervising officer at a time of their choosing, to conduct a search of your person, or of any building, vehicle, or other area under your control, and to seize contraband found.

CAN FEDERAL PAROLE REQUIRE ME TO GO TO A HALFWAY HOUSE OR REQUIRE ME TO UNDERGO DRUG OR ALCOHOL TREATMENT WHILE I'M UNDER SUPERVISION?

Yes.<sup>1061</sup> Federal law allows the U.S. Parole Commission to require you to go into a halfway house or undergo treatment for drug or alcohol for all or part of the time under supervision. In most cases, you will be notified in advance and may submit comments about that proposal to the Parole Commission before the final decision is made.<sup>1062</sup>

IF I'M ON PAROLE, MAY I OWN, USE OR POSSESS FIREARMS AFTER THEY ARE RELEASED?

No—almost never. Except in very rare situations, federal law forbids anyone who has ever been convicted of a felony from possessing firearms or ammunition. Generally, you will not be permitted to own or possess a firearm or ammunition.<sup>1063</sup>

CAN THE PAROLE COMMISSION CHANGE ANY OF MY CONDITIONS OF RELEASE?

Yes. If you believe the conditions on your Certificate of Release are unfair, you may ask the Case Manager for an appeal form and submit it to the Regional Commissioner within 30 days after your release. The U.S. Parole Commission will consider the appeal and you will be notified of the decision within 21 days after you file your appeal. While the appeal is pending, the parolee must continue to abide by the conditions imposed.<sup>1064</sup>

AFTER A PAROLEE IS RELEASED, MAY ANY OF THE CONDITIONS BE CHANGED? CAN ADDITIONAL ONES BE IMPOSED?

Yes. The Probation Officer or the U.S. Parole Commission may propose changing or adding to your conditions of federal parole. You will be notified of any such proposal and be given up to 10 days to make any written comments to the U.S. Parole Commission. You will be notified within 21 days after you provide written comments.<sup>1065</sup>

STEP 1: Ask your U.S. Probation Officer for a form to make comments.

STEP 2: You may write directly to the Commission (with a copy to your Probation Officer) if you want to have any of the conditions changed or deleted.<sup>1066</sup>

TRANSFERRING FEDERAL PAROLE

The same rules and procedures for transferring and moving residences apply to all forms of federal supervision. See the full discussion above on PG. 225.

VIOLATIONS & REVOCATION OF FEDERAL PAROLE

WHAT COULD HAPPEN IF I VIOLATE THE CONDITIONS OF MY FEDERAL PAROLE (OR MANDATORY RELEASE)?

STEP 1: First, a U.S. Probation Officer will likely report the violation to the U.S. Parole Commission. While your Probation Officer is required to report any and all violations to the U.S. Parole Commission (USPC), the officer may recommend that you be continued under supervision without sanctions.

STEP 2: Second, a Parole Commissioner determines the appropriate punishment (called “sanctions”), which could include:

- Issuance of an arrest warrant, or
- A summons for you to appear at a hearing.

The Probation Officer’s recommendation is one of the factors considered by the Commission in its decision.<sup>1067</sup>

At this stage of the process, there are two reasons why the USPC might wait to issue an arrest warrant or a hearing summons:

- It may wait until, in the opinion of the Commission, the frequency or seriousness of violations requires it to issue a warrant or summons;
- You (the parolee) have been charged with a new criminal offense and are awaiting disposition of the charge, so the Commission may decide to (1) withhold the summons, (2) issue and hold the warrant in abeyance, or (2) issue a warrant and place a detainer on you.<sup>1068</sup>

STEP 3: Third, the warrant will be “executed,” which means that you will be taken into custody or asked to come to a hearing. What happens next will depend on your personal circumstances, but the different possibilities are described in the next two questions.

WHO ISSUES AN ARREST WARRANT OR SUMMONS TO APPEAR AT A HEARING IF I VIOLATE FEDERAL PAROLE OR MANDATORY RELEASE?

Only a Parole Commissioner may issue a warrant or a summons for a violation of the conditions of your release on federal parole.<sup>1069</sup>

Any officer of any Federal correctional institution or any Federal officer authorized to execute the warrant will do so by returning you to the custody of the Attorney General.<sup>1070</sup>

You must be served with a summons to appear at a preliminary interview or revocation hearing by a Federal officer who is authorized to serve you, and proof of such service shall be returned to the appropriate regional office of the USPC.<sup>1071</sup>

AFTER A WARRANT OR SUMMONS IS ISSUED, WHAT HAPPENS?

This is the general process of what happens:

- You will be either taken into custody, usually in the nearest government-approved jail or detention center, or summoned to appear at a hearing.<sup>1072</sup>
- If you have been convicted of a new offense, a Probation Officer will personally advise you of your legal rights and conduct a preliminary interview.<sup>1073</sup>
- The Regional Commissioner will pick an official to conduct a preliminary interview with you –this official could be a U.S. Probation Officer in the district where you are confined, so long as it is not the same U.S. Probation Officer who recommended that you be arrested.<sup>1074</sup>
- You’ll go through a preliminary interview (sometimes called a probable cause hearing) by the official, which will be used to help the U.S. Parole Commission determine if there is probable cause to believe you actually violated your parole conditions. If the Parole Commission finds probable cause, then it must decide whether to conduct a final revocation hearing.<sup>1075</sup>

YOU HAVE RIGHTS AT THE PRELIMINARY INTERVIEW OR HEARING:

1. YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO ASK FOR AN ATTORNEY & INVITE WITNESSES TO THE PRELIMINARY HEARING!<sup>1076</sup>

At the beginning of the preliminary interview, the interviewing officer must:

- Verify that you received the Warrant Application (as required by § 2.46(b));<sup>1077</sup>
- Advise you of your right to have the preliminary interview postponed so that you have time to get an attorney to represent you or to arrange for witnesses to attend on your behalf;<sup>1078</sup>
- Tell you that if you cannot afford an attorney, you can apply to a U.S. District Court for appointment of counsel to represent you at the preliminary interview and the revocation hearing (pursuant to 18 U.S.C. 3006A). You do not have a constitutional right to have an attorney at your revocation hearing, but you can request an attorney and may have one appointed to you. You will most likely qualify for an attorney if you cannot afford one.<sup>1079</sup>

2. YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO ASK THE PAROLE COMMISSION TO MAKE WITNESSES WHO PROVIDED INFORMATION LEADING TO YOUR REVOCATION CHARGE APPEAR AT THE PRELIMINARY INTERVIEW—

- You should request that the Commission bring in anyone who has given information that it will use in its decision to revoke or reinstate your parole. Such adverse witnesses shall be requested to attend the preliminary interview unless (1) you admit a violation; or (2) have been convicted of a new offense while on supervision; or (3) the interviewing officer finds good cause for their absence.<sup>1080</sup> The Parole Commission may subpoena (meaning order through the court) witnesses who are against your interest (adverse) and the production of documents.<sup>1081</sup>

3. AT THE PRELIMINARY INTERVIEW, THE INTERVIEWING OFFICER MUST:

- Review the violation charges with you;
- Tell you about the evidence which has been presented to the Parole Commission;<sup>1082</sup>
- Take statements of witnesses and documentary evidence on your behalf; and
- Allow cross-examination of those witnesses in attendance.

4. AT THE CONCLUSION OF THE PRELIMINARY INTERVIEW, THE INTERVIEWING OFFICER MUST:

- Tell you his or her recommended decision as to whether there is probable cause to believe that you violated the conditions of your parole.
- Tell you recommendation and the basis for it.
- Submit to the Parole Commission a summary of the preliminary interview along with the officer's recommended decision.<sup>1083</sup> In this report, the interviewing officer will recommend (1) whether there is "probable cause" to believe that a violation has occurred AND (2) whether you should be held in custody pending a revocation hearing or be reinstated to your parole supervision.

NOTE: A FINDING OF PROBABLE CAUSE IS NOT A REVOCATION.

Just because an interviewing officer finds "probable cause" to believe you violated your parole, does not mean that your parole has been revoked. It just means that there is reason to believe you did what the warrant says you did—you will still have a chance to be reinstated at your Final Revocation Hearing. "Probable cause" is a very low standard, meaning an interviewing officer will most likely find "probable cause," but you can still be reinstated at your Final Revocation Hearing.

- After the interviewing officer's report is received, the Parole Commission will either order you reinstated to supervision or order that a Hearing Examiner hold you in custody for a revocation hearing.
- Even if the Commission finds probable cause to believe you have violated the conditions of your parole, it may still order you reinstated back to parole supervision or release you pending further proceedings if:
  - Continued revocation proceedings are not warranted; OR
  - Keeping you in jail is not necessary because you have not violated multiple times or the charge you are facing is not serious, and you are likely to appear for further proceedings, and don't constitute a danger to yourself or others.<sup>1084</sup>
- If you are convicted of a new offense, you do NOT have the right to a preliminary interview because the conviction is sufficient evidence (probable cause is automatically shown) that you violated your conditions of parole. In that case, you may be immediately taken to a federal institution for a revocation hearing.<sup>1085</sup>

MAY A FEDERAL PAROLEE HAVE AN ATTORNEY AT A PRELIMINARY INTERVIEW AND REVOCATION HEARING?

Yes. You have the right to an attorney of your choice, or you may request to have the court appoint you an attorney if you can't afford your own.<sup>1086</sup>

You do not have a constitutional right to have an attorney at your parole revocation hearing, but you will most likely qualify for an attorney if you cannot afford one.<sup>1087</sup> You should apply for an attorney with the District Court in your judicial district. It is your responsibility to tell your lawyer the time and place of the hearing.<sup>1088</sup>

WILL I BE IN PRISON PENDING HEARING?

It depends. If you were picked up on an arrest warrant issued by the USPC, you will be held in custody until a final decision about your revocation or release.

The only exception is if the Regional Commissioner orders otherwise, but this is not likely. If you received a summons to a revocation hearing (under 28 C.F.R. § 2.44), you will remain on supervision pending the decision of the Commission.<sup>1089</sup>

WHERE ARE THE REVOCATION HEARINGS HELD?

The revocation hearing will be either (1) an institutional hearing OR (2) a local hearing.

1. INSTITUTIONAL HEARINGS: Generally, revocation hearings are held after you are returned to a federal institution. An institutional hearing is held within 90 days from time you were taken into custody on the U.S. Parole Commission's warrant. OR
2. LOCAL HEARINGS: If there are sufficient reasons to do so, the U.S. Parole Commission may order your revocation hearing held in your own community or in the community where you were arrested. You only have the right to a local hearing if: (1) You deny violating the conditions of your release, AND (2) You were NOT convicted of a new crime.

If a local revocation hearing is requested, you must complete a request form. There is a penalty for false answers on this form. Local revocation hearings are generally held within 60 days from the date the Regional Commissioner finds "probable cause" that parole or mandatory release was violated.<sup>1090</sup> If granted, your local revocation hearing will be scheduled to happen reasonably near the place of the alleged violation(s) or arrest.

A NOTE ABOUT GETTING SUPPORT FROM A LAWYER: At a local revocation hearing, you are more likely to have a lawyer and you can request that all adverse witnesses be called so you can confront and cross-examine them. In order to get a local revocation hearing, you and your attorney must (1) deny all the charges and (2) request a local revocation hearing.

WHAT IS THE TIMELINE OF THE HEARING?

A local revocation hearing must be within 60 days of the probable cause determination. Institutional revocation must be held within 90 days of the date the warrant was executed, when you were taken into custody. However, you can request postponement or consent to a postponed revocation proceeding.<sup>1091</sup>

IF MY HEARING IS HELD IN A FEDERAL INSTITUTION RATHER THAN LOCALLY, AM I ENTITLED TO AN ATTORNEY AND MAY I PRESENT WITNESSES ON MY BEHALF?

You do not have the right to appointed counsel, but may secure an attorney at your own expense. NOTE: The attorney can act only in the capacity of a representative.<sup>1092</sup>

WHAT IS THE HEARING PROCEDURE?

The purpose is to determine whether you have violated the conditions of your release and, if so, whether your parole or mandatory release should be (1) revoked (taken away) or (2) reinstated (where you continue on parole as you were).<sup>1093</sup> To get more information about how to prepare for the hearing, please see the Appendix KK, PG. 328

WHEN IS REVOCATION MANDATORY?

If the USPC finds after a revocation hearing that you:

1. Possessed a controlled substance,
2. Refused to comply with drug testing,
3. Possessed a firearm, or
4. Tested positive for illegal controlled substances more than 3 times over the course of 1 year, the USPC must revoke your term of supervision and impose a term of prison.<sup>1094</sup> If you fail a drug test, the USPC must consider appropriate alternatives to revocation.<sup>1095</sup>

HOW COULD I BE SENTENCED FOR A REVOCATION OF FEDERAL PAROLE?

If the Parole Commission finds by a "preponderance of the evidence," (that it is more likely than not) that you violated a condition of the parole, the Commission may take any of the following actions:

1. Continue your supervision on federal parole, which can include:
  - Reprimanding you;
  - Modifying (changing) your conditions of release;
  - Referring you to a community corrections center for all or part of the remainder of your original sentence;

OR

2. Revoke your parole, and send you back to prison.<sup>1096</sup>

In determining whether to revoke parole for not paying a fine, restitution, court costs or assessment, and/or court-ordered child support or alimony payment that was a condition of your release on supervision, the U.S. Parole Commission must consider your employment status, earning ability, financial resources, and any other special circumstances that may have a bearing on the matter. Revocation shall not be ordered unless you are found to be deliberately evading or refusing compliance.<sup>1097</sup> (Learn more about court-ordered debt in the COURT-ORDERED DEBT CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 654).

IF THE COMMISSION REVOKES PAROLE OR MANDATORY RELEASE, DOES A PAROLEE GET ANY CREDIT ON THE SENTENCE FOR THE TIME SPENT UNDER SUPERVISION?

Generally, if you are convicted of a new law violation, you are entitled to credit for any of the time spent under supervision unless serving a Youth Corrections Act (YCA) or Narcotics Addiction Rehabilitation Act (NARA) commitment.

Also, there is no credit given for any time a parolee intentionally failed to respond or report to a Probation Officer or after a parolee has absconded from his or her area and the Probation Officer did not know where he or she was living. For violation of any of the other noncriminal conditions, a parolee generally will be credited for all of the time spent under supervision in the community.<sup>1098</sup>

IF I GET MY FEDERAL PAROLE REVOKED, HOW LONG MUST I SERVE BEFORE THE PAROLE COMMISSION REVIEWS MY CASE AGAIN?

The U.S. Parole Commission uses its own guidelines to determine the length of time you should serve in prison for the revocation. The guidelines are the same ones used for inmates who apply for their initial parole hearings. Decisions, of course, can be made above or below the guidelines for good cause (a good reason).<sup>1099</sup>

CAN I APPEAL THE REVOCATION DECISION BY THE U.S. PAROLE COMMISSION?

Yes. It's the same process discussed above (PG. 244) for appealing a denial of early release from parole to the National Appeals Board.<sup>1100</sup> The U.S. Attorney General can also appeal a Regional Parole Commissioner's decision.

The Attorney General, within 30 days after entry of a Regional Commissioner's decision, may send a written request to the National Appeals Board to review the decision. Within 60 days of the receipt of the request the National Appeals Board must affirm, modify, or reverse the decision, or order a rehearing at the institutional or regional level, and send a written decision to the Attorney General and to you.<sup>1101</sup>

If the Commission finds out you were convicted of a new crime after your revocation hearing for something you did while you were on parole, the Regional Commissioner may reopen your case pursuant to § 2.52(c)(2) for a special reconsideration hearing on the next regularly scheduled docket to consider whether you should give up your time spent on parole or any other consequence that he may think is appropriate. If he decides to change something, this new ruling will replace the ruling you got at your hearing.<sup>1102</sup>

DISABILITY RIGHTS FOR PEOPLE ON ALL TYPES OF FEDERAL SUPERVISION

I HAVE A DISABILITY. WHAT RIGHTS DO I HAVE ON FEDERAL PROBATION OR PAROLE TO HAVE ACCOMMODATIONS FOR MY DISABILITY?

Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 protects individuals on federal probation/federal parole from discrimination due to their disabilities.<sup>1103</sup>

The Rehabilitation Act provides essentially the same protections as the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), including the right to reasonable changes in policies, rules, and conditions; equal opportunity to participate in

<sup>1103</sup> Codified at 29 U.S.C. § 794 (2014). The Rehabilitation Act also applies to any program or activity that receives federal funding or other assistance. Note, however that the ADA does NOT cover federal agencies or programs; it only applies to state and local programs.

programs, services, and benefits; and additional assistance (services or devices) so that you can participate in programs and activities related to your supervision.<sup>1104</sup>

Thus, federal probation staff must offer you the same types of accommodations and services discussed for state parole under “State Parole: Disabilities and the ADA,” see PG. 186.

HOW CAN I FILE A COMPLAINT IF I FEEL THAT MY FEDERAL PROBATION OFFICER IS NOT ACCOMMODATING MY DISABILITY, OR FEEL THAT I AM NOT GETTING ACCESS TO PAROLE SERVICES OR PROGRAMS?

Unfortunately, there are no special procedures or forms to seek accommodations for your disability, or to complain about overly restrictive conditions under federal supervision. There are several steps you can take to try and rectify the situation.

STEP 1: If your disability makes it difficult to comply with your federal probation or parole conditions, or your conditions are overly strict and cause you harm due to your disability, the first thing to do is talk with your U.S. probation officer.<sup>1105</sup> You should explain:

1. Your disability;
2. Which condition of supervision is causing you problems due to your disability (e.g., drug testing conditions that prevent you from taking necessary medication) or how you are being treated differently due to your disability (e.g., you are stopped from participating in certain programs due to your disability or related medical treatment) or why you need additional help to participate in activities or follow the rules of supervision; and
3. What accommodations (like changes in rules, policies, or procedures), services, or other assistance you need for your disability.<sup>1106</sup>
4. If you have any other documents—such as a letter from your doctor or prescription for medication—you should show that to your probation officer. You can also remind your probation officer that federal law requires him or her to provide “reasonable accommodations” for your disability. Your probation officer, along with the judge and any medical providers who help you with your disability, will consider your situation and make a case-by-case decision about whether and how to accommodate your disability.

STEP 2: If you are unhappy with your probation officer’s decision, you can ask a supervisor for assistance. If the probation department does not provide the assistance you need, you can go to court to request a change in your supervision conditions or other accommodations.<sup>1107</sup>

STEP 3: You have the right to file an administrative complaint with the Department of Justice, which will investigate and attempt to resolve cases of discrimination based on disability, including a hearing and appeal process.<sup>1108</sup> Note, however that this process can take a long time to complete, so it’s best as a last resort.

VIII. CONCLUSION

Being under some type of supervision is usually required for you to be released from prison or jail. In California, there are many types of supervision—state parole, county probation, Mandatory Supervision, PRCS, federal probation, Supervised, and federal parole. Hopefully now that you’ve read this Chapter, you better understand what it means to be under supervision, what special rules you have to follow, and all of the rights you have as a person in reentry.

Telephone conversation with Day Officer Nisha Modica and Supervision Supervisor Jeff Oestreicher, U.S. Probation Office, Eastern District of California, Nov. 5, 2014. If you know before sentencing that one (or more) of the recommended conditions of probation (described in the pre-sentence report) will cause problems due to your disability, you can ask the judge to change them at sentencing.

<sup>1107</sup> You can also file a new complaint (start a new case) to allege disability discrimination under Section 504. “Your Section 504 complaint must say that: (1) You are an individual with a disability; (2) You are “otherwise qualified” for the program, activity, or service from which you were excluded; (3) You were denied benefits or discriminated against solely because of your disability; and (4) The program, activity, prison, or jail receives federal financial assistance. . . . But your complaint should also include other information, both to make your situation clear and to get the judge to sympathize with the problems you face in prison. You should (1) discuss your disability in detail, (2) explain the accommodations you need, and (3) describe the discrimination you have experienced. You should also mention any other facts you think are relevant and will make your argument stronger.” Colum. Hum. Rts. L. Rev., A Jailhouse Lawyer’s Manual at 726.

LET'S REVIEW!

In the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER, you learned about:

- Different types of supervision in California, including the state and federal systems for supervision
- Who gets put onto what type of supervision, and the reasons why
- What to expect and know about when you first get released onto community supervision
- The General vs. Special/ Discretionary Conditions of Supervision: What general rules (conditions) you have to follow, what special/ discretionary (extra conditions) might be added on, and how to challenge special/ discretionary conditions
- The Length of Supervision: How it is calculated, and how to get off early, if possible
- Transferring Supervision to a Different Location: What the procedures are for transferring your supervision to a different county or state
- Disability Rights: How to navigate parole and/or probation if you have a disability and need help or accommodations
- Violations: What your rights are if you're accused of violating the conditions of your supervision, and how the "revocation" (violations) process works for the different types of supervision

APPENDIX A

General and Discretionary Conditions of California State Parole<sup>1109</sup>

General Conditions of State Parole:

- The release date and how long the parolee may be on parole.
- Advisement that the parolee, their residence, and possessions can be searched at any time of the day or night, with or without a warrant, and with or without a reason. This can be done by a parole agent or police officer.
- By signing the parole conditions, the parolee waives extradition if they are found out of state.
- The parolee's obligation to always tell their parole agent where they live and work.
- The parolee's obligation to report upon release from prison or jail.
- The parolee's obligation to tell their parole agent about a new address before they move.
- The parolee's obligation to tell their parole agent, within three days, if they get a new job.
- The parolee's obligation to report to their parole agent when told to report or a warrant can be issued for their arrest.
- The parolee's obligation to follow their parole agent's instructions.
- The parolee's obligation to ask their parole agent if it is OK to travel more 50 miles from their residence, and receive approval before they travel.
- The parolee's obligations to receive a travel pass before they leave the county for more than two days.
- The parolee's obligations to receive a travel pass before they can leave the State.
- The parolee's obligation to obey ALL laws.
- The parolee's obligation to tell their parole agent immediately if they get arrested or get a ticket.
- An advisement that if a parolee breaks the law, they can be sent back to prison even if they do not have any new criminal charges.
- The parolee's obligation to not be around guns, or things that look like a real gun, bullets, or any other weapons.
- The parolee's obligation to not have a knife with a blade longer than two inches except a kitchen knife. Kitchen knives must be kept in your kitchen.
- Knives you use for work are also allowed if approved by the parole agent tells, but they can only be carried while at work or going to and from work. The parolee must possess a note from the parole agent approving this, and it must be carried at all times.
- The parolee's obligation to not own, use, or have access to a weapon listed in Penal Code Section 12020.
- The parolee's obligation to sign their conditions of parole. Failure to sign them can result in a return to prison.

Discretionary Conditions of State Parole:

- Require you to support your dependents and meet other family responsibilities;
- Require that you make restitution to a victim of the offense under section 3556;
- Require that you give notice (ordered pursuant to the provisions of section 3555) to the victims of the offense;
- Require that you be employed or be pursuing educational/vocational training to prepare you for suitable employment;
- Prevent you altogether from working in a specified occupation, business, or profession with a reasonably direct relationship to the conduct underlying your commitment offense (OR prevent you from working in a specified occupation, business, or profession only to a certain degree/under stated circumstances);
- Forbid you from going to specified kinds of places;
- Forbid you from associating with specified persons;
- Forbid you from excessive use of alcohol, or any use of a narcotic drug or other controlled substance, as defined in section 102 of the Controlled Substances Act (21 U.S.C. 802), without a prescription by a licensed medical practitioner;
- Forbid you from possessing a firearm, destructive device, or other dangerous weapon;
- Require that you get medical, psychiatric, or psychological treatment, including treatment for drug or alcohol dependency (as specified by the court)
- Require that you live in a specified institution for medical, psychiatric, or psychological treatment
- Require that you remain in the custody of the Bureau of Prisons during nights, weekends, or other intervals of time, totaling no more than the lesser of one year or the term of imprisonment authorized for the offense, during the first year of the term of probation or supervised release (this is known as intermittent confinement);

ROADMAP TO REENTRY

- Require you to live at a community corrections facility (including somewhere maintained by or contracted with the Bureau of Prisons), or attend a program at such a community corrections facility, for all or part of the term of probation;
- Require you to work in community service as directed by the court;
- Require you to live in a specified place or area, or prevent you from living in a specified place or area;
- Require you to remain within the jurisdiction of the court, unless granted permission to leave by the court or a probation officer;
- Require you report to a probation officer as directed by the court or the probation officer;
- Allow a probation officer to visit you at your home or elsewhere as specified by the court;
- Require you to quickly notify your probation officer, or answer your P.O.'s questions, about any change in address or employment;
- Require you to quickly notify your probation officer if you are arrested or questioned by a law enforcement officer;
- Require you to stay at home/where you live during non-working hours (this is known as home confinement or house arrest), and require you to be monitored by telephonic or electronic signaling devices to track you and make sure you are at home during these times. This condition can only be used as an alternative to incarceration.
- Require that you obey any court order or other government administrative order that requires you to pay for support/maintenance of a child or to both the child and parent with whom the child is living;
- Deport you if you are "deportable" by law;
- Satisfy any other court-imposed conditions; and
- If you are required to register under the Sex Offender Registration and Notification Act: The judge may order a search at any time, with or without a warrant, of your person, any property, your house/residence, vehicle, papers, computer, or other electronic/data devices or media, by any law enforcement or probation officer with reasonable suspicion concerning a violation of a condition of probation or unlawful conduct, and by any probation officer lawfully carrying out his/her function of supervision.
- Intermittent confinement. Intermittent confinement can only be used if you violate a condition of probation.<sup>1110</sup>

APPENDIX B

California State Parole Term Lengths

I. CONTROLLING DISCHARGE DATE (CDD) & MAXIMUM DISCHARGE DATE (MDD):

Three-year base period, maximum period of four years:

- People who were sentenced to a determinate (set-length) prison term, and who do not fall into any of the other categories listed below. Longer parole periods apply to people convicted of serious sex crimes or sentenced to life with the possibility of parole.
- People sentenced to life with the possibility of parole for offenses committed before January 1, 1979.<sup>1111</sup>

Five-year base period, maximum period of seven years:

- People convicted of a violent sex crime listed in CAL. PENAL CODE § 667.5(c)(3)-(6), (16), or (18) committed between July 19, 2000, and September 19, 2006, or between November 7, 2006, and September 9, 2010. This provision also applies to people convicted of a violent sex crime listed in Penal Code § 667.5(c)(11) committed between January 1, 2003, and September 19, 2006, or between November 7, 2006, and September 9, 2010.<sup>1112</sup>
- People sentenced for a sex crime under CAL. PENAL CODE § 661.61 (the “one strike” law) committed between July 19, 2000, and September 19, 2006 (note that the base term can be extended for an additional five years if the prisoner is deemed to pose a danger to society; as of January 1, 2002, either the original or extended parole period can be increased to a maximum of seven years). This also applies to people sentenced under Penal Code § 667.71 (recidivist sex offenders) for offenses committed from January 1, 2003, through September 19, 2006.<sup>1113</sup>
- Life prisoners who committed their offenses on or after January 1, 1979, and who do not fall into some other category.<sup>1114</sup>

Ten-year base period, maximum period of fifteen years:

- People convicted of a violent sex crime listed in Penal Code § 667.5 (c)(3)-(6), (11), (15), (16), or (18) committed between September 20, 2006, and November 6, 2006. This provision also applies to people convicted of a violent sex crime listed in CAL. PENAL CODE § 667.5 (c)(3)-(6), (11), or (18) committed on or after September 9, 2010, and who do not fall into some other category.
- People sentenced to life with the possibility of parole for a sex offense under CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 209(b) [with intent to commit a sex offense], 269, 288.7, or 667.51 committed between September 20, 2006, and November 6, 2006.<sup>1115</sup>
- People sentenced to life with the possibility of parole for a sex offense under CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 667.61 or 667.71 committed on or after September 20, 2006, and who do not fall into some other category.

Twenty-year and six month base period with a maximum life-long parole:

- People convicted of a sex offense under CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 261, 262, 264.1, 286, 288a, 288(b)(1), 288, 288.5, or 289 if the victim was under 14 years of age and the offense was committed on or after September 9, 2010. These parolees can be kept on parole longer, even without parole violations, upon a finding of good cause.<sup>1116</sup>

Life-long parole period:

- People sentenced to life with the possibility of parole for first- or second-degree murder committed on or after January 1, 1983 (BUT NOT CONSPIRACY TO COMMIT ANY DEGREE OF MURDER).<sup>1117</sup>
- People sentenced to life with the possibility of parole under Penal Code § 209(b) [with intent to commit a sex offense] committed on or after September 9, 2010.<sup>1118</sup>
- Prisoners sentenced to life with the possibility of parole for sex offenses under CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 269, 288.7(c), 667.51, 667.61(j), (l), or (m), or 667.71 [if victim under age 14] committed on or after September 9, 2010.<sup>1119</sup>

<sup>1115</sup> This provision also purports to apply to people sentenced to life with the possibility of parole under CAL. PENAL CODE § 209 [with intent to commit a sex offense] or § 667.51 committed on or after September 9, 2010. However, such offenses appear to be covered by the life-long parole provision in CAL. PENAL CODE § 3000.1.

<sup>1118</sup> CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 3000(b)(3) and 3000.1(a)(2). There is a discrepancy between the statutory language and the stated legislative intent to require life-long parole for “habitual sex offenders [and] persons convicted of kidnapping a child under 14 years of age with the intent to commit a specified sex offense.” Legis. Couns. Dig. Assem. Bill No. 1844, Ch. 219. Thus, there is potentially an argument that prisoners convicted under § 209(b) should be subject to only a 10-year parole term if the victim is over 14 years old.

<sup>1119</sup> CAL. PENAL CODE § 667.61(e).

II. PRESUMPTIVE DISCHARGE DATE (PDD):

Most parolees can be discharged from parole early if they successfully complete a certain amount of parole time and the BPH does not find good cause to retain them on parole.<sup>1120</sup> This is called the “presumptive discharge date” (PDD). If a parolee fits into more than one category, the longer period applies.

- Six months: Any person with a determinate sentence for non-violent, non-serious, non-sex offenses, provided the offense took place before June 27, 2012.
- One year: Any person who has a three-year parole term following a determinate sentence for a serious felony listed in Penal Code §§ 1192.7 or 1192.8(a) or for an offense requiring registration as a sex offender.
- Two years: Any person who has a three-year parole term following a determinate sentence for a violent felony listed in Penal Code § 667.5(c), provided the offense took place before June 27, 2012.
- Three years: Any person who has a five-year parole term following a determinate sentence for a violent felony listed in Penal Code § 667.5(c) provided the offense took place before June 27, 2012 or following an indeterminate life sentence for a crime other than murder.
- Five years: Any person sentenced to an indeterminate life sentence for second- degree murder.
- Six years and six months: Any person with a ten-year parole term following an indeterminate life sentence under Penal Code §§ 209(b) [with intent to commit a sex offense], 667.51, 667.61, or 667.71.
- Seven years: Any person sentenced to an indeterminate life term for first-degree murder.
- No presumptive discharge date: Any person serving a life-long parole period following an indeterminate life term for a sex offense under Penal Code §§ 269, 288.7(c), 667.51, 667.61(j), (l), or (m), or 667.71 [if a victim was a child under age 14]. There is also no presumptive early discharge for parolees who were sentenced to prison for offenses committed between July 1, 1977, and December 31, 1978.<sup>1121</sup>

APPENDIX C

Learn How To Calculate Your State Parole Discharge Date

(Excerpted with slight modifications from Prison Law Office, The Parolee Rights Handbook, August 2013, available for download on their website at: <http://www.prisonlaw.com/pdfs/ParoleeManual,Aug2013.pdf>)

FOR PEOPLE ON STATE PAROLE: How Is the Parole Discharge Date Calculated?

A parolee who is not serving life-long parole and who is retained past the “presumptive discharge date” can calculate when he or she must be discharged from parole. There are two important dates: the “controlling discharge date” (CDD) and the “maximum discharge date” (MDD). The CDD is the date that a parolee is currently set to be discharged from parole if nothing changes. The MDD is the maximum parole term as set by statute, after which the parolee must be discharged.

Two types of events may change the CDD and MDD:

- Time during which a parolee absconds or is unavailable for supervision does not count toward either the CDD or MDD. There is no limit on how long the CDD and MDD can be extended due to absconding or unavailability.
- Time served in custody for parole revocation terms will extend the CDD, but only until the MDD is reached.

The pieces of information a parolee needs to figure out his or her CDD and MDD are: (1) the initial parole date; (2) the base and maximum parole terms that apply to his or her case (see Section 16.A, above); (3) how much time he or she has been unavailable for supervision, if any; and (4) the amount of time he or she has served in custody on parole violations.

Here is a calculation worksheet that can be used by any parolee, with an example of a calculation for a parolee named Joe who is serving a three-year parole term with a maximum term of four years following a determinate sentence for a non-serious, non-violent, non-sex offense.

Worksheet

|---|--|
| 1) Start with the date the parolee was first paroled. For our example, Joe paroled on January 1, 2013.  | 1/1/2013                               |
| 2) Add the amount of time the parolee must serve before a presumptive discharge review. Joe has a presumptive discharge date of six months plus 30 days, and was eligible for early discharge on July 1, 2013.  | 7/1/2013                               |
| 3) However, the BPH acted to retain Joe on parole, so his CDD will be set by his full statutory base parole period. Joe has a three-year base parole period, so his CDD is January 1, 2016. Joe has a statutory maximum parole term of four years, so his MDD is January 1, 2017.   | 1/1/2016(CDD)1/1/2017(MDD) |
| 4) Joe absconded from parole, and the “clock” on his parole term stopped running during that time. This extends both the CDD and the MDD. Joe absconded for three months, so his CDD is now April 1, 2016, and his MDD is now April 1, 2017.  | 4/1/2016(CDD)4/1/2017(MDD) |
| 5) Joe also violated parole and served a parole revocation term in custody. This extends the CDD but only until the MDD is reached. Joe’s revocation term was 180 days, but he only served 90 days in jail because he behaved well and got good conduct credits. Thus, 90 days is added to his CDD, which is now July 1, 2016. The revocation time does not affect Joe’s MDD, which is still April 1, 2017. | 7/1/2016(CDD)4/1/2017(MDD) |

6) Joe violated parole two more times and got two more 180-day revocation terms (360 days total); while he was in jail, Joe got into fights and refused to work, so he did not get any good conduct credits. The time Joe spends in jail extends his CDD but does not affect his MDD. Also, since a CDD cannot be further in the future than an MDD, Joe has “maxed out” and will be discharged on April 1, 2017.

IMPORTANT: if your parole length seems wrong, you can challenge it (it's a similar process to challenging a parole condition). See PG. 178 above for more information.

APPENDIX F

California Penal Code Sections 3000(b) & 3000.1

Text of California Penal Code section 3000(b):

(b) Notwithstanding any provision to the contrary in Article 3 (commencing with Section 3040) of this chapter, the following shall apply to any inmate subject to Section 3000.08:

(1) In the case of any inmate sentenced under Section 1168 for a crime committed prior to July 1, 2013, the period of parole shall not exceed five years in the case of an inmate imprisoned for any offense other than first or second degree murder for which the inmate has received a life sentence, and shall not exceed three years in the case of any other inmate, unless in either case the Board of Parole Hearings for good cause waives parole and discharges the inmate from custody of the department. This subdivision shall also be applicable to inmates who committed crimes prior to July 1, 1977, to the extent specified in Section 1170.2. In the case of any inmate sentenced under Section 1168 for a crime committed on or after July 1, 2013, the period of parole shall not exceed five years in the case of an inmate imprisoned for any offense other than first or second degree murder for which the inmate has received a life sentence, and shall not exceed three years in the case of any other inmate, unless in either case the department for good cause waives parole and discharges the inmate from custody of the department.

(A) For a crime committed prior to July 1, 2013, at the expiration of a term of imprisonment of one year and one day, or a term of imprisonment imposed pursuant to Section 1170 or at the expiration of a term reduced pursuant to Section 2931 or 2933, if applicable, the inmate shall be released on parole for a period not exceeding three years, except that any inmate sentenced for an offense specified in paragraph (3), (4), (5), (6), (11), or (18) of subdivision (c) of Section 667.5 shall be released on parole for a period not exceeding 10 years, unless a longer period of parole is specified in Section 3000.1.

(B) For a crime committed on or after July 1, 2013, at the expiration of a term of imprisonment of one year and one day, or a term of imprisonment imposed pursuant to Section 1170 or at the expiration of a term reduced pursuant to Section 2931 or 2933, if applicable, the inmate shall be released on parole for a period of three years, except that any inmate sentenced for an offense specified in paragraph (3), (4), (5), (6), (11), or (18) of subdivision (c) of Section 667.5 shall be released on parole for a period of 10 years, unless a longer period of parole is specified in Section 3000.1.

(3) Notwithstanding paragraphs (1) and (2), in the case of any offense for which the inmate has received a life sentence pursuant to subdivision (b) of Section 209, with the intent to commit a specified sex offense, or Section 667.51, 667.61, or 667.71, the period of parole shall be 10 years, unless a longer period of parole is specified in Section 3000.1.

(4)

(A) Notwithstanding paragraphs (1) to (3), inclusive, in the case of a person convicted of and required to register as a sex offender for the commission of an offense specified inspection 261, 262, 264.1, 286, 288a, paragraph (1) of subdivision (b) of Section 288, Section 288.5, or 289, in which one or more of the victims of the offense was a child under 14 years of age, the period of parole shall be 20 years and six months unless the board, for good cause, determines that the person will be retained on parole. The board shall make a written record of this determination and transmit a copy of it to the parolee.

(B) In the event of a retention on parole, the parolee shall be entitled to a review by the board each year thereafter.

(C) There shall be a board hearing consistent with the procedures set forth in Sections 3041.5 and 3041.7 within 12 months of the date of any revocation of parole to consider the release of the inmate on parole, and notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (3) of subdivision (b) of Section 3041.5, there shall be annual parole consideration hearings thereafter, unless the person is released or otherwise ineligible for parole release. The panel or board shall release the person within one year of the date of the revocation unless it determines that the circumstances and gravity of the parole violation are such that consideration of the public safety requires a lengthier period of incarceration or unless there is a new prison commitment following a conviction.

(D) The provisions of Section 3042 shall not apply to any hearing held pursuant to this subdivision.

- (A) The Board of Parole Hearings shall consider the request of any inmate whose commitment offense occurred prior to July 1, 2013, regarding the length of his or her parole and the conditions thereof.
- (B) For an inmate whose commitment offense occurred on or after July 1, 2013, except for those inmates described in Section 3000.1, the department shall consider the request of the inmate regarding the length of his or her parole and the conditions thereof. For those inmates described in Section 3000.1, the Board of Parole Hearings shall consider the request of the inmate regarding the length of his or her parole and the conditions thereof.
- (6) Upon successful completion of parole, or at the end of the maximum statutory period of parole specified for the inmate under paragraph (1), (2), (3), or (4), as the case may be, whichever is earlier, the inmate shall be discharged from custody. The date of the maximum statutory period of parole under this subdivision and paragraphs (1), (2), (3), and (4) shall be computed from the date of initial parole and shall be a period chronologically determined. Time during which parole is suspended because the prisoner has absconded or has been returned to custody as a parole violator shall not be credited toward any period of parole unless the prisoner is found not guilty of the parole violation. However, the period of parole is subject to the following:
- (A) Except as provided in Section 3064, in no case may a prisoner subject to three years on parole be retained under parole supervision or in custody for a period longer than four years from the date of his or her initial parole.
- (B) Except as provided in Section 3064, in no case may a prisoner subject to five years on parole be retained under parole supervision or in custody for a period longer than seven years from the date of his or her initial parole.
- (C) Except as provided in Section 3064, in no case may a prisoner subject to 10 years on parole be retained under parole supervision or in custody for a period longer than 15 years from the date of his or her initial parole.
- (7) The Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation shall meet with each inmate at least 30 days prior to his or her good time release date and shall provide, under guidelines specified by the parole authority or the department, whichever is applicable, the conditions of parole and the length of parole up to the maximum period of time provided by law. The inmate has the right to reconsideration of the length of parole and conditions thereof by the department or the parole authority, whichever is applicable. The Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation or the board may impose as a condition of parole that a prisoner make payments on the prisoner's outstanding restitution fines or orders imposed pursuant to subdivision (a) or (c) of Section 13967 of the Government Code, as operative prior to September 28, 1994, or subdivision (b) or (f) of Section 1202.4.
- (8) For purposes of this chapter, and except as otherwise described in this section, the board shall be considered the parole authority.
- (9)
- (A) On and after July 1, 2013, the sole authority to issue warrants for the return to actual custody of any state prisoner released on parole rests with the court pursuant to Section 1203.2, except for any escaped state prisoner or any state prisoner released prior to his or her scheduled release date who should be returned to custody, and Section 5054.1 shall apply.
- (B) Notwithstanding subparagraph (A), any warrant issued by the Board of Parole Hearings prior to July 1, 2013, shall remain in full force and effect until the warrant is served or it is recalled by the board. All prisoners on parole arrested pursuant to a warrant issued by the board shall be subject to a review by the board prior to the department filing a petition with the court to revoke the parole of the petitioner.
- (10) It is the intent of the Legislature that efforts be made with respect to persons who are subject to Section 290.011 who are on parole to engage them in treatment.

(1) In the case of any inmate sentenced under Section 1168 for any offense of first or second degree murder with a maximum term of life imprisonment, the period of parole, if parole is granted, shall be the remainder of the inmate's life.

(2) Notwithstanding any other law, in the case of any inmate sentenced to a life term under subdivision (b) of Section 209, if that offense was committed with the intent to commit a specified sexual offense, Section 269 or 288.7, subdivision (c) of Section 667.51, Section 667.71 in which one or more of the victims of the offense was a child under 14 years of age, or subdivision (j), (l), or (m) of Section 667.61, the period of parole, if parole is granted, shall be the remainder of the inmate's life.

(b) Notwithstanding any other law, when any person referred to in paragraph (1) of subdivision (a) has been released on parole from the state prison, and has been on parole continuously for seven years in the case of any person imprisoned for first degree murder, and five years in the case of any person imprisoned for second degree murder, since release from confinement, the board shall, within 30 days, discharge that person from parole, unless the board, for good cause, determines that the person will be retained on parole. The board shall make a written record of its determination and transmit a copy of it to the parolee.

(c) In the event of a retention on parole pursuant to subdivision (b), the parolee shall be entitled to a review by the board each year thereafter.

(d) There shall be a hearing as provided in Sections 3041.5 and 3041.7 within 12 months of the date of any revocation of parole of a person referred to in subdivision (a) to consider the release of the inmate on parole and, notwithstanding paragraph (3) of subdivision (b) of Section 3041.5, there shall be annual parole consideration hearings thereafter, unless the person is released or otherwise ineligible for parole release. The panel or board shall release the person within one year of the date of the revocation unless it determines that the circumstances and gravity of the parole violation are such that consideration of the public safety requires a more lengthy period of incarceration or unless there is a new prison commitment following a conviction.

(e) The provisions of Section 3042 shall not apply to any hearing held pursuant to this section.

APPENDIX G

California CDCR Form 1515

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
NOTICE AND CONDITIONS OF PAROLE (Page 1)
 CDCR 1515 (REV. 07/10)

DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTIONS AND REHABILITATION

When released from custody, you will be on parole for a period of _____ years. You must obey these conditions of parole. If you do not, you may be arrested, returned to prison and have to serve more time on parole.

GENERAL CONDITIONS OF PAROLE

1. Criminal Conduct

- You must obey all laws. The board may find that you have violated parole, even if you are not convicted in court and even if you are not charged with a crime.
- If you are arrested or cited by any peace officer for any misdemeanor or felony, you must tell your parole agent right away. You must do this even if you are released.

2. Instructions

- You must report to your parole agent the first working day after your release unless you have written permission to report later.
- You must do what your parole agent tells you to do.
- If another agency has placed a hold on you, you may be released to their custody. If you are released from their custody before the end of your parole period, you must contact the nearest California parole office immediately. They will tell you what to do.

3. Searches

- Any parole agent or peace officer can search and seize you, your property, and any property under your control at any time of the day or night with or without cause.
- They can also search your residence of record and where you live.

4. Travel

- You cannot go more than 50 miles from your home unless you have written permission from your parole agent.
- You cannot leave the county where you live for more than 2 days (48 hours) without written approval from your parole agent.
- You cannot leave California without written approval from your parole agent.
- If you are arrested in another state, you agree to give up your right to a hearing on whether you can be brought back to California.

5. Residence and Employment

- You must tell your parole agent where you are living and where you are working.
- You must tell your parole agent before you change where you live.
- You must tell your parole agent within 3 days if you lose, quit, or change your job.
- You must tell your parole agent within 3 days if your work address changes.

6. Weapons

You shall not own, use, have access to, or have under your control:

- Any kind of gun.
- Anything a reasonable person would think looks like a gun.
- Any ammunition that could be used in a gun.
- Any weapon not allowed by State or Federal law.
- Anything a reasonable person would think could be used as a weapon.
- Any knife with a blade longer than 2 inches.
  - You can have kitchen knives, but they must be kept at your house in the kitchen.
  - You can have knives you need for work, but they can only be used and carried during normal work hours for your job with your parole agent's approval.
- A crossbow of any kind.

7. Failure to Sign Conditions of Parole

- You shall sign these conditions of parole and any special conditions imposed by your correctional counselor, parole agent, or the board. Failure to sign any conditions of parole will result in your being returned to custody.

CDC Number:	Inmate/Parolee Printed Name (Last, First, MI):	Inmate/Parolee Signature:	Date Signed:
-------------	--	---------------------------	--------------

SPECIAL CONDITIONS OF PAROLE

Gang Restriction

- You are a gang member or associate. You cannot be around known gang members. You cannot wear or carry gang colors, clothing, or items. You cannot be involved in any gang activity.

Mentally Disordered Offender

- You will be confined in a state hospital and may be placed in a Conditional Release Program (CONREP) community outpatient mental health treatment pursuant to Penal Code (PC) Section 2962 (MDO).

Contact with Victim(s) or Victim(s) Family

- You have committed a crime against a person. You may not contact the victim(s) or anyone in their family unless your parole agent gives you written permission. There cannot be contact of any kind. No visiting, calling, or writing to that person. You cannot ask another person to call, visit, or write that person for you. You cannot go by where that person lives.
- You have committed a crime against a person under the age of 18. You cannot have contact with ANY person under the age of 18 without permission from your parole agent. No contact of any kind. This means no visiting, calling, or writing. If you have accidental contact with a person under the age of 18, you must tell your agent immediately.

MANDATORY SPECIAL CONDITIONS OF PAROLE

- You are required to register under PC Section 290. Because of this, you cannot live with another person who is also required to register under PC Section 290 unless you are related by blood, marriage, or adoption.
- You are required to register under PC Section 290. Because of PC Section 3003.5, you cannot live within 2000 feet of any public or private school or any park where children regularly get together. This applies even if you finish parole.
- You have a current or prior conviction for violating PC Section 288 and/or PC Section 288.5. You are also a High Risk Sex Offender. Because of PC Section 3003(g), you cannot live within one-half mile of any public or private school. This applies as long as you are on parole.
- You were convicted of a sex offense while under the influence of alcohol. Because of this, you cannot drink or have alcoholic beverages.
- A judge has issued a protective order that says you cannot contact your victim. You must comply with this order.

You have the right to appeal special conditions of parole imposed by filing a CDC Form 602, Inmate/Parolee Appeal. Special conditions imposed by the board may be appealed through the court by filing a petition for writ of habeas corpus. You can request reasonable accommodation on a CDCR Form 1824. You can also appeal a denial of a reasonable accommodation on a reasonable accommodation on a CDCR Form 1824.

STAFF ISSUANCE/OBSERVATION

- I have reviewed the Disability and Effective Communication System (DECS) and the Field File (Parole Staff) or C-File (Institution Staff) for disability and effective communication source documents.

I have informed this inmate/parolee of this notice and have determined that he/she:

- Appears to understand.
- Appears to have difficulty understanding.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR ISSUANCE AND COMPLETION BY STAFF

COMPLETING THE FORM

The staff person will complete the CDCR Form 1515, Notice and Conditions of Parole, in conjunction with the CDCR Form 611, Release Program Study. The staff person will utilize the documentation on the CDCR Form 611 and from the DECS review to determine what accommodations may be needed to effectively communicate the CDCR Form 1515 information to the inmate/parolee. The staff person will initiate the form by clearly printing the inmate's/parolee's CDC Number and Name in the appropriate boxes.

DOCUMENTING PAROLE PERIOD

The staff person will write in the appropriate number of years for the inmate's/parolee's parole period as indicated on the CDC Form 188, Legal Status Summary (LSS).

SPECIAL CONDITIONS OF PAROLE

The staff person will review the Central File (C-File) to determine whether or not these special conditions apply to the inmate/parolee.

Gang Restriction - Review the CDC Form 812 and/or 812-A. If the inmate/parolee is a member or associate of any street gang or prison gang, check the box.

Mentally Disordered Offender - Check box if the inmate/parolee has been certified by the BPH as a MDO pursuant to PC Section 2962.

Contact with Victim(s) or Victim(s) Family - Review the LSS, POR, CI&I, or Confidential Folder to determine whether there is a specific crime victim. If there is, check the first box. (This does not include personal or public property crimes.) If the crime was committed against a person under the age of 18, check the second box.

MANDATORY SPECIAL CONDITIONS OF PAROLE

Review the C-File to determine whether or not these mandatory special conditions of parole apply to the inmate/parolee.

Box #1 - Review the LSS, 112, CI&I to determine whether or not the inmate/parolee is required to register pursuant to PC Section 290. If he/she is required to register, check this box.

Box #2 - Review the LSS, 112, CI&I to determine whether or not the inmate/parolee is required to register pursuant to PC Section 290. If he/she is required to register, check this box.

Box #3 - Review LSS and CI&I Rap Sheet to determine whether or not the inmate/parolee has a current or prior conviction for violating PC Section 288 or 288.5. If he/she was previously convicted, or is currently committed for these offenses and is designated a High Risk Sex Offender per PC Section 3003(g), check the box.

Box #4 - Review the LSS and POR to determine whether the inmate's/parolee's current commitment includes a sex offense that was committed while the inmate/parolee was under the influence of alcohol. If he/she was, check this box.

Box #5 - Review the confidential folder to determine whether the inmate/parolee has a restraining order. If he/she does, check this box.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR NOTICING THE INMATE/PAROLEE

Prior to noticing the inmate/parolee of his/her conditions of parole, the staff person will ensure that any necessary accommodations identified through the DECS/File review process are available and utilized, if necessary, when noticing the inmate/parolee of his/her conditions of parole.

The staff person will advise the inmate/parolee of the required length of his/her parole period and then review the conditions of parole with the inmate/parolee as follows:

Reviewing General Conditions of Parole

The staff person will advise the inmate/parolee that the General Conditions apply to every person on parole.

The staff person will either read to or have the inmate/parolee read each condition. After each condition is read, the staff person will ask the inmate/parolee what he/she understands about the condition to ensure it was effectively communicated.

DISTRIBUTION: White: C-File
Yellow: Field File
Pink: Inmate/Parolee

INSTRUCTIONS FOR NOTICING THE INMATE/PAROLEE

Reviewing the Special Conditions of Parole

The staff person will advise the inmate/parolee that based upon his/her specific case factors; they must comply with these special conditions.

The staff person will either read to or have the inmate/parolee read each applicable special condition which is identified by a check mark in the corresponding box. After each condition is read, the staff person will ask the inmate/parolee what he/she understands about the condition to ensure effective communication.

Reviewing the Mandatory Special Conditions of Parole

The staff person will advise the inmate/parolee that based upon his/her specific case factors; they must comply with these conditions of parole which are mandated by law.

The staff person will either read to or have the inmate/parolee read each applicable special condition which is identified by a check mark in the corresponding box. After each condition is read, the staff person will ask the inmate/parolee what he/she understands about the condition to ensure effective communication.

Documenting Observations

After reviewing the conditions of parole with the inmate/parolee, the staff person will instruct the inmate/parolee to sign and date Page 1 and Page 2 in the appropriate boxes.

Note: If the inmate/parolee refuses to sign the form, the staff person shall remind the inmate/parolee that Condition #7 on Page 1 stated that failure to sign the form will result in his/her being retained in custody. If the inmate/parolee still refuses to sign the form, after completing the form, the staff person shall write a Rules Violation Report for Failure to Sign Conditions of Parole.

The staff person will check the box indicating they have reviewed the DECS and the Field File (Parole Staff) or C-File (Institutional Staff) for disability and effective communication needs. This review is mandatory.

Based upon the staff person's observations during the issuance of the conditions of parole, the staff person will check the appropriate box indicating whether the inmate/parolee appeared to understand or appeared to have difficulty understanding.

If the staff person had to provide assistance with effective communication, he/she shall check the box "Does not appear to understand (assistance provided)" and then circle what assistance was provided. The staff person shall then check the appropriate box indicating whether after assistance was provided, the inmate/parolee was (1) able to explain in his/her own words, or (2) still did not appear to understand.

The staff person shall then legibly print their name and title, and sign and date the form.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR REAFFIRMATION OF CONDITIONS OF PAROLE

The following are instructions for the staff person who reaffirms the conditions of parole with the inmate/parolee. This form can be utilized for up to three subsequent releases. This form shall be used when the previous conditions of parole have not been modified, added, or deleted.

Upon each release from custody, the staff member shall reaffirm the conditions of parole with the inmate/parolee, and shall sign in the reaffirmation section.

STAFF ISSUANCE/OBSERVATION

The staff person shall enter the date signed from page 3 into the Reaffirm Conditions of Parole dated box.

The staff person shall enter the CDC number and print the inmate's/parolee's name in the appropriate box.

The staff person shall have the inmate/parolee sign and date the conditions in the appropriate section.

The staff person will check the box indicating a review of the DECS and the Field File (Parole Staff) or C-File (Institutional Staff) for disabilities and effective communication source documents. This review is mandatory.

The staff person shall check the appropriate box regarding his/her observation of the understanding of the conditions by the inmate/parolee. If assistance was provided, the staff person will check the appropriate box and circle what assistance was provided or enter under "Other" what assistance was provided.

The staff person shall print their name, sign and date where indicated, and record this task in the inmate's/parolee's record of supervision.

A copy of the conditions shall be given to the inmate/parolee.

APPENDIX K

How To File A State Writ Habeas Corpus Petition

WHAT IS A HABEAS CORPUS PETITION?

Once you have gone through the entire 602 appeal process by filing your grievance with the appropriate agency OR if you've exhausted administrative remedies because CDCR/Parole didn't get back to you on an appeal within the legal timeline require by law, you may then file a state-level petition for a writ of habeas corpus. A habeas corpus petition can be based on any rights guaranteed by the federal or state constitutions, statutes, or regulations.

Through a habeas corpus petition, a state parolee (just like a state prisoner challenging conditions of his/her confinement) can ask a court to order "injunctive relief," meaning that the court will order prison or parole officials to do something or to stop doing something. For example, a court could order parole officials to drop an invalid parole condition or fix a parole term length miscalculation.

WHAT DEADLINES SHOULD I BE AWARE OF IF I WANT TO FILE A WRIT HABEAS CORPUS IN STATE COURT?

There is no deadline or time limit on when you can file a habeas petition. But keep in mind that, the longer you wait, the more you should be prepared to explain in detail, to the court, why you didn't file the petition sooner.<sup>1122</sup> You can only file a habeas petition if you have "exhausted" (meaning that you completed or gone through) all other administrative remedies. You exhaust the administrative remedies by completing the three levels of the appeals process discussed on PG. 178.

You must file your habeas petition while you are still under some form of custody or parole. At the time you file your habeas petition, you must currently be affected by the condition that you are appealing. If you are no longer suffering from the condition that you are appealing, the court will likely dismiss your habeas petition.<sup>1123</sup>

HOW DO I FILE A WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS IN STATE COURT?

Here are the steps you should take to prepare your habeas petition:

1. Your petition should include a Judicial Council MC-275 form. You can access this form at: <http://www.courts.ca.gov/documents/mc275.pdf>.
2. In addition to the MC-275 form, you must include the following information in your habeas petition:
  - a. Identify the type of custody you are under (i.e. you are on parole) and the person who supervises you (your parole office and CDCR)
  - b. Name a "respondent" (meaning the opposing party) in your case. If you are on parole, the respondent is the Director of CDCR.
  - c. Describe why your current parole conditions are illegal (i.e. your parole term length has been miscalculated)
  - d. State whether you have filed any previous court actions about the illegal condition
  - e. Verify (swear that you are telling the truth) the statements you've made in your petition
  - f. Include any supporting documents, such as sworn declarations by witnesses with your petition
3. If you want to ask the court to appoint an attorney to your case, you should file a "Declaration of Indigence" and "Request for Appointment of Counsel."
  - o For a sample habeas petition, please visit: <http://www.prisonlaw.com/pdfs/STATEHABEAS2008.pdf>

<sup>1123</sup> If you are no longer suffering from the condition that you are filing a habeas appeal about, then your case is said to be "moot" (meaning not currently at issue; not currently debatable/arguable). There are special circumstances where a court can hear a "moot" case (i.e. the issue you are appealing is one that is likely to come up frequently in other cases). See In re Gardia, 767 Cal. App. 4th 841 (1998).

HOW AND WHERE DO I FILE A WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS?

Usually, you should file your habeas petition with the Superior Court of the county that you are on parole in.<sup>1124</sup> You can file your petition by mailing it to the Superior Court clerk. Remember: any time you file documents with the superior court clerk, you should include an extra copy of the cover page along with a self-addressed stamped envelope so that the clerk can send you a copy with the date of filing and your case number.

If the court determines that your case should proceed, you will have to “serve” the opposing party. Serving the opposing party means that you will have to send CDCR a copy of your petition along with a “Proof of Service” form that verifies that you have served the document.

HOW CAN I HAVE AN ATTORNEY APPOINTED TO MY CASE?

You can request an attorney by filing a “Declaration of Indigency” and “Request for Appointment of Counsel.”

WHEN WILL I HEAR BACK FROM THE COURT ABOUT MY PETITION?

The judge must act within 60 days from the day you file your petition.<sup>1125</sup> Note: Unless the court orders an Order to Show Cause (OSC), you do not have the right to an attorney. But if the court does issue an OSC, it must appoint an attorney to your case if you cannot afford one. See below for more information on OSCs.

WHAT CAN THE COURT DO WITH MY PETITION?

The judge at the state court may take the following actions in response to your petition:

1. Deny your petition: If the court denies your petition, it must explain the reasons why it is denying your petition
2. Request an informal response from the respondent (the opposing party): If the court thinks your case may have merit, but the court still wants more information prior to taking any actions, the court can ask both parties to submit informal briefings. Your reply can be as simple as a letter back to the court (you must also serve the opposing party with a copy of your response). Your response will be due 15 days after the date that the court requested an informal response (unless the court specifies another due date).<sup>1126</sup>
3. Issue an “Order to Show Cause”: This will require the opposing party (called the “respondent”) to file an explanation why the court should not grant your petition.

If the court decides that your case has merit (meaning the court decides your case can go forward because you have a valid argument), then the court will issue an OSC. An OSC directs the respondent (opposing party) to state any legal or factual reasons why the petitioner (you) should not be granted his or her request.

WHAT HAPPENS ONCE THE COURT ORDERS AN ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE (OSC)?

The respondent (opposing party) must file a response, called a “return,” explaining reasons why your petition should not be granted. The respondent usually has 30 days to file a return.<sup>1127</sup>

IS THERE ANYTHING THAT I HAVE TO DO ONCE THE RESPONDENT FILES A “RETURN?”

Once the respondent files their “return,” you should file a “Denial and Exception to the Return.” In your Denial (also called a “traverse”), you should deny any and all false allegations made by the respondent in the return. You usually have 30 days to file your Denial with the court and serve the opposing party.

WHAT HAPPENS AFTER “RETURNS” AND “DENIALS” ARE FILED—THE HEARING?

After the respondent files a “Return” and you file your “Denial,” the court has 30 days to decide whether or not to order an evidentiary hearing. The court only has to grant a hearing if it thinks there is a reasonable likelihood that you may be entitled to relief. If you are granted a hearing, both you and the opposing party will have the opportunity to present evidence.

WHEN HAPPENS AFTER THE HEARING?

At the end of the hearing, the court will decide whether or not to grant you the request made in your habeas petition.

<sup>1124</sup> Griggs v. Superior Court, 16 Cal.3d 341 (1976). The petition can also be filed initially with the Court of Appeal or even the California Supreme Court, if there are special reasons why those courts should hear it at once. CAL. CONST. art. VI, § 10.

WHAT IF THE COURT DOES NOT GRANT A HEARING?

If the court decides not to grant an evidentiary hearing, then the court will decide whether or not to grant your habeas appeal based off: your petition, the respondent's Return, and your Denial. If the court did not order a hearing, then it has 30 days after you filed your Denial to decide whether or not to grant your petition.

WHAT HAPPENS IF MY PETITION IS GRANTED?

If the court grants your petition, the respondent has the right to appeal within 60 days of the court's ruling. If the respondent does appeal, he or she can request that the court's order be "stayed"—meaning that it does not take effect while the appeal is pending. If the respondent does appeal, your case will next be heard by the Court of Appeal.

WHAT HAPPENS IF MY PETITION IS DENIED?

If the Superior Court denies your appeal, you do not have the right to appeal. But, you can, however, file a new appeal with the Court of Appeal, following the same process as discussed above.

WHAT HAPPENS IF THE COURT OF APPEAL DENIES MY PETITION?

If the Court of Appeal denies your petition, you can ask the California Supreme Court to hear your case. You can do this by filing a petition for review with the California Supreme Court. If you file a petition for review, the entire record from your appeal in the Court of Appeal will be sent to the Supreme Court. You also have the option of filing a new petition for a writ of habeas corpus with the Supreme Court—filing a new petition will start the process over again, and the record from your appeal at the Court of Appeal will not be included in your petition.

If the California Supreme Court denies your petition, and your case involves any federal legal issues, you can file a new petition with the United States Supreme Court.

APPENDIX M

Transferring To Another State As a Person Required to Register as a Sex Offender

I AM CLASSIFIED AS A SEX OFFENDER AND WANT TO TRANSFER TO ANOTHER STATE. HOW CAN I DO THAT?

You must meet the four basic eligibility requirements to transfer to another state that apply to all people, AND you must meet additional requirements that are specific to people classified as sex offenders.<sup>1128</sup>

The four basic eligibility requirements for anyone to transfer their supervision to another state are:

1. You have 90 days (3 months) or more, or an undecided amount of time, left to serve on community supervision at the time your application is submitted to the state you wish to transfer to;
2. You have a valid supervision plan;
3. You have not had your parole revoked and have no pending parole revocation charges; AND
4. You are a resident of the receiving state, OR you have family that lives in the state who are willing and able to assist you, and you can find employment or another means of supporting yourself.<sup>1129</sup>

IMPORTANT NOTE: You cannot leave until the state receiving your application has approved the transfer request or issued reporting instructions.

Follow these steps to request the transfer to a new state:

STEP 1: Discuss your desire to transfer to a different state with your parole or probation officer.

STEP 2: Satisfy the four basic eligibility criteria listed above. It's up to the sending state to decide if you are eligible and can be approved for a transfer request.

STEP 3: Complete an Application for Transfer.

STEP 4: The sending state must send the state receiving your application the following:

- assessment information, including sex offender specific assessments;
- social history;
- information relevant to criminal sexual behavior;
- law enforcement report that provides the specific details of the sex offense;
- victim information: including the name, gender, age and relationship to the offender, and the statement of the victim or victim's representative;
- the sending state's current or recommended supervision and treatment plan.<sup>1130</sup>

STEP 5: The state receiving the application has 5 business days to review the proposed residence. If the proposed residence is not acceptable due to existing state law or policy, the receiving state may deny the application. No travel permit can be granted by the sending state until the receiving state says it can.<sup>1131</sup>

STEP 6: A travel permit will be given to you by your parole or probation officer if the receiving state has approved the new residence. Travel permits are issued by the local probation or parole office, so each office uses a different form. Your parole or probation should give you this form once you have been approved by the Interstate Commission for Adult Offender Supervision (ICAOS).<sup>1132</sup>

In accordance with the provisions of the Americans With Disabilities Act (ADA), no qualified individuals with a disability shall, on the basis of disability, be excluded from participation in, or be denied the benefits of the services, activities, or programs of a public entity, or be subjected to discrimination.

You may use this form to request specific reasonable modification or accommodation which, if granted, would enable you to participate in a service, activity or program offered by the Department/institution/facility, for which you are otherwise qualified/eligible to participate.

Submit this completed form to the institution or facility's Appeals Coordinator's Office. A decision will be rendered within 15 working days of receipt at the Appeals Coordinator's Office and the completed form will be returned to you. If you do not agree with the decision on this form, you may pursue further review. The decision rendered on this form constitutes a decision at the FIRST LEVEL of review.

To proceed to SECOND LEVEL, attach this form to an Inmate/Parolee Appeal Form (CDC 602) and complete section "F" of the appeal form.

Submit the appeal with attachment to the Appeals Coordinator's Office within 15 days of your receipt of the decision rendered on this request form.

If you are not satisfied with the SECOND LEVEL review decision, you may request THIRD LEVEL review as instructed on the CDC 602.

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

This process does not require nor is it to result in the automatic screening of all inmates to identify disabilities. This process ensures standardization of CDC policy and procedures dealing with the verification of a disability, the refuting of a disability claimed by an inmate if necessary, and placement of inmates with disabilities listed in Section B of this form. The use of this form will be initiated only in response to one or more of the following actions as noted in Section A:

- The inmate self-identifies or claims to have one of the disabilities listed in Section B;
- Staff observes that the inmate may have one of the disabilities listed in Section B;
- The health or central file record contains documentation regarding one of the disabilities listed in Section B; or
- A third party (such as a family member) requests an evaluation of the inmate for a disability listed in Section B.

Identification of inmates who may meet the Disability Placement Program (DPP) parameters, will usually occur during reception center (RC) processing, but if an inmate appears to meet disability criteria indicated on the form, all of the institutions/facilities will use the DPPV. Any staff member can initiate a referral for verification by directing a CDC 128-B to the institution's/facility's health care services department.

Responsibility for verification of the disability through completion of the DPPV rests with the health care service physicians. The verifying physician shall follow the "Protocols for Verifying Disabilities" in Exhibit B of the Armstrong Remedial Plan or other official CDC document that includes protocols. Upon completing the DPPV, the physician shall sign in the signature block. Health care staff shall forward the completed DPPV to the Classification and Parole Representative (C&PR) or RC Correctional Counselor (CC)-III for tracking.

COMPLETION OF THE FORM: Enter identifying information about the inmate and the date the DPPV was initiated.

SECTION A: Check the appropriate box to indicate the reason for initiating the form. Any licensed medical staff may complete sections A and B.

SECTION B: The licensed medical staff shall mark the category of disability being evaluated every time a CDC 1845 is completed.

SECTION C: A mark made in any of these boxes, indicates a need for special housing or programming and will result in placement in one of the designated institutions or facilities. NOTE: The word permanent is defined as a condition not expected to improve within six months. Check all boxes that apply using the definitions below:

-IF THE INMATE:

- Uses a wheelchair full time due to a permanent condition and requires use of the wheelchair, both within and outside the assigned cell/housing unit, check box 1.
- Has a permanent disability that requires the use of a wheelchair outside a cell (does not require use of a wheelchair inside a cell), requires lower bunk, wheelchair accessible path of travel and does not require wheelchair accessible housing, check box 2.
- Due to orthopedic, neurological, or medical condition that substantially limits ambulation (cannot walk 100 yards on a level surface without pausing) and does not require a wheelchair, check box 3. This condition requires lower bunk, no triple bunk, and no stairs in path of travel.
- Must rely on written communication, lip reading, or signing, because his/her residual hearing, even when augmented by aids, will not enable him/her to hear, understand, or localize an emergency warning or public address announcement, check box 4.
- Is permanently blind or has a vision impairment not correctable to central vision acuity of better than 20/200 with corrective lenses, check box 5 and note any housing restrictions in Section E.
- Has a permanent speech impairment resulting in indiscernible speech or NO speech and does not communicate effectively in writing, check box 6.

SECTION D: A mark made in any of these boxes will not necessarily result in the placement of the inmate in one of the designated institutions/facilities. The exception to this is if a disability in Section C exists. Check all boxes that apply using the definitions below: (Please note numbers 1, 2, and 5 indicate there are no corresponding categories, i.e., there are no DNW, DNO, or DNV categories.)

-IF THE INMATE:

- Has a lower extremity ambulatory impairment but can walk 100 yards on a level surface without pausing with or without aids, check box number 3. If there are no housing restrictions, check the "No housing restrictions" box. If the condition requires a lower bunk, no triple bunk, or no stairs, check the "See HOUSING RESTRICTIONS" box and all applicable boxes in Section E "HOUSING RESTRICTIONS." If it is determined the inmate requires level terrain and no obstructions in the path of travel, check the corresponding box in Section D.3.
- Has a hearing loss but follows conversation at normal speaking levels and can hear an emergency warning using a hearing aid(s), check box 2.
- Has indiscernible or no speech but communicates effectively in writing, check box 4.

SECTION E: The physician shall complete this section based on Unit Health Record (UHR) review, observation of, and interaction with the inmate. Check all boxes that apply using the definitions below:

-IF THE PHYSICIAN:

--Finds the inmate is designated as DNM and requires placement in an institution with level terrain with no obstruction in the path of travel, the physician shall check the "Requires relatively level terrain and no obstructions in path of travel" box and complete a CDC 128-C. If the physician finds the inmate has a complex medical need that is better facilitated by placement in a more centralized institution to facilitate outside medical treatment, check the "Complex medical needs affecting placement" box and complete a CDC 128-C explaining the reason for this recommended placement.

--Finds the inmate needs assistance with activities of daily living, appropriate boxes are to be checked.

--Determines there are housing restrictions in conjunction with disabilities verified in Sections C or D, number 3, check the box listing the appropriate restriction.

--Prescribes an assistive device such as a cane, crutch, walker, etc., check the applicable box, enter the date of the supporting CDC 128-C(s) related to that prescription.

--Finds other valid CDC 1845's in the UHR indicating a disability other than the current review, enter the corresponding DPP code and date of the CDC 1845.

SECTION F: The physician is to check the appropriate box specifically to the stated check box as follows:

-IF THE PHYSICIAN:

--Cannot verify a claimed disability through an examination or objective clinical data in the UHR, check the category of disability box being evaluated in Section B and the first box in Section F. The physician shall not check this box for cases pending outside consultation.

--Finds inmate no longer qualifies for a previously verified disability (e.g., cataract surgery restores sight) but has another verified disability that keeps him/her in the DPP, check the second box in Section F and enter the DPP code from which the inmate is being removed on the line provided. Explain the reason for removal in the Comments Section and complete a CDC 128-C.

--Finds the inmate no longer has a previously verified disability or any other CDC 1845 disability and is to be removed from the DPP, check the third box in Section F, enter the DPP code(s) on the line provided, explain in the Comments section, complete a CDC 128-C explaining reasons for removal from the program, and enter the date of the CDC 128-C on the line provided.

SECTION G: If during the initial or subsequent examination(s), the physician discovers the need for a sign language interpreter or if an alternate form of communication is required, the physician shall check all applicable box(es). The physician might have to query the inmate for this information. If none of these factors exist, and there are no additional factors or information, mark the "NO EFFECTIVE COMMUNICATION ISSUES OBSERVED OR DOCUMENTED IN THE UHR" box. The physician shall print, sign, and date the form in the appropriate boxes.

COMMENTS SECTION: This section is to reflect notes, references, explanation of disabilities and any information not listed elsewhere on the DPPV. The physician is to reserve his/her comments focusing on affected systems and functional limitations. No specific diagnosis, impairments, or other confidential medical information is to be entered on this document.

DISTRIBUTION: The Health Care Manager or Chief Physician & Surgeon shall review the completed form before distribution. Health care staff shall place the green copy in the chronology of the UHR, send gold copy to inmate via institution mail, and send original and remaining copies to C&PR/CC-III. The original shall be placed on top of the "General Chrono" section of the central file. The C&PR/CC-III shall retain the canary copy and forward the pink copy to the assigned CC-I.

APPENDIX V

California CDCR Form 1707

REQUEST FOR VICTIM SERVICES
CDCR 1707 (Rev. 10/11) (Back)

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTIONS AND REHABILITATION

INSTRUCTIONS

Read the following instructions carefully to fill out the front side of the form so that it can be processed correctly. Sections A, E, and F must be completed. Complete all other sections, based on your needs. All information will remain confidential.

Check one of the two boxes at the top of the CDCR 1707 form to indicate if this is a new/revised request or a change of address/phone/e-mail only. If you check "Change of address/phone/e-mail only," complete sections A, E, and F only.

SECTION A. APPLICANT INFORMATION

This section must be completed. Check the box that most accurately describes your relationship to the offender: victim, witness, or family member of victim (next of kin) and your relationship to the victim.

Circle the appropriate title: Mr., Mrs., or Ms. Clearly print your name, home address, mailing address (if different), your daytime, evening, cell phone numbers and e-mail address (if you have one).

NOTE: It is your responsibility to keep the OVSRS informed of any changes to your personal information.

SECTION B. NOTIFICATION OF OFFENDER STATUS IN PRISON

Complete this section if you choose to request notification services. Check the most appropriate box(es).

You have one of three choices to receive notice of an offender's release, escape, or death. Check Box 1a to register to receive notification by mail. Check Box 1b to indicate you would like OVSRS to register you through VINE to receive phone and/or e-mail notification instead of notification by mail. Check Box 1c to let OVSRS know that you already registered through VINE by phone at 1-877-411-5588 or online at www.VINELink.com to receive phone and/or e-mail notification and do not need notification by mail.

Check Box 2 to allow the OVSRS to share your information with the California Attorney General's Office to notify you of the status and outcome of any criminal appeal filed by the offender in this case.

In the area marked FOR VICTIMS/VICTIMS' FAMILY MEMBERS (NEXT OF KIN) ONLY, if you are the victim or the family member of a victim, check Box 1a to register to receive notification by mail of the date of an offender's parole hearing only if the offender has been sentenced to life imprisonment. Check Box 1b to ask the OVSRS to register you to receive notification by phone and/or e-mail instead of notification by mail. In addition, check yes to allow the OVSRS to share your information with the district attorney's office where the trial was held. The district attorney's office may be in contact with you if there is a parole hearing for an offender with a life sentence. Check no if you do not want the OVSRS to share your information. Check Box 2 to request to receive notification of the scheduled execution of an offender sentenced to death.

SECTION C. CONDITIONS OF PAROLE/COMMUNITY SUPERVISION

Complete this section if you choose to request special conditions of parole/community supervision. Such conditions are not guaranteed but you may check all that you wish to request or are eligible to receive.

Check Box 1 to request that the offender have no contact with you while he/she is on parole/community supervision.

Check Box 2 to request that the offender not be allowed to live in the same county that you live in.

The third box applies to victims and witnesses only.

Check Box 3 to request that the offender not be allowed to live within 35 miles of your home address. Per Penal Code Section 3003, available only for the following crimes: murder or voluntary manslaughter, mayhem, rape, sodomy by force, oral copulation, lewd acts on a child under 14, any felony punishable by death, stalking, and assault with a great bodily injury enhancement.

SECTION D. RESTITUTION

Complete this section if you have a court order requiring the offender to pay you restitution and would like to provide the OVSRS with information to verify that our restitution records are complete. If your court order for restitution states "TBD" for the dollar amount, contact the district attorney's office to request that a motion be filed to determine the restitution amount.

SECTION E. OFFENDER IDENTIFICATION

Provide as much information as you can in this section so we can be sure that we have the correct offender involved in your case. If you need help completing this section, you may contact the district attorney's office in the county where the trial was held.

SECTION F. APPLICANT SIGNATURE

Sign and date the completed form.

PROVIDING INFORMATION: The information requested is necessary to process your request for victim services and is voluntary. Failure to provide any of the information requested may prevent the OVSRS from processing your request. All information will remain confidential.

APPENDIX W

Selected California Formal Probation Instructions (County Specific)

Formal Probation Instructions by County in CA (for those publicly available)—limited list.

WARNING: It is very important to understand that there are many different types of formal probation programs that vary from county to county in California.<sup>1133</sup>

1) Fresno County:

- The Fresno County Probation Department has many types of formal probation programs to monitor your conduct. For example, if you have a drug problem, you could be referred to Drug Court, the PC1000 program, or the Probationers in Recovery program. Whatever the program or type of supervision, you are expected to obey the conditions of probation that were set by the Court.
- The frequency and method of contact with your Probation Officer depends on the seriousness of your commitment offense(s).
- In addition to special supervision programs, there are special programs—these are conditions of probation offered such as Work Furlough and Work Project. These special programs allow for consequences other than custody in jail for a felony or misdemeanor conviction.<sup>1134</sup>

2) Butte County:

In Butte County, there are different types of formal probation supervision units. Examples:

- Adult Supervision Unit—Supervising low to moderate risk offenders, Probation Officers utilize monthly mail-in forms, office appointments, and program referrals to ensure compliance with terms and conditions of probation.
- Field Supervision Unit—Supervising high risk offenders—namely domestic violence, gang, and sex crimes— Probation Officers utilize routine office appointments and searches, drug testing, and treatment program partnership to ensure compliance with terms and conditions of probation.
- Adult Treatment Unit—The Proposition 36 and Drug Court programs supervise offenders with substance abuse issues. Probation Officers utilize routine drug and alcohol tests, office appointments, and treatment program partnership to ensure compliance with terms and conditions of probation.<sup>1135</sup>

APPENDIX X

Sample Instructions for County Probation From Different Counties in California

WARNING: There are some standard conditions that apply to most (if not all) individuals placed on probation,<sup>1136</sup> but instructions for what to do when you first start your probation term will vary depending on what county you are being supervised in. You should call or visit your county probation department immediately to find out what the requirements and instructions apply to you.

San Francisco County's Instructions:<sup>1137</sup>

STEP 1: You need to contact the Probation Department as soon as you are released from custody. If you are released after 5:00pm, please contact the Department the next day. We open our offices at 8:00am and close at 5:00pm. Main phone number is: (415) 553-1706.

STEP 2: When you contact the Department you will need to provide our support staff with your full name and date of birth. If you have your court number, please provide it too. Our support staff will be able to give you the name and phone number of your assigned probation officer.

STEP 3: Your probation officer will schedule an appointment to meet with you. Please, make sure to keep your appointment and be on time. If you cannot make your appointment, you must call the day before to re-schedule.

STEP 4: Most likely than not the Court would have ordered for you to attend a counseling or rehabilitation program. You along with your officer will choose which programs better meet your needs. It is important that you contact the program and arrange for an intake session.

STEP 5: Stay out of trouble! We know you're facing a lot of challenges and difficulties getting your life back together, but if you need help or support, call your officer before you do something that put you back in jail.

Los Angeles County's Instructions:<sup>1138</sup>

STEP 1: If you were just released from county jail or the court, following your sentencing, and you were ordered by the Court to report to the Probation Department for supervision, you need to report within 48 hours or within the time frame ordered by the court.

STEP 2: When you report to the Probation office, tell the receptionist that you were just recently released from jail, or referred from Court, and you need your orientation instructions.<sup>1139</sup>

Here is a list of important documents to bring to your probation orientation in L.A. County:

1. Valid identification (driver's license, California I.D., any identification with your name, picture, or signature).
2. Verification of residence (this can be a letter or other mailing with your name and the address where you live, a copy of a rental agreement, or a signed letter from your landlord verifying that the address presented is your residence).
3. A copy of any and all documents that the sentencing court (meaning the court that actually gave you your criminal sentence) gave to you. This may include:
  - A copy of the sentencing minute ordered;
  - A referral card with your next court appointment;
  - A referral for registration due to your conviction that is related to drugs, gang affiliation, arson, or certain sex offenses or proof of registration of any one of these requirements, if so ordered by the court.

Ventura County's Instructions:<sup>1140</sup>

STEP 1: Upon being placed on formal probation (and immediately upon release from custody when on probation), you must immediately report to 800 South Victoria Avenue, Ventura, California, at the Pre-Trial Detention Facility (Sheriff's Building), Room A, second floor. Bring to probation your current address, phone numbers, and all relevant contact information <sup>1140</sup> See Ventura County Probation Department, FAQs, <http://public.venturaprobation.org/index.php/about-us/faqs?catid=1>.

ROADMAP TO REENTRY

STEP 2: Your assigned probation officer will contact you via mail or phone within 30 days of the date you were granted probation to set up your first appointment/intake meeting.

If you have not heard from your probation officer within a 30-day period:

- Have your case number, date of birth, and Social Security number (SSN) available and call the Ventura County Probation Agency at one of the locations nearest your residence. Tell the receptionist your case number and any relevant identifying information. You will then be connected to your assigned probation officer or the Officer-of-the-Day (OD) at your local probation office.

APPENDIX Y

Changing Conditions of Informal or Formal Probation

For those supervised by county-level probation, below are the steps for requesting a change to your conditions of formal or informal probation.

STEP 1: Draft the Motion and Supporting Documents:

- There is no official court form for this motion. You may contact the Court Clerk in the local county superior court where you were convicted to ask if there is a local form for this purpose. Most likely there is not, so you or your attorney will have to draft an original motion. Your motion should consist of the following parts:<sup>1141</sup>

(1) Notice of Motion: This tells the court what you want it to do. In other words, it notifies the court that you want it to modify your probation conditions.<sup>1142</sup>

(2) Memorandum of Points and Authorities: This section explains the law or authority that you are relying on for your request, as well as the facts supporting your request under that law or authority.<sup>1143</sup>

In the case of a disability, you should include the following: Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA),<sup>1144</sup> California Government Code § 11135, Civil Code §§ 54 et seq., California Penal Code § 1203.3 and the specific facts of your disability, how it affects you on probation, and what changes or additional assistance you need.

(3) Declaration: This is your signed, sworn statement of the facts used in your memorandum. It must include all of the facts used to support your motion.<sup>1145</sup>

(4) Any Supporting Documentation: If you have any documentation, such as a doctor's letter or prescription for medication, you should include these.

(5) Proposed Order: This is the document the judge signs to grant your motion and officially allow your probation to be terminated.

(6) Proof of Service: Include the Proof of Service form with your motion. This document must be included with all your court papers to prove that you gave a copy of the court papers to every person who is required by law to get them.

Need help with your court forms? Ask the attorney/ Public Defender from your case, the court's Self-Help Center, or your local law library for assistance with your motion.

IMPORTANT: If you had public defender for your case, many Public Defender offices will write, file, and argue motions to modify probation on your behalf. Call you public defender to find out whether they are able to assist you in filing and arguing your motion.

STEP 2: File the Motion

- Once your motion is drafted, you should make at least 4 copies—an original copy for the court, one copy for the District Attorney, one for the Probation Department, and one for you to keep. The court clerk will keep the original copy for the court's file.
- Bring the original motion and all copies to the clerk who will stamp all the documents with the date you are filing these documents. The clerk will give you back your copy, plus any copies that need to be served on the other parties. Remember to make sure that the clerk stamps each of these copies!
- Be sure to confirm with the clerk if the clerk's office will serve the District Attorney and the Probation Department, or if you are responsible for doing that. If the clerk gives you back more than just your own copy, it most likely means that you are responsible for service! (See STEP 3 below).
- FEES/ COST: Be aware that there are always fees associated with filing documents with the court. These fees will vary by county, and you can request a fee waiver if

TIP:

Try and get to the Clerk's office early, because there may be long lines. Make sure to bring lots of copies and a friend to help if you can.

IF YOU ARE REQUESTING A CHANGE IN YOUR PROBATION CONDITIONS DUE TO A DISABILITY:

During the hearing, you (or your attorney, if you have one) will explain to the judge why your disability makes it difficult for you to comply with your current conditions, what changes you need in your probation conditions, and if you need any other assistance from the probation department to successfully complete your probation. You can also ask the court to order the probation department to provide certain assistance or other accommodations. The prosecutor will also have a chance to speak, including a chance to oppose your request for modification. For more information on disabilities, please see PG. 252.

you qualify. Check with the clerk for your county’s fee schedule and waiver request process. Note: if you had a public defender on your case, you also may be eligible to receive a fee waiver for court filing fees.

After your motion has been filed, the clerk will give you a court date to have your motion heard by the judge.

STEP 3: Serve the Motion on the Other Parties

- If the clerk indicates that you are responsible for “service,” this means that you must make sure that all necessary people (called necessary “parties”) get a copy of the motion in the proper manner.
- The law requires that you give the District Attorney at least 2 days’ notice of your motion (or 5 days if your case involves domestic violence).<sup>1146</sup> This means that the DA must have a copy of your motion at 2 two days before the date of your hearing. It is best to serve the motion on all necessary people (parties) right after you file it. Be sure to have the DA’s office stamp the copy of your motion that you are keeping for yourself too—this serves as your proof that you served the DA with your motion.

STEP 4: The Hearing

- When you file your motion, the clerk will give you a court date for your motion to be heard by a judge. You will have to attend the hearing if you are not being represented by an attorney. In most cases, even if you are being represented by an attorney, you will want to be present to show your respect to the judge and the court process. The judge is unlikely to modify your probation unless it thinks that you are taking your probation seriously—and going to your court date shows the judge that you care about your case!<sup>1147</sup>
- If the judge grants your motion or modifies your probation conditions in any other way, he or she must state the reasons for doing so on the record.<sup>1148</sup>

<sup>1147</sup> If you are requesting a change in your probation conditions due to a disability: During the hearing, you (or your attorney, if you have one) will explain to the judge why your disability makes it difficult for you to comply with your current conditions, what changes you need in your probation conditions, and if you need any other assistance from the probation department to successfully complete your probation. You can also ask the court to order the probation department to provide certain assistance or other accommodations. The prosecutor will also have a chance to speak, including a chance to oppose your request for modification.

Sample Instructions for PRCS from Different Counties in California

WARNING: You must report to your County Probation Department for PRCS supervision within 2 working days after your release from state prison, court, or county jail. Instructions for what to do when you first get out on PRCS vary from one county probation department to the next. For example only, here are the instructions for people on PRCS in a couple of California counties:

If you are on PRCS under the L.A. County Probation Department:<sup>1149</sup>

- You must report within 2 working days of your release.
- You should bring the following important documents to your probation “H.U.B.” orientation:
  - Valid identification: Driver’s license, California State I.D., or any identification with your name, picture, or signature). NOTE: Please go to the BUILDING BLOCKS OF REENTRY: ID & VOTING CHAPTER, beginning on [PG. 22 if you need to get this type of document/ID.]
  - Verification of residence: this can be a letter or other correspondence with your name and the address where you reside, a copy of a rental agreement, or a signed letter from your landlord verifying that the address presented is your residence.
  - A copy of any and all document you were given by the sentencing court or the Corrections Counselor regarding your release.
- Once the HUB orientation is complete, you will be given:
  - A copy of your signed permanent probation instructions or the court-ordered conditions of supervision,
  - All signed financial documents, and
  - A referral to your probation officer or the probation office closest to your residence.
- Lastly, you will be instructed when and where to report to your local county probation office within 48 hours. Once you report to the local county probation office for supervision, you will be assigned a supervision probation officer, who will explain the specific requirements of supervision and reporting requirements to you.

If you are on PRCS under the Butte County Probation Department:<sup>1150</sup>

- You must report within 2 working days of your release.
- The Butte County Probation Department’s supervision of people on PRCS includes: office visits, home visits, searches, urine testing, and enforcement.
- Probation will complete an evidence-based “Offender Needs Guide” to identify and target your needs. This is Probation’s tool to identify your specific risk and protective factors to improve case management and reduce the risk of re-offending.
- Based on the “Offender Needs Guide,” your Probation Officer will make referrals for services to the appropriate agencies.

Requesting an Accommodation for Your Disability on County-Level Probation

HOW CAN I REQUEST AN ACCOMMODATION OR FILE A COMPLAINT IF I FEEL THAT COUNTY PROBATION IS NOT ACCOMMODATING MY DISABILITY, OR IF MY DISABILITY IS PREVENTING ME FROM ACCESSING PROBATION SERVICES OR PROGRAMS?

Unlike for state parole, there are no formal probation policies or procedures to request accommodations or file a complaint related to your disability. Each county does things differently, and many counties have no formal procedures. You can first talk to your probation officer and explain the situation to him/her OR you may ask a judge to modify your probation to accommodate your disability by filing a motion requesting a change.

STEP 1: Start by talking with your probation officer and explain to him/her:

1. What your disability is;
2. Why it is difficult for you to participate in programs or supervision requirements; and
3. What assistance, accommodations or changes you need.
4. If you have to do any evaluations with other agencies or service providers (for example, if the Probation Department does a risk- or needs-assessment for you, or you have a work placement evaluation by the Sheriff's department), you should also explain to them why your disability makes it difficult for you to participate or meet other requirements.
5. If you were sentenced under Realignment and are on Mandatory Supervision or PRCS, you may be entitled to participate in special programs or other services for your disability.<sup>1151</sup>

STEP 2: If that didn't fix the problem, you can ask the judge to modify your probation to accommodate your disability by filing a motion requesting a change (called a "modification").

If after talking to your probation officer or their supervisor, you still need help because (1) you did not get the assistance you require for your disability, (2) you are unable to participate in the programs which you are being offered or required to participate in, or (3) the terms of your supervision are difficult for you due to your disability, then you can go back to court to request help from the judge.

In order to ask the judge to modify your probation, you must FILE A MOTION requesting that the judge modify probation to accommodate your disability. Once you file your motion, you will have a hearing. The motion would likely mention the following laws:

- The Americans with Disability Act (ADA)—The ADA protects people with disabilities against discrimination and it requires public entities to provide reasonable accommodations. The ADA applies to all public entities, including local courts and probation departments.<sup>1152</sup>
- California Government Code § 11135 and Civil Code §§ 54 et seq.,<sup>1153</sup> which provide similar state protections as the federal ADA.
- California Penal Code § 1203.3, which gives the court authority to change your probation conditions.<sup>1154</sup>
- The specific facts of your disability, how it affects you on probation, and what changes or additional assistance you need.

STEP 3: The Hearing

During the hearing, you (or your attorney, if you have one) will explain to the judge why your disability makes it difficult for you to comply with your current conditions, what changes you need in your probation conditions, and if you need any other assistance from the probation department will help you to successfully complete your probation. You can also ask the court to order the probation department to provide certain assistance or other accommodations. The prosecutor will also have a chance to speak at your hearing—this includes a chance to oppose your request for modification. Because the judge has much more control over the Probation Department and the terms of your supervision, the Judge can order Probation to provide you with assistance, and can decide any other accommodations necessary for you to successfully complete your supervision.<sup>1155</sup>

Federal Probation/Supervised Release: Standard Conditions

STANDARD CONDITIONS— The list of “Standard Conditions” below—while technically discretionary (not required)— are added by the judge in almost every case of Supervised Release, as recommended by the U.S. Sentencing Commission, the agency that oversees federal sentencing guidelines.<sup>1156</sup>

You will likely be ordered to follow most if not all of the following rules (conditions), or something very similar to these:

1. You cannot leave the limits of your judicial district (meaning the area that the court has jurisdiction— i.e. the “Southern District of California”) without written permission from the court or your probation officer.
2. You must file a written report with your probation officer within the first 5 days of each month, or as directed by your probation officer.
3. You must truthfully answer any questions and follow any instructions that your probation officer asks of you.
4. You must meet your family responsibilities, primarily paying any court-ordered child support or support for the parent with whom your child is living.
5. You must work regularly at a lawful occupation, unless your U.S. probation officer excuses you for school, training, or other reasons the officer finds acceptable.
6. You must notify your probation officer at least 10 days before you change your address (some officers will require more or less notice, so check your conditions).
7. You cannot drink alcoholic beverages to excess. You cannot use or distribute illegal drugs, or frequent places where others use or distribute drugs.
8. You cannot associate with people engaged in criminal activity. (This means you cannot hang out with or spend time with people who are committing crimes.)
9. You cannot associate with anyone convicted of a felony unless your U.S. probation officer gives you permission to do so. (Again, this means that unless your probation officer says differently, you are not allowed to hang out with or spend time with someone who has been convicted of a felony. Just spending time with someone who has been convicted of a felony can be considered a violation of your probation, even if you were not doing anything else wrong.)
10. You must let your probation officer to visit you any time at home or elsewhere.
11. You must let your probation officer to take any contraband that he or she finds in plain view around you.
12. You must get in touch with your U.S. probation officer within 3 days (72 hours) if you’re arrested or questioned by law enforcement (again, some officers will require you to report faster, so check your conditions).
13. You cannot serve as an informant to law enforcement without court permission.
14. As directed by your U.S. probation officer, you must notify other people about any risks that your criminal record, personal history or characteristics might pose; and you must allow your U.S. probation officer to notify people of any risks posed by your criminal record, personal history or characteristics.
15. You must pay any court-ordered “special assessment” and fines, and follow any court-ordered payment plan set up for you.
16. You must notify your U.S. probation officer if there is any significant change in your income or economic circumstances which would impact how much you can pay towards any unpaid restitution, fines, or special assessments (NOTE: this is a mandatory condition for people on federal probation, and a recommended “standard condition” for people on Supervised Release).

APPENDIX DD

Federal Probation/Supervised Release: Discretionary Conditions

WHAT ADDITIONAL DISCRETIONARY CONDITIONS MAY I HAVE TO FOLLOW ON SUPERVISED RELEASE?

If the legal standards are met (refer to PG. 225), the judge may order additional discretionary conditions on your Supervised Release.

As discussed, the Standard Conditions listed on PG. 223 above are almost always added.

The following discretionary conditions may also be added (all but one of these is the same as those listed under federal probation, PG. 230):

1. Require you to support your dependents and meet other family responsibilities;
2. Require that you make restitution to a victim of the offense under section 3556
3. Require that you give notice (ordered pursuant to the provisions of section 3555) to the victims of the offense;
4. Require that you be employed or be pursuing educational/vocational training to prepare you for suitable employment;
5. Prevent you altogether from working in a specified occupation, business, or profession with a reasonably direct relationship to the conduct underlying your commitment offense (OR prevent you from working in a specified occupation, business, or profession only to a certain degree/under stated circumstances);
6. Forbid you from going to specified kinds of places;
7. Forbid you from associating with specified persons;
8. Forbid you from excessive use of alcohol, or any use of a narcotic drug or other controlled substance, as defined in section 102 of the Controlled Substances Act (21 U.S.C. 802), without a prescription by a licensed medical practitioner;
9. Forbid you from possessing a firearm, destructive device, or other dangerous weapon;
10. Require that you get medical, psychiatric, or psychological treatment, including treatment for drug or alcohol dependency (as specified by the court
11. Require that you live in a specified institution for medical, psychiatric, or psychological treatment<sup>1157</sup>
12. Require that you remain in the custody of the Bureau of Prisons during nights, weekends, or other intervals of time, totaling no more than the lesser of one year or the term of imprisonment authorized for the offense,<sup>1158</sup> during the first year of the term of probation or supervised release (this is known as intermittent confinement);<sup>1159</sup>
13. Require you to live at a community corrections facility (including somewhere maintained by or contracted with the Bureau of Prisons), or attend a program at such a community corrections facility, for all or part of the term of probation;
14. Require you to work in community service as directed by the court;
15. Require you to live in a specified place or area, or prevent you from living in a specified place or area;
16. Require you to remain within the jurisdiction of the court, unless granted permission to leave by the court or a probation officer;
17. Require you report to a probation officer as directed by the court or the probation officer;
18. Allow a probation officer to visit you at your home or elsewhere as specified by the court;
19. Require you to quickly notify your probation officer, or answer your P.O.'s questions, about any change in address or employment;
20. Require you to quickly notify your probation officer if you are arrested or questioned by a law enforcement officer;
21. Require you to stay at home/where you live during non-working hours, and require you to be monitored by telephonic or electronic signaling devices to track you and make sure you are at home during these times.<sup>1160</sup> However, if you were sentenced to a term of incarceration, this condition cannot be imposed on you.<sup>1161</sup> This condition can only be used as an alternative to incarceration.<sup>1162</sup>

<sup>1159</sup> 18 U.S.C. § 3563(b)(10) (known as "intermittent confinement"). See also U.S.S.G. § 5F1.8, which states that intermittent confinement may be imposed as a condition of probation during the first year of federal probation. See 18 U.S.C. § 3563(b)(10). It may be imposed as a condition of supervised release during the first year of supervised release, but only for a violation of a condition of supervised release in accordance with 18 U.S.C. § 3583(e)(2) and only when facilities are available. See 18 U.S.C. § 3583(d).

<sup>1161</sup> This is not true of Supervised Release. That is, you can be convicted of a crime, sentenced to a term of imprisonment, and be ordered to serve an additional period of time on house arrest as a condition of Supervised Release.

22. Require that you obey any court order or other government administrative order that requires you to pay for support/maintenance of a child or to both the child and parent with whom the child is living;
23. Deport you if you are “deportable” by law;
24. Satisfy any other court-imposed conditions;<sup>1163</sup> and
25. Finally, there are additional “special conditions” that are discretionary for particular kinds of cases under Supervised Release:
  - a) If you are a noncitizen subject to deportation by law:
    - i) The court may order you deported and that you remain outside the U.S. as a condition of your Supervised Release, and may order that you are handed over to an authorized immigration official for such deportation.
  - b) If you are required to register as a Sex Offender:
    - i. If your conviction is for a sex offense, the judge will consider imposing the following special conditions:
      1. A search at any time, with or without a warrant, of your person, any property, your house/residence, vehicle, papers, computer, or other electronic/data devices or media, by any law enforcement or probation officer with reasonable suspicion concerning a violation of a condition of probation or unlawful conduct, and by any probation officer lawfully carrying out his/her function of supervision.<sup>1164</sup>
      2. Require you to participate in a program for the treatment and monitoring of sex offenders;<sup>1165</sup>
      3. Limit your use of a computer if one was used as part of your commitment offense;
      4. Require you to submit to random, warrantless searches of your person, residence, and computers;<sup>1166</sup>
      5. Residency Restrictions (meaning there will be certain places you cannot live);
      6. Contact Restrictions (meaning there will be certain people you cannot have contact with);
      7. Movement Restrictions (meaning there will be certain places you will not be able to go);
      8. Employment/Occupational Restrictions (meaning there will be certain types of jobs you cannot have);<sup>1167</sup>
      9. Polygraph and/or Penile Plethysmograph Testing;<sup>1168</sup>
      10. Tracking Conditions; and
      11. Restrictions on the Possession of Certain Materials (meaning there will be certain things you cannot have on your person or in your home)<sup>1169</sup>
    - ii. If you were convicted of a sex offense, you should ask about any special conditions that apply to you as they differ slightly among jurisdictions and judges. If you were convicted of a federal sex offense, you most likely will have to follow some version of the above conditions.

<sup>1162</sup> 18 U.S.C. § 3563(b)(19) (2008). This is because if you are sentenced to a term of incarceration, you cannot receive a sentence of probation. Rather, you would receive a term of supervised release following imprisonment as part of your sentence.

List Of Factors Federal Judges Consider When Determining Whether To Let Someone Off Probation Early

Here is the full list of factors that the judge may consider when deciding whether to let you off probation early:

- Whether or not your Probation Officer or the Prosecutor support your request;
- The nature and seriousness of the crime you were convicted of;
- Your criminal history and/or mental illness history;
- Whether the judge believes you are a threat to the public;
- Whether the judge believes you have been sufficiently punished;
- Whether you have completed any substance abuse treatment or rehabilitation programs;
- How your sentence compares to the federal sentencing guidelines recommended sentence;
- U.S. Sentencing Commission policy statements;<sup>1170</sup>
- Whether you've paid restitution to the victims.<sup>1171</sup>

---

<sup>1170</sup> In 2011, the Sentencing Commission issued a policy statement informing judges that they may let former narcotics abusers from supervised release early, if that person has successfully completed a treatment program. See United States Sentencing Commission, 2013 Guidelines Manual, <http://www.ussc.gov/guidelines-manual/2013/2013-5d12>. See also 18 U.S.C. § 3583(e)(1)-(2).

<sup>1171</sup> See 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a)(1)-(7).

Federal Crime Classes

Per 18 U.S. Code § 3559:

An offense that is not specifically classified by a letter grade in the section defining it, is classified if the maximum term of imprisonment authorized is:

- (1) Life imprisonment, or if the maximum penalty is death, as a Class A felony;
- (2) Twenty-five years or more, as a Class B felony;
- (3) Less than twenty-five years but ten or more years, as a Class C felony;
- (4) Less than ten years but five or more years, as a Class D felony;
- (5) Less than five years but more than one year, as a Class E felony;
- (6) One year or less but more than six months, as a Class A misdemeanor;
- (7) Six months or less but more than thirty days, as a Class B misdemeanor;
- (8) Thirty days or less but more than five days, as a Class C misdemeanor; or
- (9) Five days or less, or if no imprisonment is authorized, as an infraction.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF CONDITIONS

I have read, or had read to me, the conditions that are listed on this CERTIFICATE OF SUPERVISED RELEASE. I have received a copy of this CERTIFICATE OF SUPERVISED RELEASE. I fully understand the conditions that have been imposed upon me and know that if I violate any of those conditions I may be sent back to prison.

CONSENT TO DISCLOSURE OF DRUG/ALCOHOL TREATMENT INFORMATION

By signing this CERTIFICATE OF SUPERVISED RELEASE, I consent to unrestricted communication between any facility administering a drug or alcohol treatment program in which I am or will be participating, on the one hand, and the Commission and the office responsible for supervising me, on the other hand. I consent to disclosure by such facility to the Commission and the office responsible for supervising me of any information requested related to my supervision, and the disclosure by the Commission and the office supervising me to any agency that requires such information for the performance of an official duty. This consent is irrevocable until the end of the term of supervised release.

GENERAL CONDITIONS

1. A. You must go directly to Washington, D.C. and appear in person at the Intake Office of the Court Services and Offender Supervision Agency for the District of Columbia (CSOSA), 300 Indiana Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20001. If you are unable to appear in person at that office within three days of release, you must appear in person at the United States Probation Office nearest to you and follow the instructions of the duty officer.
B. If you are not released to the community after your parole, you must follow the instructions in 1.A. above when you are released to the community.
2. You must not leave the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area without the written permission of the officer supervising you. The Washington, D.C. metropolitan area consists of the District of Columbia, Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties in Maryland, Arlington and Fairfax Counties in Virginia, and the Cities of Alexandria, Fairfax, and Falls Church in Virginia. For the purpose of applying all conditions of release, "the officer supervising you" includes any supervision officer assisting, substituting for, or acting on behalf of the officer assigned to your supervision.
3. You must, between the first and third day of each month, make a written report to the officer supervising you. In addition, you must meet with the officer supervising you at such times and in such a manner as that officer directs, and provide such information as that officer requests. All information that you provide to the officer supervising you must be complete and truthful.
4. You must notify the officer supervising you within two days of (A) an arrest or questioning by a law-enforcement officer, (B) a change in your residence, or (C) a change in your employment.
5. You must permit the officer supervising you to visit your place of residence and your place of business or employment.
6. You must permit the officer supervising you to confiscate any material that officer believes may be contraband and that is in plain view in your possession, including in your residence, place of business or employment, and vehicle.
7. You must submit to a drug or alcohol test whenever ordered to do so by the officer supervising you.
8. You must not violate any law and must not associate with someone else who is violating any law.
9. You must not possess a dangerous weapon, which includes ammunition.
10. You must not drink alcohol to excess and must not illegally use or possess a controlled substance. You must not frequent a place where you know a controlled substance is illegally used or distributed.
11. You must not associate with a person who has a criminal record without permission from the officer supervising you.
12. You must not enter into an agreement to act as an informant or undercover agent for a law-enforcement agency without permission from the Commission.
13. You must make a diligent effort to work regularly, unless excused by the officer supervising you, and to support any legal dependent.
14. You must make a diligent effort to satisfy any fine, restitution order, court costs or assessment, or child-support or alimony payment to which you are subject. You must provide financial information relevant to the payment of such a financial obligation that is requested by the officer supervising you. If you are unable to pay such a financial obligation in one sum, you must cooperate with the officer supervising you to establish an installment-payment schedule.
15. If your term of supervised release was imposed because of a conviction for a domestic-violence crime, and that conviction is your first conviction for such a crime, you must, as directed by the officer supervising you, attend an approved offender-rehabilitation program if such a program is readily available within a 50-mile radius of your residence.
16. You must comply with any applicable offender registration law, such as sex-offender or gun-offender registration laws.
17. You must provide a DNA sample if the officer supervising you determines that collection of such sample is required by law.
18. You must participate in an Employment Readiness Program if so directed by the officer supervising you.
19. If you are being supervised by CSOSA, you must submit to the sanctions imposed by the officer supervising you within the limits established by an approved schedule of graduated sanctions.
20. If so directed by the officer supervising you, you must notify a person of your criminal history or characteristics to inform that person of a risk of harm.

SPECIAL CONDITIONS

You shall be subject to the Special Drug Aftercare Condition that requires that you participate, as instructed by your Supervision Officer, in an approved inpatient or outpatient program for the treatment of narcotic addiction or drug dependency. The treatment program may include testing and examination to determine if you have reverted to the use of drugs. You shall abstain from the use of alcohol and all other intoxicants during and after the course of treatment. If so instructed by a Bureau of Prisons institutional employee or your Supervision Officer, you shall reside in, and participate in a program of, the Re-Entry and Sanctions Center until discharged by the Center Director.

In addition, you shall participate in and complete anger management counseling as directed by your Supervision Officer.

Federal Supervised Release: Term Length Chart

Class of Offense (Sentence Length)	Length of Time on Supervised Release
Class A Felony (life imprisonment or death)	2 (minimum)—5 (maximum) years
Class B Felony (25 years or more)	2 (minimum)—5 (maximum) years
Class C Felony (10 up to 25 years)	1 (minimum)—3 (maximum) years
Class D Felony (5 up to 10 years)	1 (minimum)—3 (maximum) years
Class E Felony (1 year up to 5 years)	1 year maximum
Class A Misdemeanor (6 months up to 1 year)	1 year maximum
Class B Misdemeanor (30 days—6 months)	1 year maximum
Class C Misdemeanor (6—29 days)	1 year maximum
Infraction (5 days or less, or no prison time authorized)	(S/R cannot be imposed; Probation can be imposed for up to one year)

You have the best shot of being let of supervised release early if:

- You have completed 2/3 of your supervised release term (or at the very least ½ way through),
- You have had no violations,
- You have complied with all the terms of your supervised release,
- You have paid all restitution and fines, and
- Your probation officer agrees that you should be let off early<sup>1173</sup>

APPENDIX II

Federal Supervision: Release Plans

Release plan, creating a plan for payment of restitution and fines, investigation of your plan and release.

STEP 1: Release Plan

Once you have a release date from the Parole Commission (USPC), you must complete a satisfactory plan for parole supervision to actually get released. The Regional Commissioner may change your date of release (earlier or later) onto parole to allow more time for release planning. At most, the Regional Commissioner can delay your release onto parole for 120 days; otherwise, you have the right to a hearing if the Regional Commissioner wants to push back your release date more than 120 days.<sup>1174</sup>

Generally, you are required to have included in your release plan:

1. Availability of legitimate employment;
2. An approved residence for the prospective parolee; and
3. Availability of necessary aftercare if you are ill or will require special care.<sup>1175</sup>

STEP 2: Unpaid Fines & Restitution

Your release onto parole might also be delayed if you still owe court-ordered fines or restitution.<sup>1176</sup> When you still have fines or restitution to pay, a reasonable plan for payment, or a performance of services if ordered by the court, will be included in your parole release plan, where feasible.<sup>1177</sup>

STEP 3: Investigation Phase

Your U.S. Probation Officer will do an investigation to make sure that the person's release plan is appropriate. This investigation will start with the probation officer asking you questions about your release plan. The probation officer will then follow up and verify your answers. For example, if you told the probation officer that your approved residence did not have any persons with a felony record, the probation officer will follow-up to make sure this is true.

STEP 4: Release

After the Parole Commission approves your release plan, and a U.S. Probation Officer completes an investigation, you will be released on the date set by the Parole Commission (unless there is misconduct or some other reason leading to a change in the date).

Appeals to the National Appeals Board

Below is the process for filing an appeal with the National Appeals Board to challenge and decision to grant, rescind, deny or revoke federal parole:

STEP 1: You may send a written appeal to the National Appeals Board challenging any decision to grant (other than a decision to grant parole on the date of parole eligibility), rescind, deny, or revoke parole.

- NOTE: If you want to appeal a decision denying your parole on the date of parole eligibility, you instead need to submit a “petition of reconsideration” to the USPC.<sup>1178</sup>

STEP 2: Use the proper form (Parole Form I-22)<sup>1179</sup> and file your written appeal within 30 days from the date of entry of the decision that you are appealing. If you don’t file within 30 days of the decision, you lose your right to challenge/appeal it.

OTHER REQUIREMENTS OF YOUR APPEAL:

1. The appeal must include an opening paragraph that briefly summarizes the legal grounds for the appeal.
2. You should then list each ground separately and clearly explain the reasons or facts that support each ground.

If you’re appeal doesn’t meet these requirements, the USPC may return it to you, in which case have 30 additional days from the date the appeal is returned to submit an appeal that meets the above requirements.

LEGAL GROUNDS FOR YOUR APPEAL CAN INCLUDE:

- 1) That the guidelines were wrongly applied in your:
  - a) Severity rating;
  - b) Salient factor score;
  - c) Time in custody;
- 2) That a decision outside the guidelines was not supported by the reasons or facts as stated;
- 3) That especially mitigating circumstances (for example, facts relating to the severity of the offense or your probability of success on parole) justify a different decision;
- 4) That a decision was based on wrong information, and the correct facts justify a different decision;
- 5) That the USPC did not follow correct procedure in deciding the case, and a different decision would have resulted if it would have followed the right procedure;
- 6) There was important information that you did not know at the time of the hearing;
- 7) There are compelling reasons why a more lenient decision should be given on grounds of compassion.<sup>1180</sup>

Federal Parole: Revocation Hearings

YOUR RIGHTS DURING A FEDERAL PAROLE REVOCATION HEARING

The purpose is to determine whether you have violated the conditions of your release and, if so, whether your parole or mandatory release should be (1) revoked (taken away) or (2) reinstated (where you continue on parole as you were).<sup>1181</sup>

Know Your Rights!

- 1) Present Evidence: You may present evidence at the hearing. However, the presiding hearing officer or examiner panel may limit or exclude any irrelevant or repetitive statements or evidence.
  - a) The hearing officer or examiner must disclose all evidence being used to make the revocation decision before or during the revocation hearing. The Hearing Officer will let you examine the document during the hearing, or where appropriate, read and summarize the document for you.
- 2) Present Witnesses: You may present witnesses at the revocation hearing. At a local revocation hearing only, the USPC may upon your request or on its own motion, ask people to attend who can give statements that will help inform the decision of whether or not to revoke your federal parole.<sup>1182</sup>
  - a) You have the right to question and cross-examine those witnesses, and be present for this, unless the presiding hearing officer or examiner panel finds good cause for you to not be there.
- 3) Ask for an attorney: You have the right to an attorney. You do not have a constitutional right to have an attorney at your parole revocation hearing, but you will most likely qualify for an attorney if you cannot afford one.<sup>1183</sup>
- 4) Appeals: You may appeal a revocation decision.<sup>1184</sup>

If you agree to the decision, the Commission may make a revocation decision without a hearing if:

- 1) The alleged violation would be graded no higher than Category Two under the guidelines at § 2.20;
- 2) The alleged violation is in any category under the guidelines at § 2.20 and the decision imposes the maximum sanction authorized by law; OR
- 3) You have already served sufficient time in custody for the violation, but that forfeiture of time on parole is necessary to provide an adequate period of supervision.<sup>1185</sup>

- Bay Area Legal Incubator (BALI), is a collaboration between the Alameda County Bar Association and five Bay Area law schools. It's an accelerator to help new attorneys get up and running with legal practices in which they are committed to providing affordable legal services. They practice in a wide range of areas including post-conviction relief and parole hearings. Many of them are willing to take cases throughout the state.

The best way to submit an inquiry is via their website: <https://www.bayarealegalincubator.org/>

If you are currently incarcerated, you can have a loved one reach out on your behalf. Just make sure that they make it clear in the website form that they are submitting the inquiry for you and include a note about how best to follow up with you.

APPENDIX MM

Excerpt from Human Rights Watch's "Youth Offender Parole Guide"— Checklist to Determine Who is Eligible for a Youth Offender Parole Hearing under SB 260 & SB 261

WHO is eligible for a Youth Offender Parole Hearing?

If you can check each of these boxes as true for you, you are eligible. PC 3051(h)

- I was under 26 (meaning, age 25 or younger) at the time my crime occurred.
  - It doesn't matter when you were arrested, convicted, or came to prison.
  - What matters is whether you were under 26, when the crime happened.
  - You must have been UNDER the age of 26 – if you were 26 when the crime occurred, you are not eligible.
- I do NOT have an LWOP (life without parole) sentence for a crime committed when I was age 18 or older. (PC 190.5).
  - If you had LWOP, but were resentenced under another law, you are eligible.
  - If you were under age 18 (meaning, age 17 or younger) at the time of the crime and got LWOP, you are eligible for a youth offender parole hearing during your 25th year of incarceration.
- I do NOT have a "One Strike" life sentence for certain sex offenses (PC 667.61).
- I do NOT have a "second-strike" sentence or a "third-strike" sentence based on a prior serious or violent felony. (PC 667(b-i) or 1170.12).
  - You are disqualified ONLY IF you were specifically sentenced under PC 667 (b-i) or PC 1170.12. If you have prior felonies that were eligible for strikes, but you were not sentenced under 667(b-i) or 1170.12, you are still eligible.
  - If you had a sentence under PC 667 (b-i) or PC 1170.12, but then you were resentenced to something different, you are eligible.
  - You should talk to an attorney if you are disqualified for this reason.
- AFTER I turned 26, I did NOT commit a crime for which I was convicted for which I got a life sentence ("L").
  - A 115 or other CDCR write-up is not a conviction. You are disqualified for this reason only if you went to court and were convicted and sentenced to a life sentence.
- AFTER I turned 26, I did NOT commit a crime for which I was convicted that has "malice aforethought" as a necessary element. This includes, but is not limited to, the following crimes:
  - Murder in the first degree or second degree (PC 187)
  - Attempted murder (PC 664/187), conspiracy to commit murder (PC 182/187), solicitation to commit murder (PC 653f(b))
  - Assault with a deadly weapon or assault that is likely to produce great bodily injury committed while you are serving a life sentence (PC 4500)
  - A 115 or other CDCR write-up is not a conviction. You are disqualified for this reason only if you went to court and were convicted for one of these crimes.

IMPORTANT: If you were age 25 or younger at the time of the crime, but have a sentence or new crime that disqualifies you, the Youth Offender Parole law will not change the date of your parole hearing. PC 3051(h). However, when you do have a parole hearing, the Board should give "great weight" to your youthfulness at the time of the crime. PC 4801. You should talk to your attorney about this before your hearing.

HOUSING

Housing is one of the most immediate and important parts of a strong reentry. In the HOUSING CHAPTER, you will learn more about your housing options and legal rights; what kind of housing you can and cannot get into because of your criminal record; and things you can do if your legal rights are violated.

DISCLAIMER - YOUR RESPONSIBILITY WHEN USING THIS GUIDE: When putting together the Roadmap to Reentry: A California Legal Guide, we did our best to give you useful and accurate information because we know that people who are currently or formerly incarcerated often have difficulty getting legal information, and we cannot provide specific advice to every person who requests it. The laws change frequently and are subject to differing interpretations. We do not always have the resources to make changes to this material every time the law changes. If you use information from the Roadmap to Reentry legal guide, it is your responsibility to make sure whether the law has changed and applies to your situation. If you are incarcerated, most of the materials you need should be available in your institution's law library. The Roadmap to Reentry guide is not intending to give legal advice, but rather legal information. No attorney-client relationship is created by using any information in this guide. You should always consult your own attorney if you need legal advice specific to your situation.

WHAT WILL I LEARN IN THE HOUSING CHAPTER?

- Your housing options in reentry—both in the short-term and long-term
- The different between private and government-assisted housing, and how this affects your rights
- What kind of housing you can and cannot get because of your criminal record
- How to put your best foot forward in applying for housing
- Options for what you can do if you believe you were illegally denied housing

I. INTRODUCTION

This Chapter explains common housing issues and questions for people with criminal records and the friends and family who live with them. This section will give you information about:

1. Your housing options in reentry;
2. What kind of housing you can and cannot live in based on your criminal record;
3. How to put your best foot forward in applying for housing; and
4. What you can do if you believe you were illegally denied housing.

KEY TERMS IN THE HOUSING CHAPTER

Public Housing Authority (PHA)—a government organization that assists with the development and/or operation of housing for low-income individuals and families. There is a PHA in most counties across California.

Private Owner/Landlord—is the owner of a house or apartment that is rented or leased.

Owner of Government-Assisted Housing—is a private owner/landlord who receives some form of government assistance to make housing more affordable for certain categories of people.

Lease/Rental Agreement—is a legal document that explains the terms under which you are renting your housing.

Background Checks (“Tenant Reports”)— is the process of looking up and compiling criminal, commercial, and financial records of an individual.

Credit Report—is a detailed report of your credit history prepared by a credit bureau and used by a lender or homeowner to determine your creditworthiness; it includes your personal data (current and previous addresses, social security number, employment history), detailed account information (current balances, payment amounts, payment history), inquiries into your credit history, etc.

Eviction (“Unlawful Detainer”)—action by a landlord that forces you to leave the premises through a legal process, as for non-payment of rent.

II. LOOKING FOR & IDENTIFYING GOOD HOUSING OPTIONS

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- Some short-term options for housing
- Some long-term options for housing
- The difference between privately run & government-assisted housing
- Recommendations for finding government-assisted housing
- Recommendations for finding housing for people with special needs, such as women and children, domestic violence survivors, seniors, veterans, people recovering from addiction, and 290 sex offender registrants
- Your rights—and how they are different—if you are applying to privately run vs. government-assisted housing
- Your rights if you want to move in with friends and family
- How conditions of parole, probation, or other forms of supervision can affect where you can live and who you can live with after release
- How to challenge denials from housing—whether it’s private or government-assisted—based on your criminal record

WHAT ARE THE FIRST STEPS I SHOULD TAKE IN MY HOUSING SEARCH?

Here are the main types of housing you may consider after getting out of prison or jail:

1. Short-term housing (staying short-term with a family member or friend, staying in transitional housing, staying in a shelter or other emergency housing)
2. Long-term permanent housing (finding an apartment, moving in with family or friends permanently)
3. Special needs housing (which could be short- or long-term)
4. Government-assisted housing
5. Below we walk through some steps to help you figure out your housing plans.

STEP 1: SET UP SHORT-TERM HOUSING PLANS.

First, you should figure out what type of housing is right for you in the short term, and where you will be allowed to live by probation or parole (or which ever type of supervision you are on) when you first get out. See the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 125 to learn about how your rules (called “conditions”) of supervision affect where you can live after release. There is more information about different types of short-term housing beginning on PG. 343.

STEP 2: GET YOUR ID.

Most housing programs will require proof of who you are, your age, and any income you receive. (Go to the BUILDING BLOCKS OF REENTRY: ID & VOTING CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 22, to learn how to get various forms of identification documents.)

STEP 3: SET UP LONG-TERM HOUSING PLANS.

Later on, you can figure out what type of housing is right for you permanently—we call this “long-term housing.” You need to find housing that you can afford, that you are eligible for (meaning you meet the requirements to be accepted), and that meets your personal needs.

Long-term, permanent housing might mean living with family or friends; living in an affordable apartment or housing unit run by a Public Housing Authority (PHA) or a private landlord; or living in an assisted-living facility for people with special needs (like seniors, veterans, women and children, people with disabilities, or people escaping domestic violence, 290 sex offender registrants). There is more information about different types of short-term housing beginning on PG. 343. For more information on housing for special needs, see PG. 346.

HELPFUL TIPS AS YOU LOOK FOR HOUSING

- KNOW YOUR RIGHTS as a person with a criminal record before you apply for housing! Depending on who owns and runs the housing (private vs. government-assisted—see PG. 353), you will have different rights in the process.
- IT'S ALWAYS A GOOD IDEA TO FIND HELP, if you can. Find an attorney, advocate, case manager, friend or family member, or probation/parole officer who can help you find housing. It is very important to have support in this process and throughout reentry. There is a list of helpful community resources in the back of this guide on PG. 1137 if you want ideas about where to look for help.
- FINDING HOUSING IS TOUGH BUT NOT IMPOSSIBLE—be patient and keep looking!
- SOME OF YOUR OPTIONS. Depending on whether you are currently incarcerated or already out, affordability, eligibility, and whether you are looking for short-term or long-term housing, you will have different types of housing options available to you. As you move further into your reentry, these options are likely to change over time.

CAN I FIND HOUSING WHILE I AM STILL INCARCERATED?

Yes, it is possible. First, you may want to think about (1) what you need in the short-term vs. long-term; (2) how your parole or probation (or other type of supervision) affects where you can live; and (3) whether you want to look for private housing, government-assisted housing, or both. To help with this process, read about your housing options, starting on PG. 341.

There are additional considerations if you plan to move in with family or friends. You will want to ask them to find out everything possible about the guest policies where they live, and/or about adding someone to their apartment lease. If the housing your family or friend lives in receives any form of government assistance, they may also need to contact their local Public Housing Authority (PHA) to let them know they would like to add you to the household. A list of PHAs in California and their contact information can be found here: Appendix A, PG. 403 or online here: <http://www.hud.gov/offices/pih/pha/contacts/states/ca.cfm>. Learn more about moving in with family and friends beginning on PG. 385.

If you want to find transitional or emergency housing, generally you or a family member, friend or advocate will have to directly write or call the housing facility to ask about what the requirements are. For a list of transitional housing programs that may accept you while you are still incarcerated, see Appendix B, PG. 409.

WHAT ARE SOME STEPS I CAN TAKE IF I AM WORRIED ABOUT BECOMING HOMELESS?

An important step to avoid becoming homeless is to begin planning and identifying housing options while you're still incarcerated (see question above addressing this topic, PG. 342).

There are also agencies and nonprofits in the community working to help people find permanent housing and avoid/get out of homelessness. Here are some organizations that may be able to help:

- The Public Housing Authority (PHA) in your area: PHAs sometimes give preference to admitting homeless individuals into the Public Housing program or “Section 8” Housing Choice Vouchers. Visit the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) website to find public housing authorities in your area: <http://www.hud.gov/offices/pih/pha/contacts/index.cfm>
- Emergency shelters and assistance: HUD maintains a list of organizations throughout the country that provide emergency shelter and assistance to homeless individuals (visit the following website: <http://nhl.gov/homeless/hmlsagen.cfm>).
- The National Coalition for Homeless Veterans has an online list of organizations throughout the country that will assist homeless veterans on a variety of issues including housing (visit the following website: <http://www.nchv.org/network.cfm>).
- The National Coalition for the Homeless has links to databases related to for local service organizations, educating homeless children, transitional housing, drug and alcohol rehabilitation centers, and day shelters (visit the following website: <http://www.nationalhomeless.org/resources/index.html>).

WILL MY PAROLE OR PROBATION OFFICER HELP ME FIND SOMEWHERE TO LIVE?

It depends, but usually not. But it's always worth asking your supervising officer if they know of any housing resources!

STAY POSITIVE!

Finding housing can be an exhausting process, but don't give up. Reach out for help. There are resources listed throughout this chapter, and also a list of legal services providers on PG. 1127. You can call Root & Rebound (510-279-4662) if you have an emergency, and we may be able to refer you someone to help.

If you are on California state parole:

There is very little help for housing. In some counties, some parole officers may work with local boarding houses, hotels, or motels to find you a temporary place to stay.<sup>1186</sup> Additionally, there could be funding from the California Department of Corrections & Rehabilitation (CDCR) for you to stay a short amount of time in transitional housing (most of those programs are run by the CDCR's Division of Rehabilitative Programs, which you can read more online at: <http://www.cdcr.ca.gov/rehabilitation/what-we-do.html>).

You can also ask your correctional counselor (if you're incarcerated) or your parole officer (if you are living in the community) about what types of funding exists for transitional housing while you are on state parole. If your parole officer is unable to help you find short-term, transitional or emergency housing, you may try going to an emergency shelter (see PG. 342.)

As a last resort, you may have to use your Gate Money (read more about Gate Money in the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER on PG. 150) to pay for a hotel or motel, until you find a more permanent living situation.

If you are on California county-level supervision like probation, PRCS, or mandatory supervision:

Ask your probation/supervising officer about what local programs are available. Ask if they can make referrals to affordable housing agencies or nonprofits that advocate for low-income people to find housing.

If you are on federal probation, supervised release, or federal parole:

Ask your federal Probation Officer for a list of affordable housing options in the area. Federal probation officers will not normally release you from a transitional ("halfway") house unless you have a plan for permanent housing. Also, read about some of your options for long-term housing on PG. 346 of this chapter.

WHAT ARE MY HOUSING OPTIONS AFTER RELEASE?

Again, there are many different housing options out there—transitional housing programs, emergency shelters, special needs housing, assisted-living housing, living with family or friends, private apartments and houses, and apartments and houses that get government money to make them more affordable for their residents. To make it easier to plan and prepare, we suggest thinking about your housing options in two categories: (1) short-term housing and (2) long-term/ permanent housing. Also, consider whether government-assisted housing makes sense in your situation.

WHY WOULD I APPLY TO GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

See PG. 354 to learn more about government assisted housing and the different rules that apply for them.

SHORT-TERM HOUSING OVERVIEW

When you are preparing for release or first get out of prison or jail, most of your housing options will be focused on short-term and transitional housing. Examples of short-term housing include: staying with a family member; staying with a friend; staying in a shelter (shelters usually offer a bed and shower for one or more nights, and sometimes offer other free services); and living in a transitional housing program.

STAYING WITH FAMILY OR FRIENDS

Here are some pros and cons to consider if you want to move in with family or friends.

PROS	CONS
If you have friends or family in the area, staying short-term with them can be an option for immediate housing. Friends and family can be supportive and useful in helping you successfully reenter the community. A few days or weeks on someone's couch or in their spare bedroom can give you enough time to go to get social services, start looking for jobs, and arrange for longer term housing. You will likely have greater independence in your life. It will be free or at a lower cost because you are splitting the rent.	If you are under supervision after your release, your housing will need to be approved by your probation/parole officer or supervising agency. Home visits by parole/probation officers, search conditions, and other restrictions don't just affect you; they also affect your host and other household members. (SEE CHAPTER ON PAROLE &amp; PROBATION, PG. 157). If you are a guest in someone's home or apartment, your stay could cause the family living there to violate the property's guest policy if you stay beyond the time limit allowed for guests and/or you violate some other rule in the property's guest policy (see more on PG. 388).

SHELTERS

Most shelters are free, and usually offer a bed and shower for one night or multiple nights, and sometimes services such as counseling and job-search assistance. While transitional and permanent housing options can take time to arrange, you can usually access a shelter immediately. Here are some of the main types of shelters that exist:

- 24-hour Shelters—24-hour shelters let you to stay at night and during the day and participate in the services the shelter offers (for example: meals, counseling, and job training, just to name a few). Don't let the name mislead you—a 24-hour shelter doesn't necessarily mean you have to leave after 24 hours: in the Bay Area, for example, many 24-hour shelters have beds available for up to 30-90 days; and other shelters reserve beds for people who are participating in special programs, like a required work-program. The key is that 24-hour shelters are open day and night. Ask the specific shelter you're interested in about any other requirements or restrictions it has.
- 12-hour Shelters—12-hour shelters let you stay for a 12-hour period overnight (usually 7:00 p.m. to 7:00 a.m.), but require you to leave in the morning.
- Day Shelters let you come and take advantage of their services during the day, but you can't stay overnight. Services at day shelters may include showers, meals, computer access, and optional programs like case management/support services and counseling sessions.
- Family Shelters have places to stay for you and the rest of your family. They tend to be 24-hour shelters (see the first type of shelter listed above).
- Domestic Violence Shelters take women (usually not men) who are trying to find safety from someone who is abusive. They usually have confidential addresses for the safety of the residents. Many domestic violence shelters also allow women to bring their children with them.

TRANSITIONAL HOUSING PROGRAMS

Transitional housing programs are temporary programs that offer housing and services. Keep in mind they usually have requirements you have to meet before you can move in, and there are usually waitlists.

Examples of transitional housing programs include: shared or private apartments, residential programs that allow for temporary stays (from 3 months to 2 years) at no cost or at a low cost, and sober living environments (SLE) (read more about SLEs on PG. 351). Some transitional housing programs also have services like job training, counseling, general education development (“GED”) programs, and computer classes. Some transitional housing programs are for people with specific needs such as mental health support, addiction treatment and recovery (see PG. 351), or safety from domestic violence (see PG. 348).

CAN I GET INTO A TRANSITIONAL HOUSING PROGRAM IF I AM STILL INCARCERATED?

It depends on the program. Unfortunately, most post-release transitional housing programs will not let you fill out an application or get on the waitlist before your release. A few let you apply from inside prison or jail, but may have other requirements or restrictions. Go to Appendix B on PG. 409 for a partial list of transitional housing options in California that may accept residents who write to them from inside prison or jail.

BUT NOTE: In recent years, the CDCR has introduced several pre-release transitional housing programs designed to let people to carry out the last part of their sentence in a controlled community setting. These are alternatives to traditional incarceration that typically provide for greater freedom. Participants remain under the CDCR's jurisdiction and control and are NOT on parole or other post-release supervision. In that sense, these programs are very different from the posts-release housing options discussed here. For more information on CDCR-sponsored pre-release programs see PG. 345.

WHAT MAY I NEED TO GET TO BE ACCEPTED INTO TRANSITIONAL HOUSING?

It depends—each program has different requirements. You might need: identification (learn how to get different types of identification in the BUILDING BLOCKS OF REENTRY: ID & VOTING, beginning on PG. 22); proof of homelessness; proof of any income; proof of your sobriety; police clearance; to get through the waitlist; to have an interview; etc. It's best to CALL (or if you're currently incarcerated, ask a family member or friend to call, or WRITE the program a letter with your request) to find out well in advance of when you want to move exactly what you need to do and what the requirements are!

HOW CAN I SHOW PROOF OF HOMELESSNESS

For proof of homelessness, most housing providers will just need a signed statement. If the housing provider asks for further documentation, you may need to show eviction papers, a letter from a social worker, etc. Some organizations will also issue certificates of homelessness, for example:

Coalition on Homelessness
488 Turk Street
San Francisco, CA
94102
Phone: (415) 346-3740
Certificates of Homelessness are issued Mondays and Wednesdays 10 a.m.-12 p.m.

SPECIAL NEEDS HOUSING—SHORT- OR LONG-TERM

There are also housing programs for people with specific needs such as sober living environments that offer addiction treatment and recovery, safety from domestic violence, assisted living for people with disabilities, housing programs for women with children, veterans, and 290 sex offender registrants. These are often transitional housing programs that are for a short term only; others are intended to be long-term/permanent housing for people with special needs. For more information on special needs housing, see PG. 346.

PRE-RELEASE TRANSITIONAL HOUSING PROGRAMS

The term “pre-release transitional housing” refers to a group of CDCR-sponsored programs that allow certain individuals to carry out the last part of their sentence living in a regulated community environment controlled by corrections. Such programs generally provide for greater freedom than is allowed in institutional settings. Individuals living in CDCR’s pre-release transitional housing are no longer incarcerated in the traditional sense, but remain under CDCR’s jurisdiction and control.

Each program has a different duration, application process, and set of eligibility criteria. However, all are voluntary - meaning you must submit an application to CDCR staff if you are interested in participating -and require that you have anywhere from a month to several years left in your sentence. Thus, if you’re currently incarcerated, you may wish to speak to a correctional counselor as soon as possible to find out which programs may be available to you.

WHAT TYPES OF PRE-RELEASE TRANSITIONAL HOUSING PROGRAMS DOES CDCR OFFER?

CDCR currently offers five pre-release housing programs:

1. The Male Community Reentry Program (MCRP)
2. The Custody to Community Transitional Reentry Program (CCTRP)
3. The Community Prison Mothers Program (CPMP)
4. The Female Community Reentry Facility (FCRF)
5. The Community Alternative Custody Program (ACP)

The details of each of these programs are summarized in Appendix C on PG. 411.

WHAT HAPPENS TO MY GOOD TIME CREDITS IF I SERVE THE LAST PART OF MY SENTENCE IN A TRANSITIONAL HOUSE PROGRAM?

In January 2010, California Governor Jerry Brown signed a law (SB X3-18) authorizing CDCR to reduce people’s length of incarceration if they reach certain rehabilitative program milestones—a reward known as “good time credits”. Because a person is still under CDCR custody at a pre-release transitional housing placement, any good time credits already earned should not change. In addition to applying the good time credits you have already earned toward a shorter sentence, you can continue earning credits while participating in CDCR’s pre-release transitional housing programs as well.

I’M A LIFER. CAN I PARTICIPATE IN CDCR’S PRE-RELEASE TRANSITIONAL HOUSING PROGRAMS?

Lifers are not able to participate in pre-release transitional housing programs right now. This is because placement in these programs requires a firm sense of your release date, and the current parole system makes it difficult to know a lifer’s release date in advance. The CDCR plans to roll out lifer-only transitional programs in 2017 that would closely mirror the programs described here.

ARE THERE WAITLISTS TO GET INTO THESE PROGRAMS?

As of the most recent publication of this resource, there are no waitlists to get into any pre-release transitional housing programs. However, this could change as these programs become more popular.

I HAVE CHILDREN. IF I PARTICIPATE IN THESE PROGRAMS, CAN THEY LIVE WITH ME?

The Community Prisoner Mother Program and Female Community Reentry Facility both allow children to live on site with their mothers. The Alternative Custody Program is individually tailored, but may allow children to live on site with their mothers OR fathers, or else facilitate regular visitation between parent and child. For more information, see the summaries in Appendix C on PG. 411.

SOME OF THESE PROGRAMS ARE GENDER-SPECIFIC. WHAT IF I IDENTIFY AS TRANSGENDER OR GENDER-VARIANT?

The CDCR has outlined its protocol for housing people who identify as trans* in Department Operations Manual (DOM) section 62080.14. If you feel your housing assignment does not match your gender identity, you must go through a diagnostic process with a doctor, then provide documentation of your diagnosis on CDCR Form 128-

C3. After you take these steps, a CDCR classification committee will review your case to determine the most appropriate institutional placement and housing assignment under the circumstances. You may also have to file a 602 grievance if you feel your housing needs are not being met. For more information on the 602 grievance process, see PG. 178.

Although the Department Operations Manual does not specifically address transitional housing placement for trans* and gender-variant people, a representative from TGI Justice Project, which advocates for currently and formerly incarcerated people who identify as transgender, gender variant, or intersex, noted that many reentry programs are not trans-friendly. If you are interested in joining a transitional housing program but have questions or concerns based on your gender identity, please contact the free Root & Rebound Reentry Legal Hotline at 510-279-4662, which operates every Friday from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

You can also contact the following trans* advocacy organizations. They may have more information about other potential solutions:

TJI Justice Project
370 Turk Street, #370
San Francisco, CA 94102

Trangender Law Center
P.O. Box 70976
Oakland, CA 94612-0976
Collect line: 510-380-8229

LONG-TERM HOUSING OVERVIEW

Later in your reentry, often after your stay at a short-term or transitional housing program is coming to a close, you will need to figure out what type of housing is right for you permanently. As you consider long-term and permanent housing options, you need to find housing that you can afford, that you are eligible for, and that meets your needs.

PERMANENT HOUSING

Permanent housing is a place that you can live in for multiple years. Examples of permanent housing include: apartments and homes that get money/assistance the federal government—though these often have long waitlists and require you to have somewhere else to live first; single-room occupancy (SRO) units where you usually have a private bedroom and bathroom, but a shared kitchen and living space; affordable apartments; and living permanently with family, friends, or other people who support you. For general tips for renters, see PG. 396 of this chapter.

SPECIAL NEEDS HOUSING—SHORT- OR LONG-TERM

Again, as mentioned under short-term housing options, there are special housing programs and units for people with specific needs such as addiction treatment and recovery, safety from domestic violence, assisted living for people with disabilities or mental health needs, housing programs for women with children, veterans, and 290 sex offender registrants. These are often transitional housing programs that are for a short term only; but others are intended to be a long-term, permanent housing solution for people with special needs. See below for more details.

HOUSING FOR SPECIAL NEEDS & POPULATIONS

This section provides a brief overview of housing resources for people in reentry with special needs and who might qualify for special programs, including:

1. Women & Children (PG. 347)
2. Domestic Violence Survivors (PG. 348)
3. Seniors/ Elders (PG. 350)
4. Veterans (PG. 350)
5. People Recovering from Substance Abuse/ Addiction (PG. 351)
6. 290 Sex Offender Registrants (PG. 352)

WOMEN & CHILDREN

There are some special housing programs available only for women and their children. These programs may have other requirements (for example, that you are currently on supervision, participating in a substance abuse recovery program, etc.), and they may require a referral from CDCR or another agency.

Since there are very few of these programs and they have limited in space, you should contact the program and/or talk to your correctional counselor as soon as possible about contacting the housing program, finding out if you meet the eligibility requirements to participate, and how to get added to the waitlist if there is one.

Below are a few programs in different areas of California for reentering women and children. Please Note: This is not a complete list.

- Centerforce MOMS Program at Santa Rita Jail (in Alameda County, CA):
Website: <http://www.centerforce.org/programs/moms-maximizing-opportunities-for-mothers-to-succeed/>
Address: PO Box 415, San Quentin, CA 94964
Phone: (415) 456-9980

The MOMS program is located inside Alameda County's Santa Rita County Jail. It includes an 8-week, in-custody parenting program AND a post-release case management for up to one year, including services, alumni groups, and some limited transitional housing. The program supports mothers in Santa Rita Jail during and after their incarceration. Mothers incarcerated in Santa Rita Jail who have not been convicted of violent offenses or sex offense may participate in the MOMS program.

- CAMEO House (San Francisco, CA):
Website: <http://www.cjcj.org/Direct-services/Cameo-House.html>
Address: 424 Guerrero St., San Francisco, CA 94110
Phone:(415) 703-0600

CAMEO House provides transitional housing in San Francisco for formerly incarcerated mothers with children. In addition to housing, the program provides supportive services to address a range of issues, including substance abuse, unemployment, mental health as well as help with family reunification. CJCJ's staff helps residents obtain stable housing and gainful employment within six months of their placement, although residents may remain for up to two years. The transitional housing unit includes access to communal living areas, fully equipped kitchens, bathroom facilities, and an enclosed yard area. CJCJ staffs the residence 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. CJCJ provides help to women with substance abuse issues, women with histories of domestic violence, women who have been clean for at least 6 months, women with children up to age 6, women who are pregnant at least 6 months, women who have been previously incarcerated in jail or prison, women who are homeless with some criminal justice involvement, women on parole, women on probation, women referred by Child Protective Services and women referred by the court.

- Providence Place (San Diego, CA):
Website: <https://nicic.gov/wodp/program/80-providence-place>

Phone: (619) 667-5287

Providence Place is a residential substance abuse treatment program that serves women on parole or community supervision and their dependent children. In addition to housing, Providence Place provides substance abuse treatment; comprehensive case management and family reunification services; a parenting center focused on child development, parenting skills and family therapy; specialized support groups to address grief and loss, self esteem, trauma, and other needs; and employment development services. The program is available to women on active parole/post release community supervision and their minor children (typically up to the age of 12). All participants receive referrals, authorization and funding through CDCR.

Website: <http://www.freetatlast.org/services.html>
Address: 1796 Bay Road, East Palo Alto, CA 94303
Phone: (650) 462-6999

Free At Last offers several housing options for women with children, including:

- The Residential Treatment Program for Women and Women with Children provides 7-9 months of residential treatment for women and women with children. To graduate, clients must complete treatment goals, secure housing and have a job or be enrolled in job training.
- The Transitional Clean and Sober Living program provides shared supportive housing for men, women, and women with children.

DID YOU KNOW?

70-80% of women incarcerated in California prisons are mothers, and the majority were the primary caretakers of their children before going to prison. See Barbara Bloom, The Impact of California's Parole Policies on Women, Testimony Before the Little Hoover Commission (April 22, 2004).

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE SURVIVORS

If your conviction was related to the domestic violence that you experienced, this is mitigating evidence that helps to explain your criminal record. IF YOU FEEL SAFE DOING SO, you may want to explain the violent situation you were in at the time of your criminal conduct to a housing provider who is considering your criminal record, so that you are not penalized in your application.<sup>1187</sup>

Below are a few resources that may help you to find housing:

➤ DOMESTIC VIOLENCE SHELTERS & TRANSITIONAL HOUSING

There are more than 100 shelter-based domestic violence programs throughout California. Many of these programs offer both:

1. Emergency shelters (typical stay = 30-60 days), AND
2. Transitional housing programs (typical stay = 6-18 months)

In addition to providing shelter to survivors, both types of programs often provide services such as 24-hour hotlines, legal assistance with restraining orders and child-custody disputes, advocates who can go to court appearances to support you, counseling for you and your children, and referrals to other social services.

Most emergency and homeless shelters for survivors do not conduct criminal background checks (although they are permitted to do so, as long as they follow all of the background check rules on PG. 377). In addition, most shelters are aware that survivors often face criminal charges and/or arrest warrants in connection with the violence that they've experienced. Many shelters have relationships with local law enforcement, and can accommodate survivors who are under supervision (like probation, parole, etc.).

HELPFUL HINTS & RESOURCES

You should keep in mind that each shelter is different, so the rules and opportunities may not be the same everywhere. There may also be some variation from county to county.<sup>1188</sup>

To find a domestic violence shelter or transitional housing program in your area, contact the National Domestic Violence Hotline at 1-800-799-SAFE (7233) or call 211. You will have to contact each shelter or program separately to find out if you met their specific criteria.

A list of resources by county in CA for people experiencing DV is also available online at:

- California Dept. of Public Health: http://www.cdph.ca.gov/HealthInfo/injviosaf/Documents/\_California.pdf
- California Partnership to End Domestic Violence: <http://www.cpedv.org/Resources%20A%20K>

➤ GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING FOR DOMESTIC VIOLENCE SURVIVORS

Read an overview of government-assisted housing and why it could be right for you on PG. 354; read details about bans on people with certain convictions and criminal histories on PG. 360.

First, the following federal government-assisted housing programs do not have any mandatory criminal record restrictions, and may be available to survivors of domestic violence:

- Supportive Housing Program for the Homeless
- Shelter Plus Care (for homeless people with disabilities)
- Housing Opportunities for Persons with AIDS (HOPWA)
- Low-Income Housing Tax Credit (LIHTC)<sup>1189</sup>

STARTING IN A SHELTER

Starting off in an emergency shelter may help you to find transitional or permanent housing and/or access other services afterward. While some run background checks and have record-related restrictions, if you are living at a domestic violence shelter, the staff may be able to write a letter or provide a referral to a transitional housing program, which can help explain your situation and get around their restrictions.

WHO DOES THE GOVERNMENT CONSIDER TO BE "HOMELESS"?

The federal government's definition of "homeless" includes people who are escaping situations of domestic violence and have no other housing or resources available. If you are escaping domestic violence, you may be eligible for a government-assisted housing program for "homeless" people.

Second, for other government-assisted housing programs that do have restrictions based on criminal records, domestic violence survivors are entitled to certain additional protections. The Violence Against Women Act (VAWA) states that Public Housing Authorities (PHAs) cannot deny or end your housing because of the domestic violence that you experienced or because of a criminal conviction that is directly related to the domestic violence you experienced.<sup>1190</sup> This means if a PHA denies your housing application based on conduct or a past conviction related to the domestic violence you've experienced, you should immediately challenge the denial and ask the PHA for an informal review hearing. At that hearing, you can explain how the conduct or conviction is related to your experience of domestic violence.<sup>1191</sup> Go to PG. 364 to learn how to challenging denials to government-assisted housing.

➤ CALWORKS

If you are eligible for CalWORKS and you are homeless, you can apply to the Homeless Assistance Program (HAP) through your local county social service agency.<sup>1192</sup> Your family could receive temporary shelter in a hotel or motel for up to 16 consecutive days, financial help to move into permanent housing (such as last month's rent, security and utility deposits, etc.), and 2 months of back-owed rent to prevent an eviction. Additional services such as counseling referrals are available for domestic violence survivors. For more information on CalWORKS eligibility, go to the PUBLIC BENEFITS CHAPTER, PG. 449.

➤ CA'S VICTIM COMPENSATION PROGRAM RELOCATION ASSISTANCE

The California Victim Compensation Program (VCP) can provide victims of violent crime—including domestic violence survivors—up to $2,000 per household for relocation expenses, such as first and last month's rent, security and utility deposits, temporary housing, moving vans, and emergency food and clothing.<sup>1193</sup>

Please note that the expenses must be determined necessary for your personal safety or emotional wellbeing, by a law enforcement officer or licensed mental health provider. You will need to provide verification (a signed letter or other documentation from a law enforcement agent or mental health provider). You may also have to agree to other restrictions, such as not telling the person who committed the violence near your new location, not allowing him/her on the property, and seeking a restraining order against him/her.

VERY IMPORTANT: The VCP also has certain restrictions on people with criminal records. You may not be eligible if any of the following apply to you:<sup>1194</sup>

- You committed the crime;
- You knowingly and willingly participated in or were involved in the events leading to the crime, though some exceptions may be considered.
- You did not cooperate reasonably with law enforcement in apprehending and convicting the person who committed the crime, though some exceptions may be considered.
- ALSO: If you have been convicted of a felony, you cannot get compensation until you have been released from custody, discharged from probation or parole, and 3 years have passed since the crime occurred. However, you may be able to get your felony reduced to a misdemeanor, which could lessen these restrictions. For more information, see the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 931.

<sup>1190</sup> Violence Against Women Act of 2013, 42 U.S.C. § 41411(b) (2013); 24 C.F.R §§ 982.553(e), 5.2005(c), 5.2001 et seq. Under VAWA, a public or subsidized housing provider can only evict you based on the domestic violence you've experienced if it proves that your tenancy creates an "actual and imminent threat" to other residents or staff. VAWA's protections apply to public housing, Section 8 vouchers and project-based assistance, Section 202, and Section 811 housing.

<sup>1194</sup> The California Victim Compensation Program, FAQ—Eligibility, <http://www.vcgcb.ca.gov/victims/faq/eligibility.aspx#Not>. The exceptions (for participation or involvement in the events leading to the crime, and cooperation with law enforcement) are especially important for survivors of domestic violence, since many survivors may have criminal records related to the violence they've experienced, or may be afraid to cooperate with law enforcement out of fear of further violence or to protect an abusive partner from conviction, incarceration, deportation, etc.

SENIORS/ELDERS

Although there are very few housing programs created just for senior citizens in reentry, you may be eligible for housing based on your disability (see PG. 419), your low income (see PG. 354), or qualify for different types of transitional housing (see PG. 344).

One program for seniors in reentry is the Senior Ex-Offender Program (SEOP) at the Bayview-Hunters Point Senior Center in San Francisco, CA. It currently provides temporary and transitional housing and is developing a permanent housing facility for the future.<sup>1195</sup> Other transitional housing programs for seniors—particularly low-income housing, homelessness prevention, and sober or residential treatment programs for seniors—may be more likely to admit seniors with criminal records because the conviction was long ago or you have physical or health needs that give you priority for the housing (it may help to mention these factors if the housing provider raises your record as an issue).

VETERANS

The U.S. Department of Veteran Affairs (VA) offers various housing programs for veterans. If you are currently incarcerated—whether in a state or federal facility—a “VA Reentry Specialist” is supposed to arrange a meeting with you about your goals to determine the resources available to best meet your needs after release.

What is a VA Reentry Specialist and how can I contact one to help me find housing?

Every region of the U.S. has a VA Reentry Specialist who can help determine your eligibility for VA benefits, help you enroll in the VA, and connect you with local housing and services. VA Reentry Specialists have relationships with both state and federal correctional facilities to help incarcerated veterans plan and prepare for release.<sup>1196</sup>

If you already met with the VA Reentry Specialist and received instructions for housing, you should continue with those arrangements. If you are starting from scratch, the VA’s Health Care for Homeless Veteran program can help you find housing in your area. You should visit your local VA, if possible, or call the National Call Center for Homeless Veterans hotline available 24/7 at 1-877-4-AID-VET (424-3838). There you will find a VA counselor available to help you.

➤ YOUR VA HOUSING OPTIONS INCLUDE THE FOLLOWING PROGRAMS:

HELPFUL RESOURCES

- To learn more about preparing for release as a veteran, go to the VA website: http://www.va.gov/HOMELESS/docs/Reentry/09\_ca.pdf.
- AFTER YOU ARE RELEASE, you can visit this website to find your local VA: <http://www.cacvso.org/county-contacts/>.

HEALTH CARE FOR HOMELESS VETERANS CONTRACTS (HCHV) -

The HCHV program provides emergency housing, shelters, and treatment to veterans enrolled in VA Healthcare, through local community organizations and service providers. These local community organizations and service providers may offer outreach, exams, treatment, referrals, and case management to veterans who are homeless and dealing with mental health issues.<sup>1197</sup>

- For information about the HCHV program, please visit: <http://www.va.gov/homeless/hchv.asp>

A NOTE ABOUT REQUESTING REASONABLE ACCOMMODATIONS IF YOU HAVE A DISABILITY:

If you have a mental, physical, or developmental disability, and you must follow parole, probation, or community supervision conditions that restrict where you can live, you have the right to receive reasonable accommodations for your disability at your residence. To learn how to request an accommodation for your disability from your supervision, go to the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER of this guide, PG. 125. For help, you may also want to contact a legal aid provider for people with disabilities, listed on PG. 1127, or call Root & Rebound (510-279-4662) for a referral or further assistance.

SUPPORTIVE SERVICES FOR VETERAN FAMILIES GRANTS (SSVF) -

Local non-profit organizations receive funding from the VA to assist low-income veterans (and their families) who are homeless or at risk of homelessness. SSVF programs can help you transition to permanent housing, along with case management and assistance with getting other benefits and services.<sup>1198</sup>

For a list of current SSVF providers, please visit the following website: <http://www.va.gov/homeless/ssvf.asp>

HELPFUL HINT

Connecting with legal services providers through an SSVF program:

Participating SSVF programs may provide or may contract with local legal aid organizations to provide Veterans with legal services. (Veterans ineligible for VA Enrollment may be eligible to receive SSVF assistance if available. Inquire at your VA if this option is an option for you).

VA SUPPORTIVE HOUSING (HUD-VASH) PROGRAM -

HUD-VASH is a joint effort between HUD (US Department of Housing and Urban Development) and VA to move veterans and their families out of homelessness and into permanent housing. HUD provides Section 8 vouchers to eligible veterans, and the VA offers eligible homeless veterans clinical and supportive services through its health care system.

Veterans applying for Section 8 Housing Vouchers through the HUD-VASH program are subject to most Section 8 Housing eligibility rules (for example, your income).<sup>1199</sup>

THERE IS AN IMPORTANT EXCEPTION TO CRIMINAL RECORD BANS IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING FOR VETERANS:

HUD-VASH applicants are not subject to most Section 8 regulations regarding criminal and/or drug-related history. This means that Public Housing Authorities (PHAs) cannot deny Section 8 housing to HUD-VASH applicants based off the applicant's prior drug activity or criminal record (unless you or someone in your household is subject to a lifetime sex offender registration—know as “290 registration” in California—in which case the PHA can still deny you and your household from Section 8 housing programs).<sup>1200</sup>

MENTAL HEALTH RESIDENTIAL REHABILITATION AND TREATMENT (MH RRTP) PROGRAMS—

MH RRTP provide residential rehabilitation and treatment services for veterans with multiple and severe medical conditions, mental illness, addiction, or psychosocial deficits.<sup>1201</sup> MH RRTP programs promote rehabilitation, recovery, health maintenance, improved quality of life, and community integration, in addition to treatment of medical conditions, mental illnesses, addictive disorders, and homelessness. The residential program helps veterans to develop a lifestyle self-care, personal responsibility, and medical health.<sup>1202</sup>

- For more information about MH RRTP and other residential VA programs, please visit the following website: <https://www.calvet.ca.gov/VetHomes>
- Please note: VA Housing providers are required to verify you are free of Tuberculosis (Tb). If you have had a Tb test within the past year, you should request a copy of the results before your release from incarceration. If you do not have a recent Tb clearance, request the test so you can have this document available.

SUBSTANCE ABUSE TREATMENT & RECOVERY HOUSING (ALSO CALLED “SOBER LIVING ENVIRONMENTS”)

If you suffer from past addiction or alcoholism, you may be eligible for special housing and/or funding programs that provide residential treatment for substance abuse. These are also called “Sober Living Environments” (SLEs). More information about funding and these residential facilities can be found on CDCR's website here: <http://www.cdcr.ca.gov/rehabilitation/substance-abuse-services-coordination-agencies.html>.

- FUNDING: If you are on state parole, you may be eligible for temporary funding through CDCR’s Substance Abuse Service Coordination Agencies (SASCA) funding or another source.<sup>1203</sup> SASCA funding is generally limited to 6 months of assistance. Ask your state parole officer for more information.
- SPECIAL HOUSING: There are transitional housing programs that focus on substance abuse treatment and/or sober living conditions for people with former addictions. They may also take SASCA funding. Be aware that many of these programs are only available for short- or medium-term stays.

My conviction was for past drug or alcohol use. Is past addiction considered a legally protected disability?

Yes. Past (BUT NOT CURRENT) drug addiction and alcoholism are considered disabilities under state and federal law. This means you may have the right to request reasonable accommodations for your disability.<sup>1204</sup>

Reasonable accommodations might include an extended curfew so that you can attend treatment or AA/NA programs, permission to take methadone if prescribed by your doctor, or access to special rehabilitative services. Moreover, a landlord may not deny you housing or discriminate against you based on your past addiction or alcoholism.

For more information on housing protections for people with addiction-based disabilities, including what information a landlord CAN and CANNOT ask or consider, the following guide may be helpful: Fair Housing for People with Disabilities, by Mental Health Advocacy Services, Inc., pages 18-20, available online at: <http://www.mhas-la.org/FH%20Manual%20rev.4-07.pdf>.

For more information on asking for reasonable accommodations—where you could ask a landlord to make an exception to their policy banning former addicts from housing (since past addiction is a protected disability), go to Appendix E, PG. 419.

290 SEX OFFENDER REGISTRANTS & RESIDENCY RESTRICTIONS

IMPORTANT: In the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER of this guide, there is much more information about residency restrictions and other location-based restrictions for people required to register for sex offenses under California Penal Code section 290. Go to PG. 163 to learn more.

AS A BRIEF SUMMARY: In 2015, there were important changes in the law governing residency restriction for 290 registrants. Up until March 2015, as a result of Proposition 83 (“Jessica’s Law”), there were strict residency restrictions on people on parole who were required to register as sex offenders. If this law applied to you, you could not reside within 2,000 feet of any school or park where children regularly gather.<sup>1205</sup>

In March 2015, the California Supreme Court declared that the blanket residency restriction for all sex offenders required to register under California Penal Code section 290 is illegal. Now CDCR can place special restrictions on 290 registrants in the form of discretionary (decided specifically for you) parole conditions. These conditions can require more or less than Jessica’s law, but they must be based on facts surrounding each individual parolee’s case.<sup>1206</sup> The CDCR may also be able to impose other residency restrictions as special conditions of parole in individual cases based on specific case factors.<sup>1207</sup>

IMPORTANT DEFINITIONS TO KNOW FOR PEOPLE CONVICTED OF SEX OFFENSES:

“DISTANCE” is measured by a straight line between the main entrance of the residence and the boundary of the nearest park or school, not the driving or walking distance. 15 CAL. CODE REGS. § 3571(e)(4).

“RESIDENCE” is any place where:

- You spend 1 day or night at the same address every week for multiple consecutive weeks;
- You spend 2 or more days or nights in a row living at the same address;
- You have a key to the address “and there is a pattern of residency”; or

The parole agent finds evidence of your residency such your clothes or toiletries. 15 CAL. CODE REGS. § 3590(a).

<sup>1204</sup> Americans with Disabilities Act, 42 U.S.C. §§ 126, 12112(b)(5)(A); 29 C.F.R. §§ 1630.9, 1630.10, 1630.15(b), (c). However, current illegal drug use is not considered a disability and does not provide any legal protection against discrimination. A landlord may deny or terminate your housing based on current drug use, even if you are also previously or currently addicted.

<sup>1205</sup> CAL. PENAL CODE § 3003.5(b). This rule applied to any sex offender released on parole on or after November 8, 2006, even if the most recent term was for a non-sex offense or the parolee was initially released before November 8, 2006, and later re-released after a parole revocation. In re E.J., 47 Cal.4th 1258 (2010). However, the residency restrictions could not be applied to people who were both convicted and released from custody prior to November 8, 2006. Doe v. Schwarzenegger, 476 F. Supp. 2d 1178 (E.D. Cal. 2007).

<sup>1207</sup> For example, parolees convicted of violating Penal Code Sections 288 or 288.5 cannot live within one half-mile (2,640 feet) of a K-12 school if they are deemed “high risk” by CDCR. CAL. PENAL CODE § 3003(g). Also, a sex offender parolee cannot live in a single family

PRIVATE VS. GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING: AN OVERVIEW

It is very important that you understand the difference between private and government-assisted housing, because depending on what type of housing you live in will affect your rights. There are very specific legal requirements for how a government-assisted housing provider can access, look at, and consider your criminal record, and different requirements for what a private landlord can access, look at, and consider.

IMPORTANT NOTE ABOUT THE TERMS USED IN THE HOUSING CHAPTER: We use the term “government-assisted” housing throughout this Chapter to refer to housing programs and owners of housing that receive money from the federal government. We do not use “public housing” to talk about any and all housing that gets government money because there is actually a specific program run by the government called the “Public Housing” program. So when we use the term “Public Housing,” we are referring to the specific Public Housing program, NOT all housing that receives government support.

HOW CAN I FIGURE OUT IF I AM APPLYING TO/LIVING IN PRIVATE OR GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

- Did you apply for the housing through a PHA? If yes, the rules and criminal record exclusions that apply to federal government-assisted housing apply to you.
- Do you have a “Section 8” Housing Choice Voucher? If yes, the rules and criminal record exclusions that apply to federal government-assisted housing apply to you.
- Look up the property online at: <http://www.hud.gov/apps/section8/index.cfm>. If you still don’t know, ask the OWNER of the property.

Sometimes it’s clear that you live in government-assisted housing because you had to apply for the housing unit or program through a local Public Housing Authority (PHA) or your landlord is the PHA itself. Other times, it’s unclear that you live in government-assisted housing because the owner gets a special benefit directly from the government, and you didn’t know it. The hints above will help you figure out if you are living in government-assisted housing, but you can also ask the owner (the landlord) of the property.

PRIVATE HOUSING: THE BASICS

This is a large category of housing that is owned and run by private landlords (NOT the government). Private housing could be an apartment, house, shelter, month-to-month lease, or year-to-year lease. It could be owned by a single owner or by a large property management company where you only interact with the housing managers and not the owner(s) themselves.

WHY WOULD I BE INTERESTED IN LIVING IN PRIVATE HOUSING?

Private housing tends to have fewer legal barriers for people with records—instead, the landlord (owner) has more discretion and decision-making power about their background screening policies (learn more about illegal discrimination in housing on the basis of criminal records on PG. 357).

HOW CAN I FIND PRIVATE HOUSING?

There are many different ways to find private housing, like an apartment owned by a private landlord. But it is no easy task, especially when your housing needs to be approved by parole or probation, you have special rules to follow in reentry, there is a lack of affordable housing, and discrimination you might be up against. It is important to find support in the housing search!

Websites like craigslist.com are good places to start—you can search by location, type of housing or apartment, and budget. You can also ask for suggestions from family, friends, or other formerly incarcerated people and mentors who have figured out long-term housing options. Finally, there are some transitional housing programs and reentry programs that provide housing to people with records. You can also search on Google.com for “reentry housing in California” - we found some helpful tips at the following website: <https://www.jobsforfelonshub.com/housing-for-felons/california/>.

WHO IS MY LANDLORD IF I LIVE IN PRIVATE HOUSING?

Your landlord whoever owns the property. The owner could be a single person, a small group of people, or a large management company with many owner or shareholders. If you are renting a private apartment, look at your lease to find the name and contact information for the property’s owner.

house with another person who is also a sex offender, unless they are related by blood, marriage, or adoption. CAL. PENAL CODE § 3003.5(a).

...VERSUS...

GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING: THE BASICS

If you are a low-income person or household and you are looking for affordable rental housing in your area, you may want to apply for government-assisted housing. The federal government funds most government-assisted housing programs. They have many rules about who can and can't live there, including a lot of rules about how a criminal record affects your ability to live there (read about those rules and exclusions on PG. 357). Government-assisted housing is designed for low-income people.

For some government-assisted housing programs, the government runs the housing facilities and EVERYTHING about the housing application process. For other federally assisted housing programs, the government works with private companies or private owners/landlords who run their own facilities and have their own separate application process from the government.

Government-assisted housing could be short-term, long-term, an apartment, a house, a shelter, or a transitional housing program with services.

WHY WOULD I BE INTERESTED IN LIVING IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

Government-assisted housing is a great option for many low-income people and households. While they have many rules about who can and cannot live there, it provides you with an opportunity to have affordable rental housing in your area. See PG. 354 below for the resources that can help you find government-assisted housing in your area. One major down-side is that government-assisted housing programs tend to have very long wait-lists, so it is good to sign up early and check back often.

HOW CAN I FIND GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

Try the following resources to find government-assisted housing:

1. YOUR LOCAL PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA), which runs some of the biggest government-assisted housing programs, including the Public Housing program and the Housing Choice Voucher program (commonly known as "Section 8" or the voucher program).
2. SEARCH ONLINE: To find your local PHA on the web, visit the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development's (HUD) website at: <http://www.hud.gov/offices/pih/pha/contacts/index.cfm>. Once at the website, select your state, then, look for your local PHA by the name of your city or county.
3. SEARCH IN THE PHONE BOOK: If you don't have a regular access to a computer, look in your phone book in the government or business sections for your local Public Housing Authority (PHA). Some areas have both city and county PHAs; others just have a city PHA. In the government section of the phone book, first look for the city, then look for "housing authority" or "housing department" (for example, the San Francisco Housing Authority, or the Oakland Housing Authority). Sometimes, the local PHA will be listed under the city's housing department.
4. OTHER GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING, NOT THROUGH YOUR LOCAL PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA):
  - a. PRIVATE AND NONPROFIT LANDLORDS operate other forms of government-assisted rental housing programs. The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) maintains a searchable list of these programs online here: <http://www.hud.gov/apps/section8/index.cfm>
  - b. LOW INCOME TAX CREDIT HOUSING is an affordable rental housing developed through the Internal Revenue Services' (IRS) Low Income Housing Tax Credit program (LIHTC). Typically, this housing does not serve extremely low-income households, but it is less expensive than similar private housing in the community. LIHTC housing is owned and operated by private owners and nonprofit agencies and is monitored in each state by a state agency. Frequently, but not always, that agency is the state housing finance agency. Some of these agencies may have lists of persons and organizations that operate LIHTC housing in your state. In CA, it's the California Tax Credit Allocation Committee that oversees LIHTC. Read more about these types of property at: <http://www.treasurer.ca.gov/ctcac/tax.asp>
  - c. RURAL HOUSING: The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) also funds government-assisted rental housing in rural areas throughout the United States and maintains a website that allows you to search for rural government-assisted rental housing here: http://rdmfhrentals.sc.egov.usda.gov/RDMFHRentals/select\_state.jsp

WHO IS MY LANDLORD IF I LIVE IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

It depends. If you live in PUBLIC HOUSING, the local Public Housing Authority (PHA)—run by your city or county—owns your entire building and is your landlord. In rare cases, a private company may manage the building for the PHA or may be part of the ownership, but the building is still controlled by the PHA. PHAs operate in almost every city and county in California.

If you live in OTHER TYPES OF FEDERAL GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING, the PHA is not your landlord. This includes all of the other types of government-assisted housing discussed on PG. 353 above. Even if you applied through the PHA, it will not be your landlord. Instead, your landlord will be a private owner who receives financial assistance from the federal government in exchange for renting to low-income people, or a private owner that accepts vouchers from low-income people who went through a PHA to get a reduction on their rent. Owners of government-assisted housing could be individual landlords, for-profit companies, or nonprofit organizations. You can get this type of government-assisted housing through VOUCHERS, where you get the assistance from a PHA and then have to find rental housing on the private market that will accept your voucher. OR you can get this type of government-assisted housing through “multifamily” properties where the owner gets the assistance and it stays with the property to keep it affordable for low-income tenants.

III. APPLYING FOR & GETTING INTO HOUSING

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- What it means to be eligible or ineligible for housing
- How your record might ban you from private housing
- How your record might ban you from government-assisted housing
- What types of bans are illegal and when
- When a landlord is allowed to deny you housing but does not have to

UNDERSTANDING HOUSING ELIGIBILITY

WHAT DOES IT MEAN TO BE “ELIGIBLE” FOR HOUSING?

To be eligible for housing means you meet specific criteria so that it is possible for you to be accepted into that housing if you apply. On the other hand, being ineligible for certain types of housing means there is something about you or your situation that automatically disqualifies you and prevents you from being accepted because of housing agency’s rules.

WHY IS IT IMPORTANT TO UNDERSTAND THE ELIGIBILITY RULES OF DIFFERENT TYPES OF HOUSING?

Knowing the rules and policies that different types of housing have for who can and cannot live there is important for you to understand whether or not you will want to apply, and what your chances are of being accepted. If you are eligible, that means you could be accepted into the housing; but if you are ineligible, something about you or your situation automatically disqualifies you from being accepted because of the rules of that housing agency or because of some law that bans you from living there. Keep in mind: it’s possible for your situation to change in a way that could also change your eligibility. Continue reading to learn more.

WHAT ARE SOME OF THE REASONS I COULD BE ELIGIBLE OR INELIGIBLE FOR A HOUSING PROGRAM?

You could be eligible or ineligible because of (1) your income, (2) your criminal record, and/or (3) some other specific factor.

(1) INCOME: How much money you make will be an important factor for certain types of housing. If you are low-income, it will help you in certain contexts. For example, housing that is subsidized (paid for partially or fully) by the government, you must be low-income—earning less than a certain amount of money per month—to be eligible. The income cutoff is different for different programs (read more below). But for most private housing, you must be earning more than a certain amount of money per month to be eligible. Landlords want proof of your income being a certain amount so they know you are able to pay rent.

(2) CRIMINAL RECORD: For almost all kinds of housing, specific kinds of criminal convictions may disqualify you from applying, or at least make it harder for you to get accepted as a tenant.

(3) OTHER SPECIFIC FACTORS: Some housing programs—especially those fully or partially funded by the government—are designed for certain specific groups of people. Your age, income level, disability status, veteran status, homeless status, gender, and whether you have children are just some of the factors that could make you eligible for certain specific housing programs.

I WAS RECEIVING SECTION 8 HOUSING AND WAS THEN INCARCERATED. DO I NEED TO REAPPLY?

Yes. If you were the sole recipient of Section 8 vouchers and are absent for a prolonged period of time due to incarceration, you may be in violation of your local Public Housing Authority’s local policies and/or the terms of your housing contract.<sup>1208</sup> If that is the case, your public housing assistance benefits are likely to be terminated.<sup>1209</sup> Federal law allows individuals to be absent from Section 8 housing for a maximum of 180 consecutive days, but the maximum set by your city or county’s Public Housing Authority may be shorter.<sup>1210</sup> To see contact information for local Public Housing Authority branches, go to Appendix A on PG. 403 or call HUD Customer’s Service at 1-202-708-1112. Note that you may have to wait six months after your Section 8 benefits were terminated before reapplying.

HOW WILL MY CRIMINAL RECORD AFFECT MY ELIGIBILITY AND APPLICATION TO DIFFERENT TYPES OF HOUSING?

Whether you are looking at short-term/transitional or long-term housing, the impact of your criminal record on your application depends on whether that housing is PRIVATE or GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED. In this Chapter, when we talking about government-assisted housing, we are talking about housing that gets money from the federal government to make it more affordable for low-income people. The federal government has created many laws that control government-assisted housing, including who is allowed to live there.

In this Chapter, we will explain how your CRIMINAL RECORD affects your application to both private housing and government-assisted housing; whether or not a Public Housing Authority (PHA) or owner can refuse to rent to you, what you can do to strengthen your application, and how you can challenge a denial that you believe is illegal.

HOW CAN I FIGURE OUT IF I AM APPLYING TO/LIVING IN PRIVATE OR GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

- Did you apply for the housing through a PHA?
- If yes, the rules and criminal record exclusions that apply to federal government-assisted housing apply to you.
- Do you have a “Section 8” Housing Choice Voucher?
- If yes, the rules and criminal record exclusions that apply to federal government-assisted housing apply to you.
- Look up the property online at: <http://www.hud.gov/apps/section8/index.cfm>
- If you still don’t know, ask the OWNER of the property.

Sometimes it’s clear that you live in government-assisted housing because you had to apply for the housing unit or program through a local Public Housing Authority (PHA) or your landlord is the PHA itself. Other times, it’s unclear that you live in government-assisted housing because the owner gets a special benefit directly from the government, and you didn’t know it. The hints above will help you figure out if you are living in government-assisted housing, but you can also ask the owner (the landlord) of the property.

CRIMINAL RECORD BANS TO BE AWARE OF BEFORE YOU APPLY TO HOUSING

1. CRIMINAL RECORD BANS IN PRIVATE HOUSING

HOW CAN MY CRIMINAL RECORD AFFECT MY CHANCES OF GETTING PRIVATE HOUSING?

Most private landlords will run a background check on you, and have a broad discretion to deny you based on past criminal involvement. However, the landlord cannot have a blanket ban on ALL people with criminal records and must treat your criminal record the same as it treats other applicants’. Keep reading this section to learn what landlords can and can’t do when getting and considering your criminal history information.

CAN A PRIVATE LANDLORD REFUSE TO RENT TO ME JUST BECAUSE OF MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

Most of the time, yes. Unfortunately, the law does not protect you from housing discrimination based on your criminal record alone. Although federal and state laws make it illegal for private landlords to discriminate against you because of your race, color, national origin, ancestry, sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, religion, disability, marital status, family status, genetic information, and source of income in California, they do not provide any specific or direct protection based on having a criminal record.<sup>1211</sup> Landlords have the power to choose their tenants, and judges often side with landlords who claim that banning people with criminal records is necessary to protect other residents and property.<sup>1212</sup>

<sup>1212</sup> 42 U.S.C. § 3604(f)(9) (Fair Housing Act does not protect “individual whose tenancy would constitute a direct threat to the health or safety of other individuals or whose tenancy would result in substantial physical damage to the property of others”); Evans v. UDR, Inc., 644 F. Supp. 2d 675 (E.D.N.C. 2009) (holding that the Fair Housing Act (FHA) does not prohibit landlords from denying a disabled tenant’s rental application based on her criminal record; relaxation of landlord’s “no criminal history” policy was not required as a reasonable accommodation for mentally disabled tenant, even where tenant’s disability was an underlying cause of her conviction).

However, there are some cases where you might be protected if a private landlord rejects you because of your criminal record.

1. The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD)'s official stance is that landlords cannot refuse to rent to any person with criminal convictions on that basis alone. Read more about this type of discrimination (called a "blanket ban") below.
2. Additionally, if your CONVICTION is for substance/drug abuse, your past substance abuse is considered a disability under state and federal law. People with disabilities enjoy greater protection against discrimination (read more about asking for a reasonable accommodation for a disability in Appendix E, PG. 419).
3. Finally, you are protected by state and federal law that limits what a private landlord can learn about you from a BACKGROUND CHECK (often called a "tenant report" when it's for a landlord who is screening you for their housing). A landlord has to tell you about the background check, give you a chance to fix mistakes, and certain information isn't legally supposed to come up in the background check (read more on PG. 377).

CAN A PRIVATE LANDLORD REFUSE TO RENT TO ME BECAUSE MY CRIMINAL RECORD WOULD INCREASE THEIR HOMEOWNER'S INSURANCE RATES?

Maybe. Insurance companies, including those that protect homeowners, generally have broad discretion in setting their rates and premiums.<sup>1213</sup> At the same time, under the Federal Housing Act, homeowner's insurance companies cannot price their policies in a way that discriminates on the basis of race, gender, or other protected characteristics (see list on PG. 357).<sup>1214</sup> Although having a criminal record is not specifically listed as one of these characteristics, one can make a credible argument that the same logic should apply.

Continue reading for more information.

WHEN MIGHT I BE LEGALLY PROTECTED FROM A PRIVATE LANDLORD DISCRIMINATING AGAINST ME DUE TO MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

Below are some situations where you might be legally protected if a private landlord is discriminating on the basis of your criminal record:

1) Blanket Bans:

In 2016, the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) issued guidelines on how housing discrimination laws apply to people with criminal records.<sup>1215</sup> In HUD's view, it is a violation of federal law to refuse to rent or sell to any person with any criminal conviction on that basis.<sup>1216</sup> The specific arguments for why blanket bans violate the law are covered in #2-4 below.

If you think one of these arguments applies to your situation, it may be a good idea to consult an attorney.<sup>1217</sup> See the list of legal aid providers on PG. 1127 of this guide.

2) Arbitrary Discrimination:

According to HUD, more focused policies, such as bans on people with specific types of criminal convictions, may violate federal law if they don't serve a legitimate purpose (or, in legal terms, "a substantial, legitimate, and nondiscriminatory interest"). Any policy that doesn't take into consideration how much time has passed since the conviction(s), or the nature or seriousness of the crime, is unlikely to meet this standard. On the other hand, policies aimed at preventing harm to residents' safety and/or property may be sufficient.<sup>1218</sup>

California state law also prohibits "arbitrary discrimination," (meaning unreasonable discrimination), so if a landlord has a blanket ban against anyone with criminal records—without consideration of your individual

WHAT IS A "BLANKET BAN" IN HOUSING?

Here, a "blanket ban" means there is a policy that COMPLETELY bans or disqualifies someone—with no exceptions for any reason—from housing.

GOV'T CODE § 12955(d), but it is best to bring separate claims under each law because the remedies are different.

situation and ability to be a good tenant—it may be considered unreasonable, arbitrary discrimination, which is illegal.<sup>1219</sup>

If you come across a blanket ban, or discrimination that seems completely arbitrary, you should contact a lawyer. See the list of legal aid providers on PG. 1127 of this guide.

3) Unfair Treatment (also called “discriminatory treatment”):

Even though a private landlord is legally allowed to consider your criminal record, the landlord must apply the same standards for screening applicants equally. For example, a landlord can’t reject an African-American applicant based on his/her criminal record, but then accept a white applicant with a similar criminal record.

Another example is that if a private landlord conducts a background check on you, the landlord must also conduct the same background check on all other applicants.

If you come across a private landlord who you believe is treating your criminal record differently from other similar applicants, this may violate your right to equal treatment under federal and state law. You should contact a lawyer. See the list of legal aid providers on PG. 1127 of this guide.

4) Unfair Impact (also called “disparate impact” or “discriminatory effect”) & Blanket Bans:

As a group, people with criminal convictions are not directly protected by the Fair Housing Act - the federal law prohibiting housing discrimination based on things like race, gender, and sexual orientation. However, in 2015, the United States Supreme Court held that a housing policy that affects people of color more than others may violate the Fair Housing Act if it isn’t supported by a legally sufficient justification.<sup>1220</sup> Thus, because African-Americans, Latinos, and other people of color are overrepresented in our criminal justice system, there is a strong argument that banning tenants with criminal records from private housing violates the law as well.

In addition, California’s fair housing laws may give you slightly stronger protection in this situation, because a blanket ban against all tenants with any criminal records—regardless of the type of conviction, when it occurred, whether it affects your ability to be a good tenant (like pay rent; respect your neighbors and property; etc.), and evidence of your rehabilitation & mitigating circumstances (see PG. 371 for details on evidence of rehabilitation and mitigating circumstances)—has a discriminatory effect and may not be “necessary” to protect other tenants and property.<sup>1221</sup>

5) Past Drug or Alcohol Addiction (A Protected Disability)

It is illegal for a landlord to deny you housing based on a past drug or alcohol addiction, as this is a protected disability status. Past addiction, as well as current alcoholism,<sup>1222</sup> are considered disabilities under both federal and state law, so landlords cannot deny you housing for this reason or even ask about past drug or alcohol abuse. Landlords must also provide you with reasonable accommodations if necessary.<sup>1223</sup>

However, a landlord may deny you housing if you are currently using or selling illegal drugs (this is the same rule that applies to current drug use in government-assisted housing properties).

If a landlord denies you housing due to past drug or alcohol abuse, you should request reasonable accommodations and/or challenge the denial. It is suggested that you try and contact an attorney to help, since every individual’s circumstances and case are different. See the list of legal aid providers on PG. 1127 of this guide for places that may be able to assist you.

2. CRIMINAL RECORD BANS IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING

HOW CAN MY CRIMINAL RECORD AFFECT MY CHANCES OF GETTING ACCEPTED INTO GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

When you apply to government-assisted housing through a Public Housing Authority (PHA) (see definition on PG. 340), the PHA runs a criminal background check on:

- You;
- Everyone currently living with you;
- Everyone 16 or older who might live with you;
- Any biological parent of any children who will be living in the household, even parents who do not plan to live with you and are not part of the application to the PHA.

The rules governing who may be denied are very broad. The PHA tries to exclude people it believes will “risk the health and safety of other tenants.” On the other hand, the PHA may choose to overlook your criminal convictions and accept your application, especially if they see evidence that you have changed since the time of your conviction.<sup>1224</sup>

Some cities in California are making an effort to make affordable housing more inclusive to people with criminal records. For example, in 2016, the city of Richmond approved a city ordinance to protect the housing rights of people in reentry.<sup>1225</sup> The “Fair Chance Access to Affordable Housing” ordinance will be added to the Richmond Municipal Code as Chapter 7.110 in 2017.<sup>1226</sup> San Francisco adopted a similar ordinance in 2014.<sup>1227</sup> For more information about San Francisco’s Fair Chance ordinance, see Appendix H on PG. 427.

IMPORTANT! *There are a lot of rules about who can and cannot live in government-assisted housing. Every program has its own set of rules that you should be aware of BEFORE you apply. You want to know what laws or program policies might prevent you from living there because of a criminal conviction or other criminal history information, even if your family already lives there. Some bans are required by law, while others are allowed, but not required. These types of bans are up to the discretion and policies of the PHA and/or the owner of the government-assisted housing. You should look at the policies BEFORE YOU APPLY.

CAN A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) REFUSE TO RENT TO ME JUST BECAUSE OF MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

Yes, it’s possible. Rules for government-assisted housing can be VERY STRICT. Your local Public Housing Authority (PHA), which runs a lot of the government-assisted housing programs like Section 8 Housing Choice Vouchers and the Public Housing program, and works with private owners that accept government assistance to keep their buildings more affordable, may reject you and your household because of certain criminal convictions.

There are two reasons that a PHA or owner of government-assisted housing will reject you—the first is when it’s legally required (meaning the PHA and/or the owner of government-assisted housing don’t have a choice and must deny you), and the second is when it’s allowed but not required (meaning the PHA and/or the owner of government-assisted housing has a choice to deny you, but doesn’t have to). It is important for you to understand both situations, and your options to challenge the bans that are allowed, but not required, or spot situations where a PHA or owner of government-assisted housing tells you that the ban is legally required, but there is a legal loophole. Keep reading to learn more.

OVERVIEW

REQUIRED VS. ALLOWED BANS IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING

(1) BANS THAT ARE REQUIRED: Sometimes, a government-assisted housing provider MUST deny certain applicants because they have a specific type of conviction on their record. Because the law says that the rejection is required (“mandatory”), PHAs and owners of government-assisted housing do not have a choice in the matter. They must deny you if you have one of the convictions listed in the law. For all conviction-based bans that are legally required, see the chart PG. 361, and the questions on PG. 364.

(2) BANS THAT ARE ALLOWED, BUT NOT REQUIRED (“CATCH-ALL” BANS): More commonly, you will likely fall into a “catch-all” ban on people with any criminal activity (which includes both arrests and convictions, even if they have been dismissed) that threaten the health, safety, or right of peaceful enjoyment to the government-assisted property by the other residents, the property owner, or the PHA’s staff or agents/contractors. This includes drug-related criminal activity and violent criminal activity (again, both arrests and convictions, even if dismissed, can be considered). Here, the law doesn’t require that you get denied from the housing program, but it allows PHAs and owners of government-assisted housing to deny you on this basis.

- See the chart summarizing these bans on PG. 361, and the questions on PG. 364.
- See Appendix E, PG. 419, for an even more detailed chart explaining which specific criminal convictions make denial mandatory (required by law) and which make denial permissive (allowed, but not required by law), including citations to the specific laws.<sup>1228</sup>

WHERE DO I FIND A PHA’S RULES & POLICIES ABOUT CRIMINAL RECORDS?

The rules for criminal records are different for every government-assisted housing program and are determined locally. Even an owner of government-assisted housing CAN HAVE DIFFERENT RULES than the Public Housing Authority (PHA) that oversees the government-assisted housing programs. You should be able to find these rules FOR YOUR PROGRAM. You can look in the following places:

- The PHA’s Annual Plan
- The PHA’s Admission and Occupancy Plan (ACOP)
- The lease for public housing
- The Administrative Plan for the Section 8 Voucher program
- The lease and/or house rules for all other government-assisted programs<sup>1229</sup>
- The PHA’s website for these plans
- By Asking PHA and/or owner for a copy as well.

WARNING: READ CAREFULLY

In the chart above, we summarize four situations where a Public Housing Authority (PHA) and the owners of federal government-assisted housing MUST reject you under law based on particular types of convictions. BUT PLEASE NOTE: These required (“mandatory”) bans apply only to SOME types of federal government-assisted housing, but not ALL types. There are SOME government-assisted housing programs where these “required” bans do not apply. Also, some of these required bans will last for the rest of your life, but others are only temporary bans. SO READ CAREFULLY! Don’t assume the ban applies to you. Try to match your exact situation and conviction/criminal record with this chart to see how your criminal record will impact your ability to get into federal government-assisted housing. Refer back to PG. 360 for an overview of required vs. allowed bans.

DETAILED QUESTIONS & ANSWERS ABOUT CRIMINAL RECORD BANS IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING

Here we explain the information from the chart above in a question & answer format in much more detail. You will learn about the specifics of each of these criminal record bans in government-assisted housing. Later we explain how to challenge denials due to your criminal record, beginning on PG. 391.

WHAT BANS ARE REQUIRED IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING—FOR SPECIFIC TYPES OF CONVICTIONS AND SPECIFIC HOUSING PROGRAMS?

Here we explain the four bans that are required (“mandatory”) for SOME types of federal government-assisted housing programs, but not ALL. There might be government-assisted programs where these bans DO NOT APPLY. So please read carefully!

➤ BAN 1: METHAMPHETAMINE PRODUCTION ON FEDERAL GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED PROPERTY → LIFETIME BAN FROM 3 FEDERAL HOUSING PROGRAMS

Under federal law, PHAs and owners of government-assisted housing MUST PERMANENTLY DENY admission to an entire household to three of the federal government-assisted housing programs—(1) Public Housing, (2) the “Section 8” Housing Choice Voucher program, and (3) the Section 8 Moderate Rehabilitation program—if ANY MEMBER of the household has ever been convicted for the manufacture or production of methamphetamine ON THE PREMISES of any type of federal government-assisted housing.<sup>1230</sup> Because this rule is so specific, the lifetime ban applies to only a very small number of housing applicants.

Let’s break it down further. As you apply to a PHA for government-assisted housing, this lifetime ban only applies to you if someone in your household was:

1. Convicted (meaning found guilty in a court of law),
2. Of the manufacture or production of Methamphetamine, AND
3. The criminal activity took place on the premises (on the property) of any type of federal government-assisted housing.
4. Lastly, if you are applying to a government-assisted housing program that is not one of the 3 programs that PHAs run (again, those are Public Housing, the “Section 8” Housing Choice Voucher program, and the Section 8 Moderate Rehabilitation program), then this mandatory lifetime ban does NOT apply to you or your household.<sup>1231</sup> Instead, read about the catch-all ban on PG. 360 that is allowed, but not required.

I was denied by the PHA or the owner of government-assisted housing, but based on the information in this legal guide, I think it was a mistake or the required ban doesn’t apply to me. How do I challenge the denial?

If another assisted housing program—not one of the three listed above—tries to impose a lifetime ban on you due to your conviction for the manufacture or production of methamphetamine on the premises of federal government-assisted property, you can challenge the lifetime ban and present mitigating information (meaning facts that are specific to your case and circumstances showing you should not be denied the housing—see PG. 358).

- Go to PG. 393 to learn how to challenge a denial by asking the PHA for an informal review hearing.
- Go to PG. 371 to learn about what kinds of mitigating information you should include with your application, and as proof of mitigating circumstances & rehabilitation with any challenges you bring.
- If there was a mistake in the information the PHA or owner of the government-assisted property relied upon, you should immediately bring it to their attention.

Mistakes could include:

- Errors in your criminal records (see UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 931)
- Even though you were on the premises of the federal government-assisted housing, you did not actually manufacture the drugs, but you were automatically denied housing anyway; OR
- Even though you were involved in the manufacturing of the methamphetamines, you were a victim of domestic violence that led to your involvement, and you shouldn’t be punished by the PHA.

<sup>1231</sup> When applying for admission. If an owner, who is not required by statute to impose a lifetime ban, seeks to impose one, an applicant may object to the policy as contrary to congressional intent as it goes beyond the statutory limits. C.F.R. § 3560.154(j). If an owner rejects such an applicant, the applicant should challenge the lifetime ban and present information regarding mitigating circumstances or rehabilitation. Mitigating circumstances might include the fact that the applicant was on the premises but did not manufacture the drugs, or was involved in the manufacturing but was a victim of domestic violence. It may also include the fact that there has been a significant lapse of time between the offense and the application for admission with no other intervening criminal activity.

DO YOU NEED LEGAL HELP?

If you have legal questions, we suggest calling a housing legal aid provider from the list of legal aid providers on PG. 1127, or contact Root & Rebound at 510-279-4662 for further guidance or a referral.

➤ BAN 2: Sex offense convictions requiring lifetime registration → Lifetime ban for almost all federal government-assisted housing programs

Under federal law, PHAs and owners of government-assisted housing MUST PERMANENTLY DENY admission to an entire household—to almost all federal government-assisted housing programs—if ANY MEMBER of the applicant household is required to be lifetime registered under any state’s sex offender registration program.<sup>1232</sup>

THIS REQUIRED BAN DOES NOT APPLY TO YOU if you are required to register as a sex offender for a temporary or limited amount of time. Again, the ban only applies if you are required to register as a sex offender in any state for the rest of your life. Unfortunately, PHAs and owners of government-assisted property will often mistakenly apply the ban to anyone registered as a sex offender.

EXCEPTION FOR CERTAIN TYPES OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING PROGRAMS (NO REQUIRED BAN): The other exception is that owners of two government-assisted housing programs—Low-Income Housing Tax Credit (LIHTC) properties and Rural Development (RD) housing—are NOT REQUIRED to deny admission to a lifetime registered sex offender; they have discretion.<sup>1233</sup>

I was denied by the PHA or the owner of government-assisted housing because I am a registered sex offender, but based on the information in this legal guide, I think it was a mistake or the required ban doesn’t apply to me. How do I challenge the denial?

Some PHAs or owners misinterpret the rules that apply to sex offender registrants, and some apply their own criteria—which in the real world means that the PHA or owner will end up automatically banning a person who shouldn’t be automatically banned (an example of this would be if a PHA had a policy that permanently bans all people required to register on a state’s Sex Offender Registry list, even people who don’t have to register for their entire lifetime). If this is your situation, you can challenge the denial by asking the PHA for an informal review hearing (see PG. 393).

Only if you meet the legal definition of a lifetime registered sex offender can you be permanently denied federal government-assisted housing without any other consideration of your individual circumstances. Thus, if you do not have a lifetime sex offender registration requirement, the PHA should analyze the time, nature and circumstances of the offense, as appropriate for any other criminal activity (see PG. 352).<sup>1234</sup> As an applicant, you should also be allowed to show mitigating information and/or proof of your rehabilitation (see PG. 371 for explanations of what counts as mitigating information and proof of rehabilitation). For example, if you do not have to register as a sex offender for the rest of your lifetime, you should be able to establish that the criminal conduct was not violent, did not involve children, happened a long time ago, and that there have been no problems since the conviction.<sup>1235</sup>

- Go to PG. 393 to learn how to challenge a denial by asking the PHA for a review hearing.
- Go to PG. 371 to learn about what kinds of mitigating information and proof of rehabilitation you should include with your application, and/or with any challenges you bring.
- If there was a MISTAKE in the information the PHA or owner of the government-assisted housing relied upon, you should immediately bring it to their attention. Mistakes could include errors in your criminal records (see the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 931, which discusses how to fix errors in your record).

<sup>1234</sup> One could argue that the federal statute barring lifetime registered sex offenders preempts an expansion of that bar to other sex offenders. There are three general types of situations in which preemption may be established. One of the situations is that preemption may be inferred where the scheme of the federal legislation is so comprehensive that it creates the inference that Congress “left no room” for local regulation in that area. Cal. Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass’n v. Guerra, 479 U.S. 272, 281 (1987). Applying that standard, the area in question is eligibility for federally assisted housing and Congress has fully defined eligibility for federally assisted housing. Imposing an absolute lifetime bar when none is required is determining eligibility in an area that Congress has not left any room for local regulation. Success on such a claim may be complicated as the party seeking preemption has the burden of proof and the presumption is against preemption. Cipollone v. Liggett Group, 505 U.S. 504, 518 (1992).

<sup>1235</sup> Corinne A. Carey, No Second Chance: People with Criminal Records Denied Access to Public Housing, 36 U. Tol. Rev. 545, 579 (2005) (article also lists reasons why an individual might be on a lifetime registration list, including consensual relationship with partners who are a few years younger, indecent exposure or lewd displays often related to substance abuse, mental health diagnosis, homelessness, and women who are convicted of conspiracy to commit sexual abuse for failing to protect a child from such abuse); see also Housing Rights Watch, No Easy Answers: Sex Offender Laws In The US (2007).

IMPORTANT: There are other restrictions on where people who must register as sex offenders can live under California state law. It is VERY IMPORTANT to check your state and local laws regarding these requirements to know if they apply to you, and how it will affect where you can live. See PG. 352 of this HOUSING CHAPTER and PG. 163 of the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER to understand additional restrictions on where 290 registrants can live in California.

➤ BAN 3: PAST EVICTION FOR DRUG-RELATED ACTIVITY ON FEDERAL GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED PROPERTY → MINIMUM 3-YEAR BAN FOR THREE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING PROGRAMS

Under federal law, PHAs and owners of government-assisted housing MUST DENY admission to an entire household to three of the government-assisted housing programs—(1) Public Housing, (2) the “Section 8” Housing Choice Voucher program, and (3) the Section 8 Moderate Rehabilitation program—if ANY MEMBER of the household has ever been EVICTED from any federal government-assisted housing program or property because of drug-related criminal activity.<sup>1236</sup> This ban must last for a minimum of 3 years, starting from the date of eviction, but PHAs and owners can choose to extend it.<sup>1237</sup>

PLEASE NOTE: This ban only applies to the three types of federal government-assisted housing mentioned above. It does NOT apply to the following types of government-assisted housing programs:

- Low-Income Housing Tax Credit (LIHTC) properties and Rural Development (RD) housing;<sup>1238</sup>
- Housing applicants who were evicted for drug-related activity from any other type of housing or program that does not receive federal government money.<sup>1239</sup>

IMPORTANT EXCEPTION: PHA or owner may admit your household if the person whose drug-related criminal activity led to the eviction later goes on to complete an approved, supervised drug rehabilitation program, OR if your circumstances have changed.<sup>1240</sup> This is an important exception, because it gives you the power to change your situation!

By taking and completing an approved drug rehabilitation program, you could become eligible for housing again, or if your circumstances have changed. “Changed circumstances” could mean:

- The household member with the drug-related conviction has died or is in prison, and won’t return to the household.
- The applicant household has had no contact for a period of time and does not know the whereabouts of the former household member who was evicted for the drug-related activity.
- There could be other reasons the family should be allowed back into the housing if the person with the conviction is no longer in the picture or has been rehabilitated.<sup>1241</sup>

<sup>1237</sup> 4 C.F.R. §§ 5.852(d) (federally assisted housing), 960.203(c)(3)(ii), 966.4(1)(5)(vii)(E) (public housing). HUD apparently believes that the statute sets a floor of three years, and that PHAs and owners are not violating the statute if they expand the time period. The HUD explanation in the regulations is that “[s]ince the intent of the statute was to strengthen protections against admitting persons whose presence in assisted housing might be deleterious, HUD does not interpret this new provision as a constraint on the screening authority that owners and PHAs already had.” Screening and Eviction for Drug Abuse and Other Criminal Activity; Final Rule, 66 Fed. The rule is also not applicable to housing assisted with S+C, SHP or HOPWA funding.

<sup>1239</sup> 4 C.F.R. §§ 5.850(a) (excludes rural development housing), 5.854(a) (federally assisted housing in general), 882.518(a)(1)(I) (Section 8 moderate rehabilitation), 960.204(a)(1) (public housing), 982.553(a)(1)(I) (voucher); Screening and Eviction for Drug Abuse and Other Criminal Activity-Final Rule, H 2002-22 (Oct. 29, 2002) ¶ VI (HUD Notice applicable to HUD-assisted project-based housing, excluding Section 8 moderate rehabilitation housing and project-based vouchers or certificates). <sup>1240</sup> 2 U.S.C. § 13661(a); 24 C.F.R. § 5.854(a)(2). See, e.g., Rules & Regulations, Dep’t of Hous. & Urban Dev., 66 Fed. Reg. 28,776, 28,785 (May 24, 2001) (codified at 24 C.F.R. § 5.852(c)(1)).

<sup>1241</sup> 1842 U.S.C. § 13661(a); 24 C.F.R. § 5.854(a)(2). My application was denied by the PHA or the owner of government-assisted housing because of a past eviction from federal government-assisted property for drug-related criminal activity, but I think it was a mistake or that the ban is unreasonably long (more than 3 years). How do I challenge the denial?

- You can challenge a denial because the ban is unreasonably long or because there was a mistake in the information the PHA or owner of the government-assisted property relied on. Go to PG. 393 to learn how to challenge a denial by asking the PHA for an informal review hearing.
- Go to PG. 371 to learn about what kinds of mitigating information you should include with your application, and as proof of mitigating circumstances & rehabilitation with any challenges you bring.
- If there was a mistake in the information the PHA or owner of the government-assisted property relied upon, you should immediately bring it to their attention. Mistakes could include errors in your criminal records (see CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, PG. 931).

HELPFUL HINT

Challenging Long Bans For Past Drug Activity on Government Housing Property:

- If you were convicted of a less serious drug-related crime, such as mere possession, OR you have been rehabilitated (and can show you have changed, done classes, or improved yourself), these are all good reasons to challenge a ban that is significantly longer than 3 years. If you can, talk to a lawyer or advocate!<sup>1242</sup> See General Guide Appendix A, on PG. 1127 of this guide for a list of legal aid providers in California. A lawyer can explain how to gather proof that shows the housing ban shouldn't apply to you for more than 3 years. Again, go to PG. 364 to learn about the procedure for challenging a denial, and asking the PHA for an informal review hearing.

➤ BAN 4: CURRENT ILLEGAL DRUG USE → REQUIRED BAN WHILE ILLEGAL DRUG USE IS “CURRENT”

PHAs and owners of government-assisted housing must deny admission to an entire household if ANY MEMBER of the household is currently using illegal drugs.<sup>1243</sup>

QUESTIONS RELATED TO CURRENT DRUG USE:

When does drug use or alcohol abuse disqualify me from getting into federal government-assisted housing?

Current drug use on or near the property by any tenant, household member, person under the tenant's control, or guest will disqualify you.<sup>1244</sup> “Current” means you used illegal drugs “recently enough to justify a reasonable belief” that you're still using. In their written policies, PHAs and owners should spell out what they define as “recent,” and must abide by that policy. Read more about “recentness” requirements on PG. 420. To learn about how your past addiction could be a protected disability which allows you to ask for a “reasonable accommodation”—which means you can ask the PHA or owner of government-assisted housing to lift or relax this ban (see Appendix E, PG. 419).

How would PHA or owner find out about my alcohol or drug use?

A PHA or owner could learn about your drug or alcohol use directly from you (in your application) or from access to records about your criminal history or drug treatment. To learn more about how a PHA or owner accesses records related to your alcohol or drug use, read Access to Your Drug/ Alcohol Records for Government-Assisted Housing on PG. 379.

Should I try to hide my current illegal drug use from the PHA or owner of the government-assisted housing?

No, you should be honest on the application. You can be denied the government-assisted housing—or later evicted (kicked out/terminated from the program)—for intentionally lying during the application process.

<sup>1242</sup> Preemption may be inferred where the scheme of the federal legislation is so comprehensive that it creates the inference that Congress “left no room” for local regulation in that area. Cal. Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Guerra, 479 U.S. 272, 281 (1987). Applying that standard, Congress has fully defined eligibility for federally assisted housing. Imposing an absolute lifetime bar when none is required is determining eligibility in an area that Congress has not left any room for local regulation. Cipollone v. Liggett Group, 505 U.S. 504, 518 (1992).

Do PHAs or owners of government-assisted housing consider whether I have participated in or completed a drug or alcohol rehabilitation program to let me into a housing program?

Generally, they don't have to, but PHAs and owners may consider that you have participated in or have completed a drug rehabilitation program, and may ask you for documentation that you are not currently using illegal drugs.<sup>1245</sup> Specifically, you may have to provide documentation of your drug rehabilitation with your application if you want to avoid or reduce the 3+ year ban on admitting people who were previously evicted from federally-assisted housing due to a drug-related crime.<sup>1246</sup>

Can PHAs or owners of government-assisted housing screen me by using or requiring a medical exam or drug test?

No. PHAs and owners may not require you to undergo any type of physical exam or medical testing in order to admit you to a housing program. This includes testing for HIV/AIDS, Tuberculosis (Tb), pregnancy, and, presumably, drug/alcohol screening.<sup>1247</sup>

WARNING: if applying to government-assisted housing, it is very important for anyone with a criminal record to read the following section!

WHAT BANS ARE ALLOWED, BUT NOT LEGALLY REQUIRED IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING—THE “CATCH-ALL” CATEGORY OF BANS THAT APPLY TO *ALL PEOPLE WITH CRIMINAL RECORDS*?

For the many of you who do not fall into one of the required (“mandatory”) bans discussed above, it's more likely you could get denied government-assisted housing because the Public Housing Authority (PHA) or the owner of the government-assisted housing has decided based on your criminal record that you currently “pose a risk to the health, safety, or right to peaceful enjoyment of the property by other residents, the owner, or the PHA staff or agents/contractors.”<sup>1248</sup>

This is a “catch-all” category and allows the PHA or owner of government-assisted property to deny applicants with criminal histories more generally. They are allowed to consider a lot of information, including past convictions (even convictions you had expunged); arrests (even those that never led to a conviction); and in some cases your drug treatment records. See PG. 379 for detailed information about what criminal records a Public Housing Authority (PHA) or owner of government-assisted property can access about you.

HOW CAN I FIND OUT THE CRIMINAL RECORD POLICIES OF MY LOCAL PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) OR OF THE OWNER OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

REMEMBER THAT THESE “CATCH-ALL” BANS ARE NOT REQUIRED: This “catch-all” category is NOT a required ban. The PHA or owner is allowed to exclude you only if they can show that your criminal history poses a current threat to the health, safety, or peace of other residents, the owner, or PHA staff or agents/contractors. It's recommended that they consider mitigating information and proof of your rehabilitation—and in the case of the Public Housing program, the PHA must consider this extra information!

Each local PHA and owner of government-assisted housing will have different rules about what criminal history information they will ignore and what they will consider. By law, the PHAs and owners of government-assisted housing MUST put their policies in writing and make them available to applicants.<sup>1249</sup>

The rules and policies of each local PHA and owner of government-assisted housing MUST not violate the legal protections discussed on PG. 379. Furthermore, the PHA must follow its own rules and policies.

You may want to consider talking to an advocate/lawyer about whether or not a particular PHA's policies to exclude people with certain criminal records could be violating the law. (See PG. 1127 for a list of legal aid providers across California).

<sup>1246</sup> See PG. 374 for information about federally-assisted housing programs that have a 3-year ban on someone who was evicted from housing for a drug-related offense. In sum: For certain federally-assisted housing programs, including (1) public housing, (2) the voucher program, and (3) project-based Section 8 housing, there is a mandatory 3-year ban on admission for families, if any member of the applicant's household has ever been evicted from “federally assisted housing” for drug-related criminal activity. 42 U.S.C. § 13661(a). However, this ban does not apply to LIHTC and RD housing. See PG. 374. This rule also does not apply to applicants who were evicted for drug-related activity from non-federally assisted housing. See PG. 374.

<sup>1247</sup> See HUD, Occupancy Requirements Of Subsidized Multifamily Housing Programs ¶ 4-8(B)(1) (rev. November 2013) (Prohibited Screening Criteria). Typically this provision is used to prohibit owners from inquiring into an applicant's medical/physical condition, such as pregnancy, AIDS or TB. But it also could be used to argue that an owner may not request drug testing.

IMPORTANT: Want to learn how to challenge a denial from a PHA or owner of government-assisted housing? Go to PG. 364 to learn more!

UNDER THE “CATCH-ALL” BAN, CAN A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) OR OWNER OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING DENY ME FOR A CONVICTION THAT I HAD “EXPUNGED”?

Yes.<sup>1250</sup> A PHA or owner of government-assisted housing may consider expunged convictions in deciding whether to admit you into a government-assisted housing program or unit.<sup>1251</sup>

This also means that, for this application, when you are asked about any past convictions, you should list even those that have been expunged.<sup>1252</sup> If you lie or don't include them, the PHA or owner can reject you during the housing application process just for lying OR the PHA or owner could evict you later if it finds out that you intentionally lied during the application.<sup>1253</sup>

Remember, The PHA's or owner's right to reject you based on your criminal record (including expunged convictions) is limited by federal<sup>1254</sup> and state law.<sup>1255</sup> Go to PG. 364 to learn more about these protections and limitations on the kinds of denials that PHAs and owners can make.

For more information on getting a conviction expunged, see the CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, PG. 931.

UNDER THE “CATCH-ALL” BAN, CAN A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) OR OWNER DENY ME FROM GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING FOR ARRESTS THAT DID NOT RESULT IN A CONVICTION?

No.<sup>1256</sup> A PHA or owner of government-assisted housing CANNOT deny, end assistance, or evict you based on arrest records alone.<sup>1257</sup> Some PHAs or owners of government-assisted housing might ask about arrests, and some might not. But whatever the policy, the PHA or owner MUST be able to show that's it is more probable than not that the conduct underlying the arrest occurred and that such conduct could threaten the health, safety, or right to peaceful enjoyment of the building by other residents, the owner, or PHA staff or its agents/contractors. This means the PHA or owner of government-assisted housing will need other forms of proof (beyond just the arrest record) that the conduct underlying the arrest occurred, because of course, an arrest is NOT legal proof that you actually committed a crime (unlike a conviction, which shows guilt).<sup>1258</sup>

If you were denied government-assisted housing based on arrest records alone (without more proof), you can challenge the denial, as this practice likely violates fair housing and anti-discrimination laws and/or your right to due process.<sup>1259</sup> We suggest that you contact a housing attorney or legal aid organization that can help you (see the list of legal aid providers on PG. 1127). Whether or not you can find a lawyer to help you, you should try to get familiar with the procedure for challenging a PHA's or government-assisted owner's decision to deny you. For details on this process, see PG. 364.

<sup>1250</sup> 24 C.F.R. § 982.553. This statute is section 8 specific, says generally, can deny admission for other criminal activity that “may threaten the health, safety, or peaceful enjoyment.”

Owners are not authorized to review records, but can request a determination by PHA as to whether record can be basis for applicant screening, lease enforcement, or eviction.)

<sup>1252</sup> “Expungement” is a way to clean up your record so that your convictions have less of a negative impact on your life. When a conviction is expunged, the judge reopens your case and changes your “guilty” plea or verdict to “not guilty,” and then dismisses the case. The case does not disappear from your record, but it shows up as a dismissal instead of a conviction. Only certain convictions qualify for expungement. CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 1203.4, 1203.4a, 1203.41.

UNDER THE “CATCH-ALL” BAN, WILL MY PARTICIPATION IN A PRE-TRIAL INTERVENTION OR DIVERSION PROGRAM MATTER?

If the program shows up on your background check as a conviction, then the PHA or owner of the government-assisted housing can consider it, and possibly deny you.<sup>1260</sup> SO it depends on how it comes up on your background check.

- If you are placed into a pre-trial intervention program and you do NOT have to plead guilty in order to participate, then a background check report will probably show the filing of a case, but no conviction while you are participating in the program.<sup>1261</sup> If you successfully complete the program, then your case will be dismissed without a conviction ever having been recorded. Therefore, it CANNOT show up as a conviction in a background check, because it never was one.<sup>1262</sup> If there are errors in your background check, the PHA or owner must give you an opportunity to correct them.<sup>1263</sup>
- If instead you are placed in a pre-trial intervention program that requires you to plead guilty, then this guilty plea will probably appear as a conviction on a background check report while you are still participating in the program. If you successfully complete the program, your guilty plea should be automatically withdrawn and those records sealed, after which a private background check company CANNOT report this as a conviction.<sup>1264</sup> If there are errors in your background check, the PHA or owner must give you an opportunity to correct them.<sup>1265</sup>

To learn more about how private background checks work, see PG. 377.

UNDER THE “CATCH-ALL” BAN, CAN A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) OR OWNER OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING DENY MY APPLICATION BECAUSE OF THE CONVICTIONS OF FAMILY MEMBERS WHO LIVE WITH ME?

Yes. You can be excluded from federal government-assisted housing for the convictions of family members who are part of the current household.<sup>1266</sup>

If the person no longer lives with you, you should NOT be denied because of their convictions, but you may have to prove that he or she is not part of the household anymore.<sup>1267</sup>

YOUR RIGHTS AGAINST ILLEGAL DENIALS FROM GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING BECAUSE OF YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD

HOW DOES THE LAW PROTECT ME FROM BEING DENIED GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING BECAUSE OF MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

The Public Housing Authority (PHA) or owner of government-assisted housing must follow certain laws and rules when considering your past convictions and criminal history information. They may only reject you for criminal activity that threatens the health, safety, or peace of other residents or staff AND the criminal activity must be “reasonably recent.”

1. PHAs and owners of government-assisted housing may only reject you for certain kinds of criminal activity—not everything.

A PHA or owner may only reject you for criminal activity that is:<sup>1268</sup>

- Currently posing a threat to the health, safety or peace of other residents;
- Currently posing a threat to the health, safety or peace of the owner or local PHA staff or agents/contractors;
- Drug-related;<sup>1269</sup> OR
- Violent.<sup>1270</sup>

WHAT DOES “CURRENTLY POSING A THREAT” MEAN?

If you are denied government-assisted housing by a PHA or owner because of criminal activity that DOES NOT threaten anyone’s health, safety, peace, or property, then you have a strong argument to challenge the denial. Go to PG. 364 of this chapter to learn how. Many advocates argue that certain crimes—like prostitution, DUIs, & shoplifting—should not disqualify you because they do not pose any threat to others. The PHA or owner must base his/her decision to deny you on a “reasonable belief” that the criminal activity would threaten the health, safety, or right to peaceful enjoyment of others.

2. PHAs and owners of government-assisted housing may only reject you for criminal activity that is reasonably recent.

A PHA or owner of federal government-assisted housing can only reject you due to criminal activity that is CURRENT or is “reasonably recent.”<sup>1271</sup> The length of any ban based on criminal records cannot be “unconscionable”—meaning unreasonable and excessive, drastic beyond what’s really needed, or extremely unfair.<sup>1272</sup>

What is considered a “reasonably recent period”?

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), which oversees most federally-funded housing programs (such as Public Housing, the “Section 8” Housing Choice Voucher program, and others), suggests that “5 years may be reasonable for serious offenses” (like making or dealing drugs)<sup>1273</sup> and suggests that PHAs and owners should set reasonable time periods for different types of criminal activity in their WRITTEN POLICIES.<sup>1274</sup> HUD has also suggested that a conviction for illegal drug use that happened 1 year ago could still be considered “recent.”<sup>1275</sup>

3. If your criminal conviction was the result of a disability (like past substance abuse or mental illness), you can ask for an exception to the criminal record policy (called a “reasonable accommodation”).

If you can prove that your conviction was the result of a disability (which includes past drug addiction and mental illness), then you can ask the PHA or owner of government-assisted housing for an exception from their ban as a “reasonable accommodation” to accommodate your disability and give you equal opportunity to access the housing.<sup>1276</sup> Read more about how to do this in Appendix E, PG. 419.

IMPROVING YOUR CHANCES OF GETTING INTO GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING—OFFERING PROOF OF REHABILITATION & MITIGATING FACTORS

This section explains the types of information and evidence that you can show to strengthen your application to a PHA or government-assisted housing. You can also provide this type of information and evidence to challenge a denial from government-assisted housing. (Learn more about challenging denials from government-assisted housing beginning on PG. 391.)

WHAT IS “PROOF OF MITIGATING FACTORS?”

“Proof of mitigating factors” is extra information and evidence that explains that the PHA or landlord should not view the offense or conduct as negatively as it might otherwise. You can submit things like:

- A period of time has passed since your conviction or criminal activity (the crime was not very recent);
- You were convicted at a young age;
- The nature and extent of your conduct are less involved (like showing you were not as involved in the offense/ conduct as one might think);

WARNING ABOUT WHAT INFORMATION YOU SHARE WITH LANDLORDS:

If you are applying to private housing, be careful not to share any more information than necessary—see PG. 377 to understand what criminal record information a private landlord can access, and see PG. 364 to learn ways you can identify illegal discrimination by private landlords (which has a different legal standard than discrimination by Public Housing Authorities (PHA) and government-assisted owners.

<sup>1270</sup> The regulations define “violent criminal activity” as “any criminal activity that has as one of its elements the use, attempted use, or threatened use of physical force substantial enough to cause, or be reasonably likely to cause, serious bodily injury or property damage.” 24 C.F.R. § 5.100.

<sup>1271</sup> See Madison, Wis. Code Of Ordinances Ch. 39.03(1) and (4) (Renumbered by Ord. 12,039, Adopted 2-17-98) (ordinance prohibiting discrimination against individuals with a criminal record is applicable for most offenses two years after the individual has completed or complied with the penalty).

Supp. 1541, 1544-45 (forfeiture of tenant’s apartment and her federal housing assistance payments, which were the only means by which the defendant could provide shelter for her children, was disproportionately severe to the offense of knowingly and intentionally distributing a mixture containing cocaine base); In the Matter of Elaine Sicardo v. - Physical or emotional abuse, coercion, or untreated abuse or mental illness that led to the conviction (and any of these factors might have led to the crime/offense);
- Disabilities that you or a family member has that might have led to the conviction; and
- Any additional context for the conviction (other factors that would help explain the circumstances you were in when the offense occurred and why it should be viewed with more leniency).

WHAT IS “PROOF OF REHABILITATION?”

Proof of rehabilitation is information and evidence that you have changed and improved since the time of your criminal offense or conduct. You can submit things like:

- Certificates or letters from supervising officers, or court documents showing completion of parole, probation, or other supervision;
- Letters of support/ recommendations from employers or others (see a list of suggestions for letters of support on PG. 373);
- Certificates or diplomas for education or training you’ve received;
- Letters or certificates for completing alcohol/drug treatment programs; and
- Letters or certificates for completion of rehabilitation programs.

DO GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING PROGRAMS HAVE TO CONSIDER MITIGATING CIRCUMSTANCES & EVIDENCE OF REHABILITATION?

Generally, programs are not required to consider mitigating circumstances and evidence of rehabilitation,<sup>1277</sup> but they are encouraged to do so.<sup>1278</sup> Only the Public Housing program—run by your local Public Housing Authority (PHA)—MUST consider mitigating circumstances (that is in cases where the PHA has a criminal record ban in place that is not required by law—see PG. 360 for more information on such bans that are allowed, but not required).<sup>1279</sup>

Good news! THIS GIVES YOU AN OPPORTUNITY TO EXPLAIN THE SITUATION AND PRESENT FACTS IN A WAY THAT WILL PUT YOUR RECORD IN THE BEST POSSIBLE LIGHT—WHICH WILL IMPROVE YOUR CHANCES OF GETTING ACCEPTED.

All PHAs and owners of government-assisted housing are ENCOURAGED to look at the following (and for the Public Housing program, PHAs must look at the following):<sup>1280</sup>

1. Every application for housing on a case-by-case basis;
2. The seriousness of the offense;
3. The time that has passed since the offense;
4. The effect that denial of admission would have on the rest of your family;
5. The effect that denial of admission would have on the community;
6. The extent to which you have taken responsibility for your actions and taken steps to prevent or mitigate bad conduct in the future;
7. Evidence of rehabilitation;
8. Mitigating circumstances relating to your disability or the disability of any family member; and
9. Evidence of your family’s participation or willingness to participate in social services, reentry support, or counseling programs.<sup>1281</sup>

Supp. 134, 138 (M.D. Pa. 1979), aff’d mem., 620 F.2d 288 (3d Cir. 1980) (applicant has burden of putting forth such evidence). In court cases involving eviction or termination of benefits through the government-assisted housing program, courts have sent cases back for review because of the PHA or landlord’s failure to consider mitigating circumstances. See Hicks v. Dakota Cnty. Comm. Dev. Agency, No. A06-1302, 2007 WL2416872 (Minn. App., Aug. 28, 2007) (“The permissive nature of the [voucher] regulation does not preclude a determination that mitigating circumstances are an important factor that must be considered in a particular case.”); Oakwood Plaza Apartments v. Smith, 352 N.J. Super. 467 (2002) (remanding project-based Section 8 eviction case to trial court for a determination of whether landlord properly exercised discretion and considered relevant factors prior to deciding to evict).

<sup>1281</sup> 24 C.F.R. § 960.203(d)(ii). This last factor is listed in the context of public housing but could be considered with respect to applications for other federally assisted housing.

WHEN COULD I SHOW PROOF OF MITIGATING CIRCUMSTANCES AND REHABILITATION TO THE PHA OR OWNER OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

IF YOU PROVIDE THIS INFORMATION UPFRONT, you will likely have a better shot of getting into the government-assisted housing program. Many government-assisted housing programs that are not legally required to ask you for mitigating or rehabilitative evidence won't... so be proactive!

Similarly, if you are TRYING TO REJOIN a government-assisted housing unit, be prepared to explain why you should be accepted, despite your record. Because the PHA or owner of the government-assisted housing is likely to run a background check on you, you should be prepared—if asked—to honestly disclose your criminal record AND to demonstrate mitigating circumstances and evidence of your rehabilitation (see PG. 371).

Consider giving the PHA or owner additional information about all the benefits of having you join your family and how your joining may positively affect the stability of the entire housing development. These benefits depend on the facts of your specific situation. For example, you might include information about your relationship with the family members currently living in the household, especially a positive relationship with any children or a supportive relationship between you and your spouse. Another example is your potential to increase the income of the family unit already living there, so that you will stabilize the rent paid to the PHA or owner of the government-assisted housing. To learn more about joining family and friends—in either private or government-assisted housing—see PG. 385.

Continue reading to learn about specific types of evidence that show proof of mitigating circumstances and rehabilitation that strengthen your application to government-assisted housing!

SPECIFIC EXAMPLES OF EVIDENCE THAT CAN STRENGTHEN YOUR APPLICATION TO GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING

IMPORTANT TIP AS YOU GATHER HELPFUL EVIDENCE OF YOUR REHABILITATION & MITIGATING CIRCUMSTANCES: Try to get at least one item from the following list, and as many of these forms of proof as you are able. If you cannot do so, you will have to work very hard—and creatively—at getting other evidence to overcome a criminal record ban or challenge a denial to government-assisted housing.

WHAT SPECIFIC TYPES OF EVIDENCE WILL STRENGTHEN MY HOUSING APPLICATION TO GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

Provide proof of your rehabilitation and mitigating factors as explained above! Letters of support and certificates of successful completion of programs that improved your life are one of the key ways can help strengthen your application to government-assisted housing! Make sure that the letters you get are detailed and very positive about you! A weak, impersonal letter is almost as useless as no letter at all.

Below are some places you should consider getting letters of support or other documents proving your participation.

➤ EVIDENCE FROM SCHOOL:

Show that you stayed in school for at least 6 months and have a positive school record.

- Proof could be in a transcript with good grades, or a letter from a teacher or school administrator.
- Suggestion: If school administrators or teachers can say the following things truthfully, these letters should say that you:
  - Were in school for at least six months;
  - Had great attendance and punctuality;
  - Had excellent grades; and
  - Are motivated to learn and get ahead in life.

➤ EVIDENCE FROM JOB TRAINING PROGRAMS

Show that you stayed in a job-training program for at least 6 months and have a positive record.

- Proof could be through a letter from a program supervisor or administrator.
- Suggestion: If true, ask your teacher or the program administrator to say that you:
  - Participated for at least six months;
  - Had great attendance and punctuality;
  - Are motivated to learn and get ahead in life;
  - Have learned useful skills to apply to a job; and
  - Get along well with others.

➤ EVIDENCE OF EMPLOYMENT

Show that you kept a job for at least 6 months and had a positive work record:

- Proof could be a letter from a supervisor or other person at the job.
- Suggestion: These letters should not just state how long you have worked. If possible, they should also say:
  - How well you have performed your job;
  - Whether you have been promoted;
  - That you have an excellent attendance record and come to work on time; and
  - That you are motivated, responsible, and get along well with others.
- If you worked while you were incarcerated and can get a good letter from a supervisor, do it! This can be useful, especially if you went above and beyond what was required by the job.

➤ EVIDENCE OF YOUR PARTICIPATION IN COUNSELING OR SOCIAL SERVICE PROGRAMS

Show that you spent at least 6 months in counseling or another social service program to deal with the problem that led you into criminal behavior. If you were in drug treatment or had a drug problem, you might be required to provide a clean drug test. You also have to show that you have done well in the program.

- Proof could be a letter from your counselor, therapist, or doctor.
- Suggestion: These letters should do a lot more than simply state the dates you were in treatment and the fact that you completed treatment. If your counselors in social service, mental health, and/or alcohol and drug programs can say the following things truthfully, then they should also say that you:
  - Had great attendance;
  - Had clear drug tests for at least 12 months (and provide the test results);
  - Showed excellent motivation and desire to change;
  - Participated fully in programs;
  - Got along well with others;
  - Understand the causes of your past behaviors and are committed to positive growth;
  - Are not a risk to the safety of others; and
  - No longer hang out with the same peers that got you into trouble.

➤ PROOF OF A DISABILITY

If you have any type of disability that prevents you from going to school or working, then it can help to show any programs you have participated in to get support for your disability. If the disability is a past drug addiction (NOT a current one), alcoholism, or a mental health issue, it could be helpful to show at least six months of counseling, such as mental health treatment or drug or alcohol treatment.

Proof of this can be your counselor's letter explaining that you are unable to work (see above). You can also try to get any other proof of your disability, such as a letter from your doctor, saying that you cannot work or go to school because of your disability. If you are on SSI or SSDI public benefits, you can also provide proof (learn more about SSI on PG. 486, and more about SSDI on PG. 482 in the PUBLIC BENEFITS CHAPTER). If you cannot show at least six months of counseling, work, school, or job training, then you will have a much harder time convincing the PHA to find you eligible. However, if your disability is so severe that you cannot participate in ANY of these activities (for example, you are homebound), a letter explaining this can be helpful.

➤ PROOF OF EXPUNGEMENT, DISMISSAL, PARDON, OR CERTIFICATE OF REHABILITATION FOR A PAST CONVICTION

For more information about whether you qualify for some form of expungement (like a dismissal, pardon, or Certificate of Rehabilitation), and how to get these, go to the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 931.

➤ OTHER HELPFUL EVIDENCE

While PHAs and owners of government-assisted housing are not as persuaded by the following types of evidence, they can still be helpful if the support letters are very detailed, very positive, and make you look like you are doing ALL YOU CAN DO to move your life in a positive direction and be a productive member of society. Consider the following other forms of helpful evidence to include in your application to government-assisted housing (OR at a hearing challenging a denial):

- Certificates from programs in or after prison, like anger management and drug or alcohol treatment. Remember that any programs in prison count!

- Letter from your Parole or Probation Officer: Our suggestion—If your Probation or Parole Officer can say the following things truthfully, ask him/her to comment on your:
  - Positive drug tests for at least 12 months;
  - Positive outlook;
  - Compliance with all the requirements of parole or probation; and
  - Exceptional motivation.
- Letters from clergy: Our suggestion—These letters are most helpful if they show that you volunteer and play a leadership role in your community.
- Letters from landlords or building superintendents. Our suggestion—Ask them to say that you:
  - Always paid your rent on time;
  - Respected your neighbors; and
  - Treated the property well.
- Letters from neighbors: Our suggestion—They should discuss what a good neighbor you are—for example, that you are quiet, respectful, and/or helpful to the building or community.
- Letters from your volunteer work: Our suggestion—Have you helped out at your children’s school? At their daycare center? Have you been a mentor to a child? Helped a senior citizen? Volunteered in any other way? Get a letter saying that you:
  - Are responsible;
  - Have made a major contribution; and/or
  - Are dedicated to your volunteer work.
  - Also get a letter from anyone you have helped. Have them say what an important role you played for them. Ask the person to be specific!
- Letters from people you have helped: Our suggestion—It can be very moving to read a letter from someone whose life you have touched in a positive way. Have you helped someone through your church? In your neighborhood? Through work?
- Proof about your children’s successes: Our suggestion—If your children have done impressive things, highlight that your parenting had something to do with it. Examples of what you might give are:
  - Letter from your child’s teacher about his/her great work or good grades, emphasizing your role in encouraging your child to do his/her best, making sure your child does his/her homework, etc.
  - Letter from your child’s coach in sports—similar to the letter from a teacher.

What about getting support letters from family?

While it is always nice to have support from your family, these letters are not as helpful because the PHA and/or owner of government-assisted housing assumes that your family members would write anything to help you get the housing. You can certainly include such letters if you like, but letters from people outside your family will have a bigger impact.

IF I CAN SHOW THE PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) THAT I REALLY NEED THE HOUSING, WILL THAT HELP MY APPLICATION?

If you need the housing badly due to a disability or because you are homeless, you should let the PHA know, as those needs might help your application to be processed faster.

Beyond these situations, however, information about how you really need the housing or the fact that you can’t afford other housing in the area won’t hurt or help you because it’s usually not enough of a reason to overcome your criminal record. If you’re not sure, you can go ahead and mention the need in the application.

SPECIAL NOTE FOR PEOPLE WITH DISABILITIES & SPECIAL NEEDS:

If the housing unit has unique characteristics that you need, you should request that the unit be kept open while your application is being reviewed, especially if you are challenging a denial of your application. This means that the PHA or owner agrees not to rent the unit to someone else until your application is decided. You wouldn’t want to win the right to live in the unit, just to have it lost to another renter while you challenge the unlawful denial. A PHA or owner will balance such a request with the need to rent vacant units. Go to PG. 351 to learn more about getting into housing if the crime you committed was caused by a disability (like mental illness or past addiction).

IV. ACCESS TO YOUR CRIMINAL RECORDS AS YOU APPLY FOR HOUSING

AN OVERVIEW OF THE TYPES OF CRIMINAL RECORDS THAT COULD SHOW UP AS YOU APPLY FOR HOUSING

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- What could show up on a background check (also called a “tenant report”) for housing
- What private landlords can and cannot see and consider from a background check/ tenant report
- What Public Housing Authorities (PHAs) and owners of government-assisted housing can and cannot see and consider from a background check/ tenant report

WHAT CRIMINAL RECORDS COULD SHOW UP AS I APPLY FOR ANY TYPE OF HOUSING?

Here are three major categories of records that might tell a private landlord, Public Housing Authority (PHA), or owner of government-assisted housing something about your criminal history:

1) CRIMINAL HISTORY RECORDS:

These include: government-produced criminal records; publicly available court records of cases involving you; police and law enforcement records including arrest records; reports produced by private background check and tenant-screening companies (see #2: “BACKGROUND CHECKS/TENANT REPORTS” below); Internet research; the newspaper; and/or information received directly from you—through an application form or by asking you. Learn more about where your criminal records come from in the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 931.

2) BACKGROUND CHECKS/“TENANT REPORTS”:

A private landlord, PHA, or government-assisted owner will MOST LIKELY get a copy of your background check from a private company—and when it’s for a housing provider, the background check report is often called a “tenant report.” Tenant reports show credit information, employment history, certain criminal history information, entries in sex offender registries or other public databases, driving records, interviews with people who know you, and more. These reports are created and provided by private background check companies and/or credit bureaus. (See PG. 377 to better understand the rules about getting background checks, and what information can be considered for housing.)

3) DRUG OR ALCOHOL TREATMENT RECORDS:

These are documents that show your enrollment in, participation in, and completion of any drug or alcohol treatment programs. In some cases, a PHA or owner of government-assisted housing, may be able to get records about your past drug or alcohol treatment, BUT A REGULAR PRIVATE LANDLORD CANNOT GET THESE RECORDS.<sup>1282</sup>

DOES THIS CHAPTER COVER WHAT CAN AND CANNOT SHOW UP IN MY CREDIT REPORT?

No, not really. As a general note, whenever you apply to ANY type of housing—whether you’re applying to private housing (run by a private landlord) OR to government-assisted housing (through a Public Housing Authority (PHA) or directly to an owner of government-assisted housing)—all of these people and agencies CAN access your credit report, which is different from your criminal records, but might be combined in a “tenant report” (which is just a background for housing).

Credit reports include information about your past finances and credit history, such as whether you have a history of paying bills on time. Credit reports also show whether past credit problems have ended in a bankruptcy or a court proceeding for failing to pay your rent on time (called an “eviction” or an “unlawful detainer”). A credit report shows ONLY credit information, NOT criminal history information. We included some very general rules about credit reports in Appendix G, PG. 426 of this chapter, but these rules are only a summary. This Chapter focuses on how criminal records come up as you apply for housing, not past credit issues.

LEARN ABOUT WHEN YOUR CRIMINAL RECORDS CAN BE ACCESSED

We go into the rules about when these records can be accessed, and what can be considered, beginning on PG. 377.

<sup>1282</sup> For more reading on this topic, see Sharon M Dietrich, When “Your Permanent Record” is a Permanent Barrier: Helping Legal Aid Clients Reduce the Stigma of Criminal Records, 41 CLEARINGHOUSE REV. 139, 141 (July-Aug. 2007), discussing what applicants can do to improve or challenge the criminal record.

CAN A PRIVATE LANDLORD, PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA), OR OWNER OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING CHARGE ME A FEE FOR RUNNING A BACKGROUND CHECK/TENANT REPORT ON ME?

It depends on who is running the background check. Neither PHAs nor owners of federal government-assisted housing can charge you any fees for criminal background checks.<sup>1283</sup> The rule is different if you are applying for private housing from a private landlord—private landlords can charge you a fee. See more on PG. 398.<sup>1284</sup>

ACCESS TO YOUR CRIMINAL RECORDS AS YOU APPLY FOR PRIVATE HOUSING

HOW PRIVATE LANDLORDS LEARN ABOUT YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD

HOW DO PRIVATE LANDLORDS LEARN ABOUT MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

A private landlord can learn about your criminal record from any of the following sources:

- Private background checks (also called “tenant reports”) (see the next question for more information);
- Publicly available court records of cases involving you;
- Internet research;
- The newspaper; and/or
- Information received directly from you—through an application form or by asking you.

See also the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, PG. 931, for a detailed explanation of the many public places that your criminal history information is stored, and how to correct mistakes.

YOUR RIGHTS WHEN A PRIVATE LANDLORD RUNS A CRIMINAL BACKGROUND CHECK

As an applicant to private housing, you have legal rights related to the information that comes up in a private background check, and how a private landlord may use it. The law protects you by making it illegal for certain types of information to be included in a criminal background check (also called a “tenant report,” or in California, a “consumer report”) on you. But there are a lot of laws that limit what a private background check company creating a tenant report for a landlord can share with them.

WHAT MUST A PRIVATE LANDLORD DO IF THEY WANT TO GET A BACKGROUND CHECK/TENANT REPORT ON ME?

Under state and federal law, you have the right to the following protections if a private landlord runs a background check on you:

1. The Landlord Must Give You “Notice” & Get Written Permission to Run a Background Check: This means that you must receive a written document (“notice”) from the landlord saying that s/he wishes to conduct a background check on you. The landlord must get your written permission before getting the background check.<sup>1285</sup>
2. Give the Applicant a Copy of the Background Check: Within 3 days of receiving the background check report, the landlord must provide you with a copy.<sup>1286</sup> In California, you also have the right to request a copy of your report for at least 2 years after the background check company provides your report to the landlord (or anyone else who requests the report).<sup>1287</sup>

WHAT INFORMATION CANNOT BE INCLUDED IN A PRIVATE BACKGROUND CHECK/TENANT REPORT IN CALIFORNIA?

The following information cannot show up in a private background check report in California:

- Lawsuits or judgments from more than 7 years ago;<sup>1288</sup>

<sup>1288</sup> Unless governed by a longer statute of limitations, which extends the time in which a suit, judgment, or arrest remains effective.

- Criminal convictions from more than 7 years ago;
- Any information about arrests or formal charges from more than 7 years ago;
- Criminal convictions that have been fully pardoned, dismissed, expunged, eradicated, or sealed under court order;
- Any information about arrests or formal charges that did not result in conviction, no matter how recent (unless your judgment is still pending);<sup>1289</sup>
- Any information about referrals to, or participation in, any pre-trial or post-trial diversion programs (court-mandated programs which function as a form of alternative sentencing);
- Paid tax liens from more than 7 years ago;<sup>1290</sup>
- Accounts placed in collections from more than 7 years ago;
- Bankruptcies from more than 10 years ago;
- Evictions actions (“unlawful detainers”) that you won or resolved with a settlement agreement;
- Any other negative information like repossessions, foreclosures, check verification reports, motor vehicle reports, or drug test results<sup>1291</sup> from more than 7 years ago.<sup>1292</sup>

DO PRIVATE BACKGROUND CHECK COMPANIES HAVE TO MAKE SURE THE INFORMATION THEY REPORT TO A LANDLORD IN A TENANT REPORT IS TRUE AND ACCURATE?

Yes. Private background check companies (called “Credit Reporting Agencies” in California) CANNOT include “public record” information unless it has been double-checked for accuracy in the past 30 days. Public record information includes arrests, convictions, civil actions, tax liens, and outstanding judgments.

DOES A PRIVATE LANDLORD HAVE TO TELL ME THAT THE CRIMINAL RECORD INFORMATION THAT SHOWED UP IN A PRIVATE BACKGROUND CHECK/TENANT REPORT IS THE REASON I AM NOT GETTING THE APARTMENT?

Yes! The landlord has to tell you if your criminal history is the reason you are not getting the apartment. If there is a negative action taken—like not renting you the apartment—because of a background report, the landlord must follow this 2-step procedure:

STEP 1: The landlord must provide you with a copy of the report and a copy of the Federal Trade Commission Summary of Rights before the negative action is taken—giving you an opportunity to clear up any inaccuracies in the report.

STEP 2: If the landlord goes forward with the negative action, it must provide you notice about the adverse decision, the contact information of the reporting agency, a statement that the landlord (and not the screening company) made the adverse decision; and your right to dispute the accuracy or completeness of the report.<sup>1293</sup>

YOUR RIGHTS WHEN A PRIVATE LANDLORD DIRECTLY ASKS YOU ABOUT YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD

CAN A PRIVATE LANDLORD ASK ME ABOUT CONVICTIONS OR ARRESTS OLDER THAN 7 YEARS?

Generally, yes.* A private landlord can ask you—in writing in an apartment application OR directly in conversation—about past criminal convictions, arrests, and other criminal activity, and you should answer honestly. BUT if the landlord is asking you about past convictions, criminal conduct or activity, he or she must be asking everyone equally.<sup>1294</sup>

* SPECIAL “BAN THE BOX” PROTECTION IN SAN FRANCISCO, CA:

In San Francisco, CA, there are special protections if you apply to city-funded affordable housing in San Francisco—which includes private “Below Market Rate” (BMR) apartments that are often in new buildings. See Appendix H, PG. 427 to learn more about this new law called the “San Francisco Fair Chance Ordinance,” which prevents some housing providers from asking you about your criminal record on the initial application.

<sup>1290</sup> When a tax debt is not timely paid, the government’s legal claim against your property is considered a “tax lien.”

YOUR RIGHTS TO CONFIDENTIALITY WHEN A PRIVATE LANDLORD GATHERS CRIMINAL RECORD INFORMATION ON YOU

DOES THE LANDLORD HAVE TO PROTECT AND KEEP CONFIDENTIAL MY CRIMINAL RECORD AND OTHER PERSONAL INFORMATION?

Yes. When a landlord collects information in the background check process—like credit reports and criminal background checks/ tenant screening reports, the landlord CANNOT use those reports for any other purpose than the one they originally asked for. Also, when a landlord is done using the information, federal law requires that he/she get rid of it (whether in paper or electronic form).<sup>1295</sup>

ACCESS TO YOUR CRIMINAL RECORDS AS YOU APPLY FOR GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING:

When you apply to PHAs and/or owners of government-assisted housing, they can research you to decide whether you should be accepted or rejected. To do this research, they are allowed to access different kinds of records. There are rules for how they can access and use these records, described below, so keep reading!

PLEASE NOTE: There are different rules for how PHAs and owners of federal government-assisted housing can access and use your criminal history records. In sum, the PHA can get more information about your criminal history than an owner of government-assisted housing. We will explain how each gets access to your criminal history information below.

YOUR RIGHTS WHEN A GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING PROVIDER RUNS A CRIMINAL BACKGROUND CHECK

➤ (1) PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITIES' (PHAS) ACCESS TO YOUR CRIMINAL & DRUG TREATMENT RECORDS:

WHAT CRIMINAL RECORDS CAN A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) ACCESS, AND WHO GIVES THE PHA MY CONVICTION RECORDS?

Most PHAs get criminal history information about you from private background check companies that gather lots of criminal history information from different public sources and put them in one report to the PHA (see more on PG. 377).

PHAs can also get your criminal history information directly from ALL OF THE PUBLIC SOURCES listed on PG. 377, such as Internet searches and adult criminal court records!

If you apply to a PHA for one of the three major federal government-assisted-housing programs (Public Housing, “Section 8” Housing Choice Vouchers, and project-based Section 8 Housing), PHAs can ask for criminal records on you from the National Crime Information Center, state and local police departments, and other law enforcement agencies, and it’s required to give them to the PHA.<sup>1296</sup>

REMEMBER: There is a DIFFERENT RULE FOR OWNERS OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING. Owners of federal government-assisted housing CANNOT get your conviction records directly from the National Crime Information Center or law enforcement agencies—but the PHA might share some of this information with them. See the next question below.

CAN A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) REQUIRE ME TO SIGN A RELEASE TO GET MY CRIMINAL HISTORY INFORMATION?

Yes. PHAs can legally require you to SIGN A RELEASE FORM so that they can get this criminal history information for these housing programs.<sup>1297</sup>

IF I AM MOVING INTO GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING IN A DIFFERENT CITY OR COUNTY, CAN MY CURRENT PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) SHARE MY CRIMINAL HISTORY RECORDS WITH THE NEW PHA WHERE I AM APPLYING?

Most likely, yes. Your current PHA is encouraged (but not required) to send criminal background check information about you to the new PHA.<sup>1298</sup>

CAN A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) ACCESS MY DRUG TREATMENT RECORDS, AND IF SO, UNDER WHAT CIRCUMSTANCES?

The law is still unclear for most government-assisted housing programs. The short answer is that a PHA can get limited access to your drug/alcohol treatment records if you are applying to or currently living as a tenant in the Public Housing program (which is a specific type of government-assisted housing program). There are no similar rules for the other government-assisted housing programs (like “Section 8” Housing Choice Vouchers or the Section 8 Moderate Rehabilitation Program).<sup>1299</sup> Therefore, unless you are applying to the Public Housing program, it is still unclear if PHAs can legally request or obtain information about you from drug/alcohol treatment facilities. This rule is further explained below.

I am an applicant or tenant for the Public Housing program. What information can a Public Housing Authority (PHA) get about me from a drug/alcohol treatment facility?

If you are applying to the Public Housing program, the local PHA is allowed to request and get information about you from drug treatment facilities,<sup>1300</sup> but the PHA is limited to asking only one question relating to your eligibility for the housing, which is:

“Does the drug abuse treatment facility have reasonable cause to believe that the household member is currently engaging in illegal drug use?”<sup>1301</sup>

That is the only question that can be asked and the PHA cannot seek any additional information from the drug treatment facility!

What is the process that a Public Housing Authority (PHA) must follow when requesting information about me from a drug treatment facility?

When requesting information from a drug treatment facility about an applicant or tenant for the public housing program, The PHA must:

- Get your signature on a release form (also called a written consent form) before asking the drug treatment facility about you.<sup>1302</sup> The release automatically expires right after the PHA makes a final decision to approve or deny your application to the government-assisted housing program.<sup>1303</sup>
  - Have a system to protect your confidentiality (your privacy).<sup>1304</sup> When a PHA or landlord collects information in credit and tenant screening reports, it cannot use the information it collects for any purpose other than to decide whether or not to admit you into the housing unit. The PHA and owner must keep this information confidential, even when throwing it out.<sup>1305</sup>
  - Have and follow a nondiscriminatory policy (a document that outlines a policy in regards to discrimination and management practices) that applies equally to anyone applying to

<sup>1299</sup> The argument against such adoption of those rules (for other federally-assisted housing programs, not including public housing, which already has these rules in place) is that Congress intentionally limited the applicability of the statutory provision to public housing and did not extend it to the other programs. However, if a PHA, for the voucher program, or an owner, for other programs, adopts a policy that seeks to obtain records from drug treatment facilities, it should also be argued that the public housing statutory protections or their equivalent must be incorporated, as the statute is designed to avoid a violation of fair housing laws and claims of discrimination based upon disability.

public housing.<sup>1306</sup> This policy must be written down in the PHA's official plans and policies.

WHAT CAN I DO IF A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) VIOLATES MY RIGHTS IN ACCESSING AND USING MY DRUG TREATMENT INFORMATION?

If you believe you were denied housing because of illegal access to your records, or because of incorrect or illegal information, you should IMMEDIATELY ask for a review hearing! A review hearing is an informal procedure in which you can present corrections to your record, evidence of rehabilitation, and other mitigating information (see PG. 371) to challenge a denial to government-assisted housing. Go to PG. 364 of this HOUSING CHAPTER to learn about the procedure for challenging denials and how to request an informal review hearing.

➤ (2) GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED OWNERS' ACCESS TO RECORDS:

WHAT CAN OWNERS OF FEDERAL GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING SEE? HOW DO THEY GET MY CRIMINAL RECORDS?

Most owners of government-assisted housing—just like most private landlords—get your criminal records from background check reports (a.k.a. “tenant reports”) run by private background check companies (a.k.a. “tenant screening” companies), public records and Internet searches, or by asking you directly in your application or interview.

- Unlike PHAs, owners of government-assisted housing CANNOT get records about you directly from the National Crime Information Center, state and local police departments, or other law enforcement agencies.
- Also, owners of government-assisted housing CANNOT get your criminal records directly from the PHA. In fact, PHAs are not allowed to disclose information about your criminal conviction history to owners of government-assisted housing. If an owner wants details about your record, s/he must do his/her own research to get them (with one exception, see side box).<sup>1307</sup>

* THERE IS ONE EXCEPTION TO THIS RULE: Owners of Project-Based Section 8 housing (which is a government-assisted program where the financial subsidy for the housing stays with the unit, as opposed to the traditional Section 8 voucher that moves around with the person) can ask the PHA about your criminal history information BUT cannot get copies of the actual records from the PHA.<sup>1308</sup> The PHA may disclose information to the owner only to the extent necessary to help him/her decide whether you can be denied or evicted from the assisted housing unit.<sup>1309</sup> Lastly, if the PHA is screening your criminal history information for an owner of Project-Based Section 8 housing, the PHA must apply the property owner's own policy, not the PHA's policy, in making that determination.<sup>1310</sup> So if the owner doesn't or can't consider something, the PHA cannot either. In practice, Most owners of project-based Section 8 housing units are not using PHAs to obtain criminal history information; instead, these owners are using private background check companies to get information on applicants (see PG. 377 for more info on the rules governing tenant reports in California).<sup>1311</sup>

➤ (3) LIMITS ON BOTH PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITIES (PHAS) AND OWNERS OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING:

CAN A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) OR OWNER OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING GET RECORDS OF MY ARRESTS THAT DIDN'T LEAD TO CONVICTIONS?

No. Under California state law, police and law enforcement agencies, and private background check companies cannot share information about arrests that did not lead to a conviction—unless the charges are still pending. They CAN ONLY report arrests that are pending AND/OR led to a conviction.<sup>1312</sup>

Unfortunately, private companies hired to do background checks often report arrests anyway—which is against the law. Because this is such a big problem, there are lawyers working to sue reporting agencies that are illegally reporting arrest records.<sup>1313</sup> When you get a copy of your report, check to make sure there are no arrests on it that did not lead to a conviction. If you see any, you can contact the company and demand that it remove that information immediately! See the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 931, for more information about clearing up errors in your record and taking legal action with private companies that break the law.

CAN A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) OR OWNER OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING GET MY JUVENILE RECORDS?

No.<sup>1314</sup> It's against the law for police and law enforcement agencies and private background check companies to share your juvenile record with PHAs.

YOUR RIGHTS WHEN A GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING PROVIDER RUNS A CRIMINAL BACKGROUND CHECK—THE RULES THEY MUST FOLLOW

IMPORTANT: The most common way that most PHAs AND owners of government-assisted housing (as well as private owners) access your criminal history information is by ordering private background check companies to run “tenant screening reports”.

WHAT ARE TENANT SCREENING REPORTS?

As discussed on PG. 377, a tenant screening report is a background check done by a private company or credit bureau on a housing applicant. It reports credit information, employment history, certain criminal history information, entries on sex offender registers and/or other public databases, driving records, and more. A tenant report may also include information gathered from personal interviews with your neighbors, former landlords, or coworkers.

WHO CONDUCTS TENANT SCREENING CHECKS & PROVIDES TENANT REPORTS TO PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITIES (PHAS) & OWNERS OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

Many private background check companies provide tenant screening reports, including the 3 national credit bureaus, Experian, TransUnion, and Equifax.

DO YOU HAVE TO PAY FOR A SCREENING REPORT? IF SO, HOW MUCH DOES A REPORT COST?

No, not if you are applying to government-assisted housing—neither a PHA nor an owner can charge you to run a criminal background check or “tenant report.”

WHAT MUST A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) OR OWNER OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING PROVIDE ME WITH IF IT ORDERS A BACKGROUND CHECK/TENANT REPORT FROM A PRIVATE BACKGROUND CHECK COMPANY?

California state law requires that you receive information about the background check company within 3 days of when the landlord orders your report.<sup>1315</sup>

You also have the right to request a copy of the report from the PHA or landlord for at least 2 years after the report is done.<sup>1316</sup>

<sup>1313</sup> See CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.20(a), 1786.50. The California anti-SLAPP statute could pose a barrier to enforcement of these restrictions. In Mendoza v. ADP Screening and Selection Services, Inc., 107 Cal. Rptr. 3d 294 (Cal. Ct. App. 2010), the defendant credit reporting agency (CRA) disclosed information from the state's sex offender website to a prospective employer. The plaintiff filed suit under a section of the penal code that prohibits the use of information from the website for purposes of employment, and the CRA filed a motion to strike under the anti-SLAPP statute, claiming a constitutional right to provide information from the website to its clients. The court granted the motion, calling the CRA's conduct protected speech under the First Amendment. The court noted that to fall outside of the anti-SLAPP statute, the defendant's conduct must be criminal in nature. <sup>1316</sup> Cal. Civ. Code § 1786.11.

DO I HAVE ANY RIGHTS IF A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) OR OWNER OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING REJECTS MY RENTAL APPLICATION BECAUSE OF A BACKGROUND CHECK/ TENANT REPORT?

Yes. The PHA or landlord must give you an “adverse action” notice letting you know it plans to take an action that could harm you based on information that showed up in your tenant report/background check.<sup>1317</sup> The notice must include the following information:

- The name and contact for the company that supplied the report;
- A statement that the landlord, not the screening company, made the adverse decision; and
- Notice of your right to dispute the accuracy of the report and to receive a free copy of your report within 60 days.<sup>1318</sup>

EXTRA PROTECTIONS FOR THE PUBLIC HOUSING PROGRAM AND THE “SECTION 8” HOUSING CHOICE VOUCHER PROGRAM ONLY:

ONLY for these two government-assisted programs, PHAs must follow certain extra rules (set forth below).

- The PHA must make sure the criminal records are true and accurate. After the PHA has you sign a release of criminal records information and submits that release to the law enforcement agency that holds the criminal records, it may receive a response that there is a match based on your name, date of birth, and social security number. The PHA cannot deny admission based on this information alone; the PHA must verify the match with a positive fingerprint comparison.<sup>1319</sup>
- The PHA must give you notice of any proposed action that could harm you. A PHA must notify the household of any proposed action that could harm you (called an “adverse action” notice). The PHA must also provide a copy of the criminal record information to the person who was the subject of the record—as well as to the applicant, if that’s a different person.<sup>1320</sup>
- The PHA must give you an opportunity to challenge the criminal record information. The person whose information was relied on must be given an opportunity to dispute the proposed negative action.<sup>1321</sup> NOTE: Even if you don’t have an automatic legal right to a review hearing, you can always ask for one! To learn more about challenging a denial to government-assisted housing, please go to PG. 364.
- The PHA Must Protect the Confidentiality of Your Records:<sup>1322</sup> Under federal law, PHAs must have a system to: (1) Protect the confidentiality of applicants’ criminal records; (2) Guard against improper sharing of those records; AND (3) Destroy the records once their purpose has been achieved.<sup>1323</sup>

NEW POLICY FOR LOS ANGELES RESIDENTS: As of 2018, if you live in the City of Los Angeles and are applying to the Section 8 voucher program, the local Housing Authority will no longer consider eligibility criteria related to your criminal background (except where mandated by the federal government).<sup>1324</sup>

<sup>1320</sup> 42 U.S.C. § 1437d(q)(2). There are conflicting interests involved in providing the criminal record to both the applicant and the member of the family subject to the criminal record. The FBI “commented that dissemination of criminal records is limited to those with authorization (such as the PHA) and the person who is the ‘subject’ of the record, not to other persons in the household.” 66 Fed. Reg. 28,776, 28,789 (May 24, 2001). HUD disagreed, contending that under its statutory authority, it is required to provide the information to the applicant or tenant so that the applicant or tenant may dispute the determination.

<sup>1321</sup> 42 U.S.C. § 1437d(q)(2); 24 C.F.R. § 5.903(f); see also 42 U.S.C. §§ 960.204(c), 966.4(l)(5)(iv) (public housing) and 982.553(d) (voucher). The notice and opportunity to contest must also be provided in the case of an eviction or lease enforcement action.

<sup>1322</sup> Special Note for Advocates: The statutory language shows a policy concern that PHAs maintain the confidentiality of criminal records obtained through the federally authorized process. However, the regulation states that it is not applicable to public information or to criminal records information obtained from law enforcement agencies if the information was not sought pursuant to the regulations. 24 C.F.R. §§ 5.901(c), 5.905(c)(2). This exemption may be too broad. The meaning and full effect of the exclusion and its consistency with the statute has not been tested. The concern is that this may mean that if a PHA obtains information from a private consumer reports agency, it may not have to abide by the confidentiality provisions of the statute. 15 U.S.C. §§ 1681-1681u. Additionally, the confidentiality provisions of the statute most likely do not cover information the PHA or owner obtains from other sources, such as police blotters and newspaper reports. Nevertheless, advocates should argue that any information obtained from law enforcement agencies that is not otherwise publicly available should be subject to the statutory protections. 24 C.F.R. § 5.901(c). With respect to the management of the records, the statute references “any criminal records received,” whereas other provisions of the statute are limited to information received under the subsection. 42 U.S.C. § 1437d(q), § 13663(f); see also 24 C.F.R. § 982.307(b)(2) (PHA may provide voucher landlords information in PHA files).

➤ YOUR RIGHTS AGAINST ILLEGAL ACCESS OF YOUR CRIMINAL RECORDS AS YOU APPLY FOR GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING:

WHAT ARE MY LEGAL RIGHTS IF A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) OR OWNER OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING ILLEGALLY ACCESSES OR USES MY CRIMINAL RECORD INFORMATION?

The General Rule: In general, if you believe you were denied housing because of illegal access to your records, or because of incorrect or illegal information, you should IMMEDIATELY ask for a review hearing! A review hearing is an informal procedure in which you can present corrections to your record, evidence of rehabilitation, and other mitigating information (see PG. 371) to challenge a denial to government-assisted housing. Go to PG. 364 of this Chapter to learn about the procedure for challenging denials and how to request an informal review hearing.

Special Rule for the Public Housing & “Section 8” Housing Choice Voucher Programs: If you applied through a PHA for Public Housing or “Section 8” Housing Choice Vouchers, there is a special rule that says PHAs and owners of the government-assisted housing cannot take any “negligent or knowing action that is inconsistent with” the laws and regulations governing access to your criminal records.<sup>1325</sup> A negligent action is one where the PHA or owner of the government-assisted housing knew or should have known that their access to your records violated the law. A knowing action is one where the PHA or owner of the government-assisted housing actually knew that its access to your records violated the law.

A PHA or owner MAY BE LIABLE for negligence if they do any of the following:<sup>1326</sup>

- Improperly disclose a criminal record;
- Improperly use a consent form (a.k.a. a “release” form);
- Fail to notify you of the criminal history information collected;
- Fail to provide you with a copy of the information collected (whether you are an applicant or a current tenant); and/or
- Fail to allow you the right to dispute the information.

In this situation, it’s best to talk to a lawyer! You could recover attorney’s fees and other litigation costs as part of the relief you get in court.<sup>1327</sup> See the list of legal aid providers on PG. 1127 to contact an organization that may be able to provide you legal assistance.

ERRORS IN YOUR BACKGROUND CHECK REPORT & HOW TO CORRECT THEM—AN OVERVIEW

COULD THERE BE ERRORS IN THE BACKGROUND CHECK/ TENANT REPORT THAT A HOUSING PROVIDER RUNS ON ME?

Likely, yes. Unfortunately, errors in background check reports are an incredibly common problem.

HOW CAN I CORRECT ERRORS IN MY BACKGROUND CHECK/ TENANT REPORT?

The law that covers background checks and background check companies is very specific about how you can challenge mistaken, incomplete, or missing information in your background check report/tenant report. If you think there is something wrong, you can tell the landlord, call the background check company that ran the report, and try to get it fixed. For more details on how to correct mistakes in your background check report, see the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 931.

<sup>1326</sup> The broad scope of the PHA’s or owner’s liability may provide leverage for an applicant harmed by the negligence. The threat of litigation costs and attorney’s fees may encourage settlement and the admission of the applicant.

<sup>1327</sup> 42 U.S.C. § 1437d(q)(7); see also Rivers v. Housing Auth. of Contra Costa Cnty., No. C05-04291 PJH (N.D. Cal., complaint filed Oct. 21, 2005) (illegal release of juvenile record); There is no equivalent language regarding fees and costs regarding negligent actions with respect to registered sex offenders.

V. JOINING FAMILY & FRIENDS IN HOUSING

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- Important tips if you are looking to move in with family or friends in their housing
- Suggestions and considerations if you want to move in with family or friends into their private housing
- Suggestions and considerations if you want to move in with family or friends into the government-assisted housing
- Rules and policies if you are a guest in a family member or friend's government-assisted housing
- Rules and policies if you are a live-in aide to someone with special needs or disabilities in government-assisted housing

This section will discuss tips and important steps you should take if you want to join a family or friend's household after your release. In addition to these considerations, you always need to think about any restrictions based on your supervision status (probation, parole, etc.)—learn more about the rules and conditions you must follow for your type of community supervision in the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 125.

JOINING FAMILY OR FRIENDS IN PRIVATE HOUSING

Here are some general tips if you want to join someone in private housing (meaning neither the family or friends living there nor the landlord who owns the housing receive any government money):

1. You can look at the lease/rental agreement and see what it says about the maximum number of occupants/residents and any guest policies (these will usually be in the written lease);
2. You can ask the landlord about guest policies and for permission to add a new person to the lease if that is what you would like to do (sometimes a landlord will say it's allowed but may be able to increase the rent<sup>1328</sup>);
3. If the person you are living with OWNS their housing, you don't have to worry about landlord policies, but you may still want to consider the pros & cons of living with family and friends on PG. 343 above.

JOINING FAMILY OR FRIENDS IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING

I HAVE A CRIMINAL RECORD AND WANT TO JOIN A HOUSEHOLD LIVING IN FEDERAL GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING. CAN I?

It depends on your conviction and the requirements of the government-assisted housing program.

There is a good chance you will want to join or rejoin a family living in a government-assisted housing unit.<sup>1329</sup> Unfortunately, the laws and policies for adding an individual with a criminal record to an existing household can be complex, and sometimes the interests of other family members who are living in the government-assisted housing unit will conflict with your interests in joining them.

Here are some COMMON QUESTIONS that often come up, which we will address in this section.

1. May I join my family members in their government-assisted housing unit? (PG. 385)
2. Does my family have to tell the PHA or owner that I am joining their assisted household? How do they do that? (PG. 386)
3. Can we challenge a denial if the PHA or owner rejects my application to join the household? How do we do that? (PG. 364)
4. Do I have any rights if I am rejoining my household in government-assisted housing? (PG. 386)
5. What are the rules if I just want to be a guest of someone living in government-assisted housing and I have a record? (PG. 388)
6. What are the rules if I am a live-in aide for someone living in government-assisted housing and I have a record? (PG. 390)

I WANT TO JOIN SOMEONE GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING. CAN I?

It depends on your background and on the policies of the PHA or owner. The same eligibility and exclusion rules apply if you want to join a family living in government-assisted housing as those that would apply if you were applying on your own—see PG. 357. As with new applicants there are a few limited situations in which a PHA or owner must reject the new family member<sup>1330</sup> (see PG. 361 for bans based on your criminal record). But in the vast majority of situations, the PHA or owner has BROAD DISCRETION to accept or reject you as an additional household member, just like for new applicants.

The rules for adding family members to an assisted household are different for every assisted housing program and are determined locally. You should be able to find these rules FOR YOUR PROGRAM. You can look in the following places:

- The PHA's Annual Plan
- The PHA's Admission and Occupancy Plan (ACOP)
- The lease for public housing
- The Administrative Plan for the Section 8 Voucher program
- The lease and/or house rules for all other government-assisted programs<sup>1331</sup>
- The PHA's website for these plans
- By asking the PHA and/or owner for a copy.

FIRST, LEARN ABOUT THE CRIMINAL BANS IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING.

Return to the section above about bans to understand when there are required bans vs. when the PHA or owner of government-assisted housing has discretion (meaning is allowed, but not required) to ban you from a government-assisted household. You can also learn how to challenge a denial on PG. 364 of this Chapter.

IMPORTANT: Depending on the type of criminal activity and whether or not it happened on the government-assisted property, it could disqualify not just you, but your entire family from meeting the eligibility requirements of the assisted housing program! (Again, read PG. 356 to better understand eligibility requirements.)

Does the family in that household have to report the addition to the home?

Yes. In general, if a family is adding an adult member to the household, they must (1) tell the PHA and landlord AND (2) in most cases, receive the PHA's and owner's approval to add someone new.<sup>1332</sup> Ask the PHA and owner what the rules are for reporting a new household member, and ask when you have to report the change. Follow the rules so your family member doesn't risk losing their housing!

I WANT TO GO BACK TO MY GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING UNIT AFTER A BRIEF PERIOD IN JAIL OR PRISON. CAN I DO THAT?

It depends on the program. And it depends on the criminal activity.

As always, anyone joining or returning to government-assisted housing MUST meet ALL of the eligibility requirements for that housing program, for that PHA, and for the owner (if there is one).

For exclusions (bans) based on your criminal record, read PG. 361 of this chapter to understand when there are required bans vs. when the PHA or owner of government-assisted housing has discretion (meaning is allowed, but not required) to ban you from a government-assisted household. You can also learn how to challenge a denial on PG. 364 of this Chapter.

For most federal government-assisted housing programs, the local PHA and owner of the government-assisted housing may develop rules and policies regarding temporary absences, and many do have such policies. You need to check with the PHA and owner that oversee the housing unit you want to join about their policies.<sup>1333</sup>

SPECIAL RULE FOR SECTION 8 VOUCHERS:

The PHA is actually required to have a written policy in its "Administrative Plan" about temporary absences for anyone in the "Section 8" Housing Choice Voucher program, so if you are in that program, there will definitely be a local policy!
24 C.F.R. § 982.54(d)(10). The Voucher program's temporary absence policy must state whether or when the family may be absent—including for imprisonment; the amount of time you are allowed to be absent for; and how to resume your housing assistance. 24 C.F.R. § 982.312(e).

<sup>1332</sup> 24 C.F.R. §§ 966.4(a)(1)(v), 982.516(c), 982.551(h)(2). Because tenants generally are not aware of the rules set forth in HUD Handbooks, and the lease does not require interim reporting, tenants without notice of the obligation to report should not be penalized for failing to report interim changes in family composition. Compare HUD, Occupancy Requirements Of Subsidized Multifamily Housing Programs ¶ 7-10(A)(2) (rev. November 2013) (requiring that all tenants notify the owner when a family member proposes to move a new member into the unit), with HUD, Occupancy Requirements Of Subsidized Multifamily Housing Programs, App. 4-A the model lease, ¶ 16a (does not require interim reporting of changes in family composition).

IMPORTANT: Since your return could harm the entire family's ability to stay in government-assisted housing, it's a good idea for the family to discuss these issues with the PHA and/or owner of the government-assisted housing BEFORE you return from your brief absence. If that is not possible, there are legal defenses to an eviction action if it is brought against the entire family in court. This HOUSING CHAPTER does not cover eviction law and all of its defenses, so if this is your issue, you will need to contact a legal aid organization that specializes in eviction defense. Go to PG. 1127 for a list of legal aid organizations that may be able to help.

IF I AM JOINING A HOUSEHOLD, WILL THE PHA OR OWNER OF THE GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING RUN A CRIMINAL BACKGROUND CHECK ON ME?

Most likely, yes. Most government-assisted housing programs, will check the members of a family every year, and some programs will require mid-year reporting as well. This process is called recertification. When the recertification process is happening, the PHA or owner will be checking all new household members to make sure they meet all of the eligibility criteria for move-in! Most PHAs and owners will check the criminal background of any NEW family members at this time. They could re-check the criminal background of current tenants at this time, but it's unlikely.<sup>1334</sup> The criminal background check on any tenant could lead to the PHA or owner threatening to evict or end the assistance to an entire household.<sup>1335</sup> Again, this HOUSING CHAPTER does not go into eviction defense, but see PG. 1127 for a list of legal aid organizations that may be able to help you if you are facing an eviction.

BE PREPARED TO EXPLAIN WHY YOU SHOULD BE ACCEPTED INTO HOUSING, DESPITE YOUR RECORD.

Because the PHA or owner is likely to run a criminal background check on you, you should be prepared—if asked—to honestly disclose your criminal record and to demonstrate mitigating circumstances and evidence of your rehabilitation (see PG. 371). Consider giving the PHA or owner additional information about all the benefits of having you join the family and how your joining may positively affect the stability of the entire housing development. These benefits depend on the facts of your specific situation. For example, you might include information about your relationship with the family members currently living in the household, especially a positive relationship with any children or a supportive relationship between you and your spouse. Another example is your potential for increasing the income of the family members that are already living in the assisted housing unit, and therefore stabilizing the rent paid to the PHA or owner.

IF I AM BEING INCARCERATED FOR A NEW OFFENSE, DOES MY FAMILY HAVE TO REPORT THAT I MOVED OUT?

Generally, yes. PHAs and owners of government-assisted housing usually have policies that require family members to report when a family member moves out.<sup>1336</sup> The family's duty to report an absence generally depends on whether your absence is temporary, and whether you intend to continue to reside in the unit after your return. Whether or not you have to re-apply will depend on how long you are gone. Many PHAs consider you to have permanently moved out if you're absent from the rental unit for 30 or more consecutive days.<sup>1337</sup> Keep in mind that depending on the terms of your lease/rental agreement, the PHA may be able to evict your family for failing to report any changes in the number of people living there (called "occupants").

WHY DO THESE RULES ABOUT JOINING HOUSEHOLDS EXIST?

These policies exist because PHAs and owners have an interest in knowing who is living in their units. They may want to review current information to assess how you may act as a tenant, whether you will obey the lease, and whether you pose a threat to other residents, the housing development, or their staff. The PHA or owner may also need to know who is residing in the unit to calculate the amount of rent owed and/or to determine the correct family size for the specific unit.

<sup>1333</sup> In the RD programs, the owner must include a number of policies in the lease with the tenant, which must be approved by the agency. RD regulations require that the lease include information regarding the tenant's duty to notify the owner of an extended absence. 7 C.F.R. § 3560.156(c)(18)(xiii).

Therefore, even if your absence is temporary (for example, less than 30 days), your family should still report that you've temporarily moved out to the PHA and owner of the government-assisted housing unit, to avoid breaking any rules in the lease. There is a chance that if it's just a short, temporary absence, it won't change your family's ability to stay in the government-assisted housing unit. BUT if you know you are going to be absent from the unit for 30 or more days, then your family should declare you permanently absent, meaning that you have permanently moved out.<sup>1338</sup> If, after your incarceration, you intend to return to the unit, you will have to re-apply and meet ALL of the eligibility requirements (see PG. 357 to understand how your criminal record could affect your being re-admitted to federal government-assisted housing).

GUEST POLICIES IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING:

I HAVE A RECORD AND WANT TO TEMPORARILY VISIT OR STAY OVERNIGHT AS A GUEST WITH MY FAMILY IN THEIR GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING UNIT. WILL MY VISIT IN ANY WAY RISK MY FAMILY'S GOVERNMENT ASSISTANCE?

Unfortunately, it could—depending on the policies of the PHA or owner. Below we explain the general rules for staying with family or friends as a guest in their government-assisted housing, and suggested steps to avoid putting their housing assistance at risk.

I HAVE A RECORD AND WANT TO TEMPORARILY VISIT OR STAY OVERNIGHT AS A GUEST WITH MY FAMILY IN THEIR GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING UNIT. WHAT ARE SOME SUGGESTED STEPS I CAN TAKE TO AVOID PUTTING MY FAMILY OR FRIEND'S HOUSING ASSISTANCE AT RISK?

(1) If you are planning to stay for only 1 night as a guest:

People living in government-assisted housing are usually allowed to have overnight guests. For federal government-assisted housing, federal regulations define the term “guest” as “a person temporarily staying in the unit with the consent of a tenant.”<sup>1339</sup> The person living in the government-assisted housing unit should not be required to register or seek prior approval for an overnight guest (unless that guest is otherwise banned from being there). The owner of the government-assisted housing should allow the tenant to host guests for a “reasonable” amount of time,<sup>1340</sup> which is usually 14 to 30 days, depending on the PHA or owner's policy.<sup>1341</sup>

WARNING: Sometimes an individual CANNOT stay as a guest or visit government-assisted property AT ALL. For example, if someone committed a criminal offense on the property, the PHA and owner of the housing may be legally allowed to ban that person from ever returning. Someone could also have a parole or probation condition that forbids them from being on the property. For this reason, you want to be careful to know the rules of that PHA or owner AND know your rules of probation or parole.

(2) If you are planning to stay for longer than 1 night as a guest:

You want to be careful to know the rules of that PHA or owner about “Unauthorized Occupants.” There are situations where, instead of being seen as a “guest”—even if that's what you and your family consider you to truly be—the PHA or owner might classify you as an “unauthorized occupant,” a resident living in that housing unit without permission of the PHA or owner and against the rules. Being seen as an unauthorized occupant is a big problem for many reasons:

<sup>1340</sup> See, e.g., McKenna v. Peekskill Hous. Auth., 647 F.2d 332 (2d Cir. 1981) (a PHA's two-week visitation rule was reasonable); Lancor v. Lebanon Hous. Auth., 760 F.2d 361 (1st Cir. 1985); see also 42 U.S.C. § 1437d(l)(2) (PHAs “must utilize leases that do not contain unreasonable terms and conditions”); Ritter v. Cecil County Office of Hous. & Comm. Dev., 33 F.3d 323 (4th Cir. 1994) (upholding, against First Amendment association and privacy claims, PHA's two-week visitation rule for Section 8 tenant-based recipients as reasonable under HUD regulations prohibiting residency by nonfamily members); 42 U.S.C. § 1715z–1b(b)(3). Some state courts have also invalidated unreasonable guest policies imposed by subsidized owners. See Messiah Baptist Hous. Dev. Fund Co. v. Rosser, 92 Misc. 2d 383 (1977) (occasional overnight visitor does not violate subsidized housing lease provisions requiring reporting of changes in income and family composition and prohibiting accommodations for boarders); Ashley Ct. Enters. v. Whittaker, 249 N.J. Super. 552 (App. Div. 1991) (refusing eviction of tenant-based Section 8 recipient because lease provision barring recurring visits was unreasonable and so vague as to be unenforceable); cf. New Boston Kiwanis Hous. Dev. Corp. v. Sparks, No. 1957, 1992 WL 79561 (Ohio Ct. App. Apr. 14, 1992) (lease provision requiring tenant to report changes in family composition does not constitute unlawful attempt to legislate morality; if guest stays long enough to become household member, tenant can be evicted for failing to report).

<sup>1341</sup> See, e.g., Ritter v. Cecil County Office of Hous. & Cmty. Dev., 33 F.3d 323 (4th Cir. 1994) (Section 8 tenant-based recipient violated two-week guest rule and had notice that violation could result in termination); Zajac v. Altoona Hous. Auth., 156 Pa. Commw. 209 (1993), appeal denied, 537 Pa. 627 (PHA policy provided that no one other than a resident could reside in the unit other than on a temporary basis not to exceed 30 days).

- Your income and/or assets (for example, any savings or major property you own) could affect the amount of rental assistance that your family receives. The total income might be too high for the family to qualify for any assistance at all. This could lead to your family being evicted from the unit or losing its financial assistance for the housing unit.
- Just by being in the apartment, you might be violating the lease or the owner's or PHA's guest policies and subject your family to eviction.

If you want to stay as a guest for a longer period, you need to know the PHA or owner's time limit on the number of back-to-back days OR number of total days in a year that a guest may stay in the government-assisted housing unit and still be considered a "guest."

IMPORTANT! Again, find out the PHA's and owner's rules and do not break them. Check the lease and the PHA's and owner's policies. There is usually a period of time stated in the lease and/or in the PHA's or owner's policies that defines when a guest becomes an "unauthorized occupant."

Special Guest Policy Rules for Specific Government-Assisted Housing Programs: Section 8 Vouchers and Rural Development Housing

Section 8 Vouchers programs: Some PHAs have established guest policies for Section 8 voucher participants, limiting the time period that persons not listed as household members can stay with a tenant.<sup>1342</sup> PHAs should inform participants of these policies and give them an opportunity to request that anyone living there for a longer period be added to the household.

Rural Development (RD) programs: Federal regulations require that all RD leases "include provisions that establish when a guest will be considered a member of the household and be required to be added to the tenant certification."<sup>1343</sup> Also, the owner of the property must post this same information in its occupancy rules.<sup>1344</sup> That means that although there is no standard amount of time required by law, the owner still must include its guest policies in the agency-approved lease used with tenants. As with the other programs, preapproval and registration of guests should not be required and the amount of time that a tenant may have a guest should be a reasonable period. However, if the guest was a former tenant who committed a drug violation and was evicted, then the owner may require that the tenant obtain approval before the guest may visit.<sup>1345</sup>

IF I AM PLANNING TO STAY AS A GUEST WITH FAMILY OR FRIENDS UNTIL I AM ADDED TO THEIR HOUSING LEASE, WHAT ARE SOME SUGGESTED STEPS I CAN TAKE TO MAKE SURE WE ARE FOLLOWING ALL THE GUEST POLICIES?

Yes, you can try to negotiate with the PHA or owner of the government-assisted property.

For example, if your family is seeking to add you to the lease—but the screening process to add you to the lease TAKES LONGER than the amount of time the family is allowed to have you as a guest—your family, or an advocate working on your behalf, may be able to negotiate with the housing provider at the start to extend the period of time that you are allowed to stay as a guest in that government-assisted household.<sup>1346</sup> If your family can negotiate a policy that allows you to stay longer as their guest, this helps avoid problems later on if the PHA or owner of the government-assisted housing accuses your family of exceeding the time limits for guests, in violation of their lease agreement.

IF A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) OR OWNER OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING DENIES MY REQUEST TO BE ADDED TO MY FAMILY OR FRIEND'S LEASE, WHO CAN CHALLENGE THE DENIAL AND HOW?

Your family member (whomever is listed on the lease) can request a REVIEW HEARING (sometimes call a grievance hearing, informal review, informal hearing, or conference)! Go to PG. 364 to learn about how to challenge a denial to government-assisted housing and request a review hearing.

<sup>1342</sup> See, e.g., Ritter v. Cecil County Office of Hous. & Cmty. Dev., 33 F.3d 323 (4th Cir. 1994) (Section 8 tenant-based recipient violated two-week guest rule and had notice that violation could result in termination); Zajac v. Altoona Hous. Auth., 156 Pa. Commw. 209 (1993), appeal denied, 537 Pa. 627 (PHA policy provided that no one other than a resident could reside in the unit other than on a temporary basis not to exceed 30 days).

POLICIES FOR LIVE-IN AIDES IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING

WHAT IS A “LIVE-IN AIDE?”

A live-in aide is a person who resides with one or more elderly, near elderly, or disabled persons, and who is essential to the care and well-being of that individual. The live-in aide is not obligated to support the person and would not be living in the unit except to provide the required services.<sup>1347</sup>

A live-in aide is NOT a household member. If you are a live-in aide, your income will be excluded from calculating the rent for the assisted unit. However, the family that lives in the unit could request an extra bedroom for the live-in aide and then be required to pay the standard amount for the larger bedroom size.

CAN I BE SOMEONE’S LIVE-IN AIDE IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING IF I HAVE CRIMINAL RECORD?

Maybe. If you have a criminal record, you may be able to reside in a government-assisted housing unit as a live-in aide, but you will need to be screened (see next question).

Depending on the policies of the PHA or owner, the criminal background check conducted for a live-in aide may be less strict than the one used for admitting a new tenant because a live-in aide is not considered a true household member.

WILL THE PHA OR OWNER SCREEN ME FOR MY CRIMINAL BACKGROUND IF I AM SOMEONE’S LIVE-IN AIDE?

Yes. The PHA and owner can screen you for issues related to your being present in the assisted unit. Most PHAs and owners will screen live-in aides for their criminal background using the same or similar criteria as they use for admissions (read PG. 361 for the criminal record-related bans in federal government-housing, including which ones are required versus which ones are allowed).<sup>1348</sup>

WILL THE PHA OR OWNER SCREEN ME FOR MY CREDIT HISTORY IF I AM SOMEONE’S LIVE-IN AIDE?

No. The PHA or owner should not screen you for your credit history if you are a live-in aide. Your credit history has nothing to do with the family’s ability to pay for the unit—so you should not be screened for credit.<sup>1349</sup>

I WAS EXCLUDED FROM BEING SOMEONE’S LIVE-IN AIDE BASED ON MY CRIMINAL RECORD. WHAT CAN I DO?

The person requiring aide should ask for a review hearing. Go to PG. 364 to learn how (s)he can challenge this denial of you as his/her live-in aide. There may be situations in which the disabled or elderly resident needing the care has great difficulty finding a live-in aide, or that you meet some unique need of that individual requiring care. In such situations, the disabled/elderly individual needing the live-in aide may request a reasonable accommodation for a disability by asking the PHA or owner to waive its strict screening criteria, and allow the person with the criminal record to reside in the unit as a live-in aide due to the special function he or she plays in the tenant’s life.

WHAT MAKES A REQUEST FOR A REASONABLE ACCOMMODATION SUCCESSFUL?

Whether the request for reasonable accommodation is successful will depend upon the facts and an interpretation of reasonable accommodation rules, discussed in Appendix E, PG. 419.

I AM A LIVE-IN AIDE IN A GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED UNIT, BUT THE PERSON WHO I WAS CARING FOR HAS LEFT THE UNIT. DO I HAVE A RIGHT TO STAY?

No. If you are a live-in aide, you have NO RIGHT to continue living in the assisted unit if the tenant needing the assistance leaves.<sup>1350</sup>

VI. CHALLENGING DENIALS FROM HOUSING

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- Tips and guidance for challenging an illegal denial to private housing
- Tips and guidance for challenging an illegal or unfair denial to government-assisted housing (either through a Public Housing Authority (PHA) or an owner of government-assisted housing units)

CHALLENGING DENIALS TO PRIVATE HOUSING:

If you believe you have been illegally discriminated against in applying for private housing from a private landlord, you can challenge that discriminatory denial. Read about the bases that you can challenge an illegal discriminatory denial below, and which government agencies you should contact.

WHAT ARE MY MAIN OPTIONS FOR CHALLENGING A DENIAL TO PRIVATE HOUSING?

- Blanket bans against all people with criminal records
- Treating your criminal record differently than others (arbitrary discrimination)
- Landlord violated your right to notice of a background check, and your right to fix errors (go to PG. 377)

Go to Appendix I, PG. 430 to learn about how to file a discrimination complaint with a government agency. Try to get a lawyer to help if you can. See PG. 1127 of this guide for a list of legal aid providers across California.

As a summary, your main options for challenging an illegal denial from private housing are the following:

1. You could file an administrative complaint with California's DFEH (the state housing protection agency);
2. You could file an administrative complaint with HUD (the federal housing protection agency);
3. You could file a civil lawsuit in state or federal court; OR
4. You could allow HUD (the federal housing agency) or California's DFEH (the state housing agency) to file a lawsuit on your behalf.

HOW DO I FIGURE OUT WHICH OPTION TO CHOOSE IF I WANT TO CHALLENGE A DENIAL FROM PRIVATE HOUSING?

Talk to a lawyer or an advocate at a nonprofit legal services organization if possible—they can help advise you! Also, you can always file a complaint with both HUD & DFEH, but talking to a lawyer is important. More on each of these 3 options below.

For general instructions on how to file a complaint against a private landlord, go to Appendix I, PG. 430.

CHALLENGING DENIALS TO GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING

This section will help you understand how to challenge a denial from a federal government-assisted housing program, and what to expect in the process.

If you are denied government-assisted housing, you have the right to receive notice of the denial with the SPECIFIC REASONS for the denial—including anything that came up in your criminal records (see PG. 56 for what PHAs and government-assisted owners can access). You also have the right to a review of the denial—which could be a very informal meeting or hearing (see PG. 78 about what those look like) and the right to receive information on how to prepare for that informal hearing/review. You also have rights during the review hearing process AND the right to challenge the decision if you still disagree. Continue reading to learn more.

WHEN WOULD I CHALLENGE A DENIAL FROM A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) OR OWNER OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

RECALL—Important Information about the “Catch-All” Ban: Under the “CATCH-ALL” ban (described in detail on PG. 361), there are many situations in which a PHA and/or owner of government-assisted housing is allowed BUT NOT REQUIRED to deny you. In fact, the law limits the ways that PHAs and owners of government-assisted housing can exclude you passed on your past criminal history.

If the PHA or owner of the government-assisted housing discriminated against you in a way that was illegal, or abused their discretion in denying you the housing—either for something in your criminal record, a disability, OR because they relied on mistaken information—then you will want to challenge that denial by asking for a review of the decision. YOU WILL ALSO WANT TO GATHER AS MUCH INFORMATION AS POSSIBLE (see PG. 371 about mitigating circumstances and proof of your rehabilitation) to prove that you should not have been denied.

The PHA or owner of government-assisted housing must follow certain laws and rules when considering your past convictions and criminal history information. They may only reject you for criminal activity that threatens the health, safety, or peace of other residents or staff AND the criminal activity must be “reasonably recent.” For more information on these protections, go to PG. 357.

IF I WAS DENIED GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING, HOW WILL I KNOW THE REASON WHY?

If you were denied housing due to information that showed up in your criminal record, then the PHA also MUST give you a copy of the criminal record it used. This will help you to understand why you were denied.<sup>1351</sup>

Furthermore, if you are denied admission to federal government-assisted housing, you have the right to WRITTEN detailed notice of the denial—THIS SHOULD EXPLAIN THE SPECIFIC REASON(S) YOU WERE DENIED!<sup>1352</sup> Sometimes, PHAs and owners will give you a general notice just telling you that you were denied, but not the specific conduct or offense that was the basis for the decision. If you get a general notice without the important details, you should ask for the detailed notice—which you have the right to! The PHA or owner of government-assisted housing MUST provide you with a detailed notice by law.<sup>1353</sup>

HELPFUL HINT:

Language of Notice: If there are a lot of non-English speakers served by the PHA or owner, the notice may have to be written in the language used by the applicant. If you need the notice to be translated, ask the PHA or owner for a copy in your native language.

WHAT IS THE TIMELINE FOR CHALLENGING A DENIAL TO GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

In terms of timing, if you want to challenge a denial, you should request a “review hearing” in writing as soon as you receive notice of the denial. There are strict time deadlines for requesting a review hearing, and they are different for every housing program. You must stick to the deadline, so READ THE NOTICE of denial! You may have as little as 1 week (7 days) to request a review hearing! If you miss the deadline, you will not only lose the housing unit, but will also be taken off the waitlist and have to reapply. If you request a review hearing on time, the housing unit will be held for you until there is a final decision!

HELPFUL HINT:

Challenging the rejection may give you the necessary time to improve or gather information to clarify your criminal history. If you haven’t already done so, you should request a copy of your criminal record (RAP sheet) and try to correct any mistakes. See more in the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP CRIMINAL RECORDS CHAPTER on PG. 939 You should also gather evidence of rehabilitation and mitigating evidence.

WILL I DEFINITELY GET INTO GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING IF I AM SUCCESSFUL IN CHALLENGING THE INITIAL DENIAL?

No, not necessarily. If you are successful, you could get admitted into housing, but you might just get another review of the facts or another hearing—which could help you get in, or could still result in denial.<sup>1354</sup> What you will get, if successful, is a fairer hearing.

HOW CAN I FIGURE OUT THE SPECIFIC PROCEDURES FOR CHALLENGING A DENIAL TO GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

The notice will tell you the specific procedure for challenging the denial for that particular housing program. The first step in challenging any denial, however, is always to submit a WRITTEN request for a review hearing, where you can fight the denial. By law, you almost always have the right to a review of denial from government-assisted housing.<sup>1355</sup>

<sup>1353</sup> See, e.g., 7 C.F.R. § 3560.154(h) (requiring that the credit report relied upon to deny admission to an applicant under the USDA Rural Development housing programs be attached to Notices of Ineligibility or Rejection in accordance with the Fair Reporting Credit Act); HUD, Public Housing Occupancy Guidebook, ¶ 4.9 (June 2003); see also Edgecomb v. Kelly, 397 U.S. 254 (1970) and Edgecomb, and public policy).

<sup>1354</sup> Special Note for Advocates: This section cites cases involving denial or termination from federally assisted housing. Note: There may be cases from other social welfare programs that also may be used to build an applicant’s case. Such cases are not included in this discussion, as they are beyond the scope of this manual.

The notice of denial will tell you who to send the written request for a review hearing to AND when you need to do it (the timing deadline by which you have to challenge the denial).<sup>1356</sup> The time frames must be “reasonable”—which usually means within 10-30 days.<sup>1357</sup> Follow the deadlines that you are given!

In sum, if you were denied from housing because of your record and you want to fight it, your first step will be to request a review hearing in writing, and you always should. ALWAYS ASK FOR A HEARING WITHIN THE DEADLINE LISTED ON YOUR DENIAL NOTICE—and follow all of the procedures the notice gives you!

Although not required, the denial letter (rejection notice) should also state the legal services offices nearest to you. If it does, call that office for extra help!

IMPORTANT! ASK YOUR SUPPORTERS TO COME TO THE HEARING WITH YOU! If there are individuals who are willing to accompany you to your hearing and testify (talk about how your circumstances have changed and to support your housing application), their attendance can help!

REVIEW HEARINGS: THE WAY TO CHALLENGE A DENIAL TO GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING

Requesting a review hearing is one of the most important avenues for challenging a denial to most types of government-assisted housing (whether it was a denial by the Public Housing Authority (PHA) or an owner of government-assisted housing).

Of course, if you can, it’s best to find a lawyer or advocate who can help you through this process. It’s tough to find lawyers who do this, but it’s worth a try. See PG 1127 for a list of legal aid organizations that may be able to help advise you as you challenge your denial from government-assisted housing. If you cannot find a lawyer to help you, do not despair! It’s possible to do this on your own!

WHAT CAN I EXPECT AT THE REVIEW HEARING? AND HOW CAN I PREPARE?

THE HEARING:

After you have sent in a written request for a review hearing, it is important to prepare. At the informal hearing or review, it is important to show the PHA or owner of the government-assisted housing that they should not have denied you the housing because of mitigating circumstances and/or proof of rehabilitation (see PG. 371), a disability that requires a reasonable accommodation (see Appendix E, PG. 419), or a mistake in the criminal records that the PHA or owner used (see CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, PG. 939). Before the informal hearing/review, you should:

1. Ask the PHA or owner for all documents and information regarding the denial of your housing application, including a copy of the criminal records it relied upon to deny you.<sup>1358</sup>
2. Get a copy of your criminal record yourself to make sure it is correct. (For information on how to do this, see CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, PG. 950).
  - o Compare your criminal record with the information the PHA or owner used to deny you.
  - o At the same time, you will want to work on fixing any mistakes in the records used by the PHA or owner—or showing documentation of the errors. Records often have mistakes and you shouldn’t be

v. Pierce, 745 F.2d 453 (7th Cir. 1984) (applicants for Section 8 new construction projects lack sufficient property interest for due process protections).

<sup>1356</sup> Holmes v. N.Y. City Hous. Auth., 398 F.2d 262, 264 (2nd Cir. 1968); Billington v. Underwood, 613 F.2d 91 (5th Cir. 1980), and subsequent opinion, Billington v. Underwood, No. 81-7978, 707 F.2d 522 (11th Cir. May 23, 1983); see also Vance v. Hous. Opportunities Comm’n, 332 F. Supp. 2d 832 (D. Md. 2004) (mentally disabled tenant challenged a termination from Supportive Housing program and denial of reinstatement based on various procedural deficiencies; court preliminarily ordered reconsideration of reinstatement request and new hearing on termination with other procedural protections).

<sup>1357</sup> See, e.g., 24 C.F.R. § 5.514(e)(1) (applicants for federally assisted housing rejected because of rules regarding immigration statutes have 30 days from notice to request grievance hearing); 7 C.F.R. § 3560.154(e) (Rural Development housing notice must be delivered by certified mail return receipt requested or hand-delivered letter with signed receipt by applicant and inform denied applicant of the right to respond within 10 calendar days after date of notice and right to hearing available upon request), whereas, 7 C.F.R. 3560.160(h) states notice must be given of the right to respond within 10 days after receipt of notice (emphasis added); HUD, Occupancy Requirements Of Subsidized Multifamily Housing Programs ¶ 4-9(C)(2)(b) (rev. November 2013) (notice must inform applicant of right to respond in writing or to request a meeting within 14 days of rejection); HUD, Public Housing Occupancy Guidebook, App. VIII (Applicant Notice of Rejection) (June 2003) (request informal hearing within 10 days); see also Samuels v. District of Columbia, 669 F. Supp. 1133, 1140 (D.D.C. 1987) (10-day period for a tenant to seek grievance hearing is unreasonably short).

<sup>1358</sup> For the USDA rural housing programs, applicants who have been denied housing and choose to file grievances are entitled to examine the records that a borrower plans to rely upon to defend the admission decision. 7 C.F.R. § 3560.160(g)(4) (Rural Development housing); see also, HUD, Public Housing Occupancy Guidebook, App. VIII (sample Applicant Notice of Rejection) (June 2003) (offers applicant the opportunity to review applicant file); See Chapter 3 for a discussion of special federal rules regarding access to criminal records by PHAs and owners. In the event that the denial is based upon criminal record information obtained by a PHA (including lifetime sex offender registration) in accordance with the federal statute, the PHA has an obligation to provide the applicant a copy of that record.

denied housing for an error.<sup>1359</sup> (See CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, PG. 944.) This can take time, so you should act fast, and ask the PHA and/or owner of the government-assisted housing to hold the unit while you collect the documents you need.

3. Review your application & be prepared to talk about important differences.
  - Make sure you know what you wrote on your application about your criminal record, illegal drug use, or whatever it was that made you get denied for the housing. For example, what did you say in response to the question about your convictions? What did you say about your illegal drug use? Whom did you say would live in your household? If the answer you gave on your application is not exactly the same as the answer you would give today, you must be able to explain why. If you didn't include certain information about your criminal record in your application to the PHA or owner, you will have to explain why it was left out. Or if you said that a certain relative would be living with you who is not, you need to explain what has changed.

IMPORTANT: If you were denied under a ban that is allowed but not required, you will want to prove to the PHA or owner that there are mitigating circumstances or evidence that you have changed and rehabilitated since the time of your offense.

If you were denied because of your criminal history, you should present evidence of rehabilitation to show the PHA you are not a threat to the health or safety of other residents, PHA staff or contractors. This includes all the letters and documents you can think of that will show how you have changed and grown since your negative conduct. You should get any of the following: letters of support.<sup>1360</sup> Ask people who have supported you through reentry—like your current employer, a teacher, probation officer, social worker, neighbors, current or prior landlords, and community leaders— to write a letter of support on your behalf. The letters should emphasize:

- How your circumstances have changed since the negative conduct/ offense,
- That you are a good person who gets along well with others,
- That you are motivated to improve your life, and
- Your good performance or attendance record if you are in school or working.

WHAT CAN I EXPECT FROM THE REVIEW HEARING?<sup>1361</sup> WHAT IS IT LIKE?

Every hearing is different, but generally, the hearing is likely to be very informal (more details about these informal hearings below). It is very different from a court proceeding, and formal evidence rules do NOT apply. For example, the PHA or owner may introduce newspaper reports, police blotters, declarations or criminal records, with no one to authenticate or testify about the records.<sup>1362</sup> You are also allowed to bring in any evidence showing why your criminal record should not bar you from getting into the housing program.

You are allowed, and it's recommended, that you bring a friend or family member who can be supportive and can also be a witness to what is happening and what is said at the hearing.

IMPORTANT!

You have the opportunity to tell the hearing officer why the decision he/she made is wrong

TIPS:

- Try to explain clearly what they missed, made mistake on, or why their decision was wrong.
- Be as composed and clear as possible.
- Bring a friend, witness, and/or lawyer or advocate if you can.

Auth.*, 91 A.D.2d 1147, 1147-48 (N.Y. App. Div. 1983). Hearsay rules, if used, will likely apply to all parties. Therefore, an applicant should be prepared to have whatever hearsay rules are adopted apply to the evidence that he or she presents. Broughton v. Hous. Auth. of Pittsburgh, 755 A.2d 105 (Pa. Commw. Ct. 2000) (tenant's hearsay evidence excluded in judicial setting).

WHAT RIGHTS DO I HAVE IN A REVIEW HEARING?

1. You have the right to a hearing before an impartial, unbiased hearing officer.<sup>1363</sup> That means that hearing officer should be independent, with no stake in the outcome of the hearing, and ready to hear both sides. He/she should not be the same person who made the original decision to deny you, or anyone who works for the person who made the original decision to deny you<sup>1364</sup>
2. You have the right to an opportunity to make an argument (called a “rebuttal”) to challenge the information the PHA or owner relied upon in denying you.<sup>1365</sup>
3. You should be allowed to explain why you pled guilty to a past conviction.<sup>1366</sup> The hearing’s decision maker may find your explanation important and relevant.
4. You should ask for a written transcript and an audio recording of the review hearing (the “record”). If the hearing officer won’t provide you this, you can ask to bring in your own recording device (many cell phones have this function).
5. Question witnesses, and to ask that they testify under oath.<sup>1367</sup>
6. The right to a written decision after the review hearing (for most government-assisted housing programs).<sup>1368</sup> The written decision must be given to you within a reasonable period of time (usually 10-30 days), state the reasons for the decision, and state the evidence the hearing officer relied upon in making a decision.<sup>1369</sup>
7. Extra Rights for Public Housing & Voucher housing programs: In addition to the requirements above, for public housing and the voucher program ONLY, there is the additional protection that the subject of the hearing can only go into the issues that were presented in the rejection notice.<sup>1370</sup> At the hearing, no information should be presented if it was not the basis for the rejection, because otherwise you don’t have an opportunity to investigate ahead of time and challenge that new information at the hearing.
8. The rules for Rural Development (RD) hearings are different. Read more in APPENDIX J, PG. 435.

WHAT CAN I DO IF I AM UNHAPPY WITH THE WRITTEN DECISION BY THE REVIEW HEARING?

If you are unhappy with the decision made at the review hearing, and want to challenge it, ask your lawyer and/or the hearing officer how to challenge. Usually, if you lose your informal hearing, you cannot continue to challenge the denial of government housing at the Public Housing Authority (PHA) level. Most likely, the only way for you to continue to challenge the denial after losing your informal review hearing is to sue the Public Housing Authority in court.<sup>1371</sup> This is a complex decision—contact a lawyer for help (see a list of legal aid offices that may be able to assist on PG. 1127).

VII. MAINTAINING MY HOUSING

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- General tips for renters
- Your rights and responsibilities as a renter
- Tips and guidance about your options if you are facing an eviction

GENERAL TIPS FOR RENTERS

I AM PLANNING TO RENT AN APARTMENT (PRIVATE OR GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED). WHAT ARE SOME GENERAL TIPS FOR RENTERS?

These tips can help you prepare for the process of renting an apartment, and avoid problems related to background checks!

ORDER YOUR FREE CREDIT REPORT BEFORE YOU APPLY FOR AN APARTMENT.

The landlord will almost certainly order your credit report before letting you live as a tenant in his/her unit. Even though this Chapter does not go into all of the rules and laws that govern credit check, it's still important to understand that this is part of what most landlords will be looking at. Before you apply to ANY type of housing, you can order your own credit report to make sure that all the information is accurate and up-to-date. You can order your credit reports free once every 12 months from each of the three national credit bureaus: (1) Experian, (2) TransUnion, and (3) Equifax. To learn more, see the Federal Trade Commission's information on Free Annual Credit Reports on its website: <http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/microsites/freereports/index.shtml> (Note: this is a trusted government website about credit reports).

LEARN ABOUT BACKGROUND CHECKS/ TENANT REPORTS.

Most landlords use "tenant reports" (these are background checks specifically for the purposes of housing and renting apartments) to screen housing applicants. As discussed on PG. 377, these reports can include both credit history and non-credit information such as your criminal record; court cases related to past evictions; references from former landlords; information from local, state and national databases (such as Sex Offender registries); and more. If you learn you that the landlord is going to order a background check/tenant report on you, you could save yourself a lot of time and trouble by simply asking the landlord the name and contact information for the screening company, so that you find the tenant report yourself and make sure the information is accurate and up-to-date.

UNDERSTAND YOUR RIGHTS & RESPONSIBILITIES AS A RENTER.

If you live in government-assisted housing, a good place to start is the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development's (HUD website about renting in California: <http://portal.hud.gov/hudportal/HUD?src=/states/california/renting>).

Carefully review any lease or rental agreement before you sign it. Be sure that any WRITTEN agreements include VERBAL conversations you had with the landlord or property management company—so that those agreements will be legally enforceable later on. As well as general rules about rent payments, utilities, and the time period covered, a lease or rental agreement should cover anything you have discussed together: things like pets, visitors, roommates, or subletting.<sup>1372</sup> If you know there is something in the lease or agreement that limits your basic legal rights, bring that up with the landlord. In California, the Department of Consumer Affairs has published a great guidebook on tenants' rights available online at: <http://www.dca.ca.gov/publications/landlordbook/catenant.pdf>.

WHAT ARE SOME OF MY GENERAL RIGHTS AS A RENTER IN CALIFORNIA?

GENERALLY, YOUR BASIC RIGHTS AS A TENANT IN CALIFORNIA (NO MATTER WHAT THE LEASE OR RENTAL AGREEMENTS SAYS) INCLUDE THE FOLLOWING:

- Limits on the amount of the security deposit that the landlord can require you to pay.
- Limits on the landlord's right to enter the rental unit.

applicable federal law. This is a field of law that is very complicated. It is unclear whether you can use § 1983 to make a challenge that a decision lacks substantial evidence, or that the officer did not exercise discretion properly. The state certiorari statute is necessary, especially if your challenge focuses on the failure of the housing program to comply with agency procedures and policies.

<sup>1372</sup> See, e.g., CAL. CIV. CODE § 1961-2.

- The right to a refund of the security deposit, or a written accounting of how it was used, after you move.
- The right to sue the landlord for violations of the law or your rental agreement or lease.
- The right to repair serious defects in the rental unit and to deduct certain repair costs from the rent, under appropriate circumstances.
- The right to withhold rent under appropriate circumstances.
- Rights under the warranty of habitability.
- Protection against retaliatory eviction.
- These and other rights will be discussed throughout the rest of this booklet.

KEEP RECORDS OF YOUR LEASE & OTHER DOCUMENTS RELATED TO YOUR APARTMENT.

Keep a file with your signed lease or rental agreement and any other important documents. The file should include notes of any conversations you have with your landlord or apartment manager regarding repairs, disturbances, disputes, or any other event or incident that may affect your rights as a tenant. It should also include any mail, emails, repair orders, and even notes left on your door. Keep and maintain a separate file for each rental unit you live in. Note: Under California law, a tenant can ask their landlord for a copy of their lease once every calendar year. The landlord must then provide it within 15 days.<sup>1373</sup>

AVOID SCAMS.

Avoid rental scams by recognizing warning signs. Online resources such as Craigslist (www.craigslist.com) are a popular way to search for available rental units. However, scammers also use these sites to place phony rental listings or to hijack a valid listing to attempt to steal your money or identity. If you are asked to wire money—it's probably a scam! If you are asked to pay a security deposit or an advance on your rent before signing a rental agreement, that is a red flag too. You should also be aware of foreclosure scams targeting unsuspecting renters and upset homeowners. To learn how to spot and avoid foreclosure scams, check out the following website:

http://www.freddiemac.com/news/blog/joan\_ferenczy/20121008\_fraudsters\_falsely\_advertising\_reo\_as\_rentals.html.

REVIEW ALL NOTICES YOU RECEIVE FROM YOUR LANDLORD OR RENTAL AGENCY.

Small problems can become big problems if you ignore them. A landlord's notice to evict you may give you only a certain number of days to respond. If you do not respond within the given time, the landlord may seek a court order to evict you. Notice of court actions give only a certain number of days to respond! If you have questions about what a notice means, see the list of housing legal aid providers on PG. 1127 to try and speak to a lawyer who may be able to help you.

KNOW WHERE TO COMPLAIN OR SEEK HELP IF PROBLEMS COME UP.

Understand that no single law covers all rental situations. And no single federal, state, or local government agency has the ability or authority to investigate every type of problem you might encounter. This guide suggests ways you might make a complaint or challenge a discriminatory act based on your criminal record. But also know that sometimes, private landlords are allowed to make decisions on the basis of your criminal conviction history. Learn more on PG. 358.

PREPARE THE INFORMATION YOU WILL NEED FOR A RENTAL APPLICATION:

A rental application may require you to provide any of the following information:

- Current and past addresses of where you have lived, your employers, your personal references, and your previous/current landlords.
- Your Social Security Number (SSN) and driver license or state ID number. Go to the BUILDING BLOCKS OF REENTRY: ID & VOTING CHAPTER for more information: getting a SSN covered on [PG. 38; getting a California driver license or state ID covered beginning on PG. 43.]
- The number of people expected to live in the unit.
- Bank account and credit account numbers. Questions about how much you earn and where your income comes from will almost certainly be on the rental application.

SPECIAL NOTE ABOUT ILLEGAL DISCRIMINATION BECAUSE OF THE SOURCE OF YOUR INCOME:

You may be asked about your source of income. In California, all legitimate and lawful sources of income must be considered the same by a housing provider—they can't discriminate. CAL. GOV'T CODE § 12955(p)(2).

For example, your Social Security disability income (SSI/SSDI) should have the same weight in evaluating your income than wages from an office job—a landlord must treat these the same.

<sup>1373</sup> Civil Code Section 1962(a)(4).

BE PREPARED TO PAY MOVE-IN COSTS.

You will likely have to pay for a screening fee when you apply for a place to live from a private landlord. California law allows a landlord to charge you out-of-pocket expenses, and the cost changes yearly.<sup>1374</sup> It costs approximately $50 for a landlord's screening of you. You will also likely have to pay a security deposit and 1-2 months' worth of rent after you sign the lease agreement. This can be expensive—be prepared!!

PROTECTIONS FOR ACTIVE MILITARY MEMBERS:

If you are in the military, the Service Members Civil Relief Act gives active duty members the right to terminate a lease when they are ordered to a new permanent location or any change of location that amounts to more than 90 days.<sup>1375</sup>

EVICCTIONS: JUST THE BASICS

The HOUSING CHAPTER does NOT go into the specifics of eviction law—but we realize it is an issue you may come across and need help with. Below we include some very basic know-your-rights information if you are facing an eviction or received what is called a “3-Day Notice” from your landlord to do something (like pay rent). It is also important to know that if you engage in any “new criminal activity,” like committing a new crime, you and your entire household could face eviction.<sup>1376</sup>

GET HELP!

If you need a lawyer to help with defending against an eviction, please see the list of housing legal aid providers on PG. 1127, who may be able to assist you. If you are facing eviction, it's important to ACT FAST to respond to the notice of eviction, so get in touch with a housing lawyer as soon as possible.

WHAT IS AN EVICTION?

Eviction is a process that a landlord can use to remove a tenant from a rental unit. The fancy legal term for an eviction lawsuit is an “unlawful detainer” action. It is called “unlawful detainer” because the landlord is accusing the tenant of staying in a rental unit when he or she does not have a legal right to do so, therefore, the rental unit is unlawfully detained. To “be evicted” means (1) you were the defendant (the renter who is being accused of unlawfully staying in the rental unit) in this type of lawsuit, (2) you lost the lawsuit, and (3) the court then ordered you to move out of the apartment or rental unit. If you leave a rental unit because the landlord asks you to do so, but you are never served with “unlawful detainer” eviction court papers, then you have not been evicted in the legal sense of the word.<sup>1377</sup>

I AM FACING AN EVICTION. WHAT ARE MY OPTIONS?

Since responding to an eviction notice can be VERY time-sensitive, it's important to respond and act fast! Keep reading this section to learn more. It can also be VERY HELPFUL to have a lawyer assist you. If you need a lawyer to help with defending against an eviction, see the list of housing legal aid providers on PG. 1127 for organizations that may be able to assist you.

I RECEIVED A 3-DAY NOTICE TO DO SOMETHING FROM MY LANDLORD. WILL I BE EVICTED?

There are different kinds of “3-Day” notices. Most 3-Day notices can be corrected without having to actually move out of your apartment or home. The most common is the 3-Day notice “to pay rent or quit.”<sup>1378</sup> A landlord can give other kinds of 3-Day notices, as well. Another common one is the notice that says the tenant (the person living in the apartment who is on the lease) has created a nuisance or has done something which is not allowed under the rules of the lease agreement. All of these notices must be in writing.

THE 3-DAY NOTICE TO “PAY RENT OR QUIT”

If your rent is late or not paid in full, the landlord may give you a notice called a “Three-Day Notice to Pay Rent or Quit.” The landlord cannot give you this notice until the rent is late. This notice must be in writing.

WHAT MUST A “3-DAY NOTICE TO PAY RENT OR QUIT” SAY?

By law, the notice must state:

1. The exact amount of rent you owe (generally, this may NOT include late charges or other fees, although some courts have allowed late charges to be included);
2. That you have a choice of paying the rent or MOVING OUT (“Quit” is the legal term for moving out);
3. Your correct address;
4. The name, address and telephone number of the person you are supposed to pay the rent to; AND
5. If you are allowed to pay rent in person, the usual days and hours the person receiving the rent will be available. Note: If there is some other way you are supposed to pay rent, the landlord may have to explain that to you.

WHAT ARE MY OPTIONS IF I GET A “3-DAY NOTICE TO PAY RENT OR QUIT”?

To figure out when the third day is, start counting with the day after you received the notice. If the third day falls on a Saturday, Sunday or a holiday, you then have until the next business day to pay or move.

(1) One choice is that you can move out during the 3 days. If you move out at this time, technically, the landlord CANNOT file a court eviction against you. However, some landlords try to do so anyway. If this happens, you should call a legal aid office immediately; see a list of legal aid providers across California on PG. 1127 that may be able to assist you. Also, even if you move out within the 3 days, the landlord can later sue you for past rent due. Most landlords will not bother with this.

(2) Another choice is to pay the rent. If you decide to pay, you should pay the ENTIRE AMOUNT that the notice asks for, before the three days are up. Make sure that you get a receipt. If you cannot pay the full amount, you may be better off not paying anything —unless you can agree on a payment schedule with the landlord. If you reach such an agreement, make sure it is in writing and keep a copy of the agreement.

If you offer the full amount asked for within the 3 days, the landlord MUST ACCEPT the money from you. If you think the landlord might refuse your money, take along a friend to be a witness just in case. After the 3 days, the landlord does not have to accept any money from you. If you decide to try to pay the landlord even though the 3 days are up, you should get a RECEIPT and ask the landlord to agree IN WRITING not to evict you. If the landlord refuses to agree to that, the landlord may still try to evict you.

WHAT COULD HAPPEN IF I DO NOT PAY MY RENT OR DO NOT MOVE WITHIN THE 3 DAYS?

The landlord must go to court to evict you.

After the 3 days are over, the landlord cannot simply put you out in the street, change the locks, or have the police or sheriff evict you without going to court first. The 3-Day notice is only the first step in the eviction process. The landlord must go to court and get a judge’s order to get the rent and the house or apartment back. For a short explanation of the eviction process, see PG. 398.

THE 3-DAY NOTICE TO PERFORM COVENANT(S) OR QUIT

Sometimes this kind of notice is called “3-Day Notice to Perform or Quit.”

The landlord will give you this notice if s/he believes that you did something OR failed to do something that violated your lease or rental agreement. Some examples include, if you did not pick up trash around your place, if you took in pets when they are not allowed, or if you left a junk car in the parking lot. This notice must be IN WRITING.

After you get this notice, you have 3 days to fix the problem or move out.

To figure out when the last day to fix the problem or move out is, start counting with the day after you received the notice. If the third day falls on a Saturday, Sunday or a holiday, you then have until the next business day to correct the problem. If you do not fix the problem and if you do not move out by the third day, your landlord may start the court process to evict you. However, after the three days are over, the landlord cannot simply put you out in the street, change the locks, or have the police or sheriff evict you without going to court first. The landlord must file court papers and get a judge’s order to get the rent and the house or apartment back. For a short explanation of the eviction process, see PG. 398.

If you feel that you are being wrongly accused of breaking the lease, you should write to your landlord explaining your side of the story. Make sure to date and sign the letter and get it to the landlord as soon as possible. Make a copy of it to keep for your records.

If you already have broken the lease or rental agreement but now you agree to obey it, you should write a letter to the landlord. Tell him or her that you have done what the notice requested and that you will obey the lease agreement from now on. Sign and date the letter and get it to the landlord as soon as possible. Keep a copy for your records.

THE 3-DAY NOTICE TO QUIT

This kind of notice orders you to move because you have done something that the landlord believes cannot be corrected. This is the most serious notice your landlord can give you. For example, you may get this kind of notice if you have done illegal things (such as using or dealing drugs) on the property. This notice does not give you the chance to correct what was done. This notice means your landlord just wants you to move out. This notice must be in writing.

If you feel that you are being wrongly accused of doing something that you did not do, you should write to your landlord immediately and state that you did not do what you are accused of doing. Make sure you date and sign the letter and get it to the landlord as soon as possible. You must also keep a copy of the letter for your records.

If you do not move out by the third day, your landlord may start the court process to evict you. However, as with other eviction notices, after the 3 days are over, the landlord cannot simply kick you out without a court order.

SERVICE OF THE 3-DAY NOTICE

The law states that you must be given a 3-Day Notice in writing. The courts are not always strict about how the landlord gives the 3-Day Notice to you. However, the law says that the landlord must give the notice to in one of the following ways:

1. Personal Service – by handing you a copy.
2. Substituted Service – if you are not home or at your usual workplace, a copy can be left at either place with a person who is old enough to understand the importance of the 3-Day Notice. A copy of the notice must also be mailed to you. Keep the envelope in which the notice was mailed.
3. “Nail and Mail” – if the landlord cannot do either of the above, a copy of the 3-Day Notice can be posted on your property in a place that you will find it. A copy of the notice must also be mailed to you.

WHAT COULD HAPPEN IF MY LANDLORD TAKES ME TO COURT TO EVICT ME?

If the landlord takes you to court to evict you, you will get legal papers called a “Summons” and a “Complaint.” Make a note of what day you receive these papers. You have 5 days from the day you receive the Summons and Complaint to respond to the court. To count the 5 days: start counting with the day after you received the papers. You must count Saturdays and Sundays, but do not count court holidays. If the 5th day falls on a Saturday, Sunday or holiday, you will have until the end of the next court business day to “answer” these papers.

Example: Jane gets the Summons and Complaint papers on a Monday. Tuesday is the first day of the 5 days. The 5th day would be a Saturday. Jane has until the next business day, Monday, to file her papers. If Monday is a holiday, Jane has until Tuesday.

If you want to fight the eviction, you should contact a legal aid lawyer immediately. Do NOT wait until the fifth day to call!! If you wait until the last minute, they may not be able to help you.

Within those 5 days, you can file a written response to the landlord’s summons and complaint. You must use the right legal form and file it in the same court where the “Complaint” was filed. This form is called an “Answer.” If you are low-income and file a separate form called an “Application for Waiver of Court Fees and Costs,” you will probably not need to pay the court filing fees. You can get both the Answer and the Fee Waiver forms at the court clerk’s office.

When you fill out the Answer, you will need to list any legal defenses to the eviction. After you file the Answer, you will receive a “Memorandum to Set Case for Trial” and a notice of the trial date by mail. Generally, the trial must be within 20 days of when the landlord files the “Memorandum to Set Case for Trial.” The court clerk must mail you the notice telling you when the trial will be at least ten days before the trial. When your court date comes up, plan to arrive early at the courthouse so that you can find parking, get through the security check, and find the courtroom. If you are late and the judge has already called your case, you will lose your case.

WHAT COULD HAPPEN IF I IGNORE THE SUMMONS AND COMPLAINT AND DO NOTHING?

After the five days are up, if you have not filed an Answer to challenge the eviction, the landlord can ask the court clerk for a “default judgment.” If this happens, you will NOT go before a judge. This means that the landlord automatically wins the case and gets the property back from you.

Sometimes the court will allow you to “re-open” the case after entering a “default judgment” if you have a good reason for not filing the Answer on time. If this happens to you, contact a legal aid organization and ask for assistance with a default eviction.

NOTE: You should not assume that the court will allow you to “re-open” your case. In many cases, the tenant’s request is denied. Therefore, you must try to file your Answer within the 5 days so that you do not lose your case by missing a legal deadline.

WHAT COULD HAPPEN IF I LOSE IN COURT OR AFTER A JUDGMENT AGAINST ME?

If the landlord wins or gets a default judgment against you, the landlord will get a form called a “Writ of Possession.” The landlord takes this writ to the Sheriff’s Department who will then bring you (or post on your door) a “Notice to Vacate.” The notice will give you at least 5 days before the officer will come back to evict you. The Notice to Vacate will tell you exactly by what date and time you must be out of the house or apartment. Even if you are not completely moved out, the sheriff can prevent you from re-entering the house to get your stuff after the time and date listed on the notice. If you cannot get all of your belongings out in time, at least remove your important papers, medications, valuables, and clothing. If you leave things behind, you can claim them within 15 days of the eviction, but you will have to pay the storage and removal costs. However, the landlord cannot require you to pay back rent, attorney’s fees or court costs in order to get your belongings back.

HOW LONG DOES THE EVICTION PROCESS TAKE?

If you do not file an “Answer” to the eviction notice, the sheriff may be out to evict you as soon as 11 days after you receive the Summons and Complaint. If you file an Answer to the lawsuit, the process will take a little longer. Do not expect the entire process to take more than 1 month—it could take even less than 1 month. Contrary to some popular belief, you can be evicted if even if you are pregnant, have small children, have an unexpected financial hardship (like losing your job), if you’ve never been late with the rent before or if you have nowhere else to move.

I LIVE IN TRANSITIONAL HOUSING, AND THE HOUSING PROVIDER (OR PAROLE) IS TRYING TO EVICT ME WITH VERY LITTLE NOTICE & WITHOUT GOING TO COURT. IS THIS LEGAL & WHAT ARE MY OPTIONS?

In most cases, a transitional housing provider MUST follow all of the normal rules and laws to evict you. That means they must follow all of the rules for giving you proper notice and taking you to court if they want to evict you.<sup>1379</sup>

** There is one VERY SMALL EXCEPTION that could allow a transitional housing provider to evict you more quickly than the standard court process. However, for this exception to apply, it must be explicitly written in the contract you signed with the transitional housing provider. There are other requirements beyond that, but at a minimum, if it’s not in your contract with the transitional housing provider, then the transitional housing provider can’t evict you overnight, with little notice, or without first going to court.

If this issue is a condition of your supervision (a requirement of parole or probation), see the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 125, to learn more about rules (called “conditions”) of different types of supervision in California, and how to challenge them.

VIII. CONCLUSION

Where you live is critical to your well-being. Unfortunately, it can also be one of the most challenging aspects of reentry. Hopefully, this Chapter has helped you understand your housing options, and given you the tools to help you to find appropriate housing and recognize illegal discrimination when it occurs.

A list of transitional housing that may accept your application while you are still incarcerated

The following chart is a list of transitional housing options for individuals who are currently incarcerated and are being proactive about lining up housing for post release or are looking to provide documentation to the parole board that they have transitional housing that will accept them if they receive a parole date.<sup>1380</sup>

For more information on the different programs, you can write the address listed or call the phone number.

Please note that this chart is not comprehensive - there may be places that accept applications from people currently incarcerated who are not on this list.

APPENDIX C

Fact Sheet on CDCR-Funded Pre-Release Transitional Housing

1. Male Community Reentry Program (MCRP)

Summary: Enables men to complete their sentences in a residential setting, with greater freedom and privileges. Programming is particularly (though not exclusively) geared towards people with both mental health and substance abuse issues.

Program Timeframe: Participants must have 30 to 180 days left in their sentences at the time of placement. This means you should begin asking your counselor about the program as you approach your final 180 days. One day in the program is equivalent to one day of incarceration.

Supervision: On-site correctional staff and employees from the contracted facilities (listed below) supervise program participants 24 hours a day. Participants must also wear ankle monitors.

Locations: Oroville (Butte County), Bakersfield (Kern County), and Los Angeles, CA (Los Angeles County).

Contacts:

Butte County:	Jody Alsdurf, (530) 533-5272 Tri County Treatment 2740 Oro Dam Blvd Oroville, CA 95966
Kern County:	Jaime Contreras, (661) 861-6111, ex. 43 Turning Point of Central California 1100 Union Ave. Bakersfield, CA 93307
Los Angeles County:	Michael Brenner, (213) 251-2830 HealthRight360 2307 West 6th Street Los Angeles, CA 90057

Am I eligible for the Male Community Reentry Program (MCRP)?

The MCRP accepts people with all levels of offenses from any institution in the state, so long as you have approximately 30 to 180 days left in your sentence at the time of placement in the program. To qualify for the program, your county of last legal residence must have been Butte County, Kern County, Los Angeles County, or San Diego County. If your county of last legal residence is elsewhere, you may still be able to participate in the MCRP if you transfer supervision to one of the four counties listed.

Certain people are automatically ineligible for the MCRP. If you meet any of the following criteria, you will not be considered for the program:

- You are listed on the sex offender registry pursuant to Penal Code section 290, are classified with an R-suffix denoting a past sexual offense, or have been convicted of a sexually violent offense as defined in Health and Safety Code section 6600.
- You have a Static Risk Assessment score of five or higher, which means the CDCR has predicted that you are likely to commit a violent offense upon release. This is calculated based on your age, gender, prior convictions, and rules violations.
- You have attempted to escape in the past five years
- You have active or potential felony holds, warrants, or detainers
- You have spent time in the Security Housing Unit or Psychiatric Security Unit within the last year
- You are classified as part of Security Threat Group I
- You have engaged in A through C-class misconduct within the last year of being in custody. In general, this includes acts that are especially violent (murder, batter, assault), dangerous (arson, damage to valuable property), or dishonest (bribery, forgery of important records, attempts to escape). Notably, while it would typically be considered a class B or C offense, possession of alcohol/drugs may not necessarily disqualify you from the MCRP.

How do I apply for the MCRP?

The MCRP is a voluntary program, so you must initiate the application process yourself by letting your counselor know you are interested. The application process has three components, all of which your counselor will provide: the application itself, a contract agreeing to certain terms, and mandatory assessments. The assessments use information about your personal background to determine which programs and services will best aid your reentry to society. This includes your history of substance abuse, medical and mental health, education, family background, criminal history, and social functioning.

Once you have completed these requirements, your application will go through a rigorous screening process lasting anywhere from 30 to 60 days. Medical staff, the warden, and a classification committee will all review your application and provide their input. If you are eligible, the committee may endorse you for placement. The committee makes decisions about placement on a case-by-case basis.

2. Custody to Community Transitional Reentry Program (CCTRP)**

**Sometimes referred to as the “Enhanced Alternative to Custody Program”

Summary: Enables women to complete their sentences in a residential setting. Services are designed to prevent recidivism by addressing unique challenges women face upon reentry, such as gender-based trauma and mother-child relationships. From early morning until evening, participants partake in special activities and workshops, with some free time available. They may seek outside employment upon approval from the CCTRP staff, but a portion of earnings are held by the program until release.

Program Timeframe: Participants must have 45 days to two years left in their sentences at the time of placement. This means you should start asking your counselors about the program as you approach the last two years of your sentence. One day in the program is equivalent to one day of incarceration.

Supervision: On-site correctional staff and contracted employees from the WestCare Foundation supervise program participants 24 hours a day. Participants must also wear ankle monitors.

Locations: San Diego (San Diego County), Santa Fe Springs (Los Angeles County), Bakersfield (Kern County), Stockton (San Joaquin County).

Contact:

San Diego:	(619) 359-8266 Westcare 3050 Armstrong Street San Diego, CA 92117
Santa Fe Springs:	(562) 236-9390 Los Angeles Centers for Alcohol and Drug Abuse 11121 Bloomfield Ave. Santa Fe Springs, CA 90670

Stockton:	(209) 642-8488 Westcare 1609 N. Wilson Way Stockton, CA 95205

Am I eligible for the Custody to Community Transitional Reentry Program (CCTRP)?

In order to qualify for the program, you must be housed at a women’s prison. In addition, the program requires that you have (1) a conviction for a serious or violent crime AND (2) 45 days to two years left in your sentence at the time of placement in the program.

How do I apply for the CCTRP?

To apply, you must volunteer to join the program. Your counselor can provide you with an application once you express interest. CDCR staff has the discretion to accept or deny applicants as it sees fit. In making this determination, CDCR staff will consider your institutional history and behavior. In particular, they will look into whether you have taken advantage of institutional program and shown a strong commitment to self-improvement.

3. Community Prisoner Mother Program (CPMP)

Summary: Residential program in Pomona for mothers with up to two children under the age of six who were convicted of non-serious, nonviolent offenses. Children are invited to live at the 24-bed facility. Participants develop individual treatment plans for themselves and their children, with an emphasis on substance abuse recovery. Program workshops and activities emphasize substance abuse prevention, healthy parenting, and education.

Program Timeframe: Participants can serve up to six years of their sentence at the CPMP. This means interested individuals should start asking their counselors about the program as they approach the last two years of their sentences. Participants must also have more than 90 days to parole or release at the time of placement.

Locations: Pomona (Los Angeles County).

Contact: Regina Dotson, 909-624-1233 x2160

Am I eligible for the Community Prisoner Mother Program?

In order to qualify for the program, you must meet a strict set of criteria, which is organized below by topic.

Housing and sentence criteria:

- You are eligible for placement in a Minimum Support Facility
- You have no immigration or felony holds
- You have up to six years remaining in your sentence after reduction for work-time credits
- You have more than 90 days left before you are scheduled to be paroled or released
- You are not currently committed as an active Civil Addict

Criteria related to children:

- You are pregnant OR mother to a child who is six years old or younger
- You have legal custody of the child
- You have not demonstrated predatory sexual behavior toward children
- If your child is a dependent of the Juvenile Court, you received permission from the Juvenile Court for your child's placement
- You were the child's primary caregiver prior to incarceration
- Child Protective Services has not challenged your child's placement in CPMP
- The person currently caring for the child has not challenged your child's placement in CPMP
- A court has not declared you an unfit parent
- You and your child do not have current medical or psychiatric problems requiring ongoing medical treatment not offered at a CPMP facility

Disqualifying convictions:

- Arson under Penal Code sections 450 through 455
- Assault where you personally fired a gun or caused serious injury to the victim
- Any crime that requires registration under Penal Code section 290
- Any crime that received extreme public attention such that you would draw negative attention to the program
- A violent offense as defined by Penal Code section 667.5(c) (a long list that includes homicide, certain sex crimes, and robbery). However, property crimes, robbery, first-degree burglary, and drug offenses do not automatically eliminate you from acceptance into the program, but are reviewed on a case-by-case basis. Similarly, if you were convicted of manslaughter or of a homicide crime committed in response to a physically abusive male partner/associate AND have no prior felony convictions or prior history of violence, you may still be eligible.
- Kidnapping under Penal Code 207
- Robbery where you personally fired a gun or caused serious injury to the victim
- Weapons manufacture, sale or possession (includes enhancements to a conviction for another offense)

Disqualifying conduct while incarcerated:

- Attempts to escape or actual escape a penal institution
- Documented "walk-away" from a non-secure institution in the last 10 years
- Time in the Security Housing Unit (SHU) in the past year
- Pending Rules Violation Report (CDC Form 115)
- Finding of guilty of a serious rule violation during your current term of incarceration that resulted in a single credit loss of 91 days or more, or multiple credit losses of 31 days or more

- Documentation of prison-gang membership or affiliation, or enemies that could jeopardize the security of the community or facility
- History of adverse behavior in a community program that has led to your removal
- Documented evidence of drug use in the last six months of incarceration

How do I apply to the CPMP?

CPMP is a voluntary program. A CPMP Coordinator facilitates the application procedure at each of the women's prisons, and should provide you with an application form, which you must fill out and submit to CDCR staff. The CDCR staff then determines eligibility by looking at the nature of your crime, whether you have a history of violence, and your physical, mental, and dental health. According to a 2010 investigation by Legal Services for Prisoners with Children, this process takes anywhere from a few months to over a year

4. Female Community Reentry Facility (FCRF)

Summary: Pre-release program for women within three years of release. A 300-bed, dormitory style facility, it offers programming on subjects such as substance abuse, anger management, family relationships, and professional development. Also includes a supervised participant-operated hair salon.

Program Timeframe: Participants must have three years left in their sentences. This means interested individuals should start asking their counselors about the program as they approach the last three years of their sentences. One day in the program is equivalent to one day of incarceration.

Supervision: On-site correctional staff and contracted employees from the GEO Group supervise program participants 24 hours a day. Participants must also wear ankle monitors.

Locations: McFarland, CA (Kern County)

Contact: Captain Patrick Kehoe, 661-792-1078

Am I eligible for the FCRF?

In order to qualify for the program, you must have three years left in your sentence at the time of placement in the program. CDCR staff has the discretion to accept or deny applicants as it sees fit.

How do I apply for the FCRF?

To apply, you must volunteer to join the program by submitting an application. A CDCR staff member will be able to answer your questions regarding eligibility and application procedures.

5. Alternative Custody Program (ACP)

Summary: Individually tailored program for men and women, each of whom must create a rehabilitation plan outlining their goals. Participants are placed in transitional homes or residential drug treatment centers, based on their employment plans, transportation needs, and the need for focused services such as substance abuse treatment or parenting classes.

Program Timeframe: Participants must have 45 days to two years left in their sentences. This means interested individuals should start asking their counselors about the program as they approach the last two years of their sentences. One day in the program is equivalent to one day of incarceration.

Supervision: Level of supervision is determined on a case-by-case basis, as determined by a special parole agent, whose job is to monitor participants' progress. Supervision may include electronic monitoring, mandatory drug tests, and face-to-face meetings with Division of Adult Parole Operations staff.

Locations: Depends on facility. At publication, there is no list of approved facilities.

Contact: Rosalyn Livingston, CDCR Contract Beds Unit, 916-464-5692

Am I eligible for the Alternative Custody Program (ACP)?

In order to qualify for the program, you must have 45 days to two years left in your sentence at the time of placement in the program. CDCR staff has the discretion to accept or deny applicants as it sees fit. Certain people are automatically ineligible for the ACP. If you meet any of the following criteria, you will not be considered for the program:

- You were convicted of a violent felony as defined in Penal Code section 667.5(c) (includes homicide, certain sex crimes, and any robbery).
- You were convicted of a serious felony as defined in Penal Code section 1192.7. (includes homicide, certain sex crimes, kidnapping, and certain assault crimes).
- You are listed on the sex offender registry pursuant to Penal Code section 290 or have been convicted of a sexually violent offense as defined in Health and Safety Code section 6600.
- You have a Static Risk Assessment score of five or higher, which means the CDCR has predicted you are likely to commit a violent offense upon release. This is calculated based on your age, gender, prior convictions, and rules violations.
- You have attempted to escape a penal institution in the past five years.
- You have active or potential felony holds, warrants, or detainers.
- Someone has filed an active restraining order against you.
- You have spent time in the Security Housing Unit or Psychiatric Security Unit within the last year.
- You have a history of associated with gangs while in custody.
- The Board of Parole Hearings has found that you violated a condition of parole by committing a serious or violent offense or absconding within the past two years.
- You have engaged in A through C-class misconduct within the last year of being in custody. In general, this includes acts that are especially violent (murder, battery, assault), dangerous (arson, damage to valuable property), or dishonest (bribery, forgery of important records, attempts to escape). Notably, while it would typically be considered a class B or C offense, possession of alcohol/drugs may not necessarily disqualify you from the MCRP.
- You meet other, undefined exclusionary criteria, which potentially includes a current medical or psychiatric diagnosis, a history of perpetrating child abuse, and the inability to find an appropriate placement site. In such cases, CDCR staff will decide to exclude on a case-by-case basis.

How do I apply for the ACP?

First, you need to obtain an acceptance letter from an existing transitional housing facility. Once you have received this letter, you may ask your counselor for an ACP application. When you fill out this application, list the facility that has accepted you as your chosen site. The CDCR must approve of the site.

Once you are determined to be eligible for the ACP, a CDCR staff member will respond within two weeks to notify you that your eligibility has been approved. Staff will then help you develop an individualized treatment and rehabilitation plan, to be used if you are accepted into the program.

Lastly, you will receive a written notice explaining whether your application was accepted or denied. If your application is accepted, you will be released no later than seven business days after receiving written notice. If there are no free beds at your requested facility, you will be released the first day a bed becomes available.

If your application is denied, the written notice will explain the reasons for denial. You may appeal the denial through normal grievance procedures, or can reapply 30 days after receiving written notice.

APPENDIX E

Disabilities & Requesting Reasonable Accommodations on Any Housing Application

AS SOMEONE APPLYING FOR HOUSING (PRIVATE OR GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED), WHAT DO MY DISABILITIES HAVE TO DO WITH MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

If you can prove that your criminal conviction was the result of a disability—for example, due to mental illness and/or past drug addiction you may be able to get a “reasonable accommodation” when applying for ANY type of housing. However, a PHA, owner, or other housing provider is not required to grant a reasonable accommodation to an individual with a disability if that person would be a “direct threat” to the health, safety or property of others, unless the requested reasonable accommodations can actually eliminate or significantly reduce such a threat.

Under the law, housing providers cannot treat persons with disabilities exactly the same as other housing applicants or residents if doing so denies people with disabilities an equal opportunity to use and enjoy a dwelling.<sup>1381</sup> Therefore, by law, a PHA or owner must make reasonable accommodations to its rules, policies, practices, or services when it may be necessary to provide applicants with disabilities an equal opportunity to use and enjoy a living space<sup>1382</sup>—even if that accommodation results in a preference for disabled individuals over similar, non-disabled individuals.<sup>1383</sup> This rule applies to ALL types of housing—public and private.

WARNING: Just because you committed a criminal offense as a result of a disability does not mean you automatically have the right to a reasonable accommodation for housing. It can be very difficult to prove that your disability CAUSED your criminal offense, AND that the disability is the type that qualifies you for a reasonable accommodation

IF MY CRIMINAL CONVICTION WAS THE RESULT OF A DISABILITY, WHAT IS A REASONABLE ACCOMMODATION THAT I CAN ASK FOR?

A “reasonable accommodation” is a change, exception, or adjustment to a rule, policy, practice, or service that may be necessary to give an applicant with a disability an equal opportunity to use and enjoy a living space.<sup>1384</sup> There is no limit or restriction to the type of accommodation that you can request, as long as the accommodation is reasonable. As a general rule, an accommodation will be considered reasonable so long as it does NOT:

1. Pose an undue financial burden on the PHA or owner, and/or
2. Require the PHA or owner to fundamentally change its housing program<sup>1385</sup>

It’s recommended that you ask a Public Housing Authority (PHA), owner, or housing provider to look at your criminal record using a different standard, or to make an exception to its criminal history policy altogether as a reasonable accommodation. Keep reading to learn about approaches for asking your PHA or landlord for a reasonable accommodation.

WHAT IS CONSIDERED A DISABILITY IN CALIFORNIA?

California law defines a disability as any physical or mental impairment that limits one or more of your major life activities.<sup>1386</sup>

> What is a physical disability under California state law?

A physical impairment is any disease, physical disorder, physical condition, or disfigurement that:

- Affects one or more of your body systems (i.e. your heart, your eyes) or functions (i.e. breathing, speaking), and
- Limits a major life activity.<sup>1387</sup>

> What is considered a mental impairment under California state law?

A mental impairment is any mental or psychological condition that limits a major life activity. Common examples of mental impairments are: intellectual disabilities; brain disease; emotional or mental illnesses; learning disabilities; and any other mental or psychological condition that requires special attention or services<sup>1388</sup>

WHAT IS NOT CONSIDERED A DISABILITY IN CALIFORNIA?

It is not a protected disability if you are:

- Currently engaged in illegal drug use;
- Currently abusing alcohol in a way that interferes with others' health, safety, or peaceful enjoyment of the property;
- People who pose a substantial threat to others, that cannot be controlled by a reasonable accommodation (see below for more information on reasonable accommodations)<sup>1389</sup>

DOES DRUG ADDICTION QUALIFY AS A DISABILITY?

Technically, yes, if it is PAST drug use and you have permanently stopped using illegal drugs, it does qualify as a disability under both federal and state law. BUT If you are currently using illegal drugs, then you are not considered disabled.<sup>1390</sup> See the next question for what is considered a disability in California.

IMPORTANT! There are no reported California cases where a rehabilitated applicant with a history of substance abuse, or an applicant with mental impairment, and a history of criminal acts arising from the substance abuse or mental illness has been granted a reasonable accommodation from a PHA's criminal activity restrictions. Courts have generally been unreceptive to these arguments. Specifically, courts have been hesitant to accept arguments that a housing applicant's criminal convictions were the result of mental illness and/or past substance abuse. Again, since it may be difficult to prove that your criminal conviction was the result of your mental illness and/or drug addiction, it is important that you offer as much evidence as possible.

HOW CAN I PROVE MY PAST DRUG USE QUALIFIES AS A DISABILITY?

Under this rule, it can be tricky to prove that you are not a current illegal drug user, especially if there was drug use or convictions for drug use in your recent past. The law doesn't clearly define what counts as "current" illegal drug use, and there are no reported California court decisions defining "current" illegal drug use.<sup>1391</sup> Some courts outside of California have said a person is NOT a current illegal drug user if that person has permanently stopped using illegal drugs for periods of time ranging from a few months to a year.<sup>1392</sup> Outside of California, courts have said that someone is still a "current" user if they have stopped using for only a few weeks.<sup>1393</sup>

Based on the different ways courts are treating this issue, we recommend that you provide evidence that you are not a current user by showing any proof that:

- You have successfully completed a supervised substance abuse/drug rehabilitation program;
- You are not currently using illegal drugs (meaning any proof that you have permanently stopped using illegal drugs); and/or
- You are currently participating in a supervised substance abuse/drug rehabilitation, treatment, or self-help program<sup>1394</sup>

REMEMBER:

It may be difficult to prove that your criminal conviction was the result of your mental illness and/or drug addiction. It is important that you submit as much evidence as possible!

IF I CAN SHOW THAT I'M DISABLED, HOW CAN I REQUEST A REASONABLE ACCOMMODATION AS I APPLY FOR HOUSING?

Send a written letter requesting a reasonable accommodation to the PHA, housing provider, or owner (the one making the decision) that clearly explains ALL of the following:

1. That you have a disability, and what that disability is.
2. That the disability caused the offense. Attach as much documentation as you can. For example:
  - Letters from service providers showing that you experienced a mental illness and/or a drug addiction at the time of the offense; or even better, a letter from a doctor confirming the existence of your disability;<sup>1395</sup>
  - If it is addiction, explain that you no longer suffer from addiction. Attach any documentation you have, such as letters from service providers showing successful completion of a rehabilitation program or effective or ongoing treatment for your addiction; and/or letters from service providers that show you are no longer using substances.
3. What your requested accommodation is, clearly stated:
  - Ask for what you want directly!! You could ask a PHA, owner, or housing provider to look at your criminal record using a different standard, or to make an exception to its criminal history policy altogether.
4. Why the accommodation you are requesting is NECESSARY and REASONABLE.:
  - Here, you should say that an exception from criminal history policy is NECESSARY to give you an equal opportunity to access the housing.
    - Explain how your criminal conduct was the result of the disability—showing the relationship (also called a “nexus”) between your disability and your requested accommodation.<sup>1396</sup>
    - It is more persuasive if you have a doctor or service provider submit a letter explaining why your disability requires a reasonable accommodation.
  - You must also show that the requested accommodation is REASONABLE. A requested accommodation may be found reasonable if:
    - It's necessary for you to have an equal opportunity to enjoy the living space.
    - It's not too expensive for the landlord.
    - The administrative burden is not too great.
    - It doesn't fundamentally change the PHA's, housing provider's, or owner/landlord's operations.
    - A landlord or PHA accommodation that gives you “preference” over similar non-disabled people may be reasonable under the circumstances.<sup>1397</sup>

EXAMPLES OF REASONABLE ACCOMMODATIONS INCLUDE:

- An exception (“a waiver”) to a PHA, owner, or housing provider's policy that bars housing to applicants with criminal records, if your criminal conviction was caused by your disability;
- An owner or housing provider agreeing to admit a tenant with a mental illness that causes the tenant to sometimes become loud or confrontational, so long as the tenant agrees to seek treatment for his or her mental illness;
- An owner or housing provider allowing a tenant suffering from mental illness to have a live-in aid; or
- A PHA, owner, or housing provider accepting a reference from an applicant's social worker or service provider if an applicant has no recent rental history.

“THE DIRECT THREAT EXCEPTION:” Remember that the law does not require that reasonable accommodations be granted to an individual with a disability if that person would be a “direct threat” to the health or safety of other individuals or if that person's residency would result in substantial physical damage to the property of others UNLESS the reasonable accommodations requested can actually eliminate or significantly reduce such a threat.<sup>1398</sup> This is known as the “direct threat” exception. You have some protections if the PHA, housing provider, or landlord is arguing you are a “direct threat”:

- First, a PHA or owner MUST PERFORM an individualized assessment of you.
- Second, if a reasonable accommodation can significantly reduce the “direct threat” posed by a recognized disability, then the PHA, housing provider, or owner must make it.
- Third, if the PHA, housing provider, or owner finds that you pose a direct threat to other tenants or property, this should be based only on actual examples of you causing harm or other factual, objective evidence—not their own fears or assumptions about what could happen.
- Fourth, a finding of a direct threat cannot be based on assumptions, stereotypes, or fears about mental illness, drug addiction, or other disabilities.<sup>1399</sup>

ONCE I HAVE SENT MY REQUEST FOR A REASONABLE ACCOMMODATION, WHAT HAPPENS?

There are several phases of a reasonable accommodation request.<sup>1400</sup>

1. Initial request (see PG. 421). This is when you first send your letter informing the PHA, owner, or housing provider that you have a disability and are requesting a reasonable accommodation.<sup>1401</sup>
2. Verification: Once you make your initial request for a reasonable accommodation, the PHA, owner, or housing provider will want to verify that you are indeed disabled.
  - If your disability is obvious or known, and the need for a reasonable accommodation is known, then the housing provider should not ask you for any more information
  - If your disability is known and obvious, but your need for the accommodation is not well-known or obvious, then the housing provider should ask only for information necessary to verify the need for a reasonable accommodation—for example, notes explaining your need from a doctor or clinician.
  - If your disability or need for an accommodation is unknown or not obvious, the housing provider may ask for verification of both your disability and your need for a reasonable accommodation.<sup>1402</sup>
3. The Decision. After reviewing your request, the PHA, owner, or housing provider will decide whether or not to grant your reasonable accommodation request.
4. The “Interactive” process:
  - If the PHA, owner, or housing provider refuses to grant you a reasonable accommodation, you should try to engage them in an informal “interactive process” in which you discuss alternative solutions that might meet both of your needs. HUD guidelines encourage you to try this informal route first, before starting the formal grievance procedure, because it is more flexible and often leads to quicker resolutions.<sup>1403</sup>
  - If after the “interactive process,” the PHA, owner, or housing provider still refuses to grant you a reasonable accommodation, you may have to file a formal complaint with HUD or DFEH.<sup>1404</sup>

HOW CAN I CHALLENGE MY DENIAL FOR A REASONABLE ACCOMMODATION?

OPTION 1: YOU CAN FILE A COMPLAINT. If you believe that a PHA, owner, or housing provider denied your request for a reasonable accommodation due to your disability and/or your past drug use, you may file a complaint with HUD (federal housing protection agency) or with California’s DFEH (the state housing protection agency).<sup>1405</sup> After you file a complaint, if HUD or DFEH determines that you were discriminated against (they find your complaint has “merit”), then HUD or DFEH will file a civil lawsuit against the PHA, owner, or housing provider on your behalf. Go to Appendix I on PG. 430 to learn how to file a complaint with HUD or DFEH.

OPTION 2: YOU CAN TRY TO SUE IN COURT. To sue a housing provider under the federal Fair Housing Act (FHA), California’s Fair Housing and Employment Act (FEHA), or other state anti-discrimination laws (such as California’s Unruh Civil Rights Act),<sup>1406</sup> you must show that your status as an individual with a disability or drug history was a motivating factor in the owner’s or PHA’s decision to deny your reasonable accommodation request.<sup>1407</sup> You must also provide sufficient evidence that the requested accommodation is reasonable, and that you are a former/ recovering substance user (and not a current substance user), or that you are receiving treatment for your mental illness.<sup>1408</sup>

WHAT IS THE PHA, OWNER, OR LANDLORD LIKELY TO ARGUE TO DEFEND ITS DECISION TO DENY MY REASONABLE ACCOMMODATION?

The PHA or owner will likely argue that you do not have a protected disability.

They might argue that, you are a “current user” of illegal drugs or substances, and therefore, you are not disabled under the law, OR that you have not sought adequate treatment for your mental illness, and therefore are not disabled under the law.<sup>1409</sup>

If you go to court, you can attempt to disprove these arguments by providing treatment records establishing that you have not used illegal substances for the relevant period of time, or that you receive treatment for your mental illness.<sup>1410</sup> Your argument will be even stronger if you can provide evidence of your participation in or completion of a drug/substance abuse treatment program, or proof that you receive treatment for your mental illness. ### Housing Owners' /Landlords' Access to Credit Reports

WHAT IS A CREDIT REPORT?

Your credit report includes information about creditworthiness, such as your record of paying bills on time. A credit report will show information dating back 7 years (or 10 years in the case of a bankruptcy), including the following

- history of paying bills and loans on time or record of late payments;
- open accounts and level of indebtedness;
- collection actions;
- bankruptcies or tax liens; and
- civil court judgments, including housing-related court actions filed by a previous landlord that may or may not have led to a past eviction.

HOWEVER, a credit report does NOT include criminal history information like a tenant report would.

WHO CAN ACCESS MY CREDIT REPORT?

Anyone who is evaluating your ability to pay for housing can order your credit report in California. That means that private owners, PHAs, AND owners of government-assisted housing can order a credit report to see if you have good credit and will be a reliable tenant.

DOES MY CONSISTENTLY PAYING RENT ON TIME IN THE PAST HELP MY CREDIT STANDING?

Maybe, but most likely not. The companies that collect information about your credit standing are only just beginning to collect this information in a systematized way.

A credit report will show whether or not you've ever been evicted, your ability to pay credit card bills, utility bills, and other bills on time, and any success you've had paying back loans.<sup>1411</sup>

CAN SOMEONE FIND OUT ABOUT PAST LATE PAYMENTS ON RENT FROM A CREDIT REPORT?

Maybe. Generally, late rent payments are not a part of your credit history unless the landlord or management company is reporting them. If the matter was referred to a collection agency or a civil court (like eviction case started against you), it is possible it would show up on your credit report.

HELPFUL HINT:

If you are looking for a rental, it is best to check your credit reports before the PHA or owner does—so you know what they will find. You can go online and order FREE credit reports from the three national credit bureaus: Experian, TransUnion, and Equifax. If there's an error, it's a good idea to file a dispute with the bureau rather than try to explain it at the last minute.

San Francisco Fair Chance Ordinance

WHAT IS THE SAN FRANCISCO FAIR CHANCE ORDINANCE (SF FCO)?

The San Francisco Fair Chance Ordinance (SF FCO) is a new law that offers special protections for people with criminal records who apply to certain types of affordable housing in San Francisco.<sup>1412</sup> (If you are interested in the parts of this new law that apply to employment, go to the EMPLOYMENT CHAPTER, Appendix G, on PG. 627.)

LOOKING FOR MORE INFORMATION ONLINE?

Check out the San Francisco Human Rights Commission's website about how the SF FCO applies to affordable housing providers: <http://sf-hrc.org/sites/sf-hrc.org/files/Fair%20Chance%20Housing%20Notice%20FINAL.pdf>.

WHAT KINDS OF HOUSING DOES THE SAN FRANCISCO FAIR CHANCE ORDINANCE PROTECT?

It protects applicants and tenants in city-funded affordable housing in San Francisco, California. It does NOT apply to federally subsidized housing (unless the property is receiving multiple subsidies including city-funded subsidies to keep it affordable).

DOES THE SAN FRANCISCO FAIR CHANCE ORDINANCE APPLY TO FEDERAL GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

No. These new legal protections apply only to city government-funded affordable housing in San Francisco, CA.

WHAT KIND OF PROTECTIONS DOES THIS LAW GIVE ME IF I'M APPLYING TO CITY-FUNDED AFFORDABLE HOUSING IN SAN FRANCISCO AND HAVE A CRIMINAL RECORD?

We break down what rights the SF FCO gives you in each step of your application to affordable housing in San Francisco:

STEP 1: Know your rights when applying for affordable housing in San Francisco.

When you are APPLYING, Affordable housing providers in San Francisco:

- MUST NOT have a question about past convictions on the initial application. Before an affordable housing provider asks about your convictions or looks at a background check report on you, it must:<sup>1413</sup>
  - Determine that you are (1) legally eligible to rent the housing unit and (2) qualified to rent the housing unit under the affordable housing provider's criteria for evaluating rental history and credit history;
  - Provide notice about the San Francisco Fair Chance Ordinance;<sup>1414</sup> and
  - Provide notice about state and federal laws about background checks.<sup>1415</sup>
- MUST NOT have blanket bans like "No Felons Apply."
- In ads, they MUST state that they will consider qualified applicants with criminal histories.
- They MUST have a notice posted about the San Francisco Fair Chance Ordinance.<sup>1416</sup> Here is an electronic copy of the notice that affordable housing providers must post: <http://sf-hrc.org/sites/sf-hrc.org/files/Fair%20Chance%20Housing%20Notice%20FINAL.pdf>. You can also see a copy on Appendix H, PG. 427.

STEP 2: Know your rights when asked about your criminal background.

What can city-funded affordable housing providers in San Francisco ask me about my criminal record after they find I am qualified for the housing in every other way?

After you're found qualified, an affordable housing provider in San Francisco can ask about: pending (open) arrests, and convictions that are 0-7 years old (based on the date of sentencing).<sup>1417</sup> BUT even though they can ask about this information, there are limits on how the affordable housing provider can use it—see Step 3 below.

IMPORTANT DEFINITION:

Under the San Francisco Fair Chance ordinance, "affordable housing" is defined as "any residential building in the City that has received funding from the City, connected in whole or in part to restricting rents, the funding being provided either directly or indirectly through funding to another entity that owns, master leases, or develops the building. Affordable Housing also includes 'affordable units' in the City as that term is defined in Article 4 of the Planning Code."

The term "housing provider" is broad, and includes any entity that owns, master leases, or develops affordable housing, and any agent, such as a property management company, that makes tenancy decisions on behalf of these entities.

<sup>1413</sup> A housing provider may run a criminal history/background check report at the same time as it runs a rental or credit history check, BUT it may not look at the report before determining if the applicant is qualified to live in the housing unit.

What can city-funded affordable housing providers in San Francisco NEVER ask me about my criminal record?

City-funded housing providers in San Francisco can never ask about:

- Arrests that didn't lead to a conviction;
- Diversion or deferral programs;
- Dismissed convictions (which means any conviction that has been dismissed, expunged, voided, invalidated, or made inoperative by the Court);
- Juvenile convictions;
- Convictions older than 7 years (based on the date of sentencing);
- Infractions (meaning anything that is not a misdemeanor or felony).
- Affordable housing providers cannot ask about these 6 types of cases and can never use them against you at any stage!

STEP 3: Know your rights when being considered for affordable housing in San Francisco.

An affordable housing provider in San Francisco that is considering your conviction history must:

- Conduct an individualized assessment—meaning look at all of the circumstances of the person applying to housing and information available about their criminal record, including mitigating circumstances;
- Consider only “directly-related” convictions – which means that the underlying conduct “has a direct and specific negative bearing on the safety of persons or property, given the nature of the housing;”<sup>1418</sup>
- Consider the time that has passed since your conviction(s); and
- Consider any evidence of rehabilitation or mitigating information you share, such as:
  - Completion of parole or probation;
  - Letters of recommendation from employers or others;
  - Education or training you've received;
  - Participation in an alcohol/drug treatment program;
  - Completion of rehabilitation programs; and
  - Any additional context for the conviction—including your age when you were convicted, or mitigating factors like physical or emotional abuse, coercion, untreated abuse/mental illness that led to the conviction.

STEP 4: Know your rights if you are denied affordable housing in San Francisco because of your criminal record.

If an affordable housing provider in SF wants to deny you because of your record, THEY MUST abide by the following rules:

- They cannot deny you because of a conviction more than 7 years old (based on the date of sentencing)
- They cannot deny you because of arrests that never led to convictions;
- They must provide you a copy of your background report;
- They must tell you why you were denied—what the issue was in your conviction history; and
- Give you 14 days to provide information about your rehabilitation or any errors in the background check report.

STEP 5: Know your rights to receive a final decision after you respond AND have to bring your case to another level of appeal.

Must I get notice of the housing provider's final decision?

Yes. An affordable housing provider in SF who makes a final decision to deny you must give you a final notice. If a final negative decision is made based on your criminal record, you should consider challenging the decision to the San Francisco Human Rights Commission. HOW? See STEP 6 below.

IF YOU ARE DENIED, YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO RESPOND!!

You have only 14 days to respond. SO ACT FAST! You can respond IN WRITING or VERBALLY by:

- Pointing out any inaccuracies in the background check report, AND
- Providing evidence of your rehabilitation or mitigating information. See the list of examples of evidence of your rehabilitation or mitigating information under Step 3 above.

STEP 6: Report clear violations to the San Francisco Human Rights Commission within 60 days.

If you believe that there has been a violation of the rules above, you should report it to the SF Human Rights Commission. This must be done within 60 days of the violation (when you get your final decision).<sup>1419</sup>

You can begin the process of reporting a violation by following these 3 steps:

- Step 1: Fill out a complaint form online here: <http://hrc.sfintranet.firmstep.com/achieveforms-node/discrimination-public-form>, and submit. Give as many details about the discrimination as possible! You can submit the complaint form online, by mail, or in person.
- Step 2: Call (415) 252-2500 to schedule an intake interview. If you submitted the intake questionnaire online, HRC will contact you to set up an intake interview appointment.
- Step 3: After intake, the HRC will try to mediate between you and the housing provider; investigate the alleged violation; and make a finding about whether or not the housing provider broke the law. The HRC's process for responding to these complaints looks like this:

NOTE: HRC's Discrimination Complaints Investigation and Mediation Division investigates and mediates complaints of discrimination and non-compliance in employment, housing, and public accommodation.<sup>1420</sup>

REMEMBER—YOU ARE AN AGENT OF CHANGE!
WHY IS IT IMPORTANT TO REPORT VIOLATIONS OF THE SAN FRANCISCO FAIR CHANCE ORDINANCE TO THE SAN FRANCISCO HRC?

It's important to report violations because:

- You are helping to enforce this important law that adds protection for people with criminal records applying for affordable housing in San Francisco;
- Helping others in your community;
- The Human Rights Commission (HRC) can find out more information than you can;
- You could get relief—for example, be admitted into the affordable housing.
- The affordable housing provider could be penalized by the city—and hopefully won't do it again!<sup>1421</sup>

CLEAR VIOLATIONS INCLUDE:

- Asks about your criminal record on an initial housing application;
- Has a blanket ban like "We don't accept felons," or didn't consider your criminal record on a case-by-case basis;
- Didn't give you notice of your rights;
- Denied you because of a conviction that was older than 7 years.

APPENDIX I

Filing a Complaint for Illegal Discrimination in Private Housing

If you believe you have been illegally discriminated against in applying for private housing from a private landlord (meaning neither the owner, you nor the property receive federal government money to assist in making the housing more affordable), you can challenge that discriminatory denial. Read about how to challenge an illegal discriminatory denial below, and which government agencies you should contact.

WHAT GOVERNMENT AGENCIES ARE IN CHARGE OF INVESTIGATING HOUSING DISCRIMINATION COMPLAINTS?

FEDERAL HOUSING AGENCY:

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) is a federal agency that enforces the federal Fair Housing Act (FHA).<sup>1422</sup> HUD has to refer the complaints of housing discrimination it receives to the fair housing enforcement agency in the state where the discrimination occurred if that state's fair housing agency is certified by HUD as having mostly the same laws, procedures, remedies, and judicial review.<sup>1423</sup>

AND

STATE HOUSING AGENCY:

In California, our state fair housing enforcement agency is the Department of Fair Employment and Housing (DFEH), and it is certified by HUD to enforce, investigate, conciliate, and litigate discriminatory housing practices in California.

I BELIEVE A PRIVATE LANDLORD ILLEGALLY DISCRIMINATED AGAINST ME DUE TO MY CRIMINAL RECORD. WHAT ARE MY OPTIONS?

Your main options are:

1. You could file an administrative complaint with California's DFEH (the state housing protection agency);
2. You could file an administrative complaint with HUD (the federal housing protection agency);
3. You could file a civil lawsuit in state or federal court; OR
4. You could allow HUD (the federal housing agency) or California's DFEH (the state housing agency) to file a lawsuit on your behalf.

> HOW CAN I FIGURE OUT WHICH OPTION TO CHOOSE?

Talk to a lawyer or an advocate at a nonprofit legal services organization if possible—they can help advise you! Also, you can always file a complaint with both HUD & DFEH. More on each of these 3 options below.

You can file an administrative complaint with California's DFEH or the federal agency HUD, or both. This may lead to a lawsuit in civil court (possible with both DFEH or HUD) or an administrative hearing (HUD only). Read about how to file a state administrative complaint and a federal administrative complaint below.

OPTION 1: FILING A STATE ADMINISTRATIVE COMPLAINT WITH CALIFORNIA'S DFEH.<sup>1424</sup>

You can file an administrative complaint with California's DFEH within 1 year of the discriminatory act.<sup>1425</sup> To begin the process, you must contact DFEH in writing, online, or by phone, with basic information about the discrimination (what happened to you, when, where, etc.).<sup>1426</sup> The DFEH will conduct an intake interview to learn more about your situation, and to determine whether you can file a formal ("verified") complaint.<sup>1427</sup> See PG. 430 for a step-by-step explanation of the DFEH's state complaint process.

Under what circumstances will California's DFEH accept my complaint?

DFEH is supposed to be very generous in accepting your complaint. However, in some cases, the DFEH may decide that you cannot file a complaint—for example, if the landlord's conduct is legal, happened more than a

<sup>1424</sup> Please note that the DFEH complaint process was changed starting in 2013. Previously, the Department would issue an accusation after determining that the landlord discriminated against you. You then had the right to choose between an administrative hearing before an administrative law judge, or a civil lawsuit in court. Starting in 2013, the accusation and administrative hearing option were eliminated, so DFEH must automatically file a civil lawsuit if it finds that you were discriminated against. CAL. GOV'T. CODE § 12981 (effective Jan. 1, 2004-Dec. 31, 2012), repealed by 2012 Cal. Legis. Ch. 46 § 56 (S.B. 1038) (effective Jan. 1, 2013). For more information on these changes, see Phyllis W. Cheng, Transformative Year for Civil Rights in CA, LOS ANGELES DAILY JOURNAL, Aug. 2, 2012.

year ago, or is outside of DFEH's legal control, or if you already filed a complaint with DFEH or HUD regarding the same discrimination.<sup>1428</sup>

How much time does the DFEH have to respond and investigate?

Once the DFEH accepts your complaint, it must follow certain time limits. The DFEH has 10 days to inform you of your procedural rights and obligations.<sup>1429</sup> The landlord then has 20 days to respond to the complaint.<sup>1430</sup> Within 30 days, DFEH must begin to investigate your complaint, and it must finish the investigation within 100 days.<sup>1431</sup>

Will I have to do anything else while I wait for a response from the DFEH?

Maybe. At some point (before, during, or after the investigation), the DFEH may also require you and the landlord to go through mediation (meaning an alternative dispute resolution or a settlement negotiation) to see whether you can resolve the problem cooperatively.<sup>1432</sup>

HERE IS A STEP-BY-STEP OVERVIEW OF THE FEHA HOUSING COMPLAINT PROCESS IN CALIFORNIA:<sup>1433</sup>

STEP 1: File a Pre-Complaint Questionnaire.

First, you need to file a Pre-Complaint Questionnaire, Form DFEH-700-01 (English) or Form DFEH-700-01S (Spanish). A Pre-Complaint Questionnaire can be filed by you, the Director of DFEH, or a community organization. You can do this online, by phone, or by mail.

NOTE: It is very important that you provide an up-to-date phone number where you can be reached!

- Online: Go to <http://esq5.houdiniesq.com/dfeh/intake/>, create an account, log in, and fill out the Pre-Complaint Questionnaire. Alternatively, you can email your Pre-Complaint Questionnaire to contact.center@dfeh.ca.gov.
- By Phone: Call the DFEH's Communication Center at (800) 884-1684. If you have a hearing impairment, please call 800-884-1684 or TTY at (800) 700-2320 for service.
- By mail: Request a printed copy of the form through the DFEH website (<http://www.dfeh.ca.gov/contact.htm>). After you carefully fill out the questionnaire, you can send it to the DFEH office nearest you (see the list below for office locations):
  - DFEH—Elk Grove Office
2218 Kausen Drive, S. 100
Elk Grove, CA 95758
  - DFEH—Bay Area Regional Office

Fremont, CA 94538
  - DFEH—Fresno Office
1277 E. Alluvial Avenue, S. 101
Fresno, CA 93720
  - DFEH—Bakersfield Office

Bakersfield, CA 93309
  - DFEH—Los Angeles Office
320 West 4th St., 10th Floor
Los Angeles, CA 90013

STEP 2: Intake.

Within 10 days of receiving your Pre-Complaint Questionnaire, an investigator from the DFEH will contact you by telephone to conduct an intake interview. The investigator will ask you questions to collect facts about the possible discrimination.

STEP 3: File the Formal Complaint.

If your complaint is accepted for investigation, the DFEH investigator will draft the complaint and ask for you or your representative to sign the complaint. This formal complaint is then served on the "Respondent" (the person or entity that who you have made the allegation against). The Respondent is required to answer the <sup>1428</sup> 2 CAL. CODE REGS. §§ 10036; 10038(f), (g), (i). If the Department decides not to accept your complaint, you can still file a lawsuit on your own in court.

<sup>1430</sup> 2 CAL. CODE REGS. § 10055. The landlord can wait to respond if you begin mediation to resolve the complaint.

complaint and is given the opportunity to voluntarily resolve it. A no-fault resolution can be negotiated at any time during the complaint process.

If there is also federal law that would protect you, then the formal complaint is also filed with the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). Note: HUD usually accepts DFEH's findings with respect to the alleged discrimination.

STEP 4: Investigation Period.

DFEH must investigate every case in a standard, timely manner.

DFEH has the authority to take depositions, issue subpoenas and interrogatories and seek Temporary Restraining Orders when appropriate.

If the investigative findings do not show a violation of the law, the DFEH will close the case. If the DFEH finds a violation, continue to STEP 5.

STEP 5: Mediation (a.k.a. "Conciliation")

If the DFEH's investigation shows that there was a violation of fair housing law, then it will schedule formal mediation/ conciliation conferences between the DFEH's representatives, you, and the responding landlord.

During the mediation/conciliation conference, the DFEH presents information supporting its belief that there has been a violation and explores options to resolve the complaint.

If formal mediation/conciliation fails, the DFEH will then have to decide whether or not to file a civil lawsuit.

- Possible Outcome #1: If the DFEH determines that you have been discriminated against (that your complaint has "merit"), and that the discrimination cannot be resolved through mediation, the DFEH will file a civil lawsuit against the landlord on your behalf. (Continue to STEP 6 below).
- Possible Outcome #2: If the DFEH decides not to file a lawsuit (or takes longer than 100 days to file the lawsuit), the DFEH must give you a written notice with the following information: (1) DFEH's decision regarding your complaint, (2) the reasons for the DFEH's decision; (3) your right to sue the landlord directly in court (see PG. 434 below on how to file a civil lawsuit in court); and (3) a list resources for filing a civil lawsuit.<sup>1434</sup>

STEP 6: Litigation

If the DFEH decides to litigate the case, it will be heard in civil court.

STEP 7: Court Remedies & Possible Outcomes.

If the lawsuit is successful (meaning the court finds that the landlord discriminated against you), you may be awarded some or all of the following remedies:

1. actual money damages (to compensate you for your losses);
2. punitive damages (to punish the landlord for committing illegal discrimination);
3. injunctive relief (ordering the landlord to stop discriminating or take some other action, such as changing its screening procedures or providing you with housing); AND/OR
4. attorneys fees and costs (to reimburse the DFEH or a private attorney for the costs of the lawsuit).<sup>1435</sup>

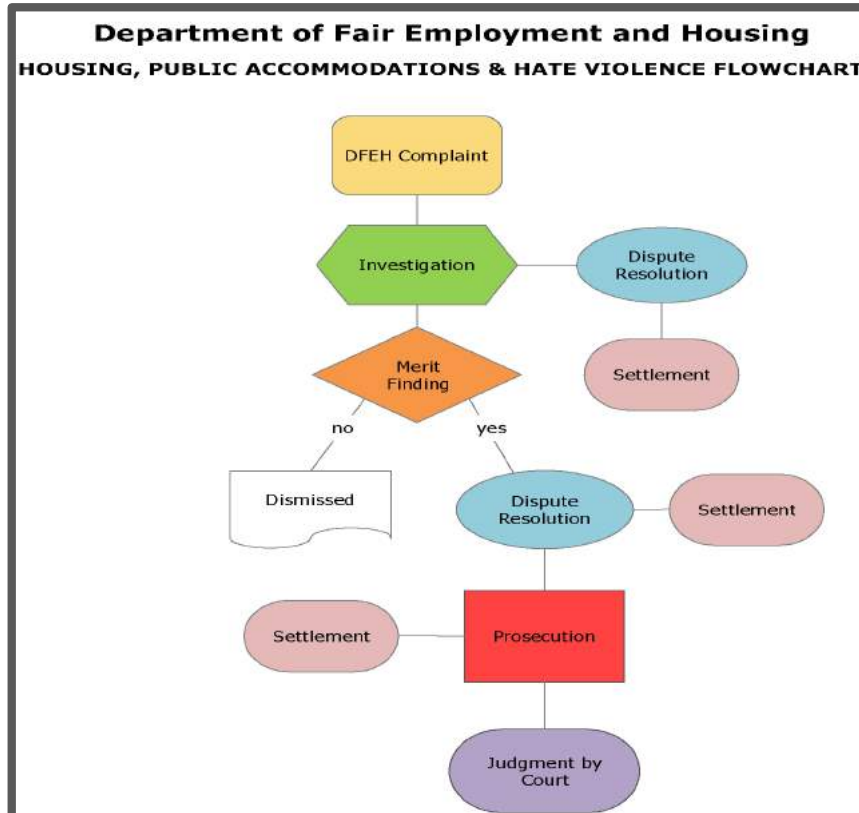

Below is a flowchart showing what happens when you file a DFEH complaint.<sup>1436</sup> Remember: if HUD (the federal fair housing agency, see PG. 433) also has jurisdiction (legal authority) over your housing complaint, then the DFEH will also file your complaint with HUD at the same time.

---

<sup>1434</sup> CAL. GOV'T CODE § 12980(h); 2 CAL. CODE REGS. § 10064. DFEH must give you this notice within 30 days after (1) deciding not to file a lawsuit, or (2) 100 days passes, whichever comes first. When deciding whether to file a civil lawsuit, the Department will consider the following factors: (1) whether there is strong evidence of discrimination; (2) whether a lawsuit is likely to be successful; (3) whether the discrimination involves an important legal issue for establishing new caselaw; (4) whether the lawsuit and its impact on civil rights are consistent with DFEH's mission; and/or (5) whether landlord offered to resolve the issue directly and you refused. 2 CAL. CODE REGS. § 10063(c).

OPTION 2: FILING A FEDERAL ADMINISTRATIVE COMPLAINT WITH HUD.

The procedures and potential relief of filing an administrative complaint with HUD are basically the same as filing an administrative complaint with California’s DFEH (see PG. 430 on how to file state housing discrimination complaint with the DFEH).

How much time do I have to file a complaint after the discriminatory act occurs?

You have 1 year after the discriminatory practice occurs to file your complaint with HUD.<sup>1437</sup>

How long does HUD have to respond and investigate?

HUD has 100 days to determine if there is “reasonable cause” to believe the discrimination occurred.<sup>1438</sup> Within these 100 days, HUD must try to facilitate a conciliation agreement (meaning an agreement that solves the problem) between you and the landlord who discriminated.<sup>1439</sup>

Will HUD ever give special treatment to my housing discrimination complaint over other ones?

HUD gives special treatment in 2 types of cases:

- Special Case #1: If HUD decides that a court must act quickly, it can refer your case to the U.S. Department of Justice (U.S. DOJ), which must then file a civil enforcement action for temporary or permanent injunctive relief pending a final disposition on the case.<sup>1440</sup> This civil action doesn’t stop the administrative proceedings; it just tries to create a solution more quickly when it’s deemed necessary.
- Special Case #2: If your complaint has to do with the legality or illegality of any zoning or other land use law, then HUD must refer it to the U.S. DOJ for civil prosecution.<sup>1441</sup> HUD must then file either a charge against the respondent, or dismiss the complaint.<sup>1442</sup>

OPTION 3: YOU CAN FILE A CIVIL LAWSUIT DIRECTLY IN STATE OR FEDERAL COURT—DEPENDING ON WHAT KINDS OF LEGAL VIOLATIONS YOU ARE ALLEGING.

You may file a civil state or federal lawsuit under either or both federal law (e.g., the FHA) and state law (e.g., the FEHA, the Unruh Act, or other laws).

1. Under federal law: FHA and FEHA, you must file your lawsuit within 2 years of the discriminatory act itself OR within 2 years of the landlord violating a mediation/conciliation agreement that HUD or DFEH had facilitated for you (refer back to STEP 5 on PG. 432 above).<sup>1443</sup>
2. Under state law: California’s Unruh Act, there is not a clear deadline by when you must file the lawsuit, but it could be as short of a timeline as 1 year!<sup>1444</sup> If you are able to do so, talk to an attorney about your options and timelines as soon as possible after the discrimination occurs (see a list of housing legal aid providers across California on PG. 1127).

What remedies are available to me in a state or federal lawsuit?

If the lawsuit is successful (meaning the judge finds that the landlord discriminated against you), you may be awarded some or all of the following remedies:

- actual money damages (to compensate you for your losses);
- punitive damages (to punish the landlord for committing illegal discrimination);
- injunctive relief (ordering the landlord to stop discriminating or take some other action, such as changing its screening procedures or providing you with housing); AND/OR
- attorney’s fees and costs (to reimburse the DFEH or a private attorney for the costs of the lawsuit).<sup>1445</sup>

OPTION 4: The U.S. Department of Justice (U.S. DOJ) or the California Department of Justice (CA DOJ) may also file a complaint—on the behalf of their government agencies OR on your behalf.

The U.S. DOJ may file a civil lawsuit in federal court if there is reasonable cause to believe that:

1. any person or group is engaged in a pattern or practice of unlawful acts,
2. or (2) the denial of federal or state housing rights is an issue of “general public importance.”<sup>1446</sup>

The California Attorney General, who leads the CA DOJ, may also file a civil lawsuit in state court under the same standard.<sup>1447</sup> In such a case, the California Attorney General and the DFEH (California Department of Fair Employment and Housing) must comply with the California State Bar’s Rules of Professional Conduct in representing your interests, establish an attorney-client relationship, and zealously represent your interests.<sup>1448</sup>

This type of lawsuit is called a “state enforcement action,” and the U.S. DOJ or CA DOJ must file the lawsuit within 18 months (1.5 years) after the discriminatory act.<sup>1449</sup>

DOES MY CITY HAVE ADDITIONAL LOCAL PROTECTIONS?

It may! If your city or county has special protections against housing discrimination of people with records, or has local agencies in charge of enforcing fair housing laws, then you may also want to bring your housing discrimination complaint to the city agency responsible for fair housing where you live. If you aren’t sure, you can always ask someone at the DFEH, or ask a local nonprofit housing attorney (see a list of legal aid organizations that may be able to assist you on PG. 1127). For example, the city of San Francisco, CA has a new law called the “Fair Chance Ordinance” that adds additional protections for people with criminal records who apply to live in city-funded affordable housing (which includes Below Market Rate or “BMR” units in private buildings in SF). Go to Appendix H, PG. 427 for information on the San Francisco law and the process of filing a complaint against a landlord or housing provider who has violated the law in San Francisco.

<sup>1444</sup> See CAL. CIV. PROC. CODE § 338(a). DFEH states that the Unruh Act has a three-year limitation period if filed as a private lawsuit (“Highlights of Differences Between State and Federal Housing Laws,” May 20, 1993), but see Mitchell v. Yu Sung, 816 F. Supp. 597 (1993) (court applied a one-year limitation period).

<sup>1448</sup> CAL. GOV’T CODE § 12989(c). California Government Code Section 12981.1 permits DFEH to dismiss a complaint only if “no reasonable cause exists to believe that an unlawful housing practice” has occurred. California Government Code Sections 12980(d) and 12981(g) ensure that complainants are notified of the limited availability of damages in administrative proceedings.

Rural development (RD) grievance procedures

The grievance procedures for Rural Development (RD) housing are different from most other government-assisted housing programs. Here is an overview of how it works if you live in RD housing:

- When a grievance is filed, regulations require the owner of the multifamily property (or owner's representative) to offer to meet informally with the denied applicant within 10 calendar days to resolve the grievance.
- If the informal meeting fails to resolve the issue, the owner must file a report summarizing the problem to USDA (DEFINE THIS) and the applicant.
- The applicant (you) may submit a summary of the problem to USDA.
- After you get a summary of the problem, you must file a written request for an informal review hearing within 10 calendar days.
- After you request the informal review hearing, a hearing panel will be selected.
- You and the owner of the multifamily property may agree on a hearing officer, or you may each appoint one member of a 3-person panel, and those two hearing officers choose the third officer. If you and the owner cannot agree within 30 days on the two hearing officers, USDA will give you notice and appoint a person to act as the sole hearing officer.
- A USDA-approved 'Standing Hearing Panel' can also hear all grievances related to a particular development, where at least one member of the standing hearing panel must be selected by the residents at a formal resident meeting called to select hearing panel members.
- After the hearing panel is selected, the hearing will be scheduled within 15 days.

Transitional Housing Participant Misconduct Act (THPMA)

It's very common to live in transitional housing after release from prison or jail. As described on PG. 344, transitional housing programs are temporary programs that offer temporary housing and services. They usually have requirements you have to meet before you can move in, and there are usually waitlists. Some transitional housing programs offer services like job training, counseling, GED programs, and computer classes. Some transitional housing programs are intended for people with specific needs such as mental illness, addiction treatment and recovery (see PG. 351), disabilities (PG. 419), or domestic violence support (see PG. 348).

In this section, we explain a special law called the Transitional Housing Participant Misconduct Act (THPMA). Just because you live in transitional housing does NOT mean that the THPMA applies to you, so read carefully!

HOW CAN A TRANSITIONAL HOUSING PROVIDER REMOVE ME FROM MY HOUSING?

AS A GENERAL RULE:

If a resident and a transitional housing provider have an agreement for that person to live in the housing unit, the transitional housing provider MUST follow California's formal eviction process in civil court (these cases are called "unlawful detainer" actions under the law). If a transitional housing provider removes you without going through the formal court process, that housing provider could be subject to legal liability. If possible, talk to an lawyer or advocate at a legal aid organization about your rights (see a list of legal aid organizations across California, beginning on PG. 1127).

THE THPMA IS THE EXCEPTION TO THE GENERAL RULE:

The THPMA is a California state law and says owners of transitional housing can evict you more quickly than a normal eviction procedure ONLY IF the following 3 requirements are met:

- You committed "participant misconduct or abuse";
- You have lived in the transitional housing program for less than 6 months; AND
- You signed a WRITTEN CONTRACT with the transitional housing provider when entering the program that explicitly stated that the THPMA applied, with information about your rights and the procedure for using the THPMA to kick someone out more quickly.

ALL of these factors need to be true, and most of the time, they are not, so REMEMBER—generally you have the same rights as a tenant facing eviction, which means usually a transitional housing provider has to go through the court process to evict (remove) you.

WHAT IS CONSIDERED A "TRANSITIONAL HOUSING PROGRAM" UNDER THE THPMA?

Under the THPMA, a transitional housing program is any program designed to assist homeless persons to live independently in permanent housing with all the following components:

1. Residency requirements from 30 days to 24 months.
2. Provides comprehensive social service programs incl. individualized case mgt. and may include other services such as alcohol/substance abuse counseling, self-improvement training, employment and training, and living skills.
3. Provides temporary housing with structured setting and rules participants need to comply with to remain in program.

KEY DEFINITION: "Homeless person" = This law defines a homeless person as an individual or family who lacks a fixed, regular, and adequate place to sleep at night, or lived in any temporary housing, shelter, or institution, which includes sites not ordinarily used or designed for regular sleeping. This definition also covers any person living with the transitional housing program participant.

WHEN MAY A TRANSITIONAL HOUSING PROGRAM OPERATOR USE THE THPMA PROCESS AND EVICT ME MORE QUICKLY THAN THE NORMAL EVICTION PROCESS?

An operator may use the faster, expedited THPMA restraining order/injunction process only for (1) program misconduct, or (2) abuse, defined below.

1. Program misconduct—is an intentional violation of the transitional housing program's rules and regulations. The intentional violation must "substantially interfere with the orderly operation of the program," and involve one of the following acts:
  - Drunkenness on site;
  - Unlawful use or sale of drugs;
  - Theft;

WHAT IS A TENANT?

A tenant is a person who lives on land or in a property that is rented from a landlord.

- Arson;
- Destruction of property (against the operator, other program participants, employees, or people living within 100 feet of the program site); or
- Violence or threat of violence and harassment (against the operator, other program participants, employees, or people living within 100 feet of the program site).

OR

2. Abuse—is intentionally or recklessly causing, or attempting to cause, bodily injury or sexual assault; or placing someone else in reasonable fear of “imminent serious bodily injury” (against yourself, the operator, other program participants, employees, or people living within 100 feet of the program site).

Even in these situations, the transitional housing provider may NOT use the expedited THPMA removal process against a participant in the program for 6 months or more, UNLESS a restraining order (permanent injunction) or temporary restraining order (TRO) is already pending or in force against you. If the operator hasn’t started a THPMA action within 6 months of your participation in the program, then the operator must either (1) go through the form eviction (“unlawful detainer”) court process, and/or (2) use a traditional civil harassment restraining order process to remove you.<sup>1450</sup>

HOW COULD A TRANSITIONAL HOUSING PROGRAM OPERATOR USE THE THPMA PROCESS?

If the above requirements are all met, a transitional housing program operator may:

1. Use the formal eviction/”unlawful detainer” court process (see the GENERAL RULE on PG. 436—the THPMA gives the transitional housing owner two options for evicting someone); OR
2. If program misconduct or abuse: Use the Temporary Restraining Order (TRO)/injunction process under the THPMA.

WHAT IS THE TRO PROCESS?

The TRO process is a 2-step process:

STEP 1: The transitional housing program operator must file an application for an immediate temporary restraining order (TRO) until a hearing can take place. This immediate TRO may include orders that you (the program participant) refrain from misconduct, or it may exclude you from participating and living at the transitional housing program site, and stay at least 200 feet away from the site of abuse (defined above, PG. 437) was alleged.

STEP 2: There is a hearing on permanent injunction—usually within in 5 days of the program operator filing the TRO. For the judge to issue a permanent injunction (permanent restraining order) at the hearing, there must be clear and convincing evidence of program misconduct or abuse by the participant.

WHAT ARE “STAY AWAY” AND “EXCLUSION” ORDERS, AND WHEN CAN A PROGRAM OPERATOR GET ONE AGAINST ME?

These types of orders are defined below:

- Exclusion Order: An exclusion order says that you are not allowed to participate or live at the program site.
- Stay Away Order: A stay away order says that you cannot be within 200 feet of the transitional housing program site or other program sites that it runs.

A transitional housing program operator may only ask for exclusion and stay away orders for “abuse,” NOT for “program misconduct” (defined above on PG. 437). These orders can last for up to 1 year after the hearing, and the operator can ask the court to renew the restraining order after that (NOTE: the operator must ask for an extension of the exclusion or stay away order at least 3 months before the original one expires).

The program operator may also be able to get an immediate exclusion or stay away order from the court in a temporary restraining order (TRO) hearing—but only if it’s an emergency. It can only be considered an emergency if it’s necessary to protect another participant, employee, or person living within 100 feet of the program site from “imminent serious bodily injury.”

WHAT COULD HAPPEN IF THE TRANSITIONAL HOUSING PROGRAM OPERATOR GETS AN EXCLUSION OR “STAY AWAY” ORDER?

Before the hearing, through a TRO, the transitional housing program operator may have you immediately removed from the unit.

After the hearing, the transitional housing program operator may take immediate possession of the unit and consider it “abandoned.” If there are other people living in the unit (for example, your family members), but those other people were not named in the restraining order petition, then the program operator may only remove you, and anyone actually named in the petition. A copy of the order will also be given to the local police.

WHAT COULD HAPPEN IF THE TRANSITIONAL HOUSING PROGRAM OPERATOR DOESN'T GET AN EXCLUSION OR STAY AWAY ORDER?

If you violate the conditions of the restraining order (also called a permanent injunction), the transitional housing program operator may:

1. Serve you with a 3-day “notice to quit”—meaning you have 3 days to get you and your belongings out of the transitional housing program; and after the 3 days are up, the operator can start a formal eviction process in court (an “unlawful detainer” action - learn more about these eviction lawsuits on PG. 398 above).
2. File a “contempt” action in court along with a request (called a “petition”) to modify the exiting restraining order to include an exclusion order (EVEN IF the original action was based only on “program misconduct”),
3. Finally, if you “willfully disobey” the court’s restraining order, you could be charged and possibly convicted of a criminal misdemeanor.
4. Below, we have copied the instructions from the California Courts for someone who is participating in a transitional housing program covered by the THPMA and who receives restraining order papers.

You can download all forms related to the THPMA on the California Superior Court’s website at <http://www.courts.ca.gov/forms.htm?filter=TH>.

WHAT STEPS DOES THE CALIFORNIA COURT SUGGEST I TAKE IF YOU I’M BEING KICKED OUT OF TRANSITIONAL HOUSING UNDER THE TRANSITIONAL HOUSING PARTICIPANT MISCONDUCT ACT (THPMA)?

The California Courts have published instructions for people who are facing removal from transitional housing under the THMPA. Those instructions are available on court form TH-210, available online at <http://www.courts.ca.gov/documents/th210.pdf>, and also copied below for your reference.

1. Legal advice. If you are served with an Order to Show Cause and Temporary Restraining Order [“OSC/TRO”] and a Petition, you should seek legal advice right away. The OSC/TRO should list the name, address, and phone number of the Legal Services Office in the county where the petition is filed. You may be able to get legal services by contacting this office. If you do not have an attorney, you can also call the attorney’s referral service of your local bar association for help.
2. Read the Instructions. Whether or not you choose to talk to an attorney, you should read all of these instructions and the other papers you have received.
3. Obey the Order. Read the papers served on you very carefully. The Petition tells you what orders the program operator is asking the court to make. The OSC/TRO tells you when to appear in court and may contain a temporary order telling you that you cannot do certain things. YOU HAVE TO OBEY THE ORDER. IF YOU DO NOT OBEY THE COURT’S ORDERS, CRIMINAL CHARGES MAY BE FILED AGAINST YOU. IF YOU ARE FOUND IN CONTEMPT OF COURT FOR NOT FOLLOWING THE COURT’S ORDERS, THE COURT CAN CHANGE THE ORDERS TO FORCE YOU TO MOVE OUT OF THE PROGRAM’S HOUSING.
4. Review the facts. Read the description of the facts on the Petition very carefully. This is where the program operator tells the judge what he or she thinks happened. If you do not agree with the facts on the petition or you think it would not be fair for the court to grant orders against you, GO TO THE HEARING. The place and time of the hearing are on the first page of the form named “Order to Show Cause and Temporary Restraining Order.”
5. Respond to the court. If you want to fight the petition you should file a Participant’s Response. YOU DO NOT HAVE TO PAY A FEE TO FILE THIS FORM. A blank copy of the Response should have been given to you with the OSC/TRO. You can also file and serve statements signed by people who have personal knowledge of the facts. These are called “declarations.” You can type these declarations on form MC-031 and attach them to your Response. If you do not know how to prepare a declaration, you should see an attorney.

6. Serve a copy on program operator. After you have filed the Participant's Response with the superior court clerk, a copy must be delivered personally or by mail to the program operator or the program operator's attorney.

You cannot serve the program operator yourself. Service may be made by a licensed process server, the sheriff's department, or any person 18 years of age or older, other than you. The person should complete and sign a Proof of Personal Service form. (A blank copy should have been given to you with the OSC/TRO.) You should take the completed form back to the court clerk or bring it with you to the hearing.

7. Extensions. If you need more time to find an attorney or to prepare your Response, you must ask the judge for a continuance (extension) by the hearing date shown on the OSC/TRO.

8. Opposing the Petition. If you wish to fight the lawsuit, you should file a Participant's Response and also go to the hearing. If you have any witnesses, they also must be present. If you do not attend the hearing, the court may make "permanent" orders against you that will last up to one year. If you can't file and serve a Response (or find an attorney who will), SHOW UP AT THE HEARING ANYWAY. At the hearing, explain your difficulties to the judge, and ask to be allowed to tell your side of the case.

PUBLIC BENEFITS

This PUBLIC BENEFITS CHAPTER will give you an overview of the public benefits (government assistance) available to you in reentry, including how a criminal record affects your application. This chapter explains the most common public benefits programs that can help provide things like: cash assistance, health care, or food in your transition.

DISCLAIMER - YOUR RESPONSIBILITY WHEN USING THIS GUIDE: When putting together the Roadmap to Reentry: A California Legal Guide, we did our best to give you useful and accurate information. However, the laws change frequently and are subject to differing interpretations. We do not always have the resources to make changes to this informational material every time the law changes. If you use information from the Roadmap to Reentry legal guide, it is your responsibility to make sure that the law has not changed and applies to your particular situation. If you are incarcerated, most of the materials you need should be available in your institution's law library. # I. INTRODUCTION

WHAT ARE PUBLIC BENEFITS?

“Public benefits” are government-funded programs that help people get basic life necessities. Public benefits are sometimes referred to as “welfare.” There are public benefits programs to help people get food, shelter, healthcare, childcare, cash for daily expenses, and support in emergencies. Each program has different procedures, rules, and requirements that you have to meet to qualify. Depending on your situation, you may qualify for several of the public benefits programs, just one, or none. This section explains what the major public benefits programs offer, which ones you may qualify for, and how to get them.<sup>1451</sup>

WHAT SHOULD I KNOW ABOUT FEDERAL, STATE, AND COUNTY BENEFITS?

The federal (national) government is in charge of certain public benefits programs that operate across the country; and the state and county governments are in charge of others that are specific to their own residents:

- For some benefits programs, such as Supplemental Security Income (SSI) and Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI), the federal government sets all the rules about who can receive benefits and how they get issued, requiring agencies in every state and county to follow those rules when distributing those benefits. For example: If you are a person with a disability and no income, and you want to apply for SSI benefits, you have to follow the same rules and meet the same requirements no matter what state or county you live in.
- For other benefits programs, such as cash assistance, the federal government sets only very general rules, allowing state and county governments to set up their own systems for distributing those benefits to their residents. For example, if you’re a California resident struggling to cover your living costs and want to apply for cash aid through the General Assistance or General Relief (GA/GR) programs, the rules are set by California and your specific county.<sup>1452</sup>
- For other benefits programs, such as healthcare, the federal government sets up a general system for low-income people (Medicaid) and requires agencies in every state and county to follow those national rules—but also allows states and counties to set more specific rules for their residents and run their own benefits programs for residents who don’t qualify under the federal rules.<sup>1453</sup>

It is important to know what government agency runs your public benefits—who sets the program rules, as well as which agency you apply and report to.

THIS CHART DESCRIBES THE MOST COMMON TYPES OF PUBLIC BENEFITS PROGRAMS, AND WHAT THEY CAN PROVIDE TO PEOPLE WHO QUALIFY. WHETHER YOU QUALIFY DEPENDS ON MANY INDIVIDUAL FACTORS.

SUMMARY OF THE MAJOR PUBLIC BENEFITS PROGRAMS IN CALIFORNIA
TYPE OF PUBLIC BENEFIT	DESCRIPTION
Basic Needs Cash Benefits	Basic Needs Cash Benefits programs called General Assistance/General Relief (GA/GR) and CalWORKS provide temporary and/or long-term financial (cash) aid to low income people and families
Food Benefits	California provides food benefits through a program called CalFresh (food stamps). CalFresh provides money to low-income people and families to purchase food. Pregnant women, infants and children may potentially be eligible for WIC, a program that provides food for pregnant women or mothers of young children. There are also hundreds of free food banks throughout California.
Health Care Benefits	California provides free health insurance and coverage to low income people and families through a program called Medi-Cal. People who do not qualify for Medi-Cal may sign up for health care through the State’s healthcare marketplace, Covered California.
Work Services Benefits	People enrolled in CalWORKS are eligible for Welfare-To-Work, a program that helps people to train for and find employment.
Social Security Benefits	Social Security Benefits are for retired people, disabled people, and their families. Through Retirement Benefits, Disability Benefits (SSDI), and Supplemental Security Income (SSI/SSP), qualifying people may receive monthly cash assistance.
Veterans Benefits	The federal Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) provides benefits to former U.S. military service members, such as health care, transitional assistance, and employment-related services.

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET PUBLIC BENEFITS?

It depends. With some benefits programs, there are no rules or requirements related to criminal histories, so you can and should apply to these programs. You can even apply for certain benefits while you are still in prison or jail. But with other benefits programs, there are rules that may disqualify you based on your criminal history. Some programs may limit or deny your access to benefits if you have a certain kind of criminal conviction (a criminal offense you were found guilty of); a parole/probation violation; certain kinds of unpaid fines, fees or debts; or an outstanding warrant. Different programs will have different rules and requirements about these issues. Some programs also impose different restrictions based on what your conviction or violation was, how long ago it was, and how many other convictions or violations you have had.

CAN I APPLY FOR PUBLIC BENEFITS WHILE I'M INCARCERATED?

It depends. For some benefits, yes, you can and should! Depending on where you're incarcerated, there may be special staff or programs in your facility to help you apply for health care, disability support, and other benefits. Often, you can't start receiving the benefits while you're still incarcerated—but by signing up before your release, you can ensure you'll have access to those benefits soon after you get out. This manual will provide information about the programs where this is possible.

II. BASIC NEEDS CASH BENEFITS

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- What “basic needs cash benefits” are (GA/GR and CalWORKS)
- How your criminal record could affect your ability to apply for & get cash benefits (GA/GR and CalWORKS)
- How to apply for cash benefits
- Whether you can apply for cash benefits while incarcerated
- How cash benefits are distributed and how to stay in the program after you’re enrolled
- What to do if you think your application for cash benefits was wrongly denied

LEARN MORE LOCALLY!

Learn more about which benefits are available to you and how to apply by looking up your county welfare agency. This can be found online at: <http://www.cwda.org/links/chsa.php>

GENERAL ASSISTANCE/GENERAL RELIEF (GA/GR)

General Assistance and General Relief (GA/GR) provide cash assistance to adults who have little money, no sources of support, and who are not currently receiving any other public benefits. Every county in California runs its own GA or GR program, referred to in some counties (mostly in Northern California) as General Assistance (GA) and in other counties (mostly in Southern California) as General Relief (GR).

HELPFUL HINT

What’s the difference between General Assistance (GA)/General Relief (GR) & CalWORKS?

General Assistance/General Relief is designed to assist needy single adults. The typical General Assistance/General Relief recipient is a low-income single person who has limited resources and does not receive any other Public Benefits. The typical CalWORKS recipients are low-income families with minor children who may also receive other Public Benefits.

AM I ELIGIBLE FOR GA/GR?

In general, to be able to get General Assistance/General Relief, you must:

- Be at least age 18 (unless you are an emancipated foster child denied aid through CalWORKS);
- Be a resident of the county where you’re applying;
- Be a U.S. citizen, a legal permanent resident, or an immigrant with satisfactory status;
- Have a Social Security Number (a card is not necessary); and
- Have limited income and property.

Every county has its own rules, including specific limits on the income and property you can have. Contact your county welfare agency for more details. For a list of county welfare agencies, see Appendix A on PG. 505.<sup>1454</sup>

When applying for GA/GR, you should bring whatever form of identification you have. If you do not have any ID, the social worker at the county welfare agency should be able to help you in proving your identity. Some counties also require a fingerprint be taken before benefits can be distributed. For information about applying for a California state ID card for free or reduced price, see the BUILDING BLOCKS IN REENTRY: ID & VOTING CHAPTER, on PG. 43. If you have more questions about applying for GA/GR, you may call the following nonprofit organizations: Public Interest Law Project (PILP) at (510) 891-9794 or the Western Center on Law and Poverty (WCLP) at (213) 487-7211, for advice.

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET GA/GR?

Maybe. Some counties have special rules and restrictions for people with drug-related criminal convictions or other violations, or for people who are suspected of having a warrant, being in violation of parole or probation, or fleeing to avoid prosecution for a crime. Contact your county welfare agency to ask about its local policy. For a directory of county welfare agencies, see Appendix A, PG. 505.<sup>1455</sup> If you believe that your county welfare agency is wrongly or unlawfully denying GA/GR benefits to you, you may call the following nonprofit organizations: Public Interest Law Project (PILP) at (510) 891-9794 or the Western Center on Law and Poverty (WCLP) at (213) 487-7211, for advice.

SPECIAL RULES & RESTRICTIONS

Some counties may have special rules and restrictions for people with drug-related convictions or other violations, or people who are suspected of having a warrant, being in violation of parole or probation, or fleeing to avoid prosecution.

For example, in Los Angeles County, you are ineligible for GA/GR if you are on house arrest. Other counties, such as San Francisco, make eligibility determinations on a case-by-case basis.

WHAT BENEFITS AND SERVICES CAN I GET THROUGH GA/GR?

It depends on your county. Every county offers different benefits and services through GA/GR, and every county sets its own specific rules. Generally, every county's GA/GR program provides a monthly cash amount. But remember that the rules vary by county:

- Each county has its own rules for calculating a person's monthly GA/GR amount—typically based on factors like whether you're married, your housing situation, disabilities, ability to work, and ability to apply for other public benefits programs.
- Some counties' GA/GR programs provide help with:
  - Transportation costs;
  - Health care and nutrition needs;
  - Substance abuse treatment referrals;
  - Emergency food and housing;
  - Housing repairs; and/or
  - Personal hygiene products.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION FOR GA/GR: The difference between a grant and a loan: Some counties provide GA/GR cash as a “grant” (a gift), with no strings attached; other counties provide GA/GR as a “loan.” If your county treats GA/GR as a loan, you will have to pay it back if you have enough income to do so. Several counties require anyone who receives GA/GR, but is then later approved for Social Security Benefits, to repay GA/GR benefits. For more information on Social Security Benefits, see PG. 478. Also, many counties have rules that limit the number of months that you can get GA/GR benefits throughout the year.

HOW DO I APPLY FOR GA/GR?

You must apply for General Assistance/General Relief in person. If you have a disability that stops you from going into the county welfare office, you can request help. Contact your county welfare agency for details about the application process in your county. For a directory of county welfare agencies, see Appendix A, PG. 505. Note that some counties accept GA/GR applications only at specific offices, so if you are unsure about which office to go to, you should call the main county welfare office and ask.

Note that you can apply for General Assistance/General Relief at the same time you apply for CalFresh (“food stamps”) and/or Medi-Cal (health insurance for low-income Californians), and it is usually a good idea to do so. Some counties may allow you to apply for General Assistance/General Relief upon release or at a community re-entry center. See more information about CalFresh on PG. 454 and Medi-Cal on PG. 466.

CAN I APPLY FOR GA/GR WHILE INCARCERATED?

No. You are not eligible to apply for GA/GR while in jail or prison. But remember that you may be eligible to apply once you are released.<sup>1456</sup> If you are on house arrest, contact your county welfare agency to ask if you are eligible for GA/GR.<sup>1457</sup>

ONCE I'M ENROLLED IN GA/GR, WHAT RULES MUST I FOLLOW TO STAY IN THE PROGRAM?

It depends on your county. Every county sets its own General Assistance/ General Relief rules. Here are some of the rules to know about:

- Generally, you must fall under the income and property limits to be eligible.
- All counties require you to immediately report any changes to your address, income, or property. Failure to report such changes can result in your losing the GA/GR benefits, even if the change would not otherwise disqualify you.
- Some counties may limit how long you can receive GA/GR if you are able to work, or require that you apply for Social Security and/ or Supplemental Security Income (SSI) if you are not able to work.
- Some counties treat GA/GR as a “loan,” and will make you pay back the GA/GR money you received if you have enough income, get a job, or get approved for SSDI or SSI disability benefits.
- Some counties also provide you and/or require you to use employment services to help you find, get, and keep a job. But you can't be required to join and use employment services if you are “unemployable.” You may be considered unemployable if you are: older than 70 years old; responsible for the substantial

MORE INFORMATION ON “UNEMPLOYABLE APPLICANTS”

You may be considered unemployable if you are: older than 70 years old; responsible for the substantial and continuous care of a family member; or you are disabled.

- Unemployable GA/GR recipients who are applying for Social Security or SSI can also receive representation or assistance in their applications.
- Contact your county welfare agency if you need to find out exactly what benefits and services it offers and which rules apply for General Assistance/General Relief.

and continuous care of a family member; or you are disabled. If you have not been screened by the county welfare agency to determine if you are employable, or you believe the county has made a mistake in determining that you are “employable,” and you have been required to participate in an employment program or denied GA/GR assistance, you should consider appealing. It’s best to contact your local legal aid provider to help with filing your appeal (you can visit the website <http://lawhelpca.org/find-legal-help> to browse legal aid providers, and see list of legal aid providers at the back of this guide on PG. 1127).<sup>1458</sup>

I BELIEVE MY APPLICATION FOR GENERAL ASSISTANCE/GENERAL RELIEF BENEFITS WAS WRONGLY DENIED OR STOPPED. HOW CAN I APPEAL?

If you are denied or lose General Assistance/General Relief benefits, you can request a hearing at any time. The back of any county notice about General Assistance/General Relief eligibility should contain a form that explains how to request a hearing. You may also request a hearing by calling your county welfare agency. We recommend requesting a hearing in writing, so that there is a record of your complaint.

- General Assistance/General Relief is a county program, so hearings are held by the county, and can only be requested by contacting the county social services agency. Each county has its own specific procedures regarding appeals hearings.
- For help filing an appeal, it’s best to find a local legal aid provider. You can search for one by visiting the website <http://lawhelpca.org/find-legal-help>, and see the list of legal aid providers on PG. 1127.

CAN I GET MY MEDI-CAL HEALTH INSURANCE TO COVER A MEDICAL BILL I GOT AFTER MY RELEASE BUT BEFORE I HAD SIGNED UP FOR MEDI-CAL?

Yes. You can retroactively get reimbursed for eligible medical expenses incurred up to three months before you applied for Medi-Cal.<sup>1459</sup> You must submit a form MC210a (Supplement to Statement of Facts for Retroactive Coverage, available in Appendix E on PG. 514), along with any relevant receipts and unpaid bills, within one year of incurring the expenses.<sup>1460</sup> NOTE: you may be eligible for retroactive coverage even if you did not apply or were found ineligible for ongoing coverage.

CALWORKS

CalWORKs provides monthly cash aid, access to food and health care benefits, and other services for families with children.<sup>1461</sup> The State of California runs CalWORKs as part of the federal government’s Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) program.<sup>1462</sup> Both the federal and California governments set the major rules for this program, but each county runs their own program, and each county may have slightly different rules for how to apply and available services.<sup>1463</sup>

AM I ELIGIBLE FOR CALWORKS?

CalWORKs is for families with children who need support because at least one parent is unemployed (defined as working less than 100 hours per month), disabled, absent, in jail or prison, or dead, and for needy caretakers of foster child(ren).<sup>1464</sup>

If you’re a parent or caretaker with at least one child in your home, you may be able to get CalWORKs if all of the following requirements are met:

- You, the parent or caretaker, must (1) be a California resident and (2) be legally present in the U.S. (either a citizen or legal permanent resident).<sup>1465</sup>
- At least one child in your home must (1) be under age 18,<sup>1466</sup> and (2) need support because at least one parent is unemployed, disabled, absent, in jail or prison, or dead.<sup>1467</sup>
- Your family’s resources must be no greater than the CalWORKs resource limit.

A CHILD OVER 18?

There is an exception for age limit of a child. If there is a child over 18 that is living at home but is expected to complete high school before his/her 19th birthday, you may be eligible for CalWORKs.

- For CalWORKs, resources include cash or property that you own, can convert to cash, or can use to support yourself. Some examples are savings accounts, stocks, and bonds. The resource limit is slightly higher for families that include a senior citizen (age 60 or over).
- For CalWORKs, certain things that do NOT count as resources are: your home, household goods (like furniture or appliances), some types of trusts, and your car if it's worth $4,650 or less. For more information, please visit CalWORKs resource income glossary at http://ca.db101.org/glossary\_item.aspx?item-id=1388.
- Your family's income must be no greater than the CalWORKs income limit.<sup>1468</sup>
  - For CalWORKs eligibility, your family's income includes (1) earned income, or money you earn by working, plus (2) unearned income, or money you receive from sources other than work.<sup>1469</sup> For example, unearned income includes: public benefits, interest from a trust or investment, or spousal support. For CalWORKs eligibility, income does not include SSI, loans and grants, Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC), Federal Relocation/Disaster benefits, and certain other items, family size, and where you live.

IMPORTANT: Counting your income to see if you're eligible for CalWORKs works differently than counting your income to calculate your benefit amount. ### HELPFUL HINT:

CALWORKS COMBINED WITH OTHER BENEFITS PROGRAMS:

- If you receive SSI disability benefits, you do not qualify for CalWORKs. However, other people in your family may still qualify, and you can apply for them. Your income will not be counted.<sup>1470</sup> This means when CalWORKs staff determines your family's eligibility and cash aid amount, they won't count you as a family member, and they won't count your SSI benefits as part of your family's income. For more information about SSI benefits see PG. 486.
- If you receive SSDI benefits, you may still qualify for CalWORKs. However, part of your SSDI benefits will count as income when CalWORKs determines your eligibility and calculates your monthly cash aid.<sup>1471</sup> For more information about SSDI benefits, see PG. 482.
- If you're approved to get CalFresh, you may be automatically eligible for CalFresh ("food stamps") and Medi-Cal.<sup>1472</sup> If your household is receiving cash aid through CalWORKs, you are "categorically eligible" for CalFresh. This means the CalFresh Program accepts the CalWORKs worker's determination of your eligibility based on information you gave when applying for CalWORKs. For more information on CalFresh, see PG. 454. For more information on Med-Cal, see PG. 466.

Learn how to apply for CalWORKs on PG. 452. You may also visit the following website for tips on applying to CalWORKs: <http://lnc.net/calworks-tips-and-fact-sheets/>.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION ABOUT HOUSEHOLD SIZE: In calculating your benefits, CalWORKs may not count some people in your home as part of your family. Ask your county CalWORKs office for details on who will be included in the "household size." Examples of people who may not count, even if they live with you, are anyone who: is receiving SSI benefits; is a noncitizen or does not have permanent legal presence in the U.S.; foster children receiving foster care payments; sponsored noncitizens who receive support from sponsors; any anyone who was sanctioned by the CalWORKs program.

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET CALWORKS?

Maybe. If any of the following statements apply to you, you might not be eligible for CalWORKs:

- You are in violation of a condition of probation or parole, as found by a court or administrative judge.<sup>1473</sup>

<sup>1468</sup> See Glossary: Minimum Basic Standards of Adequate Care, DISABILITY BENEFITS 101: WORKING WITH A DISABILITY IN CALIFORNIA, http://ca.db101.org/glossary\_item.aspx?item-id=1372 (This limit is also called a "needs standard" or "Minimum Basic Standard of Adequate Care").

- You have been found guilty of an Intentional Program Violation (IPV) involving fraud or misuse of public benefits.<sup>1474</sup> Depending on how many IPVs you have, and what they were for, you may be disqualified from CalWORKs (and CalFresh) for varying periods of time—anywhere between 12 months to life.<sup>1475</sup>
- You are a “fleeing felon.” In other words, if you are hiding or running away to avoid felony charges, and/or to avoid being incarcerated for a felony conviction you will not be eligible for CalWORKs.<sup>1476</sup> But other people in your household may be and you will be required to be listed on the application and/or report forms and your income will be counted when anyone in your family applies for or gets CalWORKs.<sup>1477</sup>

Am I ineligible for CalWORKs because of a past felony drug conviction?

No, not anymore. California’s law changed! Read more in the important update box below.

IMPORTANT UPDATE!

CalWORKs and CalFresh Rules Changed in 2015, Opening Up Eligibility to People with Prior Drug Felony Convictions

GREAT NEWS! California eliminated the ban on aid for people with past drug-related felony convictions. Starting April 1, 2015, you could no longer be disqualified from CalWORKs or CalFresh because of a prior drug-related felony conviction and no longer have to report a prior drug felony on any CalWORKs or CalFresh application or report (see more on CalFresh “food stamps” beginning on PG. 454). If you applied for CalWORKs or CalFresh before April 1, 2015, and were denied due to a drug conviction, it’s recommended that you reapply under the newer rules.

If you are on parole, probation, or another form of community supervision, it’s important that you follow the rules of your supervision to remain in the CalWORKs and/or CalFresh program(s). If you violate the terms of your supervision, you will lose your CalFresh and CalWORKs.<sup>1478</sup>

If anyone in your family was already receiving CalWORKs aid, your benefits should have been automatically added to your family’s April 2015 Grant. Once you are added to CalWORKs, you are also required to participate in the Welfare-to-Work program requirement (see PG. 476). If you were already meeting Welfare-to-Work requirements, you became newly eligible for transportation costs, subsidized child care, and other work supports. Contact your family’s CalWORKs caseworker if you do not receive a letter from the county about these new benefits and rules by March 1, 2015.

WHAT BENEFITS AND SERVICES CAN I GET THROUGH CALWORKS?

You can get cash assistance, employment services, and other benefits.

Cash assistance: CalWORKs provides monthly cash aid to help pay for basic needs such as housing, food, utilities, clothing, and medical care. Your monthly aid (“grant level”) is based on two factors:

1. Your family size: Generally, if you have a larger family, you’ll qualify for more cash aid; and if you have a smaller family, you’ll qualify for less.
2. Where you live: Generally, if you live in an urban county (“Region I”) where living costs are higher, you’ll qualify for more cash aid; and if you live in a rural county (“Region II”), you’ll qualify for less.<sup>1479</sup>

Generally, parents or caretakers can get CalWORKs cash aid for up to 48 months. But in many cases, a child in the family can keep getting cash aid after the 48 months are up.<sup>1480</sup>

Employment services: CalWORKs provides job training and job counseling services through a program called Welfare-to-Work (WTW).<sup>1481</sup> For more information about Welfare-to-Work, see PG. 476.

ABOUT THE 48-MONTH LIMIT

This 48-month limit is a lifetime limit. In special situations, you can keep getting cash aid for longer. Contact your county CalWORKs office for details.

Other benefits: Depending on your situation and what your county provides, you may qualify for other benefits through CalWORKs, such as:

- CalFresh (also called “food stamps,” see PG. 454 for more information)
- Medi-Cal (see PG. 466 for more information)
- Child care services
- Family planning services
- Child health and disability prevention (CHDP) services
- Homeless and housing assistance
- Emergency cash aid
- Child support enforcement.<sup>1482</sup>

HOW DO I APPLY FOR CALWORKS?

Contact your local county welfare agency to get an application form and start the application process. For a directory of county welfare agencies in California, see Appendix A, PG. 505 or visit the website: www.cwda.org/links/chsa.php.

If you have Internet access, you can also visit MyBenefits CalWIN at <https://www.mybenefitscalwin.org/> to learn more about CalWORKs, check if you are eligible, and apply online.

CAN I APPLY FOR CALWORKS WHILE INCARCERATED?

No. You can only apply for CalWORKs once you have been released from prison or jail, and you have active custody of a child as a parent or caretaker.<sup>1483</sup> But if you’re currently incarcerated, you can and should look at the eligibility requirements so you are more aware of your options upon release.

You need to regain custody before you can apply for CalWORKs; and you can only have physical custody after you have been released. (To learn about how you can seek custody after release, go to the FAMILY LAW CHAPTER, PG. 714).

HOW DO I RECEIVE MY CALWORKS BENEFITS?

If you are eligible for CalWORKs benefits, you will be issued your benefits on an Electronic Benefits Transfer (EBT) card unless you request that your benefits are directly deposited into your personal bank account. You will need to set up a PIN number for the card to use it, and can then use the card at most grocery stores and ATMs.<sup>1484</sup>

To avoid unnecessary fees and surcharges when withdrawing your CalWORKs cash, you should only use the card at ATMs with the “MoneyPass” symbol, or the same “Quest Mark” symbol that appears on the card-sleeve. To find free ATM locations, look for the appropriate symbol, ask your county worker, or visit the following website: http://www.ebtproject.ca.gov/Library/Cash\_Access.pdf.

This “MoneyPass” symbol means it’s FREE to use your EBT card at that ATM location.

The “Quest Mark” symbol is on storefronts, checkout lanes, ATMs, and credit card machines to tell you that your EBT card can be used there.

- If the “Quest Mark” looks like this: . . . it’s only for cash benefits.
- If the “Quest Mark” looks like this: . . . it’s only for CalFresh (food stamps) benefits.
- If the “Quest Mark” looks like this: . . . it can be used for BOTH CalFresh and cash benefits.

ONCE I’M ENROLLED IN CALWORKS, WHAT RULES MUST I FOLLOW?

To keep getting CalWORKs benefits, you and your family must stay within income and resource limits.<sup>1485</sup> In addition, you and all of the adults in your family must follow

EBT CARD LOST OR STOLEN?

If your EBT card is lost or stolen, or if you need to change your PIN, call (877) 328-9677

TYPES OF CHANGES TO REPORT WITHIN 10 DAYS:

- moving to a new address;
- having someone join or leave your household;
- adding to your household a new member who has a drug-related felony, is in violation of a probation or parole condition, or has a warrant out for their arrest.

requirements related to Welfare-to-Work activities, reporting changes, and maintaining children's access to health care and school.

- Welfare-to-Work: Generally, you and any other adults in your family must participate in welfare-to-work activities for a certain number of hours per week. The hours and activities required of you will depend partly on your family situation, and partly on what county you live in (see PG. 476). In special cases, adults may be “exempt” (excused) from welfare-to-work requirements. You may be exempt if you are: disabled for 30+ days; under age 19 and attending school full-time; over age 60; caring for a relative's child who is at risk of being put in foster care; OR caring for a sick or disabled person.<sup>1486</sup>
- Reporting: You must regularly report changes to your income and living situation.<sup>1487</sup> If both you and your child are on CalWORKs, you must report once every 6 months via a Semi-Annual Income Eligibility Report known as “SAR 7.” If only your child gets CalWORKs, you must report once a year. In addition, you must immediately report certain changes within 10 days.
- Children: If your child is under age 6, he or she must have all standard immunizations. If your child is of school age and under age 16, he or she must be attending school regularly.<sup>1488</sup>

I BELIEVE MY CALWORKS WAS WRONGLY DENIED OR STOPPED. HOW DO I APPEAL?

If the county decides to deny your application, it must mail you a “Notice of Action” explaining why you were denied. It must do so within 30 days of receiving your application. If you disagree, you have the right to ask for a State Hearing to appeal (challenge) the denial. You must request a hearing within 90 days of the county's decision.<sup>1489</sup>

Ways you can request a State Hearing:

- By phone. Call the California Department of Social Services (CDSS) at 1-800-952-5253 (TDD: 1-800-952-8349).
- By mail. Write your request on the back of the Notice of Action, or write a letter. Then mail your request to the county welfare agency's address, which is on your Notice, or mail it to: CDSS Office of Hearings and Appeals; 744 P Street, M.S. 19-36; Sacramento, CA 95814.
- By fax. Fax request to the CDSS State Hearings Division at 916-651-5210.<sup>1490</sup>

Tips to remember when requesting a State Hearing:

- It's recommended that you request a hearing in writing, so that there is a record of it. Keep a copy of your written request.
- In your request, clearly state that you want a hearing, and briefly state your reason.
- If you have a disability, note this in your request and specify any accommodations you will need. For example, if you need a large print of any official documents or a wheelchair-accessible room, write this in your request.<sup>1491</sup>

Rights you have when requesting a State Hearing:

- You have a right to have the county welfare agency's help, if you ask for it, with understanding how to appeal a decision about your case and what your next steps should be.
- You have a right to a free interpreter who will explain all procedures and also interpret for you at the hearing in your preferred language. If you want an interpreter, state this in your request, and specify your language.
- You have a right to choose a representative (such as a friend, family member, lawyer, or advocate) who will ask for a hearing on your behalf. You also have a right to bring anyone to your hearing if you do not want to go alone.<sup>1492</sup>

III. FOOD BENEFITS

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- About the different types of food benefits that you may qualify for—CalFresh (food stamps), EFAP, and WIC
- Who is eligible to receive food benefits
- How to receive food benefits
- How your criminal record could affect your ability to get food benefits
- If you can apply for food benefits while incarcerated
- How and where to apply for food benefits
- What to do if you were wrongly denied food benefits
- Where to find food (contact information for local food banks)

CALFRESH (FOOD STAMPS)

CalFresh is California’s “food stamps” program, providing money for low-income adults and their families to buy food. This program is part of the federal program called Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP).<sup>1493</sup> Each county runs its own CalFresh program and issues food benefits (food stamps) in the form of a plastic Electronic Benefit Transfer (EBT) card, which looks and feels like a credit card. CalFresh includes the California Food Assistance Program (CFAP), which provides the same benefits as CalFresh but to noncitizen legal permanent residents (see PG. 454 for CFAP’s requirements).

AM I ELIGIBLE FOR CALFRESH?

There are many factors that are considered to determine whether you are eligible for CalFresh. Most are related to residency, citizenship/immigration status, and income. In some cases, certain people in a household may qualify for CalFresh while others do not, even though they live in the same house (see PG. 454 for the definition of a “household”).

HELPFUL HINT

CalFresh “Households”

For CalFresh, a “household” can be one person, or it can be any group of people who live together, buy food, and make meals together. This means if you live with other people, but you buy and prepare food separately from them, you can apply for food benefits as part of a separate household.<sup>1494</sup> Spouses and parents and their children under age 22 who live together must apply as a single “household.”<sup>1495</sup>

To be eligible for CalFresh (food stamps), you must:

- Be a resident of the county where you are applying.<sup>1496</sup>
- Be a U.S. citizen or a “qualifying noncitizen.” You’re a “qualifying noncitizen” if you: (1) Are a lawful permanent resident (“LPR” or “Green Card Holder”) and (2) you meet all other CalFresh eligibility requirements.<sup>1497</sup>
- Have a monthly total income that is no greater than the CalFresh income limit.<sup>1498</sup> The maximum total income you can have will depend on your household size, and the maximum limits change every year. Contact your local CalFresh office or call the toll free number below to learn what the limit is for your household when you’re ready to apply. You can also use this online tool to calculate how much CalFresh money you can get per month:
http://lsnc.net/calculator/FFY2014\_Food\_Stamp\_Calculator\_Final\_PlusNovemberCut.xls.

- You can also look online at <http://www.cdss.ca.gov/foodstamps/PG3628.htm>

CALIFORNIA FOOD ASSISTANCE PROGRAM (CFAP)

LPRs (Green Card holders) who have not lived in the U.S. for 5 years technically receive CalFresh benefits through CFAP, which is a program within CalFresh. Counties treat and administer CFAP benefits the same as CalFresh benefits. CFAP beneficiaries are treated the same and use their benefits the exact same way that CalFresh beneficiaries do. When you apply for CalFresh, the county automatically determines your CFAP eligibility too.

- Keep in mind that the maximum gross income limits do not always apply to households with mixed immigration status and/or people who are seniors or disabled.
- If you have less than $200 in liquid resources, you may be entitled to expedited benefits, and receive your benefits within three working days. For CalFresh purposes, “liquid resources” include all funds readily available to your household, such as; cash on hand, money in bank accounts, trust deeds, stocks, bonds, or individual retirement account (IRA) funds.
- You can still qualify for CalFresh if you own the home you live in, own a car, have a job, and/or do not have children.

HELPFUL HINT

How Other Public Benefits Programs Combine With CalFresh

- Individuals who receive SSI/SSP benefits are currently not eligible for CalFresh, but other people in the household may still qualify. SSI benefits, for example, already include the value of CalFresh benefits, through a process known as “cash out.” For more information, please visit <http://cfpa.net/CalFresh/CFPAPublications/CalFresh-Cashout101-2013.pdf>.
- If you or your household is receiving cash aid—such as CalWORKs or GA/GR, you are “categorically eligible” for CalFresh (food stamps). However, you can still qualify CalFresh without receiving cash aid like CalWORKs or GA/GR, and in fact, most CalFresh recipients do not receive cash assistance.<sup>1499</sup>

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET CALFRESH?

Maybe. But even if you are not eligible, others in your household may be. You might be disqualified if:

1. You are a “fleeing felon”—meaning you are hiding or running away to avoid felony charges or to avoid being incarcerated for a felony conviction.<sup>1500</sup>
2. You are in violation of a condition of your probation or parole, as found by a court or administrative judge.<sup>1501</sup>
3. You have been found guilty of an Intentional Program Violation (IPV) involving fraud or misuse of public benefits.<sup>1502</sup> Depending on how many IPVs you have, and what they were for, you may be disqualified from CalFresh and CalWORKs for varying periods of time—anywhere between 12 months to life.<sup>1503</sup>

What does it mean to be “found guilty of an Intentional Program Violation(IPV)”?

If a county welfare agency thinks you violated its rules when applying for or getting benefits, it may investigate and hold an administrative hearing to determine if you are guilty. It may also ask you to admit guilt by signing a Disqualification Consent Agreement (DCA). When you apply for CalWORKs, any prior IPV counts against you if you were found guilty at a hearing, or you admitted guilt by signing a DCA (even if you did not have a hearing).

IMPORTANT UPDATE!

CalWORKs and CalFresh Now Open to People with Prior Drug Felony Convictions

GREAT NEWS! California eliminated the ban on aid for people with past drug-related felony convictions. Starting April 1, 2015, you could no longer be disqualified from CalWORKs or CalFresh because of a prior drug-related felony conviction and no longer have to report a prior drug felony on any CalWORKs or CalFresh application or report (see more on CalFresh “food stamps” beginning on PG. 454). If you applied for CalWORKs or CalFresh before April 1 2015, and were denied due to a drug conviction, you can reapply under the newer rules. NOTE: If you are on parole, probation, or another form of community supervision, it’s important that you follow the rules of your supervision to remain in the CalWORKs and/or CalFresh program(s). If you violate the terms of your supervision, you will lose CalFresh and CalWORKs.<sup>1504</sup>

If anyone in your family was already receiving CalWORKs aid, your benefits should have been automatically added to your family’s April 2015 Grant. Once you are added to CalWORKs, you are also required to participate in the Welfare-to-Work program requirement (see PG. 476). If you were already meeting Welfare-to-Work requirements, you became newly eligible for transportation costs, subsidized child care, and other work supports. Contact your family’s CalWORKs caseworker if you do not receive a letter from the county about these new benefits and rules by March 1, 2015.

<sup>1500</sup> “Fleeing felon” is a legal term for someone “fleeing to avoid prosecution, or custody or confinement after conviction” for a felony offense. ## HOW DO I APPLY FOR CALFRESH?

The process may vary by county. Generally, it involves filling out a form, providing documents, and having an interview. For details about how to apply in your county, contact the CalFresh office in your area. For a directory of county CalFresh offices, see Appendix A, on PG. 505.<sup>1505</sup> For information on how to apply for CalFresh benefits in your county, please call 1-877-847-3663. You can also apply online at <http://benefitscal.org>.

CAN I APPLY FOR CALFRESH WHILE INCARCERATED?

Yes! You can't receive CalFresh benefits until you're out, but, under some circumstances, you can apply while in prison or jail.<sup>1506</sup> Although you may apply for CalFresh while incarcerated, you should not do so unless you are less than 30 days from your release date. (If you apply for CalFresh more than 30 days before your release date, the county social services agency will probably deny your application because they will find that you are not eligible for the program yet - but you can re-apply again once you're within 30 days of release or after you get out.<sup>1507</sup>) If you apply for CalFresh benefits while incarcerated, you will generally need to provide proof of your release date and a local address within the county.<sup>1508</sup> You must also complete and sign the application and designate an Authorized Representative (see Helpful Hint Box for more information.)<sup>1509</sup> If you are approved for CalFresh benefits, you will not begin receiving these benefits until after you get out.<sup>1510</sup>

HOW DO I RECEIVE MY CALFRESH BENEFITS?

If you are approved for CalFresh benefits, they will be issued on an Electronic Benefits Transfer Card (EBT). You will need to set up a PIN number for the card to use it, and can then use the card at most grocery stores.

In some counties, people who are homeless, elderly or disabled can also use their benefits at certain restaurants through the CalFresh Restaurant Meal Program. Visit <http://www.ebtproject.ca.gov/clientinformation/calfreshrmp.shtml> to see which counties participate in the CalFresh Restaurant Meal Program and to locate participating restaurants.

CalFresh for People Living in Drug & Alcohol Treatment Centers and Other Licensed Residential Facilities:

If you are required to live in a residential facility (for example, a drug/alcohol treatment center) after getting out of prison or jail, then special CalFresh rules apply to you:

- If you live in a treatment/residential facility that does NOT provide a majority of your meals, then you may apply as a one-person CalFresh "household."
- However, if you live in a treatment/residential facility that provides the majority of your meals, then you are only eligible for benefits that the facility applies for, and you MUST be certified for CalFresh through an Authorized Representative (AR). Either you or your AR may sign the application forms. The AR is designated in writing by the head of the household. The AR must sign the form "Electronic Benefit Transfer (EBT) Request for Designated Alternate Cardholder/Authorized Representative" (CSF 64 form) and the benefits will be assigned to the facility, not to the resident (see sample CSF 64 form in Appendix B, PG. 507).<sup>1511</sup>

ONCE I'M ENROLLED IN CALFRESH, WHAT RULES MUST I FOLLOW TO STAY ELIGIBLE?

Purchase requirements: You can only use CalFresh benefits to buy food. You can't use CalFresh benefits to buy any non-food items such as alcoholic beverages, tobacco, household cleaning supplies, toiletries, or cosmetics, and you can't exchange CalFresh benefits for money. If you sell your CalFresh benefits or use them for non-food items, you can be charged with fraud and you could be banned from receiving CalFresh and other food benefits for life.

Time Limits: Typically, every able-bodied adult (ages 18-49) without dependents in your household is limited to 3 months of aid in a 36-month period unless you are working at least 20 hours per week; participating in an approved work activity; OR doing workfare.<sup>1512</sup> But California HAS WAIVED this requirement through September 30, 2015, due to California's high unemployment rate.<sup>1513</sup>

Work Requirements: As a CalFresh recipient, your county may require you to participate in an Employment and Training program, unless your county is listed as a "Labor Surplus Area" (LSA). An LSA is a county that, during the last two years, has had an unemployment rate of 20% or more above the national average. Right now, all counties are expected to be listed as LSAs until December 2016. Additionally, if you are employed, but choose to leave your job, and apply for or receive CalFresh benefits, you can't get CalFresh for 3 months.

Report Requirements: Most CalFresh households must submit a report, called a Semi-Annual Income Eligibility Report (SAR 7) every six months.<sup>1514</sup> Additionally, they must immediately report a change in address, any changes in employment, changes in people who live with the family, and anytime their income goes over the Interim Report Threshold. Failure to report within the time limits could result in an Intentional Program Violation (IPV) (IPVs explained on PG. 455).

Recertification requirements: When you first enroll in CalFresh, your enrollment will only last for a limited time called a "certification period." This is usually one year, but in some cases it's only a few months. If you want to get CalFresh for longer than that, then before this period ends, you must apply for recertification—that is, prove that you're still eligible for CalFresh. Before the first day of the last month of your certification period, the county should send you a "Notice of Expiration" (NOE) that says when, where, and how to apply for recertification. If your certification period is 1-2 months, the county must give you a NOE at the start of your certification period.<sup>1515</sup>

IMPORTANT: To keep getting CalFresh without interruption, apply for recertification on or before the 15th day of the last month of your certification period; For example, if your 1-year certification period runs April 1, 2014 to March 31, 2015, you must recertify BEFORE March 15, 2015. Please note: If your certification period has expired and your recertification application has been delayed, and your household has very little income, check to see if you qualify for "expedited services" (ES) CalFresh (read more on PG. 454). If so, you may be able to get recertified for CalFresh benefits in just 3 days.

I BELIEVE MY CALFRESH WAS WRONGLY DENIED OR STOPPED. HOW DO I APPEAL?

If the county denies your CalFresh application, it must mail you a Notice of Action explaining why. It must do so within 30 days of getting your application. If you disagree, you have a right to ask for a State hearing to appeal (challenge) the denial. You must request a hearing within 90 days of the county's decision.<sup>1516</sup> In order to continue receiving benefits during your appeal, with assistance being paid while your appeal is pending, you must request a hearing within 10 days.

EXCEPTIONS TO WORK REQUIREMENT

Certain people are exempt (excused) from these work requirements.

You may be exempt if you are:

- physically or mentally unfit to be working
- already engaged in the CalWORKs work program
- receiving unemployment insurance benefits
- participating in a drug or alcohol addiction treatment program
- enrolled in school on at least a half-time basis
- an honorably discharged veteran of the U.S. military.

Contact your county CalFresh office for details.

Ways you can request a State Hearing:

- By phone. Call California Department of Social Services (CDSS) at 1-800-952-5253 (TDD 1-800-952-8349).<sup>1517</sup>
- By mail. Write your request on the back of your Notice, or write a letter. Then mail your request to the county welfare agency's address, which is on your Notice—OR mail it to: CDSS Office of Hearings and Appeals; 744 P Street, M.S. 19-36; Sacramento, CA 95814.
- By fax. Fax your request to: CDSS State Hearings Division at 916-651-5210.<sup>1518</sup>

Tips to remember when requesting a State Hearing:

- It is best to request a hearing in writing, so that there is a record of it. Keep a copy of your request.
- In your request, clearly state that you want a hearing, and briefly state your reason for wanting one.
- If you have a disability, note this in your request and specify any accommodations you will need—such as a need for documents to be in a larger font, or in a room with wheelchair accommodations.<sup>1519</sup>

Rights you have when requesting a State Hearing:

- You have a right to have the county welfare agency's help, if you ask for it, with understanding how to appeal a decision about your case and what your next steps should be.
- You have a right to a free interpreter who will explain all procedures and also interpret for you at the hearing in your preferred language. If you want an interpreter, state this in your request, and specify your language.
- You have a right to choose a representative (such as a friend, family member, or advocate) who will ask for a hearing on your behalf. You also have a right to bring someone to your hearing (such as a friend, family member, or advocate) if you do not want to go alone.<sup>1520</sup>

FOOD BANKS

WHAT IS A FOOD BANK?

A food bank is a nonprofit organization that asks for, stores, and gives out food. They sometimes give the food to a variety of smaller organizations (churches, non-profits, community centers, libraries) that also serve people in need.

WHERE CAN I FIND FOOD?

To find a food bank or organization that donates food near you, visit the following website: <http://www.cafoodbanks.org/Hunger-in-CA> OR call the Association of California Food Banks at 1-866-321-4435. You do NOT need to enroll in any public benefits programs to visit a food bank. However, you may wish to apply to the Emergency Food Assistance Program (see more in the next question), if you are eligible, as it is a government-assisted program that provides emergency food for low-income people and families.

WHAT IS THE EMERGENCY FOOD ASSISTANCE PROGRAM (EFAP)?

The Emergency Food Assistance Program (EFAP) is a federal government program that sends food to county food banks. The food banks then distribute this free food to eligible individuals and households.<sup>1521</sup> See the next question to learn how to find an EFAP-supported food bank.

To be eligible for EFAP benefits at a county food bank, your household must (1) live within the region that the food bank serves, and (2) self-certify that they meet the income requirements. To see if your household meets income requirements, call the California Department of Social Services' Emergency Food Assistance Program office at 916-229-3344.<sup>1522</sup>

If you do not have a place to prepare food, you should ask the food bank to give you a list of soup kitchens, which also receive food through the state's Emergency Food Assistance Program.

WHERE CAN I FIND A FOOD BANK TO GET EFAP BENEFITS?

Steps to finding food banks/partner agencies:

1. You should try to go to an Emergency Food Assistance Program food bank near your house. Try looking online at <http://www.cafoodbanks.org/Hunger-in-CA> or call the Association of California Food Banks at 1-866-321-4435.
2. If there are no Emergency Food Assistance Program food banks near your house, then you should try to go to an Emergency Food Assistance Program food bank nearby. You might still be able to get food there if you show that you live in an area that's within the same county. But be aware that—you might be turned away and told to try and find a food bank that serves the area you live in.
3. If you are turned away, remember you can always try and find a non- Emergency Food Assistance Program food bank or partner agency that does not use Emergency Food Assistance Program restrictions.

Here are some numbers you can call to find food banks in your local area:

- California hotline for food aid information: 1-877-847-FOOD
- Local information and referral hotline: 2-1-1 (not available in every county)

If you have Internet access, here are some websites you can visit:

- List of food banks across California: <http://www.dss.cahwnet.gov/efap/PG1910.htm>
- Tool to find food aid near your ZIP code: <http://www.cafoodbanks.org/?q=find-food-assistance>

WHAT DOCUMENTS MIGHT I NEED TO GET EFAP BENEFITS?

When you go to a county food bank seeking Emergency Food Assistance Program benefits, you may be asked to show proof that you live in the service area, such as a government-issued I.D. card with your address (for example, a driver license, library card, or voter registration card). But even if you don't have proof of residency, you should not be denied food as long as you agree to sign an "Emergency Food Assistance Program Certification of Eligibility Form" (Form EFA-7) (see example form in Appendix C, PG. 509).

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET EFAP?

No. You will be able to get EFAP food benefits no matter your criminal history. Only two factors matter—where you live and how much income you have. Even if your address falls outside of an EFAP food bank's service area, you might still be able to get food there, if you can prove that you live in the same county. But there is also the possibility that the food bank turns you away and asks that you go to the food bank that serves the area where you live.

CAN I APPLY FOR EFAP BENEFITS WHILE INCARCERATED?

No. You can only get EFAP food benefits by showing up at a county food bank that serves the area where you live. But remember, once you are released you can find donated food at a local food bank or partner agency!

WOMEN, INFANTS & CHILDREN PROGRAM (WIC)

WIC is a program for low-income women, women who are pregnant, postpartum, or breastfeeding, infants, and children under age 5. WIC provides nutritious food, nutrition education, breastfeeding support, and health service referrals. With WIC benefits you get coupons for things like milk, cheese and eggs, bread, cereal, juice, peanut butter, fruits and vegetables, infant food, and much more.<sup>1523</sup>

AM I ELIGIBLE FOR WIC?

To receive WIC benefits, you must: (1) be a resident of California; (2) be a woman who is pregnant, postpartum, breastfeeding and/or the parent/guardian of a child up to age 5; and (3) have less than the maximum yearly income allowed for your household size. Please note: If you or your children receive CalFresh (food stamps), Medi-Cal, or CalWORKs, you automatically meet the income requirement for WIC. If you have Internet access, you can use these online tools to see if you're likely to qualify for WIC:<sup>1524</sup>

MORE INFO ON THE WIC INTAKE PROCESS

During the WIC intake process, a county health professional will determine if you or your child are "at nutritional risk" (meaning your child is over/underweight or not eating enough fruits or vegetables), and may make a referral to a doctor if any health conditions (for example, anemia) are suspected.

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET WIC?

No! Your criminal history does not affect your ability to get WIC benefits.

HOW DO I APPLY FOR WIC?

Contact your local WIC office and make an appointment. To find a WIC office near you, call 1-800-852-5770 or 1-888-WIC-WORKS (1-888-942-9675). Both numbers are toll-free. If you have Internet access, you can also use this online search tool: <http://www.apps.cdph.ca.gov/wic/resources/laSearch/search.asp>

CAN I APPLY FOR WIC WHILE INCARCERATED?

No. You can only apply for WIC after you are released because eligibility can only be determined after an in-person appointment with a county health professional who will assess you and your child for nutritional risk. Additionally, WIC benefits can only be used in-person at certain locations (such as grocery stores) certified to participate in the program. But remember: you can call the WIC office to help you review your eligibility before your release. To find contact information for your county WIC office, call the following toll free number: 1-800-852-5770.

IV. HEALTH CARE BENEFITS

WHAT WILL I LEARN ABOUT HEALTH CARE BENEFITS?

- An overview of different types of health care coverage in California (including Covered California, Medi-Cal, & Medicare)
- How to figure out which health care plan is best for you
- What benefits you get from the different health care plans
- How to apply for health care
- Whether you can receive or apply for health care while incarcerated
- How your criminal history could affect your ability to get health care coverage
- What to do if you are wrongly denied health care

WHY SHOULD I GET HEALTH CARE COVERAGE (HEALTH INSURANCE)?

First, everyone needs health care at some point in life. If you have health care coverage, you can access hospitals and medical services when you need them. Most health insurance will cover mental health and substance abuse treatment too.<sup>1525</sup> Second, for almost everyone living in the U.S., it's now required by law that you have adequate health care coverage. (There are exceptions, explained on PG. 463).<sup>1526</sup>

While you're incarcerated, the jail or prison is responsible for providing you with essential health care, including mental health services. You have a constitutional right to treatment while in jail or prison.<sup>1527</sup> Once you have a release date, you should ensure that you have health care coverage in place for when you get out.

SUMMARY OF THE MAJOR GOVERNMENT-RUN HEALTH CARE PROGRAMS IN CALIFORNIA

Medi-Cal	Medi-Cal offers free or low-cost health care for people who have limited income	CA residents or LPRs who have limited income (at or below 138% of FPL (see more on PG. 466 ))
Medicare	Medicare provides health care for elderly or disabled people. Medicare has 4 parts (A-D).	U.S. citizens or Legal Permanent Residents (LPRs) who are 65 or older, or have a disability, or have permanent kidney failure (see more on PG. 471 )

COVERED CALIFORNIA

WHAT IS COVERED CALIFORNIA?

Covered California is an online health care marketplace where you can sign up for health care coverage online, by phone, by mail, or in person. This online marketplace is a website where you can "shop" by choosing a health care plan and compare various plans' prices and benefits. Each health care plan must cover essential health benefits, such as doctor visits, hospitalization, emergency care, maternity care, pediatric care for children, and prescriptions. Through the Covered California application process, you can find out if you're eligible to get federal tax credits to reduce your health care costs, or if you're eligible for free or low-cost health care coverage through Medi-Cal (see PG. 466 for more information on Medi-Cal).<sup>1528</sup>

AM I ELIGIBLE TO ENROLL IN HEALTH CARE COVERAGE THROUGH COVERED CALIFORNIA?

To get health care through Covered California, you must be:

1. A California resident;
2. Lawfully present in the United States;<sup>1529</sup>
3. Age 18 or older, and
4. Not currently incarcerated.<sup>1530</sup>

Based on your household size and income, your family may qualify for financial assistance to help you afford health care. By submitting a Covered California application, you'll find out exactly what kinds of assistance you can get, and how much.

IMPORTANT NOTE ABOUT IMMIGRATION STATUS: If you have one of these statuses, you may qualify for health coverage through Covered California: lawful permanent resident (“Green Card holder”); lawful temporary resident (“LTR”); asylee or applicant for asylum; refugee; Cuban/Haitian entrant; paroled into the U.S.; conditional entrant granted before 1980; battered spouse, child or parent; victim of trafficking or that person’s spouse, child, sibling, or parent; individual with non-immigrant status (including worker or student visa holders); Temporary Protected Status (“TPS”) or applicant for TPS; Deferred Enforced Departure (“DED”); deferred action status; individual granted withholding of deportation/removal; applicant for withholding of deportation/removal; applicant for special immigrant juvenile status; applicant for adjustment to LPR status, with approved visa petition; registry applicant with Employment Authorization Document (EAD); applicant for cancellation of removal or suspension of deportation. Even if your immigration status is not listed above, you may still qualify for health insurance and should still apply! See the Immigration Chapter, PG. 1105, for more information.

WHAT BENEFITS AND SERVICES CAN I GET THROUGH COVERED CALIFORNIA?

As required by law, all Covered California plans must cover a set of essential health benefits, including:

- Hospital care and emergency services;
- Medical services;
- Prescription drugs;
- Mental health and substance abuse treatment (potentially including treatment that is a condition of probation or parole);
- Maternity and pediatric care;
- Rehabilitation services;
- Preventative care and chronic disease management; and
- Some dental care.<sup>1531</sup>

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET HEALTH CARE USING COVERED CALIFORNIA?

No. There is no law or policy that limits your access to Covered California based on your criminal history. You have the right to apply for health care coverage, and you should.

AM I LEGALLY REQUIRED TO ENROLL IN HEALTH CARE COVERAGE?

If you live in the U.S., and you’re not currently incarcerated, the answer is probably yes. Certain people in special situations (explained below) are excused from this requirement. Unless you have one of these situations, you MUST enroll in health care coverage, or else you must pay a penalty fee when you file taxes.<sup>1532</sup> This legal requirement is called the “individual mandate,” and the tax penalty is called the “shared responsibility fee.”<sup>1533</sup>

SHARED RESPONSIBILITY FEES

For 2015, the “shared responsibility fee” is the higher of one of the following two amounts:

- 2% of your yearly household income or
- $325 per person for the year.

<sup>1529</sup> How to Apply, COVERED CALIFORNIA, <http://www.coveredca.com/apply/>; see also How the Affordable Care Act Impacts Immigrant and Migrant Populations in California, AMERICAN CIVIL LIBERTIES UNION, <https://www.aclusandiego.org/wp-content/uploads/2014/05/ACAs-Impact-on-Immigrants-CA-final-5-12-14.pdf>.

<sup>1530</sup> At the time of production of this Manual, California Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS), was engaged in the process of drafting new rules that would allow for applications prior to some “qualifying life events,” including release from incarceration. But this proposed rule is not currently in effect.

<sup>1532</sup> The fee is either a flat dollar amount or a percent of your household income—whichever is greater. The fee is set to increase each year from 2014 to 2016. The fee amount you must pay is based on how many months you go without health care during the year. For every month you aren’t enrolled in health care, you owe 1/12th of the annual penalty fee. But note: As explained below, the law gives

Exemptions to the Individual Mandate: If you qualify for an exemption, you don't have to pay a penalty even if you don't have health care coverage. You may qualify for an exemption if one of the following situations applies to you:<sup>1534</sup>

- Currently incarcerated: You're currently in jail or prison serving a sentence for a conviction. This doesn't include being held for a case that's still pending—for example, you've been charged but not yet convicted.
- Short coverage gap: Your uninsured period is shorter than 3 months (back-to-back) during the year.
- Not lawfully present: You don't have citizenship or lawful immigrant status in the U.S.<sup>1535</sup>
- Not required to file taxes: You're not legally required to file a tax return because your income is too low.<sup>1536</sup>
- Unable to afford coverage: You can't afford the cheapest coverage available to you, because it would cost more than 8% of your household income.
- Indian tribe: You belong to a federally recognized Indian tribe, or you're eligible for services through an Indian Health Services provider.<sup>1537</sup>
- Sharing ministry: You're a member of a recognized health care sharing ministry.
- Religious conscience: You're a member of a recognized religious sect with religious objections to insurance, including Social Security and Medicare.
- Hardship: You've had financial or domestic difficulties that kept you from enrolling in health care, such as homelessness, a death in the family, bankruptcy, a medical emergency, or a natural disaster. Filing for a hardship requires you to fill out special forms.

For most of these situations, you must apply to get an exemption. The process varies by situation.

If you have questions about the forms you need, or if you aren't sure how to get an exemption for your situation, call Covered California at 1-800-300-1506 (TTY 1-888-889-4500) or the federal government's Health Insurance Marketplace at 1-800-318-2596 (TTY 1-855-889-4325). Or you may try calling Health Consumer Alliance (HCA), a non-profit organization dedicated to providing information about and helping Californians to get health care. For a list of local HCA call centers, please visit: <http://healthconsumer.org/index.php?id=partners>.

YOU DON'T NEED TO APPLY FOR AN EXEMPTION IF...

- You have a short coverage gap;
- If you are not required to file taxes because your income is too low;
- If you are not lawfully present;
- You are currently incarcerated (But note: Once you're released, the individual mandate will apply to you, so you'll need to get health coverage at that time. See PG. 462 for more information.)

A NOTE ABOUT INDIVIDUAL MANDATE EXEMPTIONS

Even if you qualify for an exemption, you still can apply and get health care coverage to help pay for medical expenses. An exemption just means that you don't have to pay the penalty fee—called the “shared responsibility fee”—if you one of the exemption situations applies to you, and you don't get health care coverage.

WHEN CAN I APPLY FOR HEALTH CARE THROUGH COVERED CALIFORNIA?

It depends. If you're planning to buy a private health care plan from the Covered California marketplace, you must enroll during the “Open Enrollment period” to get coverage for the following year (unless you qualify for a Special Enrollment period, see PG. 464). The Open Enrollment period typically runs from fall to spring. If you you a free pass for periods that are shorter than 3 months back-to-back. COVERED CALIFORNIA, <https://www.coveredca.com/faqs/Tax-Penalty/#102>.

don't enroll during this period, you may not be able to find a private plan that can cover you (and you may have to pay the Shared Responsibility Fee, discussed above on PG. 462).<sup>1538</sup> To get the specific start and end dates for the next Open Enrollment period, call Covered California at 1-800-300-1506 (TTY 1-888-889-4500) or the federal government's Health Insurance Marketplace at 1-800-318-2596 (TTY 1-855-889-4325). You can also check online at www.CoveredCA.com and www.healthcare.gov.

But, if you're eligible for Medi-Cal based off your income—your income must be at or below 138% of the federal poverty level<sup>1539</sup>—you can apply to Medi-Cal at any time, even if it's not currently Open Enrollment period. If you qualify for Medi-Cal, you can enroll right away.<sup>1540</sup> To learn more, go to PG. 466.

IMPORTANT: Remember, if you qualify, for Medi-Cal, then you are NOT eligible for private health care plans through Covered California.<sup>1541</sup>

Exceptions to the Open Enrollment requirement: Certain people with special situations may enroll in private health care through Covered California during a Special Enrollment Period (“SEP”).<sup>1542</sup> This is a 60-day period outside of the Open Enrollment period, typically starting from the day that the special situation started for a person.<sup>1543</sup>

Two types of situations may allow you to enroll in private health insurance through Covered California during a Special Enrollment Period:<sup>1544</sup>

5. A “qualifying” life event suddenly creates a greater need for health coverage. For example: getting married or divorced, having a baby, losing a job, moving, losing your health coverage,<sup>1545</sup> or getting released from incarceration.<sup>1546</sup> Go to PG. 466, to learn more about Special Enrollment Periods.
6. A complex problem that prevented you from enrolling successfully. For example: a major accident, a natural disaster, misconduct by someone who helped with your health care application, or an error by Covered California or an insurance company in processing your application.<sup>1547</sup>

If one of these situations comes up for you, you have 60 days to notify Covered California, get approved for a SEP, submit (or re-submit) an application, and enroll in a health care plan. If you don't complete this process in 60 days, you may have to pay the Shared Responsibility Fee (a tax penalty, discussed above on PG. 462) for not having health care coverage.

IMPORTANT: You will not qualify for a Special Enrollment Period (SEP) if you voluntarily ended health care or lost health care coverage that didn't provide the minimum essential benefits now required to avoid paying the Shared Responsibility Fee. For more information on SEPs and how to appeal if you were denied a SEP, please visit: <https://www.healthcare.gov/coverage-outside-open-enrollment/special-enrollment-period/>, or call Covered California at 1-800-300-1506 (TTY 1-888-889-4500) or the federal government's Health Insurance Marketplace at 1-800-318-2596 (TTY 1-855-889-4325).

HOW DO I ENROLL IN HEALTH CARE THROUGH COVERED CALIFORNIA?

You can apply for Covered California through several methods: online, by phone, in person, by mail, or by fax. You can get the paper application at your local county social services office, or online at https://www.coveredca.com/PDFs/paper\_application/CA-SingleStreamApp\_92MAX.pdf. The introductory pages of the application (but not the full application) can be found here in Appendix D, PG. 511.

- Online: Go to www.CoveredCA.com. Set up an account with a username and password. Once you log in, you can browse different health plans and start the application process.
- By phone: Call Covered California at 1-800-300-1506 (TTY: 1-888-889-4500). A staff person will walk you through the application process.

<sup>1538</sup> If you don't enroll during this period, you may not be able to find a private plan that can cover you (and you may have to pay the shared responsibility fee).

Tax Credits to Reduce Cost of Private Health Care

If you’re planning to buy a private health care plan, and you want tax credits to help reduce your costs, have the following information ready when you apply:<sup>1554</sup>

- Birthdates and Social Security Numbers (SSNs) of all household members. For Covered California, a “family” is defined as the person who files taxes as head of household, plus all dependents claimed on those taxes.
- Current income and latest tax return information for your household. You may be asked to follow up with documents proving your income. If you earn wages, acceptable proof may include: your most recent W-2, a recent pay stub, a letter from your employer on official office letterhead, or a copy of a check paid to you as wages.<sup>1555</sup>
- Information about any health insurance that you or any household member receives through a job.<sup>1556</sup>

CAN I GET HEALTH CARE THROUGH COVERED CALIFORNIA WHILE I'M INCARCERATED?

No. You cannot get health care through Covered California while you are incarcerated, but you may apply for Medi-Cal once you are nearing your release date (more information on Medi-Cal starting on PG. 466). Or if you prefer to have private health care through Covered California, you may apply once you are released (see below for more details).

HELPFUL HINT

If you're currently serving a sentence in jail or prison, special rules apply to you for applying for health insurance:<sup>1557</sup>

While you're incarcerated:

- You are eligible to enroll in Medi-Cal while incarcerated. You may apply on your own, or through any enrollment program available at your facility.<sup>1558</sup> You can't start using a Medi-Cal health care plan while you're incarcerated; but if you enroll before your release, you may be able to get health care more quickly once you're out.<sup>1559</sup> To learn more about Medi-Cal and how to enroll while incarcerated, go to PG. 466.
- You are not eligible to buy a private health care plan through Covered California, and the Individual Mandate (see PG. 462) doesn't apply to you as long as you're incarcerated following a criminal conviction. This means you don't have to worry about paying a penalty, or applying for an exemption from the penalty, during your incarceration.<sup>1560</sup>

Once you're released:

You may be eligible to enroll in health care through Covered California; and the Individual Mandate (see PG. 462) may now apply to you. This means you may now be legally required to have health care, or pay a tax penalty—unless you get an exemption (read more about exemptions on PG. 463).

- If you want to enroll in Medi-Cal, and you didn't already enroll while incarcerated, you can apply at any time after your release. For details about Medi-Cal, go to PG. 466.
- If you want to buy a private health care plan (and also get tax credits to help pay for it), you have 60 days after your release to notify Covered California, get approved for a Special Enrollment Period (see PG. 464), submit a Covered California application, and enroll in a health care plan. If you don't complete this process in 60 days, you must wait for the next Open Enrollment period (see PG. 463), and you may have to pay a penalty.<sup>1561</sup>

MEDI-CAL

WHAT IS MEDI-CAL?

Medi-Cal is California's Medicaid program, offering free or low-cost health care coverage for low-income California residents.<sup>1562</sup> You can apply as an individual or as a family. Due to recent changes in the law, California has expanded the Medi-Cal program. Thus, if you applied for Medi-Cal prior to January 1, 2014 and were denied, you may still be eligible under the new rules.<sup>1563</sup>

AM I ELIGIBLE FOR MEDI-CAL?

If you live in California, you can qualify for full Medi-Cal coverage in a few different ways:

First: You may be eligible for Medi-Cal if:

1. You're a California resident or you're lawfully present in the U.S.,<sup>1564</sup> and
2. You have limited income.<sup>1565</sup>

<sup>1557</sup> Note: These special rules do not apply to you if you are on probation, parole, or home confinement; or if you are being "detained pre-trial"—in other words, being held in jail or prison but have not yet been convicted of a crime. Incarcerated People, HEALTHCARE.GOV, <https://www.healthcare.gov/incarcerated-people/>, <http://www.safeandjust.org/resources/HealthEnrollmentToolkit>. Also, please note that at the time of production of the "Roadmap to Reentry: A California Legal Guide," the California Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) was drafting new rules that would allow for applications prior to some "qualifying life events," including release from incarceration. But this proposed rule is not currently in effect.

<sup>1559</sup> Exception: You may use health care while incarcerated for the purpose of paying for medical expenses occurred during an inpatient stay in a non-correctional health facility (such as a hospital), if that stay lasts longer than 24 hours. For more information, please visit: http://www.dhcs.ca.gov/services/medi-cal/eligibility/Documents/MC\_Inmate\_Eligibility\_Program.pdf.

<sup>1563</sup> Many thanks to Kellen Russoniello of the ACLU of San Diego and Imperial Counties, California for his feedback and contributions do this manual.

<sup>1564</sup> If you're a legally present noncitizen ("lawful permanent resident," "green card holder") with limited income, you may qualify for partial or full Medi-Cal coverage—depending on the details of your status and your exact income. If you're not lawfully present (i.e. undocumented), you may be able to get Medi-Cal coverage for emergencies or pregnancies, but not full Medi-Cal coverage. Medi-Cal: The Details, DISABILITY BENEFITS 101, http://ca.db101.org/ca/programs/health\_coverage/medi\_cal/program2.htm.

HELPFUL HINT

How does Medi-Cal define “limited income”?

The limit is defined as 138% of the Federal Poverty Level (FPL). The FPL varies based on family size, and it changes from year to year. Because the income limit changes, each year, ask your county welfare agency for exact numbers when you’re ready to apply.

- To determine whether you qualify for Medi-Cal benefits, based on your income, visit: <http://www.dhcs.ca.gov/services/medi-cal/Pages/DoYouQualifyForMedi-Cal.aspx>
- To download and print the income limit, visit: https://www.coveredca.com/PDFs/paper\_application/CA-SingleStreamApp\_92MAX.pdf

Second: You may be automatically eligible for Medi-Cal if you (1) meet the income requirements, and (2) fall into one of these special categories:

- Adults age 65 and older
- Blind or disabled individuals
- Children under age 21
- Pregnant women
- Women diagnosed with breast and/or cervical cancer
- Parents or caretakers of disadvantaged children under 21
- Residents in skilled nursing or intermediate care homes
- Individuals enrolled in certain other public benefits programs, including CalWORKs, SSI/SSP, Refugee Assistance Program, In-Home Supportive Services (IHSS), Foster Care or Adoption Assistance Program.<sup>1566</sup>

To find out if you’re eligible for full or partial health care coverage through Medi-Cal, contact your county welfare agency. For a statewide directory of county welfare agencies, see Appendix A, on PG. 505. You may also seek to apply using a paper application.<sup>1567</sup>

Qualifying for Medi-Cal Because of a Disability:

If you think you qualify for Medi-Cal based on a disability, contact your county Medi-Cal office before you apply. Also, if you are homebound or living in an assisted care facility, you can ask to have a Medi-Cal representative visit you and help complete your application in person. For a statewide directory of county social services offices, see Appendix A, PG. 505.<sup>1568</sup>

WHAT BENEFITS AND SERVICES CAN I GET THROUGH MEDI-CAL?

As required by law, Medi-Cal covers a set of “essential health benefits,” including: hospital care and emergency services; medical services; prescription drugs; mental health and substance abuse treatment (potentially including treatment that is a condition of probation or parole); maternity and pediatric care; rehabilitation services; preventive care and chronic disease management; and some dental care.<sup>1569</sup>

HELPFUL HINT

Retroactive Medi-Cal Coverage

When applying for Medi-Cal benefits, you may request retroactive Medi-Cal coverage for medical services you received during any of the three calendar months immediately before the month that you applied to Medi-Cal, so long as the services would have qualified for coverage had you been enrolled in Medi-Cal at the time. If you do apply for retroactive benefits, you must complete a supplemental request form. You may request retroactive coverage when you apply for Medi-Cal or within one year of the last month for which retroactive coverage is sought.<sup>1570</sup>

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET MEDI-CAL BENEFITS?

No! There are no restrictions on Medi-Cal eligibility based on past convictions or violations. You are eligible to receive Medi-Cal benefits while on probation or parole. You have the right to apply for health care using Medi-Cal, and you should!

HOW DO I APPLY FOR MEDI-CAL?

You can apply for Medi-Cal by submitting a Covered California application through several methods: online, by phone, in person, by mail, or by fax.<sup>1571</sup> You can get the paper application at your local county social services office, or online at https://www.coveredca.com/PDFs/paper\_application/CA-SingleStreamApp\_92MAX.pdf. The introductory pages of the application (but not the full application) can be found here in Appendix D, PG. 511.

- Online: Go to www.CoveredCA.com. Set up an account with a username and password. Once you log in, you can apply for Medi-Cal.<sup>1572</sup> Or you may use BenefitsCal by visiting <http://www.benefitscal.org>, where you can apply for several California benefits programs in addition to Medi-Cal all at once. We suggest contacting your county Medi-Cal office prior to applying online, because some counties prefer that you apply in person.
- By phone: Call your county social services office to apply by phone. You can contact Covered California to ask for the number of your county social services office by calling Covered California at 1-800-300-1506 (TTY: 1-888-889-4500), or by visiting its website: <http://www.coveredca.com/contact/>.
- In person: Visit your county social services office. (For a statewide directory, see Appendix A, PG. 505.)<sup>1573</sup> At the office, you can pick up the application form, get help filling it out, and submit it.
- By mail: Send your completed application form to: Covered California; P.O. Box 989725; West Sacramento, CA 95798-9725.<sup>1574</sup>
- By fax: Fax your completed form to: 1-888-329-3700.

If you want free help with your application:

- Call Covered California at 1-800-300-1506 (TTY: 1-888-889-4500) to speak with a Certified Enrollment Counselor. The line is open Monday to Friday, 8 AM to 8 PM; and Saturday, 8 AM to 6 PM.<sup>1575</sup>
- Get in-person help at a local county social services office (for a statewide list of offices, see Appendix A, PG. 505, or visit <http://www.dhcs.ca.gov/services/medi-cal/Pages/CountyOffices.aspx>.<sup>1576</sup>
- Local community-based organizations and community clinics provide free assistance. You can identify which organizations help with enrollment by calling Covered California or using the “Find Local Help” tool on the Covered California website at <http://www.coveredca.com/get-help/local/>.
- If you use the online application at www.CoveredCA.com, you can get help through the “online chat” feature.<sup>1577</sup>
- You can find a listing of Medi-Cal approved certified enrollers at: <http://www.coveredca.com/get-help/local/#null>. Certified enrollers are community-based organizations that have Covered California and Medi-Cal approval to help applicants apply for health care.<sup>1578</sup>

CAN I APPLY FOR MEDI-CAL WHILE INCARCERATED?

Yes!<sup>1579</sup> If you were on Medi-Cal before you were incarcerated, there’s a good chance you’re eligible to reapply as your release date approaches. If you were also on SSI disability benefits before your incarceration, you may need to contact the Social Security Administration to restart your SSI checks before Medi-Cal accepts you (see PG. 489 for details on what happens to your SSI while incarcerated).

<sup>1572</sup> The online application requires moving through about 70 web pages. Covered California has said that applying online takes about 30 minutes, but the total time will depend on how many household members you’re applying for. If you are incarcerated in a state prison: If you're approaching your release date and likely to qualify for Medi-Cal, pre-release staff at your correctional facility should offer to help you apply about two months before your release.<sup>1580</sup> If you agree to authorize correctional staff as your "Authorized Representative" using form MC 306 (see sample form in Appendix G of the Public Benefits chapter, PG. 518), that staff person must ensure that your application is complete 60-90 days before your release, and send it to the Medi-Cal office in the county where you'll be living. Ideally, the office will establish your eligibility before your release and send you a Benefits Identification Card so that you can access health care when you get out. In some cases, there may be a delay if the Medi-Cal office needs more information from you.<sup>1581</sup> Speak to the prison's pre-release staff to find out about Medi-Cal enrollment pre-release.

If you are incarcerated in a county jail: The kind of help you can get with applying for Medi-Cal will depend on what county you're in. Most jails in California now provide some form of information and help with Medi-Cal enrollment for people nearing release. And in some jails you can even get help connecting with community health services covered by Medi-Cal.<sup>1582</sup> Speak to the jail's pre-release staff to find out about Medi-Cal enrollment pre-release.

I HAD MEDI-CAL WHEN I ENTERED PRISON OR JAIL. WHAT HAPPENS TO IT WHILE I'M INCARCERATED?

It depends on how long your incarceration lasts. In California, as soon as you go to prison or jail, your Medi-Cal gets suspended, meaning paused.

- If you're incarcerated for less than 1 year: you can reactivate your enrollment by working with staff at your correctional facility before you get out, or by notifying the Medi-Cal office as soon as you're out.
- If you're incarcerated for 1 year or more: your Medi-Cal gets ended, and you need to file a new application. See the next question for more details.<sup>1583</sup>

HELPFUL HINT

The Medi-Cal Inmate Eligibility Program (MCIEP)

If you are pregnant, disabled, blind, or aged, MCIEP allows Medi-Cal to cover expenses for inpatient (over 24 hours) medical care in non-correctional healthcare facilities (such as hospitals) to individuals who are otherwise eligible for Medi-Cal. Individuals can obtain MCIEP benefits as long as they remain eligible for Medi-Cal due to pregnancy, disability, blindness, or old age.<sup>1584</sup> If you were receiving MCIEP benefits while incarcerated, upon your release from jail or prison, you will be able to switch back to receiving regular Medi-Cal.

MY MEDI-CAL STOPPED WHILE I WAS INCARCERATED. HOW DO I RESTART IT?

It depends on when you first became incarcerated, and when your release date is/was. California law on this has recently changed, and different rules started to apply on January 1, 2014.<sup>1585</sup>

The old rule: If you were incarcerated before January 1, 2014: If you were on Medi-Cal prior to your incarceration, then your Medi-Cal was ended on the day that you entered jail or prison. This means if you wanted to get Medi-Cal again, you had to reapply, get approved, and wait until your release before you could receive health care coverage through Medi-Cal.

The new rule: If you were incarcerated anytime after January 1, 2014: If you were on Medi-Cal prior to your incarceration, then your Medi-Cal got automatically suspended (paused) on the day that you entered jail or prison. The suspension period is set to last 1 year. This means that:

- If you're released before 1 year passes, AND you continue to meet all other eligibility requirements, your Medi-Cal should automatically restart on the day of your release (and you don't need to reapply).<sup>1586</sup>
- If you're still incarcerated after 1 year passes, then your Medi-Cal coverage will end—and if you want to get Medi-Cal again, you'll need to reapply to restart your coverage after your release.<sup>1587</sup>

If you qualified for Medi-Cal through SSI, you may need to restart your SSI benefits (see PG. 489) before you can get your Medi-Cal coverage back.<sup>1588</sup>

I BELIEVE MY MEDI-CAL WAS WRONGLY DENIED OR STOPPED. HOW DO I APPEAL?

If and when the Medi-Cal office decides to suspend or end your Medi-Cal coverage, it must send you a “Notice of Action” explaining this decision.<sup>1589</sup> If you disagree with the decision and want to appeal (challenge) it, read the back of the Notice for instructions about how to request a hearing.

In general, you'll need to contact the California Department of Social Services (CDSS) State Hearings Division:

MEDICARE

WHAT IS MEDICARE?

Medicare is a federal health care program for people who are elderly and people who have disabilities. Medicare benefits are grouped into four parts: Part A covers hospital care; Part B covers outpatient services; Part C covers services offered by private insurance plans; and Part D covers prescription drugs. There are two main ways to get your Medicare coverage: (1) Original Medicare (Part A and Part B) OR (2) a Part C Medicare Advantage Plan. Some people get extra coverage, such as optional prescription drug coverage through Part D.

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET MEDICARE?

No! There are no eligibility restrictions based on past convictions or violations.

AM I ELIGIBLE FOR MEDICARE?

When you apply for Medicare, you have to consider whether you will be eligible to enroll in each part Parts A and B (and possibly D) or Part C (and possibly D). This is because each Part has different requirements and rules, and your incarceration affects each Part differently.<sup>1590</sup> If you're a citizen of the U.S., or you've been a legal resident for 5+ years, you may qualify for Medicare if:

- You're age 65 or older, and you or your spouse has worked and paid into Medicare for 10+ years; or
- You have a disability that qualifies you for Social Security Disability benefits (no matter how old you are); or
- You have permanent kidney failure requiring dialysis or a kidney transplant.<sup>1591</sup>

APPLY TO MEDICARE BEFORE YOU TURN 65!

You can start getting Medicare when you turn 65. However, you can enroll up to 3 months before you turn 65. To confirm whether you qualify and to learn which Parts/Plans are right for you, call the SSA at 1-800-772-1213.

WHAT BENEFITS AND SERVICES CAN I GET THROUGH MEDICARE?

Medicare covers services and supplies that are medically necessary to treat a disease or condition.<sup>1592</sup>

ORIGINAL MEDICARE (Part A and Part B): Part A covers hospital insurance,<sup>1593</sup> and Part B covers medical insurance.<sup>1594</sup> Part A Hospital Insurance covers: Hospital care; Nursing care; Nursing home care; Hospice; and Home health services.<sup>1595</sup> Part B Medical Insurance covers: Medically necessary services (services that are needed to diagnose or treat a medical condition); and Preventative services (health care to detect or prevent illness).<sup>1596</sup>

You have your choice of doctors, hospitals, and other providers that accept Medicare. You pay a monthly premium for Part B, and you may pay no or very low premiums for Part A (depending on your employment history).<sup>1597</sup> Note: Part B is optional. When you enroll in Part A, you can choose whether to get Part B. If you're on Social Security benefits, Part B premiums will get deducted from your Social Security checks; otherwise, you'll get billed for Part B premiums.<sup>1598</sup>

MEDICARE ADVANTAGE PLAN (Part C): Part C plans include hospital and medical insurance (Parts A and B). Private insurance companies, approved by Medicare, provide this coverage. You choose a Part C plan, and then you must use doctors, hospitals or other providers listed in that plan (or else pay higher costs). You pay an

MEDICARE PRESCRIPTION DRUG PLAN (Part D): Part D provides prescription drug insurance for anyone enrolled in Medicare. You choose a Part D plan, and it works as an addition to your Original Medicare (Parts A and B)—or your Medicare Advantage Plan (Part C). PLEASE NOTE: Part D is optional. When you enroll in Medicare, you can choose whether to get Part D. If you have low income, you can get extra help paying for Part D.<sup>1600</sup>

BELOW IS A SUMMARY OF ELIGIBILITY FOR SPECIFIC TYPES OF MEDICARE COVERAGE.<sup>1601</sup>

MEDICARE PART (DESCRIPTION):	YOU'RE ELIGIBLE TO ENROLL IF:
Medicare Part A (hospital insurance): covers inpatient hospital stays, care in a skilled nursing facility, hospice care, and some home health care.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>You're at least 64 years and 9 months old*; or</li> <li>You have a qualifying disability; or</li> <li>You have permanent kidney failure.</li> </ul> Note: If you're already getting Social Security benefits (see PG. 478), then when you turn 65 you'll automatically get enrolled in Medicare Part A.
Medicare Part B (medical insurance): covers certain doctors' services, outpatient care, medical supplies, and preventive services	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>You're at least 64 years and 9 months old*; or</li> <li>You have a qualifying disability; or</li> <li>You have permanent kidney failure.</li> </ul> Note: Part B is optional. When you first enroll in Part A, you can choose whether to enroll in Part B.
Medicare Part C (Medicare Advantage plans): are health plan offered by private companies that contract with Medicare to provide Part A and B benefits to you	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>You're enrolled in both Part A and Part B; and</li> <li>You don't have permanent kidney failure.</li> </ul>
Medicare Part D (prescription drug plan): adds prescription drug coverage to Part A, Part B, and some Part C plans. Part D plans are offered by private companies approved by Medicare.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>You're enrolled in Medicare.</li> <li>You're not enrolled in a Part C plan that already includes prescription drug coverage.</li> </ul> Note: Part D is optional. When you first enroll in Medicare, you can choose whether to enroll in Part D.

HOW DO I APPLY FOR MEDICARE?

If you're currently incarcerated: Skip to the next question.

If you are not incarcerated and have never been enrolled in Medicare: Read on for details. How to apply depends on your individual situation.

- If you're approaching age 65:

...AND already getting Social Security benefits: you'll automatically get Parts A and B when you turn 65. About 3 months before you turn 65, you'll get your Medicare card by mail. If you want Part D as well, you must sign up for that separately by calling 1-800-MEDICARE.<sup>1602</sup>

...And NOT getting Social Security benefits (see PG. 478): you should apply for Medicare by contacting the Social Security Administration at 1-800-772-1213 (TTY 1-800-325-0778).<sup>1603</sup>

- If you're under 65 and have a disability:

...And you're already getting disability benefits from Social Security; you'll automatically get Parts A and B after 24 months of disability benefits.<sup>1604</sup> In the 25th month, you'll get your Medicare card by mail. If you want Part D as well, you must sign up separately by calling 1-800-MEDICARE.<sup>1605</sup>

...And you're not getting disability benefits from Social Security, you should apply for SSDI (see PG. 483).

<sup>1604</sup> If you have permanent kidney failure, you can get Medicare earlier during your first 3 months of dialysis treatment; and other special rules apply to you. If you have Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis ("ALS," or Lou Gehrig's disease), you'll be automatically enrolled in Medicare when you start getting SSDI. Contact the Soc. Sec. ADMIN. at 1-800-772-1213 or visit www.ssa.gov for details about these special kinds of cases.

<sup>1605</sup> You can also enroll online using the Medicare Plan Finder: <https://www.medicare.gov/find-a-plan/questions/home.aspx>.

CAN I APPLY FOR MEDICARE WHILE INCARCERATED?

Yes! If you turn 65 and become eligible for Medicare while incarcerated, you should contact the Social Security Administration (SSA) to enroll in Parts A and B. Unlike people who are not in custody, you will NOT be automatically enrolled—so you need to take action. Although Medicare won't start paying for your health care until you're released, it's important to get enrolled as soon as you can. This way, you avoid getting charged penalties for late enrollment, and you also ensure that your Medicare is ready as soon as you're out.

- When: Contact the SSA to get enrolled during the 7-month period surrounding your 65th birthday—the month of your birthday, plus 3 months before, and 3 months following. This is called your Initial Enrollment Period (“IEP”). Supposing that you turn 65 on April 10, 2015, your Initial Enrollment Period would run from January 1, 2015 through July 31, 2015. If you don't enroll during your Initial Enrollment Period, you may not have access to health care for months after you're released; and you may get charged penalties if you try to enroll in Medicare later.
- How: Send a signed and dated letter to the Social Security Administration. The letter should include your full name, Social Security Number, a clear statement that you want to enroll in Medicare Parts A and B, and the date that your coverage should be effective. Make sure you sign the letter. Keep a copy of your letter and a copy of the envelope—and, if possible, send the letter by certified mail with return receipt.<sup>1606</sup>

I HAD MEDICARE WHEN I ENTERED PRISON OR JAIL. WHAT HAPPENS TO IT WHILE I'M INCARCERATED?

All your Medicare benefits get suspended (paused) while you're incarcerated. The rules for staying enrolled and restarting your benefits upon release are different for each Part of Medicare.<sup>1607</sup>

> Your Part A (hospital insurance) enrollment stays in place. Although you won't get Part A benefits while incarcerated, you don't have to do anything to stay enrolled. When you're released, your access to Part A benefits should be automatically restored.<sup>1608</sup>

> Your Part B (medical insurance) is more complicated, since you can only stay enrolled by paying premiums.<sup>1609</sup>

- If you keep paying premiums, you'll stay enrolled, although you won't get Medicare benefits while incarcerated.
- If you stop paying premiums, your coverage will be ended; and for every 12 months that pass before you re-enroll, your premium amount will be higher by 10%.<sup>1610</sup> Also, you can re-enroll in Part B only during the General Enrollment Period (“GEP”), which runs January through March, and coverage starts July 1 of the year that you enroll. Depending on your release date, this may cause a gap in your medical coverage.<sup>1611</sup>

These rules create a dilemma if you're someone who can't afford to keep paying Part B premiums while incarcerated, and won't be able to afford higher premiums upon release. If you were on Medicare and SSDI before incarceration, you may be able to address this dilemma by applying for SSDI while incarcerated (see PG. 491).

> Your Part C (Medicare Advantage plan) and Part D (prescription drug plan) will end when you're incarcerated. You're no longer eligible to be enrolled in these plans while the prison or jail is providing your health care. If you want Part C and/or Part D after release, you'll have to re-enroll (for details, see PG. 474).<sup>1612</sup>

ENROLL FOR PART B PREMIUMS AFTER INCARCERATION!

If you've been getting Social Security or SSDI, these benefits have been paying for your Part B premiums. Once you've been incarcerated for 30 days, these benefits get suspended; so you must call 1-800-MEDICARE within that 30-day window and set up direct payment if you want to keep Part B.

MY MEDICARE STOPPED WHILE I WAS INCARCERATED. HOW DO I RESTART IT?

If you had Part A (hospital insurance) before you were incarcerated, you don't have to do anything to restart it. Your enrollment should still be in place, and you should have access to Part A coverage as soon as you're released.<sup>1613</sup>

If you had Part B (medical insurance) before you were incarcerated, your next steps depend on your situation:

- If you kept paying premiums and stayed enrolled in Part B while incarcerated: you don't have to do anything to restart it. Your enrollment is in place, and you should have access to Part B coverage once you're released.<sup>1614</sup>
- If you stopped paying premiums and your Medicare enrollment was ended while incarcerated: you can re-enroll during General Enrollment Period ("GEP"), which runs January to March.
  - Your Part B coverage will start on July 1 of that year.
  - You'll have a higher premium based on how many months passed since your Medicare enrollment ended.
  - If you're under 65 and previously qualified for Medicare due to a disability, you must restart your SSDI before you can get Part B again. Once you know your release date, contact Social Security to do this (see PG. 479).<sup>1615</sup>
- If you had Part C (Medicare Advantage) and Part D (prescription drug plan) before you were incarcerated, these forms of coverage ended during your incarceration. If you want Part C and/or D after release, you must enroll again during your Special Enrollment Period ("SEP"). Your SEP starts the month before your release date and ends two months after that date. If you miss your SEP, you'll be charged a penalty when you try to enroll later.<sup>1616</sup>

IMPORTANT: If you qualified for Medicare through SSDI, you must restart your SSDI before you can get Medicare coverage back. Even if you contact Social Security before your release, you won't start getting SSDI again until a month after release. One possible way to avoid a gap in health care coverage is to apply for SSI before your release, if you qualify. If your SSI application is approved, you'll be automatically enrolled in both SSI and Medi-Cal after release. You'll only be on SSI for one month until your SSDI kicks in, and then your Medi-Cal will link to your SSDI again.<sup>1617</sup>

I BELIEVE MY MEDICARE WAS WRONGLY DENIED OR STOPPED. HOW DO I APPEAL?

The steps to take depend on what Medicare coverage you have, what decision you want to challenge, and what your situation is. Call 1-800-MEDICARE to learn what you can do in your situation.<sup>1618</sup> If you need help filing an appeal, contact the California Department of Aging's Health Insurance Counseling and Advocacy Program (HICAP) at 1-800-434-0222.<sup>1619</sup>

You can also appoint a representative to act on your behalf. This can be a family member, friend, advocate, attorney, doctor, or anyone else you choose. You can appoint a representative in 2 ways:<sup>1620</sup>

- Fill out and submit an "Appointment of Representative" form (see Appendix G, PG. 523).<sup>1621</sup>
- Along with your appeal, submit a written request that includes:
  - Your name, address, phone number, and Medicare number;
  - Your representative's name, address, phone number, professional status, and relationship to you;
  - A statement that clearly (1) appoints your representative, (2) authorizes release of your personal and health information to your representative, and (3) explains why you're being represented; and
  - Your signature and the date you signed; your representative's signature and the date they signed.<sup>1622</sup>

HELPFUL HINT

If you are eligible for both, Medicare and Medi-Cal (“Dual Eligibility”)

Those Eligible for Both Medicare and Medi-Cal: People who qualify for both Medicare and Medi-Cal are known as “dual eligibles” or “Medi-Medis.”<sup>1623</sup> People typically become “dual eligible” by first being enrolled in one program and later becoming eligible for the other program. For example, someone may already meet Medi-Cal’s income requirements, and then age into Medicare when he or she turns 65. Dual eligibles do not necessarily receive the same benefits from Medicare and Medi-Cal.<sup>1624</sup> The majority of dual eligibles receive full Medi-Cal benefits and assistance with Medicare premiums and cost-sharing.<sup>1625</sup>

For counseling on dual eligibility, go to Health Consumer Alliance’s (HCA) website and view their list of local HCA call centers at <http://healthconsumer.org/index.php?id=partners>, or visit Cal MediConnect’s website at www.calduals.org.

V. WORK SERVICES BENEFITS

WHAT WILL I LEARN ABOUT WORK SERVICES BENEFITS?

- An overview of work services offered through public benefits programs
- What benefits you get work services programs
- How your criminal history could affect your ability to participate in work services offered through public benefits programs
- How to enroll in work services programs through public benefits if you are eligible

CALFRESH EMPLOYMENT & TRAINING (E&T) PROGRAM

This program offers employment and job training support for people who are getting CalFresh benefits and are NOT getting CalWORKs cash aid.<sup>1626</sup> Currently, only 21 counties have an E&T and, in all counties that have an E&T program, participation is voluntary.<sup>1627</sup>

AM I ELIGIBLE FOR CALFRESH E&T?

It depends. This program is available in some California counties but not others, and it operates differently in each county. These programs are usually only offered to recipients of General Assistance/General Relief (GA/GR). If your county has an E&T program, you may be able to participate if:

- You are currently getting food stamps through CalFresh; and
- You are not currently getting cash aid through CalWORKs.

In some counties, you may be able to enroll in this program even if you aren't getting GA/GR. Contact your local county welfare office to find out if it has an E&T program, what services it offers through this program, and if you qualify. For a statewide list of county welfare agencies, see Appendix A, on PG. 505.

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET CALFRESH E&T?

Maybe. As explained in the section on CalFresh food stamps, you may be disqualified from CalFresh depending on the details of your history and when you apply. For details, see PG. 454.

WHAT BENEFITS AND SERVICES CAN I GET THROUGH CALFRESH E&T?

It depends. E&T programs work differently in each county, so it's best to contact your county welfare office for all the details. Services may include:

- Workfare
- Job search activities
- Job club activities (i.e., job readiness training and counseling)
- Educational programs (such as adult basic education, basic literacy, ESL, and GED preparation)
- Referrals to vocational training
- Case management and supportive services to ensure job retention
- Mental health and/or addiction recovery counseling.<sup>1628</sup>

HOW DO I ENROLL IN CALFRESH E&T?

CalFresh E&T operates differently in each county. Call your local county welfare office to find out if your county has a CalFresh E&T program, and if so, how enrollment works. For a list of county welfare agencies, see Appendix A, on PG. 505.

CALWORKS WELFARE-TO-WORK

CalWORKs Welfare-To-Work (WTW) is a mandatory CalWORKs program designed to help adults find or get ready for employment.<sup>1629</sup> All 58 counties in California have Welfare-To-Work programs, which is operated locally by each county welfare department or its contractors.<sup>1630</sup> If you receive CalWORKs, you must participate in Welfare-To-Work, unless you have an exemption.

<sup>1626</sup> For federal law governing this program, see Food and Nutrition Act of 2008, § 6(d); C.F.R. § 273.7. For state regulations governing this program, see the Manual of Policies and Procedures (MPP), CAL. DEP'T OF SOC. SERVS., <http://www.cdss.ca.gov/cdssweb/PG128.htm>

ONCE I'M ENROLLED IN CALWORKS WELFARE-TO-WORK, WHAT RULES MUST I FOLLOW TO STAY ELIGIBLE?

Unless you have an exemption, all adult CalWORKs recipients are required to participate in Welfare-To-Work (see the Helpful Hint Box on PG. 477 to learn more about exemptions). You have 24 months to complete your Welfare-To-Work requirements.<sup>1631</sup> The CalWORKs Welfare-to-Work requirements include the following:

- You must complete the Welfare-To-Work program within 24 months (unless you have an exemption).
- After receiving aid for up to a maximum of 24 months, you must work in unsubsidized employment<sup>1632</sup> or participate in community services activities for the minimum number of hours listed below<sup>1633</sup>:
  - Adults in one-parent families with a child under the age of six must spend at least 20 hours per week in Welfare-To-Work activities.<sup>1634</sup>
  - Adults in one-parent families with a child over the age of six must spend at least 30 hours per week in Welfare-To-Work activities.<sup>1635</sup>
  - The minimum participation requirement for two-parent families is 35 hours per week.<sup>1636</sup>

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO PARTICIPATE IN CALWORKS WELFARE-TO-WORK?

Maybe. Refer back to the explanation of how a conviction can impact eligibility for CalWORKs on PG. 449.

WHAT BENEFITS AND SERVICES CAN I GET THROUGH CALWORKS WELFARE-TO-WORK?

You can get help with childcare, transportation, and work- or training-related expenses. Even when you're no longer eligible for CalWORKs cash aid, you may continue to receive help with child care expenses.<sup>1637</sup> All WTW participants will:

- Attend a group orientation that explains the cash benefit and WTW rules.<sup>1638</sup>
- Meet with a county welfare worker who will look at your work history and skills, and connect you to other services you may need in order to work.<sup>1639</sup>
- Participate in a 4-week job search program. If you haven't found a job after the 4 weeks, you will meet with an employment counselor who will help you plan steps toward employment.<sup>1640</sup> You may be assigned to an unpaid work experience/preparation; vocational training placements; or an adult education or community college programs.<sup>1641</sup>

Exemptions from CalWORKs Welfare-to-Work Requirement

All adults who apply get CalWORKs must participate in the Welfare-to-Work (WTW) program, unless they have an exemption from the WTW requirement. Adults are exempt from WTW if you are:

- Age 60 or older;
- Disabled;
- Caring for an ill or incapacitated member of your household;
- The parent of a child age 0-23 months;
- Having a pregnancy that impairs your ability to be regularly employed;
- A fulltime member in VISTA (Volunteers in Service to America); OR
- A past or present victim of domestic abuse (or have a family member who is) and the county determines that your condition or situation prevents or impairs your ability to be employed.

If you believe that any of these exemptions apply to you, contact your county CalWORKs office. You may request an exemption verbally or in writing using the "CalWORKs Exemption Request Form" (Form CW 2186 A). To view a copy of the form, visit: <http://www.cdss.ca.gov/cdssweb/entres/forms/English/CW2186A.pdf>.

VI. SOCIAL SECURITY BENEFITS

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- What Social Security is and how it works
- Who is eligible to receive Social Security benefits
- About the different types of Social Security benefits (retirement benefits, SSDI, SSI/SSP)
- How to apply for Social Security benefits
- How your criminal record affects your ability to get Social Security benefits
- What happens to Social Security benefits when you are incarcerated
- How to restart your Social Security benefits if they've been suspended (paused)
- What to do if your Social Security benefits have been wrongly ended or suspended

Social Security is a federal benefits program that provides cash benefits to retired people, disabled people, and their dependents. Social security is a “pay-as-you-go” program, meaning that workers pay Social Security taxes, and these taxes are used to provide benefits to Social Security beneficiaries (retired people, disabled people, and their dependents).

For starters, there are four ways to qualify for federal Social Security benefits:

1. As a retired individual;
2. As a disabled individual;
3. As the spouse or dependent of an eligible individual; or
4. As the survivor of an eligible individual.

SOCIAL SECURITY RETIREMENT BENEFITS

WHAT ARE SOCIAL SECURITY RETIREMENT BENEFITS?

Social Security retirement benefits are paid out of money collected from Social Security taxes on individual paychecks to working taxpayers.<sup>1642</sup> For each year you work and pay Social Security taxes to the government, you earn “credits”—up to 4 per year. Generally, you need 40 credits (10 years of working and paying Social Security taxes) to qualify for retirement benefits.<sup>1643</sup>

AM I ELIGIBLE FOR SOCIAL SECURITY RETIREMENT BENEFITS?

To get Social Security retirement benefits, you must

1. Be at least 62 years old; and
2. Have earned 40 Social Security credits (by working and paying Social Security taxes to the U.S. government for 10 full years).

You can start getting retirement benefits as early as age 62. But depending on your situation, you may want to wait so you can get a higher monthly benefit.<sup>1644</sup> This age may be 65, 66, or 67, depending on what year you were born.<sup>1645</sup>

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET RETIREMENT BENEFITS?

Possibly—but it might be just temporary.

You can't receive Social Security benefits for any month that you:

1. Are confined in a correctional facility for a period of 30+ days in a row due to a conviction;<sup>1646</sup>

<sup>1645</sup> To find out the full retirement age for your birth year, call the SSA at 1-800-772-1213 or visit the SSA website to See a chart: <http://www.socialsecurity.gov/retire2/retirechart.htm>. If you decide to start getting retirement benefits earlier, Social Security will reduce the benefit amount you get per month. If you delay getting retirement benefits until age 70 or later, you get a special credit for each month after age 70 that you're not getting retirement benefits. ### HOW TO CHECK FOR SOCIAL SECURITY CREDITS

If you're not sure how many Social Security credits you have, you can call the SSA (1-800-772-1213), have a Form SSA-7004, “Request for Social Security Statement” sent to you, and submit the form. If you have Internet access, you can also use the Online Retirement Estimator on the SSA's website by visiting www.ssa.gov.

2. Are confined to an institution by court order because you've been found "guilty" but insane, "not guilty" due to insanity or mental illness, or "incompetent to stand trial";<sup>1647</sup>
3. Have an outstanding arrest warrant because you're avoiding prosecution or confinement for a felony; or<sup>1648</sup>
4. Have been determined by a judge to be violating a condition of probation or parole.<sup>1649</sup>
  - Here is an example of how this works: If you were convicted and confined on March 29, 2014 and you stayed in jail until May 2, 2014, you weren't entitled to any benefits for the months of March, April, or May since you were being confined for 35 days in a row.<sup>1650</sup> This means you cannot collect back payments for any benefits you otherwise would have received if you never had a conviction, warrant, or violation as described in the four situations above.<sup>1651</sup> Additionally, if you were in prison or jail over 30 days, you may have accrued an overpayment, which may be withheld from future Social Security benefits once you are released and your benefits are reinstated.<sup>1652</sup>

Once you qualify for Social Security retirement benefits, you stay enrolled in the program as long as you're eligible. Although your benefits get suspended (paused) during incarceration, they don't get terminated (permanently ended) due to your incarceration, no matter how long your incarceration lasts.<sup>1653</sup>

If you're currently being incarcerated for 30 or more days, and you were already getting retirement benefits when you were arrested, those benefits were paused on your 31st day of incarceration.<sup>1654</sup> But you can apply to restart them once you have documents showing your release date (see PG. 481). If you weren't already getting retirement benefits when you were arrested, and being incarcerated is the only factor disqualifying you now, you can start a new Social Security application before your release (see PG. 478).<sup>1655</sup>

HOW DO I APPLY FOR RETIREMENT BENEFITS?

You can apply online, by phone, or in person:<sup>1656</sup>

- Online: Visit SSA's website (www.ssa.gov) and start a new application at <https://secure.ssa.gov/iClaim/rib>.<sup>1657</sup>
- By phone: Call the SSA at 1-800-772-1213 (TTY: 1-800-325-0778). A representative will set an appointment for you to do your application by phone. This toll-free line is open Monday through Friday, 7 AM to 7 PM. For each time you call, record the date of your call and the name of the person who assists you.<sup>1658</sup>
- In person: First, call the SSA to find a local office near you; or, if you have Internet access, use the office locator at <https://secure.ssa.gov/ICON/main.jsp>. Then call the local office to make an appointment.

TIPS:

- Before you start, you may want to look over the Social Security's application checklist (see Appendix H, on PG. 523).<sup>1659</sup> to gather the information you need.
- If you need help with the application, call the Social Security Administration or visit a local Social Security office. You have a right to assistance from Social Security representatives if you need help due to a disability.<sup>1660</sup>

- If you need benefits right away due to a financial emergency, ask if you can get “expedited” benefits.<sup>1662</sup>

CAN I APPLY FOR RETIREMENT BENEFITS WHILE INCARCERATED?

Yes! You can’t receive Social Security benefits while incarcerated<sup>1663</sup>—but if you haven’t applied before, and you think you may qualify, you can start the application process as early as several months before your release date.

Some prisons and jails have a pre-release agreement with local Social Security offices. Ask the pre-release staff if your facility has a pre-release agreement with a local Social Security Office.

- If your facility has a pre-release agreement:
  - Speak to the pre-release staff. They should be available to help you complete and submit your application before your release.
  - Pre-release staff should also notify the Social Security office about your release date.
  - Ideally, if a pre-release agreement is in place, staff should start working with you several months before your release, and Social Security should then process your application promptly so that your benefits will start shortly after you get out.<sup>1664</sup>
- If your facility doesn’t offer pre-release assistance—and/or you have trouble working with correctional staff:
  - Call Social Security to have application materials mailed to you and get help with them. Be prepared to give your Social Security number and release date. If Social Security’s automated phone system doesn’t accept your call, you should ask a non-incarcerated family member to call as an Authorized Representative (“AR”) on your behalf (use the form in Appendix G, PG. 523 to appoint a family member as an AR).
  - An SSA representative will set a post-release appointment for you at a local Social Security office, ask you to bring your official release documents, and tell you what else you need to do.<sup>1665</sup>

I WAS RECEIVING RETIREMENT BENEFITS WHEN I ENTERED PRISON OR JAIL. WHAT HAPPENS TO THEM WHILE I’M INCARCERATED?

If you were convicted and incarcerated for 30 or more days in a row, your Social Security benefits got suspended on the 31st day.<sup>1666</sup> You can’t get these benefits while incarcerated, but you’ll stay enrolled in the program. This means if your spouse or children have been getting benefits based on your Social Security eligibility, they’ll keep getting them while you’re incarcerated (even if your benefits were suspended), so long as they’re eligible.<sup>1667</sup> This also means that once you have official documents proving your release date, you can apply to restart your retirement benefits (see PG. 481).<sup>1668</sup>

Please note that BEFORE you are actually convicted—even if you are incarcerated while awaiting trial—you will continue to receive Social Security benefits until you are convicted AND incarcerated for 30 days or more in a row.<sup>1669</sup>

WHAT TO DO IF YOU KNOW YOU WILL BE INCARCERATED 30 DAYS OR MORE:

As soon as you know that you will be incarcerated for 30 or more days, you should report this fact to Social Security so that your benefits get suspended in a timely way. If you get any Social Security checks for any months during which you’re incarcerated, these will be treated as overpayments and you’ll have to repay them later. The amounts might get deducted from your future Social Security benefits, when you’re later released from incarceration.

IMPORTANT EXCEPTIONS

Exceptions for People Incarcerated Before April 1, 2000— What happened to your Social Security Benefits during incarceration:

- If you were incarcerated before February 1, 1995: Your benefits get suspended after your 31st day of incarceration only if you were convicted of a felony.
- If you were incarcerated between February 1, 1995 and March 31, 2000: You're not entitled to benefits for any month in which you were incarcerated following conviction for a crime that can be given a one-year or longer sentence by law (regardless of the actual sentence the court imposed).
- If you were incarcerated before April 1, 2000: Your benefits don't get suspended if you're confined by court order because you're found "not guilty" due to insanity, "guilty" but insane, or "incompetent to stand trial."<sup>1670</sup>

MY RETIREMENT BENEFITS STOPPED WHILE I WAS INCARCERATED. HOW DO I RESTART THEM?

Before release:

- Once you know your release date, notify your correctional counselor (or another staff member at your facility) that you want to restart your Social Security benefits. It's best to start this process at least 3 months before your release date.<sup>1671</sup>
  - If your facility has a pre-release agreement:
    - should be available to help you complete and submit the necessary paperwork in a timely way.<sup>1672</sup>
  - If your facility doesn't offer pre-release assistance—and or you have trouble working with staff:
    - Call 1-800-772-1213 (TTY: 1-800-325-0778) to notify Social Security that you were getting retirement benefits before you got incarcerated, and you want your benefits to restart as soon as possible after your release. The toll-free line is open Monday to Friday, 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Be prepared to provide your Social Security number and release date. A representative will set a post-release appointment for you at a local Social Security office, ask you to provide official release documents, and tell you what else you need to do.<sup>1673</sup>
- If Social Security's automated phone system doesn't accept your call, you should ask a non-incarcerated family member to call as an Authorized Representative ("AR") on your behalf (use the form in Appendix G PG. 518 to appoint a family member as an AR).
- You can also ask a friend, family member, or trusted advocate to communicate with Social Security about your benefits on your behalf. Remember that you have a right to appoint any individual—such as a friend, family member, attorney, or social worker—to act as your representative in the application process. To do so, use the form in Appendix G on PG. 523.<sup>1674</sup>

After release:

- Call 1-800-772-1213 (TTY: 1-800-325-0778) to notify Social Security that you were released from prison and want to restart your retirement benefits. Be prepared to provide your Social Security number. A representative will set an appointment for you at a local Social Security office, ask you to bring your official release documents, and tell you what else you need to do.<sup>1675</sup>

IMPORTANT: You can't get back-payments of Social Security for the months you spent in prison or jail.<sup>1676</sup> In other words, you can never collect retirement checks you otherwise would have gotten if you weren't incarcerated. However, you should be able to collect back-payments dating back to the month following the month of your release. For example, if you were released on October 10, 2014, you can start receiving retirement benefits again starting November 2014. Since monthly Social Security benefits are paid 1 month after they're due, you can collect your November retirement check in December 2014.<sup>1677</sup>

SOCIAL SECURITY DISABILITY INSURANCE (SSDI)

WHAT IS SOCIAL SECURITY DISABILITY INSURANCE (SSDI)?

Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI) benefits are paid out of money collected from Social Security taxes on individual worker's paychecks.<sup>1678</sup> SSDI is for U.S. citizens and lawfully present noncitizens (legal permanent residents or LPRs) who have earned a certain amount of Social Security credits by working and paying Social Security taxes, but who can no longer work due to a disability.<sup>1679</sup>

AM I ELIGIBLE FOR SSDI?

To get SSDI, you must:

1. Have a disability.
  - A disability is a severe medical condition that prevents you from being able to work.<sup>1680</sup>
  - Once you apply for SSDI, California Department of Social Services (CDSS) will collect medical records to decide if you have a disability.<sup>1681</sup>
  - Note: Being unemployed, incarcerated, on parole, or currently addicted to substances do not qualify as disabilities for SSDI.<sup>1682</sup> AND
2. Have a recent and long enough work history to meet SSDI requirements.<sup>1683</sup>
  - What counts as recent and lengthy enough work history for SSDI depends on the age when you became disabled. Generally, the older you were when you became disabled, the more recent and lengthy your work must be.<sup>1684</sup>

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET SSDI?

Possibly—but this could be just temporary. You can't get Social Security benefits for any month that you:<sup>1685</sup>

1. Are confined in a correctional facility for a period of 30+ days in a row due to a conviction;<sup>1686</sup>
2. Are confined to an institution by court order because you've been found "guilty" but insane, "not guilty" due to insanity or mental illness, or "incompetent to stand trial";<sup>1687</sup>
3. Have an open arrest warrant because you're avoiding prosecution or confinement for a felony; or
4. Are found to be violating a condition of probation or parole.<sup>1688</sup>

NOTES RELATED TO ELIGIBILITY FOR OTHER BENEFITS:

If you get SSDI, after your 24th month of benefits you'll be automatically enrolled in Medicare (see PG. 471).

If you get SSDI, benefits may also be available to certain family members, including: (1) your spouse, if he/she is age 62 or older, or caring for your child who is under 16 and has a disability; and (2) your unmarried child, if he/she is under age 18, or age 18 or older and has a disability that started before age 22 (see PG. 482).

Depending on your work history, you may also be eligible for Social Security retirement benefits (see PG. 478).

Depending on how much income and resources you have, you may also be eligible for SSI (see PG. 486).

Here is an example of how this works: If you were convicted and confined on March 29, 2014 and stayed in jail until May 2, 2014, you weren't entitled to benefits for the months of March, April, or May since you were being confined for 35 days in a row.<sup>1689</sup> This means you can't collect back payments for any SSDI benefits you otherwise would have received if you never had a conviction, warrant, violation, and/or period of confinement as described above.<sup>1690</sup>

Also note that you CAN'T apply for any Social Security benefits based on a disability that is related to a felony offense. For example, if you fell while committing a felony and lost your ability to walk, that disability won't qualify you for SSDI.<sup>1691</sup> But you can apply for SSDI for disabilities that are not related to the offense.

Once you qualify for SSDI, you stay enrolled as long as you still have a qualifying disability. Although your benefits get suspended (paused) during incarceration, they won't get terminated (permanently ended) due to your incarceration.<sup>1692</sup> This means that if your spouse or children have been getting benefits as your dependents based on your SSDI eligibility, they'll keep getting these benefits while you're incarcerated, as long as they stay eligible.<sup>1693</sup>

If you're currently incarcerated for 30 or more days, and you were already getting SSDI when you were arrested, then your SSDI was suspended on your 31st day of incarceration.<sup>1694</sup> But you can apply to restart your SSDI benefits once you have documents showing your release date (see PG. 485). If you weren't on SSDI when you were arrested, and being incarcerated is the only factor disqualifying you now, you can start a new application for SSDI before your release (see PG. 483).<sup>1695</sup>

Exceptions for People Incarcerated Before April 1, 2000—What happened to your SSDI during incarceration:

- If you were incarcerated between February 1, 1995 and March 31, 2000: You're not entitled to SSDI benefits for any month in which you were incarcerated following conviction of a crime punishable by more than a one-year statutory sentence, regardless of the actual sentence imposed by the court.
- If you were incarcerated before February 1, 1995: Your SSDI benefits get suspended after your 31st day of incarceration only if you were convicted of a felony.
- If you were incarcerated before April 1, 2000: Your SSDI benefits didn't get suspended if you were confined by court order because you were found to be "not guilty" due to insanity, "guilty" but insane, or "incompetent to stand trial."<sup>1696</sup>

HOW DO I APPLY FOR SSDI?

You can apply online, by phone, or in person.<sup>1697</sup>

- Online: Visit SSA's website (www.ssa.gov) and start a new application at <https://secure.ssa.gov/iClaim/dib>.<sup>1698</sup>
- By phone: Call the SSA at 1-800-772-1213 (TTY: 1-800-325-0778). A representative will set up an appointment for you to do your application by phone. This toll-free line is open Monday through Friday, 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. For each time you call, record the date of your call and the name of the person who helps you.<sup>1699</sup>
- In person: First, call the SSA to find the office nearest you; or, if you have Internet access, use the office locator at <https://secure.ssa.gov/ICON/main.jsp>. Then call to make an appointment.

TIPS FOR APPLYING TO SSDI:

- Apply as soon as possible when you become disabled. The application review process can take 3-5 months.<sup>1700</sup>
- Before you start, you may want to look over the Social Security Administration’s disability application checklist (see Appendix H, PG. 529) to gather the information you need.<sup>1701</sup>
- If you need help with the application, call the Social Security Administration or visit a local Social Security office. You have a right to assistance from Social Security representatives if you need help due to a disability.<sup>1702</sup>
- You have a right to appoint any individual—such as a friend, family member, attorney, social worker, or other trusted advocate—to act as your representative in the application process. To do so, use the “Appointment of Representative” form (a copy of form in Appendix F, PG. 518).<sup>1703</sup>
- If you need benefits right away due to a financial emergency, ask if you can get “expedited” benefits.<sup>1704</sup>

CAN I APPLY FOR SSDI WHILE INCARCERATED?

Yes! You can’t receive Social Security benefits while incarcerated<sup>1705</sup>—but if you haven’t applied for SSDI before, and you think you may qualify, you can start the application process as early as several months before your release date. Keep in mind that review of an SSDI application can take 3-5 months.<sup>1706</sup> Some prisons and jails have a pre-release agreement with local Social Security offices to make this process easier.

IF THIS IS YOUR SITUATION:	THIS IS WHAT YOU SHOULD DO
If your facility has a pre-release agreement	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Speak to correctional staff. They may be available to help you complete and submit your SSDI application before your release.</li> <li>• Correctional staff should also notify the Social Security office about your release date.</li> <li>• If a pre-release agreement is in place, staff should start working with you several months before your release, and Social Security should then process your application promptly so that your benefits will start shortly after you get out.<sup>1707</sup></li> </ul>
If your facility doesn’t offer pre-release assistance—and/or you have trouble working with correctional staff	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Call Social Security at 1-800-772-1213 (TTY: 1-800-325-0778) to have application materials mailed to you and get help with them. Be prepared to give your Social Security number and release date.</li> <li>• If Social Security’s automated phone system doesn’t accept your call, you should ask a non-incarcerated family member to call as an Authorized Representative (“AR”) on your behalf (use the form in Appendix F, PG. 518 to appoint a family member as an AR).</li> <li>• An SSA representative will set a post-release appointment for you at a local Social Security office, ask you to bring your official release documents, and tell you what else you need to do.<sup>1708</sup></li> </ul>

PLEASE NOTE: If you become disabled while you are incarcerated, you can’t start getting benefits until (1) you’ve been disabled for 5 full calendar months OR (2) one full calendar month has passed after your release date—whichever is later.<sup>1709</sup>

I WAS RECEIVING SSDI WHEN I GOT ARRESTED. WHAT HAPPENS TO IT WHILE I'M INCARCERATED?

If you were convicted and incarcerated for 30 or more days in a row, your SSDI benefits got suspended on the 31st day.<sup>1710</sup> You can't receive SSDI benefits while incarcerated, but you'll stay enrolled in the program. This means that if your spouse or children have been getting benefits as your dependents based on your SSDI eligibility, they'll keep getting these benefits while you're incarcerated, as long as they stay eligible.<sup>1711</sup> This also means that once you have official documents proving your release from incarceration, you can apply to restart your SSDI benefits (see PG. 485).<sup>1712</sup>

WHAT TO DO IF YOU KNOW YOU WILL BE INCARCERATED 30 DAYS OR MORE:

As soon as you know that you will be incarcerated for 30 or more days, you should report this fact to Social Security so that your benefits get suspended in a timely way. If you get any Social Security checks for any months during which you're incarcerated, these will be treated as overpayments and you'll have to repay them later. The amounts might get deducted from your future Social Security benefits, when you're later released from incarceration.

MY SSDI STOPPED WHILE I WAS INCARCERATED. HOW DO I RESTART IT?

BEFORE RELEASE:	AFTER RELEASE:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Once you know your release date, notify your correctional counselor (or another staff member at your facility) that you want to restart your SSDI benefits. It's best to start this process at least 3 months before your release date.<sup>1713</sup></li> <li>If your facility has a pre-release agreement with Social Security:</li> <li>Staff should be available to help you complete and submit the necessary paperwork in a timely way.<sup>1714</sup></li> <li>If your facility doesn't offer pre-release assistance—and/or you have trouble working with correctional staff:</li> <li>Call 1-800-772-1213 (TTY: 1-800-325-0778) to notify Social Security that you were getting SSDI before incarceration, and you want your benefits to restart as soon as possible after your release. The toll-free line is open Monday to Friday, 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.</li> <li>Be prepared to provide your Social Security number and release date.</li> <li>If Social Security's automated phone system doesn't accept your call, you should ask a non-incarcerated family member to call as an Authorized Representative ("AR") on your behalf (use the form in Appendix F, PG. 518 to appoint a family member as an AR).</li> <li>A representative will set a post-release appointment for you at a local Social Security office, ask you to provide official release documents, and tell you what else you need to do.<sup>1715</sup></li> <li>You can also ask a friend, family member, or trusted advocate to communicate with Social Security about your benefits on your behalf. You have a right to appoint any individual—such as a friend, family member, attorney, or social worker—to act as your representative in the application process. To do so, use the form located in Appendix G, PG. 523.<sup>1716</sup></li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>If you weren't able to do so while incarcerated, call Social Security to report that you were released from prison and want to restart your SSDI benefits. A representative will set an appointment for you at a local Social Security office, ask you to bring your official release documents, and tell you what else you need to do.<sup>1717</sup></li> <li>If your SSDI has only been suspended (paused)—which is what normally happens—it may take only a month to restart it. If you were incarcerated for 12 months or more, then your SSDI benefits would have been terminated, and you have to file a new application to reestablish your eligibility.<sup>1718</sup></li> </ul>

I BELIEVE MY SSDI WAS WRONGLY DENIED OR STOPPED. HOW DO I APPEAL?

Many people who apply for SSDI are denied at first, but then get benefits once they appeal. Considering the small odds of getting approved on the first try, be prepared to get denied and to go through the appeals process.<sup>1719</sup> If Social Security decides to deny your SSDI application, it must mail you a notice of this decision.

- You have a right to appeal. To do so, you must file a “Request for Reconsideration” within 60 days after the date you received the notice.<sup>1720</sup> You can send it by mail, but it’s best to file it in person at a local Social Security office. This way you get a copy with a time-and-date stamp, which proves that you appealed on time.<sup>1721</sup>
- You can also appeal online at: <https://secure.ssa.gov/apps6z/iAppeals/ap001.jsp>
- If you miss the 60-day deadline due to factors beyond your control, like illness or hospitalization, file a request for a “good cause exception” to the deadline along with your “Request for Reconsideration.”<sup>1722</sup>

If Social Security then decides to deny your Request for Reconsideration, it must mail you a notice of this decision.

- Again, you have a right to appeal. To do so, you must file a “Request for an Administrative Law Judge Hearing” within 60 days after the date you got the notice.<sup>1723</sup>

If you can’t afford a lawyer to help with your appeal, you may be able to find free help by contacting a local legal aid office, a local bar association referral services, or another local nonprofit organization that helps with Social Security issues.<sup>1724</sup>

HELPFUL HINTS SSDI Back-payments:

You can’t get back-payments of SSDI for the months you spent in prison or jail. In other words, you can never collect SSDI checks you otherwise would have gotten if you weren’t incarcerated. However, you should be able to collect back-payments of SSDI dating back to the month following the month of your release.

Getting SSDI on the Day You Apply:

In SPECIAL EMERGENCY CASES, you may be able to get benefits on the day you walk into the local Social Security office to complete your SSDI paperwork. This may be possible if:

- (1) your SSDI was only suspended and not terminated during your incarceration, or you’ve already filed a new SSDI application before your release;
- (2) you can show proof of a financial emergency; and
- (3) you haven’t already received benefits for the month.

SUPPLEMENTAL SECURITY INCOME (SSI)

Supplemental Security Income (SSI) provides financial support for low-income people who are 65 years old or older and/or have a disability—regardless of work history. The federal government provides certain amounts of aid for people who qualify, and California adds to the federal amounts in certain cases. SSI benefits are meant to cover basic necessities like food, clothing and shelter.<sup>1725</sup>

AM I ELIGIBLE FOR SSI?

To be able to get SSI, you must:

1. Be at least age 65, or blind, or disabled;

- For SSI purposes, a disability is a severe medical condition that prevents you from being able to work.<sup>1726</sup> This is the same definition used for SSDI, and the same process is used to decide whether you have a qualifying disability.<sup>1727</sup>
- 2. Have very little or no income;
  - The income limit varies by where you live and may change from year to year.<sup>1728</sup>
- 3. Own limited resources;<sup>1729</sup>
  - The resource limit means that the value of things you own (besides your home and your car) must be below a certain amount, which is set by law and differs for singled and married people.<sup>1730</sup>
- 4. You must be living in the U.S. as a citizen or a lawfully present noncitizen (LPR);<sup>1731</sup>
  - If you are ineligible for SSI due to residency status, but you are legally present, you may be eligible for the Cash Assistance Program for Immigrants (CAPI).<sup>1732</sup> For information about this program, see the Helpful Hint box below.
- 5. You must apply for any other cash benefits you might be eligible for; AND<sup>1733</sup>
- 6. You must not be currently incarcerated (details below).<sup>1734</sup>

HOW SSI AFFECTS YOUR ABILITY TO GET OTHER PUBLIC BENEFITS:

- If you get SSI, you can't also get CalFresh, since SSI is supposed to cover food expenses.<sup>1735</sup> However, other people in your household may be eligible and your income will not count in determining their eligibility.
- If you get SSI, you'll be automatically enrolled in Medi-Cal (see PG. 466) and may qualify for extra help with paying for Medicare (see PG. 471).
- SSI recipients who do not have access to a kitchen or have a kitchen but no stove or refrigerator are eligible for additional food benefits through SSI. You are not considered as having access to a kitchen unless you have a working refrigerator or icebox and a stove with at least two working burners.<sup>1736</sup>
- Depending on your work history, you may be eligible to get retirement benefits (see PG. 478) and/or SSDI (see PG. 482) in addition to SSI.<sup>1737</sup>

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET SSI?

Possibly—but IT could be just temporary. You can't get SSI for any month that you:<sup>1738</sup>

1. Are confined in a correctional facility for that full calendar month;
  2. Have an outstanding arrest warrant because you're avoiding prosecution or confinement for a felony; or
  3. Are found to be violating a condition of probation or parole.<sup>1739</sup>
- Here is an example of how this works: If you went to jail on October 30, 2014 until November 2, 2014, you weren't entitled to SSI benefits for the months of October or November.<sup>1740</sup> This means you can't collect “back payments” for SSI benefits that you would have received if you never had a violation, warrant, and/or period of confinement as described in the three situations above.<sup>1741</sup> Additionally, your benefits will be paused for up to one year. After that, they will be ended and you will need to re-apply (see PG. 489 below).

<sup>1726</sup> The law defines "disability" as the inability to do any "substantial gainful activity" due to a "medically determinable physical or mental impairment" that can be expected to result in death or that has lasted (or can be expected to last) for at least 12 months in a row. 20 C.F.R. § 416.905(a); Benefits Available to Paroling & Discharging Inmates, PRISON LAW OFFICE (2011), <http://www.prisonlaw.com/pdfs/BenefitsLetter,Aug2011.pdf>.

- You also can’t apply for any Social Security benefits based on a disability that is related to a felony you committed. For example, if you fell while committing a felony and lost your ability to walk as a result, that disability won’t qualify you for SSI.<sup>1742</sup> But you could still apply for SSI based on a disability that has no connection to your felony.

HOW DO I APPLY FOR SSI?

You can apply by phone or in person:<sup>1743</sup>

- By phone: Call Social Security at 1-800-772-1213 (TTY: 1-800-325-0778). A representative will set an appointment for you to do your application by phone. This toll-free line is open Monday through Friday, 7 AM to 7 PM. For each time you call, record the date of your call and the name of the person who assists you. If you complete your application within 60 days of your first call to request information or materials, the SSA will treat that call as the date of your application.<sup>1744</sup>
- In person: First, call Social Security to find a local office near you; or, if you have Internet access, use the office locator at <https://secure.ssa.gov/ICON/main.jsp>. Then call the local office to make an appointment. Unfortunately, you cannot apply for SSI online.

TIPS FOR APPLYING FOR SSI:

- If you’re applying based on a disability, apply as soon as possible when you become disabled. The application review process can take 3-5 months.<sup>1745</sup>
- Before you start, you may want to look over the Social Security Administration’s SSI brochure (available online at <http://www.socialsecurity.gov/pubs/EN-05-11000.pdf>) and/or disability application checklist (see Appendix H, PG. 529)<sup>1746</sup> to know what you’ll need.
- If you need help with the application, call the Social Security Administration or visit a local Social Security office. You have a right to assistance from Social Security representatives if you need help due to a disability.<sup>1747</sup>
- You have a right to appoint any individual—such as a friend, family member, attorney, social worker, or other trusted advocate—to act as your representative in the application process. To do so, use the “Appointment of Representative” form in Appendix G, PG. 523.<sup>1748</sup>
- Some counties offer assistance with representation or referral to legal services programs for representation.
- If you need benefits right away due to a financial emergency, ask if you can get “expedited” benefits.<sup>1749</sup>

CAN I APPLY FOR SSI WHILE INCARCERATED?

Yes! You can’t receive SSI benefits while incarcerated<sup>1750</sup>—but if you haven’t applied for SSI before, and you think you may qualify, you can start the application process as early as 90 days before your release date. Keep in mind that review of an SSI application can take 3-5 months.<sup>1751</sup>

Some prisons and jails have a pre-release agreement with local Social Security offices.

- If your facility has a pre-release agreement: Speak to correctional staff. They may be available to help you complete and submit your SSI application before your release.
  - Correctional staff should also notify the Social Security office about your release date.

- Ideally, if a pre-release agreement is in place, staff should start working with you several months before your release, and the Social Security office should then process your application promptly so that your benefits will start shortly after you get out.
- If your facility doesn't offer pre-release assistance—and/or you have trouble working with correctional staff: Call Social Security at 1-800-772-1213 (TTY: 1-800-325-0778) to have application materials mailed to you and get help with them. Be prepared to give your release date.
  - If Social Security's automated phone system doesn't accept your call, you should ask a non-incarcerated family member to call as an Authorized Representative ("AR") on your behalf (use the form in Appendix G, PG. 523 to appoint a family member as an AR).
  - An SSA representative will set a post-release appointment for you at a local Social Security office, ask you to bring your official release documents, and tell you what else you need to do.<sup>1752</sup>

I WAS RECEIVING SSI WHEN I ENTERED PRISON OR JAIL. WHAT HAPPENS TO IT WHILE I'M INCARCERATED?

It depends on how long your incarceration period lasts—and, specifically, how many full calendar months you spend in prison or jail:<sup>1753</sup>

- If your incarceration doesn't last a full calendar month: Your SSI benefits generally continue without interruption. Once you've spent a full calendar month in prison or jail, your SSI benefits get suspended (put on pause).
- If your incarceration lasts for less than 12 calendar months in a row: Your SSI benefits stay suspended, but you remain enrolled in SSI. This means once you're released, Social Security can promptly restart your SSI benefits if it has proof that you've been released and proof that you still qualify based on income and resources. You won't be required to show new proof of your disability—although you should promptly report any changes to your disabled condition. (For details on how to restart your SSI after release from incarceration, see PG. 491.)
- If your incarceration lasts 1 year or more, and your SSI has been suspended for 12 calendar months in a row: Your SSI gets terminated (officially ended). This means you're no longer enrolled in SSI. If you want to get SSI after your release, you must file a brand new SSI application, including proof of your income and resources and proof of your disability. Processing your new SSI application may take 12-18 months. (For general information on how to start a new SSI application, see PG. 488. For details on how to apply for SSI while incarcerated, see PG. 491.)

BELOW IS A CHART THAT SUMMARIZES HOW THE TIMING OF YOUR INCARCERATION AND RELEASE WILL AFFECT YOUR SSI ELIGIBILITY.<sup>1754</sup>

IF THIS IS YOUR SITUATION:	THIS IS WHAT WILL HAPPEN TO YOUR ELIGIBILITY FOR SSI:	FOR EXAMPLE:
Incarcerated for less than one full calendar month:	You stay enrolled in SSI. You stay eligible to receive SSI benefits. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Your benefits are not suspended.</li> <li>You continue to get full benefits.</li> </ul>	Suppose you went to prison on February 10, 2014 and got out March 30, 2014: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>You weren't in prison for a full calendar month—only part of February and part of March. So there are no changes to your eligibility, and you should have received all your benefits as usual.</li> </ul>
Incarcerated for one full calendar month:	You stay enrolled in SSI. Your ability to receive SSI benefits is put on pause. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>After a full calendar month, benefits are suspended, but not terminated.</li> <li>You lose full benefits for that full calendar month.</li> <li>Your benefits can restart post-release.</li> </ul>	Suppose you went to prison on February 10, 2014 and got out on April 1, 2014: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>You lost your March benefits, since you were in prison for that full calendar month.</li> <li>You can keep your February benefits, since you were in prison for just part of that month.</li> <li>You should get your full April benefit—but it may be delayed unless you promptly notify Social Security of your release.</li> </ul>
Incarcerated for at least one full calendar month, then released after the 1st of another month:	You stay enrolled in SSI. Your ability to receive SSI benefits is put on pause. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>After a full calendar month, benefits are suspended, but not terminated.</li> <li>If you notify SSA of your release date in advance, your benefits can restart promptly upon release.</li> <li>You can get partial payment for the calendar month of your release date.</li> <li>You can get full benefits for the following calendar month after release.</li> </ul>	Suppose you went to prison on February 10, 2014 and got out on May 15, 2014: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>After you've been incarcerated</li> <li>You lost your March and April benefits, since you were in prison for those full calendar months.</li> <li>You lost half your May benefit, since you were in prison for half that calendar month; but you're entitled to the other half. You should also get your full June benefit.</li> <li>If you notify SSA in advance, your benefits may be available as early as your release date.</li> </ul>
Incarcerated for 12+ full calendar months in a row, then released:	You do not stay enrolled in SSI. You must reapply to get SSI benefits again. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>After a full calendar month, your benefits are suspended.</li> <li>After 12 calendar months of being suspended, benefits are terminated.</li> <li>You must file a new SSI application, including proof of disability, which can take 12-18 months to process. You can start your application process before release.</li> </ul>	Suppose you went to prison on January 20, 2012 and got out February 10, 2013: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>After you've been incarcerated for the full calendar month of February 2012, your benefits are suspended starting March 1, 2012.</li> <li>After your benefits have been suspended from March 2012 through February 2013 (12 calendar months), they are terminated on March 1, 2013.</li> <li>If you want to get back on SSI after release, you must file a new SSI application, which you can start before your release date.</li> </ul> BUT Suppose you went to prison on January 20, 2012 and got out January 20, 2013: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>After you've been incarcerated for the full month of February 2012, your benefits are suspended starting March 1, 2012.</li> <li>You lost benefits for March through December (10 months), since you were in prison for those full calendar months.</li> <li>Your benefits were suspended for 10 calendar months: not long enough to get terminated. So if you notify SSA in advance, your benefits may be available as early as your release date.</li> </ul>

MY SSI BENEFITS STOPPED WHILE I WAS INCARCERATED. HOW DO I RESTART THEM?

Follow the instructions in the chart below based on your situation.

BEFORE RELEASE:	AFTER RELEASE:
Once you know your release date, notify your correctional counselor (or another staff member at your facility) that you want to restart your SSI benefits. It's best to start this process at least 3 months before your release.<sup>1755</sup> <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• If your facility has a pre-release agreement with Social Security, staff should be available to help you complete and submit the necessary paperwork in a timely way.<sup>1756</sup></li> <li>• If your facility doesn't offer pre-release assistance—and/or you have trouble working with correctional staff—call Social Security at 1-800-772-1213 (TTY: 1-800-325-0778) to notify Social Security that you were getting SSI before incarceration, and you want your benefits to restart as soon as possible after your release. The toll-free line is open Monday to Friday, 7AM to 7PM. Be prepared to provide your Social Security number and release date. A representative will set a post-release appointment for you at a local Social Security office, ask you to provide official release documents, and tell you what else you need to do.<sup>1757</sup></li> </ul> You can also ask a friend, family member, or trusted advocate to communicate with Social Security about your benefits on your behalf. See Appendix G, PG. 523 for paperwork to complete.<sup>1758</sup>	If you weren't able to do this while incarcerated, call Social Security to report that you were released from prison and want to restart your SSI benefits. A representative will set an appointment for you at a local Social Security office, ask you to bring your official release documents, and tell you what else you need to do. You will also need your social security number.<sup>1759</sup> <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• If your SSI has only been suspended and not terminated, it may take only a month to restart your benefits. If your SSI has been terminated, you may have to file a new application and wait 12-18 months.<sup>1760</sup></li> <li>• In special cases, you may be able to get benefits on the day you walk into the local Social Security office to complete your SSI paperwork. This is possible if (1) your SSI was only suspended and not terminated during incarceration, or you filed a new SSI application while incarcerated and it was approved before your release; and (2) you can show proof of a financial emergency; and (3) you haven't already received benefits for the month.<sup>1761</sup></li> </ul>

HELPFUL HINT SSI Backpayments

You can't get back-payments of SSI for any months you spent incarcerated.<sup>1762</sup> In other words, you can never collect checks you otherwise would have gotten if you weren't incarcerated. But you should be able to collect benefits dating back to your release. So, for example, if you were incarcerated on June 7, 2014 and released on September 7, 2014, your SSI can be restarted as of September 7. You'll be eligible for a partial SSI payment for September and full benefits for October.<sup>1763</sup> If your SSI application is approved pre-release, SSI benefits should be paid to you immediately upon release. If your SSI application is approved post-release, SSI benefits should be paid to you immediately upon approval; and you should get backpayment to the date of your release.<sup>1764</sup>

I BELIEVE MY SSI WAS WRONGLY DENIED OR STOPPED. HOW DO I APPEAL?

Many people who apply for SSI are denied at first, but then get benefits once they appeal. Considering the small odds of getting approved on the first try, be prepared to get denied and to go through the appeals process.<sup>1765</sup> NOTE: The rules and procedures for appealing SSI decisions are the same as for SSDI (described on PG. 486).

If Social Security decides to deny your SSI application, it must mail you a notice of this decision.

- You have a right to appeal. To do so, you must file a Request for Reconsideration within 60 days after the date you got the notice.<sup>1766</sup> You can send it by mail, but it's best to file it in person at a local Social Security office. This way you get a copy with a time-and-date stamp, which proves that you appealed on time.<sup>1767</sup>
- If you miss the 60-day deadline due to factors beyond your control, like illness or hospitalization, file a request for a "good cause exception" to the deadline along with your Request for Reconsideration.<sup>1768</sup>

If Social Security then decides to deny your Request for Reconsideration, it must mail you a notice of this decision.

- Again, you have a right to appeal. To do so, you must file a Request for an Administrative Law Judge Hearing within 60 days after the date you got the notice.<sup>1769</sup>

If you can't afford a lawyer to help with your appeal, you may be able to find free help by contacting a local legal services program, a local bar association referral services, or a local Protection & Advocacy organization.<sup>1770</sup>

VII. VETERANS' BENEFITS

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- What benefits are available to veterans
- Who is eligible to receive veterans benefits
- What effect your criminal history has on your ability to receive veterans benefits
- Whether you can apply for veterans benefits while incarcerated
- The effects of incarceration, if you were already receiving veterans benefits
- What to do if your veterans benefits are reduced or stopped
- What to do if you're disqualified from VA benefits due to your discharge status

The federal Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) provides various benefits to U.S. military veterans, including: disability compensation, pensions, education benefits, vocational and employment services, healthcare benefits, insurance benefits, and survivors' and dependents' benefits.<sup>1771</sup> Here you will learn about how your criminal record and incarceration may affect your access to these benefits. For more detailed and comprehensive information, you should read:

1. The California Veterans Resource Book,<sup>1772</sup> an overview of veterans' resources across the state; and
2. The Guidebook for California Incarcerated Veterans,<sup>1773</sup> a practical resource for pre- and post-release planning. You can also call the VA at 1-800-827-1000 (TDD 1-800-829-4833) with questions and to obtain copies of all these resources.<sup>1774</sup> If you have Internet access, visit www.benefits.va.gov/benefits for further details and downloadable forms; and visit www.ebenefits.va.gov to view your status, access your documents, and apply for VA benefits.

AM I ELIGIBLE FOR VETERANS' (VA) BENEFITS?

Generally, to be eligible for most VA benefits:

- You must have been discharged from active military service,<sup>1775</sup> and
- You must have served the minimum time in service;<sup>1776</sup> and
- Your character of discharge must not be dishonorable or based on bad conduct;<sup>1777</sup> and
- You must not be statutorily barred from all VA benefits because of your reason for discharge
- You must not currently be wanted for an open felony warrant.<sup>1778</sup>

Your basic eligibility for different benefits will also depend on the type of military service you performed, how long you served, and other specific needs or issues you may have.<sup>1779</sup> For more details about benefits you may qualify for, visit a VA regional office, call 1-800-825-1000, visit www.va.gov/benefits, or create an account at www.ebenefits.va.gov.<sup>1780</sup>

VETERAN SERVICE ADVOCATE

In 2014, a new law requires some correctional facilities to refer veterans to a veteran service advocate to help them with reentry community from certain correctional facilities prior to release and a referral to the county Veteran Services Office (VSO) which can assist veterans after release.

INFORMATION ABOUT DISHONORABLE DISCHARGES

Certain dishonorable discharges may bar you from all VA benefits (see PG. 494).<sup>1781</sup> But for some dishonorable discharges, including most situations involving a felony conviction, you might still qualify for benefits if the VA reviews your case and decides your discharge wasn't under dishonorable conditions (see PG. 494) through a “discharge uGrade.”<sup>1782</sup>

More specifically, if you have a discharge status of honorable or general under honorable conditions, you are automatically eligible to apply for most VA Benefits including VA health care, VA Compensation, and VA Pension.<sup>1783</sup> If you have a discharge status of dishonorable or bad conduct (by general court martial) you are likely barred from all VA benefits.<sup>1784</sup> If you have a discharge status of other than honorable (OTH), bad conduct (special court martial), or uncharacterized, the VA is required to make an individual determination as to whether you were discharged or released under conditions other than dishonorable (see PG. 494).<sup>1785</sup> This determination is based solely on your period of service in the military, not conduct or convictions post-service.<sup>1786</sup>

DISHONORABLE CONDITIONS

Under VA regulations, your discharge was issued “under dishonorable conditions” if you were released under any of the following circumstances:

- “acceptance of an undesirable discharge to escape trial by general court-martial”
- “mutiny or spying”
- “an offense involving moral turpitude (generally including conviction of a felony)”;
- “willful and persistent misconduct”;
- “homosexual acts involving aggravated circumstances or factors affecting the performance of duty.”

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET VA BENEFITS?

Yes. You're not eligible for VA compensation, pension, or death benefits if:

- You're currently wanted for an open warrant on a felony charge;
- You're violating a probation or parole condition for a felony sentence;<sup>1787</sup> or
- You have a felony conviction that led to your discharge<sup>1788</sup>—unless and until the VA reviews your case and determines that the circumstances leading to your discharge may have been “other than dishonorable.”<sup>1789</sup>

In addition, for certain VA benefits, your benefit amounts will be restricted or discontinued if you've been incarcerated for 60 or more days for a felony conviction.

IMPORTANT: INFORMATION ABOUT MILITARY SERVICE & DISCHARGE CONDITIONS:

If you served more than one term of active military service, and your discharge for one of the terms was under dishonorable conditions, you may not be eligible for VA benefits based on that term—however, if your discharge for a different term of service ended under honorable conditions, you can still be eligible for VA benefits based on this separate term.<sup>1790</sup>

<sup>1781</sup> Unless it's determined that you were insane at the time you committed the offense, you're barred from benefits if you were released or discharged for any of the following: sentence of a general court-martial; being a conscientious objector; desertion; resignation by an officer for the good of the service; absence without official leave (AWOL) for a continuous period of 180+ days, without compelling circumstances warranting the unauthorized absence; requesting release from service as an alien during a period of hostilities. 38 U.S.C. § 5303; Claims for VA Benefits & Character of Discharge: General Information, U.S. DEP'T OF VETERANS AFFAIRS, http://www.benefits.va.gov/BENEFITS/docs/COD\_Factsheet.pdf.

<sup>1787</sup> 38 U.S.C. § 5313B; C.F.R. 38 §§ 3.665(n), 3.666(e); Federal Benefits for Veterans Dependents & Survivors (2014), U.S. DEP'T OF VETERANS AFFAIRS, www.va.gov/opa/publications/benefits\_book.asp. If the VA believes that you are in violation of probation or parole you must be provided notice by the VA and an opportunity to present evidence, such as evidence that you are not in violation of probation or parole. See VBA Letter 20-14-09 (June 23, 2014). If the VA determines based upon the warrant and evidence that you submitted that you are fleeing from justice or violated a condition of your probation or parole, your benefits will be terminated. See VBA Letter 20-14-09 (June 23, 2014).

Also, if you completed a full term of enlistment, and it didn't end with a formal discharge because you later reenlisted, you can still be eligible for VA benefits based on completion of that first term.<sup>1791</sup>

If you have disabilities that are service-connected, and your discharge was under dishonorable conditions, you may not be eligible for VA disability compensation due to your discharge status. However, as long as your discharge isn't related to a situation that would absolutely disqualify you from VA benefits by law (see PG. 494) you may still be eligible for VA health care benefits (e.g., treatment at a VA medical facility) for those disabilities.<sup>1792</sup>

HOW DO I APPLY FOR VA BENEFITS?

The required forms and steps vary for different types of VA benefits. For most VA benefits, you can submit your application online, by mail, or in person at a Regional Benefit Office.

You can get more details about different VA benefits online, by phone, by mail, or in person:

- Online: Visit the Veterans Benefits Administration website for a list of benefit types, along with links to forms and instructions on how to apply: www.benefits.va.gov/BENEFITS/Applying.asp.
- By phone: Call 1-800-827-1000 for questions about benefits; 1-877-222-8387 for questions about health care.
- By mail: Send a written request to one of the Regional Benefit Offices listed below.
  - Los Angeles Regional Benefit Office: 11000 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles, CA 90024
  - San Diego Regional Benefit Office: 8810 Rio San Diego Drive, San Diego, CA 92108
  - Oakland Regional Benefit Office: 1301 Clay St., North Tower, Oakland, CA 94612
- In person: Visit a Regional Benefit Office listed above, or visit any Intake Site. To find an Intake Site near you, ask a Regional Benefit Office or search the online directory at www.va.gov/directory/guide/home.asp.

CAN I APPLY FOR VA BENEFITS WHILE INCARCERATED?

Yes. Although your eligibility for VA benefits may be limited or cut off during incarceration, there are various VA benefits you can apply for while incarcerated. There are certain benefits you can apply for and receive in full while incarcerated; and there are certain other benefits you should start applying for while incarcerated so that you can access them immediately upon your release. Information about some of these benefits is provided below. Contact the VA at 1-800-827-1000 (TDD 1-800-829-4833) for further details.

Overview of VA benefits You Can (& Can't) Apply for While Incarcerated:
VA Benefits You CAN Apply for:	VA Benefits You CAN'T Apply For:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Service-related disability compensation, disability pensions, dependency benefits, and death benefits<sup>1793</sup></li> <li>• Apportionment of benefits if incarcerated for a non-felony. This means you can ask the VA to pay your dependent(s) some or all of the benefits that you can't receive while incarcerated.<sup>1794</sup> You or your dependent(s) must complete VA Form 21-0788 (see Appendix K, on PG. 542)<sup>1795</sup> and submit it to a VA Regional Office.<sup>1796</sup></li> <li>• You CAN apply for education benefits while incarcerated:           <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>○ For a non-felony, you can get full monthly education benefits.<sup>1797</sup></li> <li>○ For a felony, you can get benefits to cover the costs of your tuition, fees, and necessary books</li> </ul> </li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• You can't apply for or receive any non-service-related pension benefits while incarcerated for a felony.</li> </ul>

<sup>1791</sup> For example, if an individual enlisted for three years, completed the three years and reenlisted for two more years, then received a discharge under other than honorable conditions during the second enlistment, VA benefits may be provided based on the first period of service, even if it is determined that the character of discharge of the second period of service is a bar to benefits. See Claims for VA Benefits & Character of Discharge, U.S. DEP'T OF VETERANS AFFAIRS, www.benefits.va.gov/BENEFITS/docs/COD\_Factsheet.pdf

Even if you are incarcerated, the VA is obligated to provide you with a compensation and pension examination when one is required (see VA Fast Letter 11-22, Examinations for Incarcerated Veterans and Veterans Health Administration (Sept. 8, 2011)). You have the right to have a medical professional perform the examination at the facility where you are incarcerated (see Bolton v. Brown, 8 Vet. App. 185 (1995)).

Pre-release steps for securing VA health care (& other benefits):

- Meet with your region's Re-entry Specialist. Every region of the U.S. has a VA Re-entry Specialist who can help determine your eligibility for VA benefits. He/she can also help you enroll, restart disability benefits, getting your DD-214 (explained below), and connecting you with services. Your region's Re-entry Specialist should be scheduled to visit your facility at least yearly.
- Enroll with the VA. Do this by visiting with a Re-entry Specialist, OR by submitting a VA Form 10-10EZ by mail (see copy of form in Appendix L, PG. 542). If your release date is within 6 months and you haven't seen a Re-entry Specialist, enroll by mail to ensure timely access to services. To request a form, write to a VA Enrollment Office near your place of release (directory online at <http://www.va.gov/directory/guide>), and mail back your completed form with "VA Enrollment" written on the envelope.
- Get a copy of your "DD-214: Report of Separation." Have this ready before release. This is your proof of military service, and it's a key to your access to job opportunities, community resources, and health care. To request your DD-214, write to: National Personnel Records Center; 1 Archives Drive; St. Louis, MO 63136.
- File for service-related disability compensation or disability pension, if that applies to you.<sup>1799</sup>

<sup>1798</sup> If another government program is covering part of these costs, you can apply for VA benefits to cover the rest. See Health Care for Re-entry Veterans Services & Resources, U.S. DEP'T OF VETERANS AFFAIRS, www.va.gov/homeless/reentry.asp; Guidebook for California Incarcerated Veterans, 4th ed. (July 2013), U.S. DEP'T OF VETERANS AFFAIRS, www.va.gov/HOMELESS/docs/Reentry/09\_ca.pdf.

VA programs that can help you plan & navigate reentry:

- Health Care for Re-entry Veterans offers outreach, support, and information to veterans in state or federal prison who are at risk of homelessness upon release. To reach an HCRV Specialist near you, call VA's health care line (1-877-222-8387); or check the directory on HCRV's online page.<sup>1800</sup>
- Veterans Justice Outreach offers outreach, support, and information to veterans who are under arrest, under supervision of treatment courts, or in county jail and at risk of homelessness upon release. To reach a VJO Specialist near you, call VA's health care line (1-877-222-8387); or check the directory on VJO's online page.<sup>1801</sup>
- Homeless Veterans Outreach (HVO) offers outreach, support, and information to veterans who are involved in the criminal justice system. HVO can help you apply for benefits and refer you to services that meet your needs. To reach an HVO Coordinator near you, call the VA's National Call Center for Homeless Veterans at 1-877-424-3838.<sup>1802</sup>

NOT INCARCERATED?

If you're participating in a work-release program, living in a halfway house, or under community supervision as part of your felony sentence, the VA considers you NOT incarcerated.

I WAS RECEIVING VA BENEFITS BEFORE I GOT ARRESTED. WHAT HAPPENS TO THEM WHILE I'M INCARCERATED?

It depends. Until you're convicted, there's no problem: if you're in jail awaiting trial, you're presumed innocent, and still entitled to VA benefits.<sup>1803</sup> Once convicted, your ability to get VA benefits depends on your conviction and the length of your incarceration.<sup>1804</sup>

For non-service-related pensions:

- If you're incarcerated for a felony or misdemeanor, you should keep getting regular pension payments for the first 60 days of incarceration. If you're released on or before the 60th day, your payments should continue without interruption. But starting on the 61st day of incarceration, payments get cut off. After release, you may be able to restart your payments if you're eligible at that time (details on PG. 498).<sup>1805</sup>

For health care benefits:

- If you're incarcerated for any conviction, you don't lose eligibility for VA health care; but the VA won't provide this care while you're incarcerated, since the correctional facility has the duty to provide care to you.<sup>1806</sup> After release, you should be able to apply for and receive VA health care benefits again (details on PG. 498).<sup>1807</sup>

For service-related disability compensation:

- If you're incarcerated for a misdemeanor, you should keep getting your regular disability payments.
- If you're incarcerated for a felony, you should keep getting regular disability payments for the first 60 days of incarceration. If you're released on or before the 60th day, your payments should continue without interruption. But starting on the 61st day of incarceration, payments get reduced: if your disability rating was 20% or higher before incarceration, it should drop to 10%; if it was 10% before, it should be cut in half. After release, you may be able to restore your payments based on how severe your disability is at that time (see details on PG. 498).<sup>1808</sup>

Even though you only receive a portion of your service-related benefit while incarcerated, the balance, or full amount, of the benefit may be “apportioned” to your family member during the period of incarceration.<sup>1809</sup> For example, if you are 50% service-connected, you would only be entitled to receive 10% while incarcerated. However, your family may be apportioned the remaining 40% of the benefit.

Either you or your family member may apply for apportionment using VA Form 21-0788. The amount apportioned will be determined based on need. In determining need, the VA considers factors such as the appointee’s income, living expenses and any other relevant factors. Apportionment may not be granted retroactively.

IMPORTANT: Notifying the VA about Your Incarceration and Release:

- You are required to notify the VA when you go to jail or prison. The VA needs to know whether and when to reduce or stop your benefits. If you receive larger or more VA payments than you’re legally entitled to receive while incarcerated, the VA will require that you eventually repay the total amount that you should not have received—your “overpayment.” Basically, after you’re released from incarceration and once again eligible for benefits, the VA will withhold all your benefits until the overpayment is paid off.<sup>1810</sup>
- You should notify the VA within a year after your release—in advance, if possible. The VA will assume that you remain incarcerated until you submit proof of your release date. The VA needs this proof before it can restore or restart your benefits.<sup>1811</sup>
- The VA periodically identifies people receiving VA benefits who are incarcerated or in violation of parole or probation via listings that it receives from the U. S. Bureau of Prisons (BOP), the Social Security Administration (SSA), and other sources. However, these listings may have errors regarding your dates of incarceration, so it is helpful for you to be in direct contact with the VA to correct any inaccurate information.
- Note, you can use VA Form 21-4193 to notify the VA of your incarceration and release dates. (See copy of form in Appendix M, PG. 547.) If you’re incarcerated, you can get this form from a correctional counselor. If you have Internet access, download the form at www.reginfo.gov/public/do/DownloadDocument?documentID=203887&version=1. You can also call the VA at 1-800-827-1000 and ask that the form be mailed to you. The form must be signed by a correctional official.

MY VA BENEFITS WERE REDUCED OR STOPPED WHILE I WAS INCARCERATED. HOW DO I RESTORE OR RESTART MY VA BENEFITS?

For disability compensation or pension benefits:

- The VA will not automatically resume paying benefits at the full amount once you are released. Once you have a release date, contact the VA as early as 30 days before that date. Provide official proof of your release date, such as VA Form 21-4193 (see Appendix M, PG. 547) or your parole papers.<sup>1812</sup> As long as you notify the VA within one year following your release, you’ll receive benefits dating back to your release date.<sup>1813</sup>
- The VA will backdate your benefits to the date of release if you provide the VA with proof of your release within one year of your release. If you do not provide notification of your release within one year, your benefits will only be retroactive to the date of the notification.<sup>1814</sup>
- You can use VA Form 21-4193 to notify the VA of your incarceration and/or release. (See Appendix M, PG. 547.) If you’re incarcerated, you can get this form from a correctional counselor. If you have Internet access, download the form at www.reginfo.gov/public/do/DownloadDocument?documentID=203887&version=1. #### For health care benefits:

- If you don't have your Veteran Identification Card, and/or if you plan to access services at a VA health care facility you haven't visited before, complete VA Form 10-10EZ (see Appendix L, PG. 542) and send it to that facility. Doing this at least 6 months before your release can help ensure you'll have access to health care when you get out.<sup>1815</sup> You can request this form by calling or writing to any VA health care facility, or by calling 1-877-222-8387.<sup>1816</sup>
- If you have your Veteran Identification Card, and if you plan to access services at a VA health care facility you've visited before, you should be able to access services there without submitting any forms.<sup>1817</sup>

Debts owed to the VA caused by incarceration:

- If you were paid VA benefits after your 61st day of incarceration you may have an overpayment. An overpayment may prevent you from receiving the full benefit amount to which you are entitled after you are released.
- Whenever an overpayment is established in any program under the jurisdiction of the Veterans Benefits Administration, the Debt Management Center (DMC) at the St. Paul, Minnesota, VA Regional Office assumes responsibility over your debt. The VA DMC may be contacted by mail<sup>1818</sup> or by calling 1-800-827-0648.<sup>1819</sup>
- You may request a waiver of your debt.<sup>1820</sup> The VA does not require the use of a specific form to request a waiver.<sup>1821</sup> The time limit for requesting waiver of an overpayment is 180 days from the date you are first advised of the existence of the overpayment and the notification specifies the amount of the debt. A request for waiver should be submitted to the DMC with a completed financial status report using VA Form 20-5655.
- If the VA incorrectly calculated your dates of incarceration, you may challenge the validity of the debt or the effective date of the debt.<sup>1822</sup> There is no official form for disputing the validity of the debt.

I'M DISQUALIFIED FROM VA BENEFITS BECAUSE OF MY NEGATIVE DISCHARGE STATUS. HOW CAN I HAVE MY DISCHARGE STATUS REVIEWED FOR AN UPGRADE?

These requests are rarely granted, so you may want to get help.

If you left the military less than 15 years ago, apply for a "Review of Discharge or Dismissal" using Department of Defense's DD Form 293 (see copy of form in Appendix N, PG. 549).<sup>1823</sup> You can also have the form mailed to you by calling the VA at 1-703-607-1600; or by sending a written request to: Army Review Boards Agency; ATTN: Client Information and Quality Assurance; Arlington, VA 22202-4508. Alternatively, obtain DD Form 293 from a VA regional office, or online at <http://www.usapa.army.mil>.

- The Review Board will grant your uPGrade request only if your discharge reason was "inequitable" (not consistent with the policies and traditions of the service) or "improper" (based on error, or violating a law or regulation). With your application form, include written statements and records that help prove this.<sup>1824</sup>

If you left the military more than 15 years ago, apply for a Correction of Military Records using DD Form 149 (see copy of form in Appendix O, PG. 554).<sup>1825</sup> You can also have the form mailed to you by calling the VA at 1-703-607-1600; or by sending a written request to: Army Review Boards Agency; ATTN: Client Information and

- Generally, you must request a correction within 3 years of discovering an “error” or “injustice” in your record. However, if the Board for Correction finds it is “in the interest of justice” to excuse a late request, it may do so. If your request is late, you must explain why your application was delayed, and why it’s in the interest of justice for the Board to consider it despite the delay. To show it is in the “interest of justice,” explain why it would be unfair for the Board to not consider your request.
- The Board for Correction will grant your request if you show that something in the record is inaccurate or unjust. With your application form, include ALL available evidence that helps to prove this, such as signed witness statements, personnel records, or a brief of arguments supporting the correction.<sup>1826</sup>

Because these applications are rarely granted, consider the following options to get help:

1. Contact a local veteran service organization to see if any staff can help you complete the forms and/or represent you.
2. Find a legal aid lawyer who specializes in discharge reviews.
3. Using the contact information provided on the form (see DD 293 or DD 149, whichever applied to you), contact the Review Board to discuss your case and ask questions.<sup>1827</sup>

IMPORTANT: If you have an undesirable, other than honorable (OTH), or a bad conduct discharge, you may be eligible for VA benefits if the VA determines that your service was “other than dishonorable” through the Character of Discharge administrative process.<sup>1828</sup> You may apply for a Character of Discharge determination by applying for any VA benefit.

- The VA will only consider your time in service in making the determination.<sup>1829</sup>
- You cannot get a favorable determination if you are statutorily barred from benefits.<sup>1830</sup>
- The VA may consider any number of factors in deciding whether to grant a favorable decision, including, your length of service, whether you deployed to a combat zone, whether you were diagnosed with a medical condition prior to or shortly after discharge, and any other relevant factors.<sup>1831</sup>

VIII. LIFELINE CELL PHONE & LANDLINE BENEFITS

WHAT IS THE LIFELINE PHONE PROGRAM?

The LifeLine phone program is a government-funded program that provides free monthly telephone service (cell or landline) to eligible California residents - those for whom California is their permanent home.<sup>1832</sup>

Both the state government and federal government offer LifeLine programs, and if you qualify, you have your choice of participating in either.<sup>1833</sup> In this guide, we discuss only the California LifeLine program, since this guide is a California legal guide.

The California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC) sponsors the California LifeLine program by providing affordable local home telephone service to qualifying low-income persons.<sup>1834</sup>

WHAT BENEFITS WILL THE CALIFORNIA LIFELINE PROGRAM PROVIDE?

If you qualify for the California LifeLine program, you will receive a phone (either a landline or cell phone—your decision) and a service plan with a set amount of minutes; for cell phones, you will also receive a set amount of text messages you can send each month for free.<sup>1835</sup>

You can pay an additional discounted monthly rate if you would like to get extra minutes, texts, or data added to your plan (NOTE: data can be used to access the Internet and e-mail on your cell phone). The cost depends on the carrier company and the amount of extra services you request. Different phone service companies will offer competing plans, and it is up to you to select the provider that best suits your needs.<sup>1836</sup>

A list of California LifeLine providers can be found online at:

https://www.californialifeline.com/en/provider\_search, OR you can call the California LifeLine Call Center for general information about the program at the applicable phone number below. The call center is open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. (Pacific Time), Monday through Friday (closed on federal holidays & weekends).

AM I ELIGIBLE FOR THE CALIFORNIA LIFELINE PROGRAM?

Eligibility for the California Lifeline phone program can be based on one of two different factors: (1) the low-income assistance programs (called program-based eligibility), OR (2) by meeting certain total household income limit requirements (called income-based eligibility). Go to <http://www.cpuc.ca.gov/General.aspx?id=2752#qualify> for a list of federal and state assistance (public benefits) programs that meet the program-based eligibility requirements, and for a chart that explains how much you can make to meet income-based eligibility requirements.

Only one LifeLine telephone line is allowed per “household.” For this program, a “household” member is defined as any adult (over 18 years old or an emancipated minor) living with you and sharing income and household expenses. Go to https://www.californialifeline.com/pdf/household\_worksheets/st\_en\_10\_hh.pdf to view a sample worksheet to help you figure out if you qualify as one “household.”

HOW DO I APPLY FOR THE CALIFORNIA LIFELINE PROGRAM?

STEP 1: First select a participating telephone company. If you already use a specific phone company, it may already participate in the LifeLine program (you can call the company and ask), or you may select a new telephone company that serves your area by searching online at: https://www.californialifeline.com/en/provider\_search.

- o Remember, different phone companies provide different service plans, so you might want to shop around!

STEP 2: The telephone company will give you a Lifeline application form, with an Enrollment Code and/or a Personal Identification Number (PIN) in a pink envelope. To view a copy of a sample California LifeLine application form, go to https://www.californialifeline.com/pdf/new/applications/st\_en\_10\_app\_0114.pdf.

STEP 3: In order to receive the California LifeLine benefits, you must complete this form, sign it, and send it to the California LifeLine Administrator along with any required documents by the due date listed on the form. You may also apply online at <https://www.californialifeline.com/en/login>

STEP 4: Next, the telephone company will confirm your identity and whether you meet the one phone per household requirement, and then process your application.

- o If you have any additional questions about your application, status, or due dates, please call the California LifeLine Administrator’s hotline at 1-866-272-0349.

WHAT DOCUMENTS DO I NEED TO BE FOUND ELIGIBLE?

First, you will need documents that prove who you are (your identity) to the phone company. You may need to show your Social Security card, birth certificate, and/or unexpired driver license. For a complete list of acceptable ID, see www.californialifeline.com, or call 1-877-858-7463. Find a “Sample ID Authentication Form” at https://www.californialifeline.com/pdf/identity/st\_en\_10\_nc\_id\_0915.pdf.<sup>1837</sup>

Second, you will need to prove that you require financial assistance. One way to prove this is to show that you receive public benefits from a qualifying state or federal assistance program. You may need to show a copy of your benefits program agreement or benefit card.<sup>1838</sup>

Finally, if you want to prove your eligibility based on your income, you must provide an official document proving your income—for example, an income statement from an employer, a prior year’s tax return, a Social Security income statement, a Veterans Administration income statement, and/or a document proving you receive unemployment or some other public benefits. See https://www.californialifeline.com/pdf/new/applications/st\_en\_10\_app\_eg\_0615.pdf for a complete list.

CAN MY CRIMINAL BACKGROUND LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET A CALIFORNIA LIFELINE PHONE?

No. Having a criminal record does not affect your eligibility for the California LifeLine phone program.

SPECIAL POLICY NOTE FOR PEOPLE UNDER FEDERAL SUPERVISION (for example, federal probation, supervised release, or federal parole): On September 9, 2014, former U.S. Attorney General Eric Holder announced that all federal halfway houses are required to allow their residents to have cell phones, so that people in reentry can pursue job opportunities and connect with family.<sup>1839</sup> If you are on federal supervision, you must still meet the same standard eligibility requirements for the California LifeLine phone program, just like anyone else.

CAN I APPLY FOR A CALIFORNIA LIFELINE PHONE WHILE INCARCERATED?

No. You are required to provide a residential address (the location where you are living) to apply for the California LifeLine program. Giving just a “P.O. Box” address is insufficient.<sup>1840</sup>

HOW DO I RECEIVE MY PHONE AND LIFELINE BENEFITS?

After you are enrolled in the California LifeLine program, your specific phone carrier will supply you with a phone and instructions on how to activate it. Your benefits will start as soon as you activate your phone.

ONCE ENROLLED, WHAT RULES MUST I FOLLOW TO REMAIN ELIGIBLE?

Aside from meeting the program-based or income-based guidelines, you cannot apply for more than one Lifeline phone per household, as previously discussed.

If you do not follow this rule, you will lose your Lifeline phone and benefits, and you may be prosecuted by the federal government. This also means that you cannot be claimed as a dependent on anybody else’s income tax return, and that you may not transfer your Lifeline discount to anyone else.<sup>1841</sup>

Also, you must recertify yourself as eligible once each year. This can be done either online at www.californialifeline.com using your PIN, or by letter to: California LifeLine Administrator, P.O. Box 8417, Westminster, CA 92684.

See a sample California LifeLine program renewal form at https://www.californialifeline.com/pdf/new/renewals/st\_en\_10\_ren\_0114.pdf.

I BELIEVE MY LIFELINE PHONE WAS WRONGLY DENIED OR WRONGLY STOPPED SERVICE. HOW DO I APPEAL?

You can appeal (challenge) a denial or disqualification (when LifeLine stops your phone service) by calling the California Public Utility Commission’s (CPUC) Consumer Affairs Branch at phone number 1-800-649-7570.

WHAT IF I HAVE ADDITIONAL QUESTIONS OR PROBLEMS?

If you have additional questions, you can contact the California LifeLine Call Center for general information about the program at the applicable phone number below. The call center is open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. (Pacific Time), Monday through Friday (closed on federal holidays & weekends).

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ)	29-33

Covered California is the place where individuals and families can get affordable health insurance. With just one application, you'll find out if you qualify for free or low-cost health insurance, including Medi-Cal.

The state of California created Covered California™ to help you and your family get health insurance.

Having health insurance can give you peace of mind and help make it possible for you to stay healthy. With insurance, you'll know you and your family can get health care when you need it.

Use this application to see what insurance choices you qualify for:

- Free or low-cost insurance from Medi-Cal
  - Low-cost insurance for pregnant women through Access for Infants and Mothers (AIM)
  - Affordable private health insurance plans
  - Help paying for your health insurance
- ➔ You may qualify for a free or low-cost program even if you earn as much as $94,000 a year for a family of 4.
- ➔ You can use this application to apply for anyone in your family, even if they already have insurance now.

Apply faster through Covered California at CoveredCA.com

Or call: 1-800-300-1506 (TTY: 1-888-889-4500)
You can call Monday to Friday, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.,

Things to know

What you need to know when you apply

- Social Security numbers for applicants who are U.S. citizens, or document information for immigrants with satisfactory status who need insurance. Proof of citizenship or immigration status is required only for applicants.
  - Employer and income information for everyone in your family.
  - Your federal tax information. For example, the person who files taxes as head of household and the dependents claimed on your taxes.
  - Information about health insurance that you or any family member gets through a job.
- ➔ We ask about income and other information to make sure you and your family get the most benefits possible.
  - ➔ We keep your information private and secure, as required by law. We'll use your information only to see if you qualify for health insurance.
  - ➔ Families that include immigrants can apply. You can apply for your child even if you aren't eligible for coverage. Applying for your eligible child won't affect your immigration status or chances of becoming a permanent resident or citizen.
  - ➔ If you don't file taxes, you can still qualify for free or low-cost insurance through Medi-Cal.
  - ➔ If you are a federally recognized American Indian or Alaska Native who is getting services from the Indian Health Services, tribal health programs, or urban Indian health programs, you may still qualify for health insurance through Covered California.

Apply faster online

Apply online at CoveredCA.com. It's safe, secure, and fast – and you will get results sooner!

When you're done

Send your completed and signed application to:
Covered California
P.O. Box 989725
West Sacramento, CA 95798-9725

- ➔ If you don't have all the information we ask for, sign and send in your application anyway. We can call you to help you finish your application.
- ➔ Do not send your health insurance plan enrollment payment with this application. Your plan will send you an invoice for the amount you owe.

I understand that I may not retroactively spend my property down in order to reduce its amount and thereby qualify for Medi-Cal.

I understand that I may be asked to prove my statements but that the county is required by law to keep them confidential, and that if dissatisfied, I have a right to a fair hearing. I understand that if I deliberately make false statements or withhold information, I can be prosecuted for fraud.

IF YOU WERE ELIGIBLE FOR MEDI-CAL ANYTIME SINCE JUNE 27, 1997, OR ARE ELIGIBLE NOW, MEDI-CAL MAY REIMBURSE YOU FOR MEDICAL OR DENTAL BILLS YOU PAID

Conlan v. Bontá; Conlan v. Shewry

As the result of two court decisions, you may be able to be repaid for some medical expenses you paid. The Department of Health Care Services (DHCS) will assist you in getting your money back if all criteria below are met:

1. You received a medically necessary medical or dental service during one or all of these time periods:
  - ✓ The 3-month period prior to the month you applied for the Medi-Cal program,
  - ✓ From the date you applied for the Medi-Cal program until the date your Medi-Cal card was issued,
  - ✓ After your Medi-Cal card was issued (includes excess co-payment and excess share of cost charges).
2. You paid for your medical or dental service; or another person paid for your medical or dental service on your behalf. You will be asked to provide proof that the medical or dental service was paid for by you or the other person.
3. You received the medical or dental service from a Medi-Cal enrolled provider (note: you do not need to have received the service from a Medi-Cal enrolled provider if you received the medical or dental service during the 3-month period prior to applying to Medi-Cal, or you received the services on or after June 27, 1997 but before February 2, 2006 and you had applied for Medi-Cal but not yet received a Medi-Cal card).
4. For those Medi-Cal services that were provided and would have required Medi-Cal authorization, you have documentation from the medical or dental provider that shows medical necessity for the service.
5. You were Medi-Cal eligible to receive that specific medical or dental service.
6. The medical or dental service was a benefit under the Medi-Cal program.
7. The medical or dental service was provided on or after June 27, 1997.
8. After you received your Medi-Cal card, you contacted your provider and showed your provider your Medi-Cal card and the provider would not give you your money back.

Important dates and time frames:

- For services received June 27, 1997, through November 16, 2006, you must submit your claim by November 16, 2007, or within 90 days after issuance of the Medi-Cal card, which ever is longer.
- For services received on or after November 16, 2006, you must submit your claim within one year of receipt of services, or within 90 days after issuance of the Medi-Cal card, which ever is longer.

For more information or to file a claim, you MUST call or write to Medi-Cal at:

For Medical, Mental Health, Drug and Alcohol, and In-Home Support Services Claims: Department of Health Care Services Beneficiary Services P.O. Box 138008 Sacramento, CA 95813-8008 (916) 403-2007 TDD: (916) 635-6491	For Dental Claims:  Denti-Cal Beneficiary Services P.O. ---	--

--DON'T FORGET TO KEEP ALL RECEIPTS FOR THE MEDICAL AND DENTAL CARE YOU RECEIVE --

Medi-Cal will review your claim for repayment and send you a letter with a check or a denial letter that tells you the reason for denial. If Medi-Cal denies your request for payment, you may ask for a state hearing. The denial letter will tell you how to ask for a state hearing.

Medicare/Medi-Cal Coverage: Starting January 1, 2006, medications covered under Medicare Part D will not be a covered benefit under the Medi-Cal Program and are not eligible for reimbursement. For questions regarding Medicare Part D contact 1-800-Medicare.

Section 1: Appointment of Representative

To be completed by the party seeking representation (i.e., the Medicare beneficiary, the provider or the supplier):

I appoint this individual, _____ to act as my representative in connection with my claim or asserted right under title XVIII of the Social Security Act (the "Act") and related provisions of title XI of the Act. I authorize this individual to make any request; to present or to elicit evidence; to obtain appeals information; and to receive any notice in connection with my appeal, wholly in my stead. I understand that personal medical information related to my appeal may be disclosed to the representative indicated below.

Signature of Party Seeking Representation	Date
Street Address	Phone Number (with Area Code)
City	State	Zip Code

Section 2: Acceptance of Appointment

To be completed by the representative:

I, _____, hereby accept the above appointment. I certify that I have not been disqualified, suspended, or prohibited from practice before the department of Health and Human Services; that I am not, as a current or former employee of the United States, disqualified from acting as the party's representative; and that I recognize that any fee may be subject to review and approval by the Secretary.

I am a / an _____
(Professional status or relationship to the party, e.g. attorney, relative, etc.)

Signature of Representative	Date
Street Address	Phone Number (with Area Code)
City	State	Zip Code

Section 3: Waiver of Fee for Representation

Instructions: This section must be completed if the representative is required to, or chooses to waive their fee for representation. (Note that providers or suppliers that are representing a beneficiary and furnished the items or services may not charge a fee for representation and must complete this section.)

I waive my right to charge and collect a fee for representing _____ before the Secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services.

Signature	Date

Section 4: Waiver of Payment for Items or Services at Issue

Instructions: Providers or suppliers serving as a representative for a beneficiary to whom they provided items or services must complete this section if the appeal involves a question of liability under section 1879(a)(2) of the Act. (Section 1879(a)(2) generally addresses whether a provider/supplier or beneficiary did not know, or could not reasonably be expected to know, that the items or services at issue would not be covered by Medicare.)

I waive my right to collect payment from the beneficiary for the items or services at issue in this appeal if a determination of liability under §1879(a)(2) of the Act is at issue.

Signature	Date

Charging of Fees for Representing Beneficiaries Before the Secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services

An attorney, or other representative for a beneficiary, who wishes to charge a fee for services rendered in connection with an appeal before the Secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) (i.e., an Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) hearing, Medicare Appeals Council review, or a proceeding before an ALJ or the Medicare Appeals Council as a result of a remand from federal district court) is required to obtain approval of the fee in accordance with 42 CFR §405.910(f).

The form, "Petition to Obtain Representative Fee" elicits the information required for a fee petition. It should be completed by the representative and filed with the request for ALJ hearing or request for Medicare Appeals Council review. Approval of a representative's fee is not required if: (1) the appellant being represented is a provider or supplier; (2) the fee is for services rendered in an official capacity such as that of legal guardian, committee, or similar court appointed representative and the court has approved the fee in question; (3) the fee is for representation of a beneficiary in a proceeding in federal district court; or (4) the fee is for representation of a beneficiary in a redetermination or reconsideration. If the representative wishes to waive a fee, he or she may do so. Section III on the front of this form can be used for that purpose. In some instances, as indicated on the form, the fee must be waived for representation

Authorization of Fee

The requirement for the approval of fees ensures that a representative will receive fair value for the services performed before DHHS on behalf of a beneficiary, and provides the beneficiary with a measure of security that the fees are determined to be reasonable. In approving a requested fee, the ALJ or Medicare Appeals Council will consider the nature and type of services rendered, the complexity of the case, the level of skill and competence required in rendition of the services, the amount of time spent on the case, the results achieved, the level of administrative review to which the representative carried the appeal and the amount of the fee requested by the representative.

Conflict of Interest

Sections 203, 205 and 207 of title XVIII of the United States Code make it a criminal offense for certain officers, employees and former officers and employees of the United States to render certain services in matters affecting the Government or to aid or assist in the prosecution of claims against the United States. Individuals with a conflict of interest are excluded from being representatives of beneficiaries before DHHS.

Where to Send This Form

Send this form to the same location where you are sending (or have already sent): (1) your appeal if you are filing an appeal, (2) grievance if you are filing a grievance, or (3) initial determination or decision if you are requesting an initial determination or decision.

If additional help is needed, contact your Medicare plan or 1-800-MEDICARE (1-800-633-4227).

Cobro de Honorarios por Representación de Beneficiarios ante el Secretario(a) del Departamento de Salud y Servicios Humanos

Un abogado u otro representante de un beneficiario, que desee cobrar un honorario por los servicios prestados en relación con una apelación ante el Secretario(a) del Departamento de Salud y Servicios Humanos (DHHS en inglés) (por ejemplo, una audiencia con un Juez de Derecho Administrativo (ALJ en inglés), una revisión con el Consejo de Apelaciones de Medicare o un proceso ante un ALJ o el Consejo de Apelaciones de Medicare como resultado de una orden de remisión del la Corte de Distrito Federal) debe, por ley obtener aprobación para recibir un honorario de acuerdo con 42 CFR §405.910(f).

Mediante este formulario, "Solicitud para obtener un honorario por concepto de representación" se recaba la información necesaria para solicitar el pago de honorario. Debe ser completado por el representante y presentado con la solicitud para audiencia con el ALJ o revisión del Consejo de Apelaciones de Medicare.

La aprobación de honorarios para el representante no es necesaria si: (1) el apelante es representado por un proveedor o suplidor; (2) prestados en calidad oficial como un tutor legal, comité o cargo similar representante designado por el tribunal y con la aprobación del tribunal del honorario en cuestión; (3) el honorario es por representación del beneficiario ante la corte de distrito federal; o (4) el honorario es por representación del beneficiario en una redeterminación o reconsideración. Si el representante desea renunciar al cobro de un honorario, puede hacerlo. La sección 3 en la primera página de este formulario puede usarse para ese propósito. En algunas instancias, según se indica en el formulario, no se cobrará el honorario por concepto de representación.

Autorización de Honorarios

El requisito para la aprobación de honorarios garantiza que el representante recibirá una remuneración justa por los servicios prestados ante DHHS en nombre de un beneficiario y brinda al beneficiario la seguridad de que los honorarios sean razonables. Para la aprobación de un honorario solicitado, el ALJ o el Consejo de Apelaciones de Medicare considera la naturaleza y el tipo de servicios prestados, la complejidad del caso, el nivel de pericia y capacidad necesaria para la prestación de servicios, la cantidad de tiempo dedicado al caso, los resultados alcanzados, el nivel de revisión administrativa al cual el representante llevó la apelación y el monto del honorario solicitado por el representante.

Conflicto de Interés

Las secciones 203, 205 y 207 del título XVIII del Código de Estados Unidos consideran como un delito penal cuando ciertos funcionarios, empleados y antiguos funcionarios y empleados de los Estados Unidos prestan ciertos servicios en temas que afectan al Gobierno, ayudan o asisten en el procesamiento de reclamaciones contra los Estados Unidos. Los individuos con un conflicto de interés quedarán excluidos de ser representantes de los beneficiarios ante DHHS.

Dónde Enviar este Formulario

Envíe este formulario al mismo lugar que está enviando (o ha enviado) su: (1) apelación si está solicitándola, (2) queja, (3) determinación o decisión inicial si está solicitando una determinación inicial o decisión. Si necesita ayuda, comuníquese con su plan de Medicare o llame al 1-800-MEDICARE (1-800-633-4227).

---

De acuerdo con la Ley de Reducción de Papeleo de 1995, no se le requiere a ninguna persona responder a una recopilación de información a menos de que presente un número de control válido OMB. El número de OMB para esta recopilación es 0938-0950. El tiempo requerido para completar este formulario es de 15 minutos por notificación, incluyendo el tiempo necesario para seleccionar el formulario pre-impreso, completarlo y entregárselo al beneficiario. Si tiene comentarios sobre el tiempo estimado para completarlo o sugerencias para mejorar este formulario, favor de escribir a: CMS, PRA Clearance Officer, 7500 Security Boulevard, Baltimore, MD 21244-1850.

INFORMATION FOR CLAIMANTS

---

What Your Representative(s) May Do

We will work directly with your appointed representative unless he or she asks us to work directly with you. Your representative may:

- get information from your claim(s) file;
- with your permission, designate associates who perform administrative duties (e.g. clerks), partners and/or parties under contractual arrangements (e.g., copying services) to receive information from us on his or her behalf (by checking the appropriate block and signing this form, you are providing your permission for your representative to designate such associates, partners, and/or contractual parties);
- give us evidence or information to support your claim;
- come with you, or for you, to any interview, conference, or hearing you have with us;
- request a reconsideration, a hearing, or Appeals Council review; and
- help you and your witnesses prepare for a hearing and question any witnesses.

Also, your representative will receive a copy of the decision(s) we make on your claim(s). We will rely on your representative to tell you about the status of your claim(s), but you still may call or visit us for information.

You and your representative(s) are responsible for giving Social Security accurate information. It is wrong to knowingly and willingly furnish false information. Doing so may result in criminal prosecution.

We usually continue to work with your representative until (1) you notify us in writing that he or she no longer represents you; or (2) your representative tells us that he or she is withdrawing or indicates that his or her services have ended (for example, by filing a fee petition or not pursuing an appeal). We do not continue to work with someone who is suspended or disqualified from representing claimants. We will inform you if we suspend your representative.

What Your Representative(s) May Charge

Each representative you appoint can ask for a fee. To charge you a fee for services, your representative must get our authorization if you or another individual will pay the fee. However, as described in "Completing this form to appoint a representative, Part III Fee Arrangement" section of this form, under certain circumstances, we do not have to authorize the representative's fee. To request a fee, your representative must file a fee agreement or a fee petition. In either case, your representative cannot charge you more than the fee amount we authorize. If he or she does, promptly report this to your Social Security office.

Filing A Fee Petition

Your representative may file a fee petition when his or her work on your claim(s) is complete. This written request describes in detail the amount of time your representative spent on each service he or she provided you. The request also gives the amount of the fee the representative wants to charge for these services. Your representative must give you a copy of the fee petition and each attachment. If you disagree with the information shown in the fee petition, contact your Social Security office. Please do this within 20 days of receiving your copy of the petition.

We will review the petition and consider the reasonable value of the services provided. Then we will tell you in writing the amount of the fee we authorize.

Filing A Fee Agreement

If you and your representative have a written fee agreement, one of you must give it to us before we decide your claim(s). We usually will approve the agreement if:

- you both signed it;
- the fee you agreed on is no more than 25 percent of past-due benefits, or $6,000 (or a higher amount we set and announced in the Federal Register), whichever is less;
- we approve your claim(s); and
- your claim results in past-due benefits.

We will tell you in writing the amount of the fee your representative can charge based on the agreement.

If we do not approve the fee agreement, we will tell you and your representative in writing. If your representative wishes to charge and collect a fee, he or she must file a fee petition.

After we tell you the amount of the fee your representative can charge, you or your representative can ask us to look at it again if either or both of you disagree with the amount. If we approved a fee agreement, the person who decided your claim(s) also may ask us to lower the amount. Someone who did not decide the amount of the fee the first time will review and finally decide the amount of the fee.

How Much You Pay

You never owe more than the fee we authorize, except for:

- any fee a Federal court allows for your representative's services before it; and
- out-of-pocket expenses your representative incurs or expects to incur, for example, the cost of getting your doctor's or hospital's records. Our authorization is not needed for such expenses.

Your representative may accept money in advance as long as he or she holds it in a trust or escrow account. We usually withhold 25 percent of your past-due benefits to pay toward the fee for you if:

- your retirement, survivors, disability insurance, and/or supplemental security income claim(s) results in past-due benefits;
- your representative is an attorney or a non-attorney whom we have determined to be eligible to receive direct payment of fees; and
- your representative registers with us for direct payment before we effectuate a favorable decision on your claim.

You must pay your representative directly:

- the rest of the fee you owe, if the amount of the authorized fee is more than the money we withheld and paid to your representative for you plus any amount your representative held for you in a trust or escrow account.
- all of the fee you owe, if we did not withhold past-due benefits, (for example, because there are no past-due benefits; your representative waived direct payment, did not register for direct payment, you discharged the representative, or he or she withdrew from representing you, before we issued a favorable decision); or we withheld an amount from your past-due benefits, but your representative did not ask us to authorize a fee or tell us that he or she planned to ask for a fee within 60 days after the date of your notice of award and we released the withheld amount to you.

Explanation of Form SSA-827,
"Authorization to Disclose Information to the Social Security Administration (SSA)"

We need your written authorization to help get the information required to process your claim, and to determine your capability of managing benefits. Laws and regulations require that sources of personal information have a signed authorization before releasing it to us. Also, laws require specific authorization for the release of information about certain conditions and from educational sources.

You can provide this authorization by signing a form SSA-827. Federal law permits sources with information about you to release that information if you sign a single authorization to release all your information from all your possible sources. We will make copies of it for each source. A covered entity (that is, a source of medical information about you) may not condition treatment, payment, enrollment, or eligibility for benefits on whether you sign this authorization form. A few States, and some individual sources of information, require that the authorization specifically name the source that you authorize to release personal information. In those cases, we may ask you to sign one authorization for each source and we may contact you again if we need you to sign more authorizations.

You have the right to revoke this authorization at any time, except to the extent a source of information has already relied on it to take an action. To revoke, send a written statement to any Social Security Office. If you do, also send a copy directly to any of your sources that you no longer wish to disclose information about you; SSA can tell you if we identified any sources you didn't tell us about. SSA may use information disclosed prior to revocation to decide your claim.

It is SSA's policy to provide service to people with limited English proficiency in their native language or preferred mode of communication consistent with Executive Order 13166 (August 11, 2000) and the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act. SSA makes every reasonable effort to ensure that the information in the SSA-827 is provided to you in your native or preferred language.

Privacy Act Statement
Collection and Use of Personal Information

Sections 205(a), 233(d)(5)(A), 1614(a)(3)(H)(i), 1631(d)(l) and 1631(e)(l)(A) of the Social Security Act as amended, [42 U.S.C. 405(a), 433(d)(5)(A), 1382c(a)(3)(H)(i), 1383(d)(l) and 1383(e)(l)(A)] authorize us to collect this information. We will use the information you provide to help us determine your eligibility, or continuing eligibility for benefits, and your ability to manage any benefits received. The information you provide is voluntary. However, failure to provide the requested information may prevent us from making an accurate and timely decision on your claim, and could result in denial or loss of benefits.

We rarely use the information you provide on this form for any purpose other than for the reasons explained above. However, we may use it for the administration and integrity of Social Security programs. We may also disclose information to another person or to another agency in accordance with approved routine uses, including but not limited to the following:

1. To enable a third party or an agency to assist us in establishing rights to Social Security benefits and/or coverage;
2. To comply with Federal laws requiring the release of information from our records (e.g., to the Government Accountability Office, General Services Administration, National Archives Records Administration, and the Department of Veterans Affairs);
3. To make determinations for eligibility in similar health and income maintenance programs at the Federal, State, and local level; and
4. To facilitate statistical research, audit, or investigative activities necessary to assure the integrity and improvement of our programs (e.g., to the U.S. Census Bureau and to private entities under contract with us).

We may also use the information you provide in computer matching programs. Matching programs compare our records with records kept by other Federal, State, or local government agencies. We use the information from these programs to establish or verify a person's eligibility for Federally funded or administered benefit programs and for repayment of incorrect payments or delinquent debts under these programs.

A complete list of routine uses of the information you gave us is available in our Privacy Act Systems of Records Notices entitled, Claims Folder System, 60-0089; Master Beneficiary Record, 60-0090; Supplemental Security Income record and Special Veterans benefits, 60-0103; and Electronic Disability (eDIB) Claims File, 60-0340. The notices, additional information regarding this form, and information regarding our systems and programs, are available on-line at www.socialsecurity.gov or at any Social Security office.

Paperwork Reduction Act Statement - This information collection meets the requirements of 44 U.S.C. § 3507, as amended by section 2 of the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995. You do not need to answer these questions unless we display a valid Office of Management and Budget control number. We estimate that it will take about 10 minutes to read the instructions, gather the facts, and answer the questions. SEND OR BRING THE COMPLETED FORM TO YOUR LOCAL SOCIAL SECURITY OFFICE. You can find your local Social Security office through SSA's website at www.socialsecurity.gov. Offices are also listed under U.S. Government agencies in your telephone directory or you may call Social Security at 1-800-772-1213 (TTY 1-800-325-0778). You may send comments on our time estimate above to: SSA, 6401 Security Blvd, Baltimore, MD 21235-6401. Send only comments relating to our time estimate to this address, not the completed form.

PENALTY - The law provides severe penalties which include fine or imprisonment or both, for the willful submission of any statement or evidence of a material fact, knowing it is false, or fraudulent acceptance of any payment to which you are not entitled.

PRIVACY ACT INFORMATION - The VA will not disclose information collected on this form to any source other than what has been authorized under the Privacy Act of 1974 or Title 38, Code of Federal Regulations 1.576 for routine uses (i.e., civil or criminal law enforcement, congressional communications, epidemiological or research studies, the collection of money owed to the United States, litigation in which the United States is a party or has an interest, the administration of VA programs and delivery of VA benefits, verification of identity and status, and personnel administration) as identified in the VA system of records, 58VA 21/22/28, Compensation, Pension, Education and Vocational Rehabilitation and Employment Records - VA, published in the Federal Register. Your obligation to respond is required to obtain or retain benefits. The requested information is considered relevant and necessary to determine maximum benefits under the law. The responses you submit are considered confidential (38 U.S.C. 5701). Information submitted is subject to verification through computer matching programs with other agencies.

RESPONDENT BURDEN - We need this information to determine whether an apportionment of VA disability or death benefits may be made (38 U.S.C. 5307). Title 38, United States Code, allows us to ask for this information. We estimate that you will need an average of 30 minutes to review the instructions, find the information, and complete this form. VA cannot conduct or sponsor a collection of information unless a valid OMB control number is displayed. You are not required to respond to a collection of information if this number is not displayed. Valid OMB control numbers can be located on the OMB Internet Page at www.reginfo.gov/public/do/PRAMain. If desired, you can call 1-800-827-1000 to get information on where to send comments or suggestions about this form.

APPENDIX L

Department of Veterans Affairs “Application for Health Benefits” - VA Form 10-10EZ

See next page.

This form is also available at:

<http://www.va.gov/vaforms/medical/pdf/vha-1010EZ-fill.pdf>

INSTRUCTIONS FOR COMPLETING ENROLLMENT APPLICATION FOR HEALTH BENEFITS*Please Read Before You Start . . . What is VA Form 10-10EZ used for?

For Veterans to apply for enrollment in the VA health care system. The information provided on this form will be used by VA to determine your eligibility for medical benefits and on average will take 30 minutes to complete. This includes the time it will take to read instructions, gather the necessary facts and fill out the form.

Where can I get help filling out the form and if I have questions?

You may use ANY of the following to request assistance:

- Ask VA to help you fill out the form by calling us at 1-877-222-VETS (8387).
- Access VA's website at <http://www.va.gov> and select "Contact the VA."
- Contact the Enrollment Coordinator at your local VA health care facility.
- Contact a National or State Veterans Service Organization.

Definitions of terms used on this form:

SERVICE-CONNECTED (SC): A VA determination that an illness or injury was incurred or aggravated in the line of duty, in the active military, naval or air service.

COMPENSABLE: A VA determination that a service-connected disability is severe enough to warrant monetary compensation.

NONCOMPENSABLE: A VA determination that a service-connected disability is not severe enough to warrant monetary compensation.

NONSERVICE-CONNECTED (NSC): A Veteran who does not have a VA determined service-related condition.

Getting Started:

ALL VETERANS MUST COMPLETE SECTIONS I - III.

Directions for Sections I - III:

Section I - General Information: Answer all questions.

Section II - Military Service Information: If you are not currently receiving benefits from VA, you may attach a copy of your discharge or separation papers from the military (such as DD-214 or, for WWII Veterans, a "WD" Form), with your signed application to expedite processing of your application. If you are currently receiving benefits from VA, we will cross-reference your information with VA data.

Section III - Insurance Information: Include information for all health insurance companies that cover you, this includes coverage provided through a spouse or significant other. Bring your insurance cards, Medicare and/or Medicaid card with you to each health care appointment.

Directions for Sections IV-VI:

Financial Disclosure: ONLY NSC AND 0% NONCOMPENSABLE SC VETERANS MUST COMPLETE THIS SECTION TO DETERMINE ELIGIBILITY AND COPAY RESPONSIBILITY FOR VA HEALTH CARE ENROLLMENT AND/OR CARE OR SERVICES.

Financial Disclosure Requirements Do Not Apply To:

- a former Prisoner of War; or
- those in receipt of a Purple Heart; or
- a recently discharged Combat Veteran; or
- those discharged for a disability incurred or aggravated in the line of duty; or
- those receiving VA SC disability compensation; or
- those receiving VA pension; or
- those in receipt of Medicaid benefits; or
- those who served in Vietnam between January 9, 1962 and May 7, 1975; or
- those who served in SW Asia during the Gulf War between August 2, 1990 and November 11, 1998; or
- those who served at least 30 days at Camp Lejeune between August 1, 1953 and December 31, 1987.

You are not required to disclose your financial information; however, VA is not currently enrolling new applicants who decline to provide their financial information unless they have other qualifying eligibility factors. If a financial assessment is not used to determine your priority for enrollment you may choose not to disclose your information. However, if a financial assessment is used to determine your eligibility for cost-free medication, travel assistance or waiver of the travel deductible, and you do not disclose your financial information, you will not be eligible for these benefits.

Continued ...

Section IV - Dependent Information: Include the following:

- Your spouse even if you did not live together, as long as you contributed support last calendar year.
- Your biological children, adopted children, and stepchildren who are unmarried and under the age of 18, or at least 18 but under 23 and attending high school, college or vocational school (full or part-time), or became permanently unable to support themselves before age 18.
- Child support contributions. Contributions can include tuition or clothing payments or payments of medical bills.

Section V - Previous Calendar Year Gross Annual Income of Veteran, Spouse and Dependent Children.

Report:

- Gross annual income from employment, except for income from your farm, ranch, property or business. Include your wages, bonuses, tips, severance pay and other accrued benefits and your child's income information if it could have been used to pay your household expenses.
- Net income from your farm, ranch, property, or business.
- Other income amounts, including retirement and pension income, Social Security Retirement and Social Security Disability income, compensation benefits such as VA disability, unemployment, Workers and black lung, cash gifts, interest and dividends, including tax exempt earnings and distributions from Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs) or annuities.

Section VI - Previous Calendar Year Deductible Expenses.

Report non-reimbursed medical expenses paid by you or your spouse. Include expenses for medical and dental care, drugs, eyeglasses, Medicare, medical insurance premiums and other health care expenses paid by you for dependents and persons for whom you have a legal or moral obligation to support. Do not list expenses if you expect to receive reimbursement from insurance or other sources. Report last illness and burial expenses, e.g., prepaid burial, paid by the Veteran for spouse or dependent(s).

Section VII - Submitting your application.

1. Read Paperwork Reduction and Privacy Act Information, Section VIII Consent to Copays and Assignment of Benefits.
2. In Section VIII, you or an individual to whom you have delegated your Power of Attorney must sign and date the form. If you sign with an "X", 2 people you know must witness you as you sign. They must sign the form and print their names. If the form is not signed and dated appropriately, VA will return it for you to complete.
3. Attach any continuation sheets, a copy of supporting materials and your Power of Attorney documents to your application.

Where do I send my application?

Atlanta, GA 30329.

PAPERWORK REDUCTION ACT AND PRIVACY ACT INFORMATION

The Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 requires us to notify you that this information collection is in accordance with the clearance requirements of Section 3507 of the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995. We may not conduct or sponsor, and you are not required to respond to, a collection of information unless it displays a valid OMB number. We anticipate that the time expended by all individuals who must complete this form will average 30 minutes. This includes the time it will take to read instructions, gather the necessary facts and fill out the form.

Privacy Act Information: VA is asking you to provide the information on this form under 38 U.S.C. Sections 1705, 1710, 1712, and 1722 in order for VA to determine your eligibility for medical benefits. Information you supply may be verified from initial submission forward through a computer-matching program. VA may disclose the information that you put on the form as permitted by law. VA may make a "routine use" disclosure of the information as outlined in the Privacy Act systems of records notices and in accordance with the VHA Notice of Privacy Practices. Providing the requested information is voluntary, but if any or all of the requested information is not provided, it may delay or result in denial of your request for health care benefits. Failure to furnish the information will not have any effect on any other benefits to which you may be entitled. If you provide VA your Social Security Number, VA will use it to administer your VA benefits. VA may also use this information to identify Veterans and persons claiming or receiving VA benefits and their records, and for other purposes authorized or required by law.

I hereby authorize payment directly to VA from any HP under which I am covered (including coverage provided under my spouse's HP) that is responsible for payment of the charges for my medical care, including benefits otherwise payable to me or my spouse. Furthermore, I hereby assign to the VA any claim I may have against any person or entity who is or may be legally responsible for the payment of the cost of medical services provided to me by the VA. I understand that this assignment shall not limit or prejudice my right to recover for my own benefit any amount in excess of the cost of medical services provided to me by the VA or any other amount to which I may be entitled. I hereby appoint the Attorney General of the United States and the Secretary of Veterans' Affairs and their designees as my Attorneys-in-fact to take all necessary and appropriate actions in order to recover and receive all or part of the amount herein assigned. I hereby authorize the VA to disclose, to my attorney and to any third party or administrative agency who may be responsible for payment of the cost of medical services provided to me, information from my medical records as necessary to verify my claim. Further, I hereby authorize any such third party or administrative agency to disclose to the VA any information regarding my claim.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR COMPLETION OF DD FORM 293

REQUESTING COPIES OF YOUR OFFICIAL MILITARY PERSONNEL FILE

Information on how to obtain military or health records is available at the National Personnel Records Center website at www.nara.gov/regional/mpr.html or at your local Veterans Administration office.

Applicants are strongly encouraged to submit any request for their military records prior to applying for a discharge review rather than after submitting a DD Form 293 in order to avoid substantial delays in processing of the application and scheduling of review. Applicants and their counsel may also examine their military personnel records at the site of their scheduled review prior to the review. The Board shall notify applicants of the date of availability of the records for examination in their standard scheduling information.
